Three Lives Lost in Potomac River
Mr. & Mrs. E.R. Saalbach and Robert Purcell Drowned
One Body Found Today
Canoes Overturned in Swift Current in Upper River
Young Men Try Experiment
Upset Their Boat in Deep Water and Practice
Life-Saving, With Unfortunate Results

Three persons lost their lives while canoeing in the Potomac river near this city yesterday, and a fourth was rescued after a desperate battle with treacherous currents. The dead are Edward L. Saalbach, a clerk in the War Department; Mrs. Edward L. Saalbach, his wife, and Robert Purcell, a graduate of the Central High School. Dr. Richard Dear, who recently graduated in medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, and who has a record as a college sprinter, had a narrow escape from death. Bruised, battered and almost exhausted, he succeeded in reaching a rock after a struggle of nearly an hour's duration in the water, and was removed to the shore in a canoe.

The body of Mr. Saalbach was recovered some distance below the scene of the drowning about noon today. It was found by W.T. Reynolds, captain of the volunteer life saving crew, whose boat house is at the foot of 34th street and from the place where it was discovered it was conveyed in the launch Viola, owned by T.B. Lipscomb, to the boat house, where it was held, pending the order of the coroner.

The bodies of Mrs. Saalbach and young Purcell had not been recovered up to a late hour this afternoon, although search was made both yesterday and today in the vicinity of the drowning.

Where the Accident Occurred
Mr. Saalbach and his wife lost their lives near Dixie Landing, while young Purcell was drowned a short distance from High Island, above the Chain bridge. In both places the strength of the current and the nature of the river bed, the latter, covered with jagged rocks, many of which reached above the surface of the stream, made the effort to find the bodies almost hopeless from the first. A crew from the harbor-master's headquarters was dispatched to the scenes of both accidents, but it was found that practically nothing could be done in the way of dragging. The boat was several times in danger of becoming a prey to the swollen stream. The search, however, was actively continued by parties in canoes. Several of these were overturned, but fortunately their occupants were experienced swimmers and no further fatalities resulted.

The death of Mr. Saalbach and his young wife was tragic in the extreme. They were drowned closer to the shore and while assistance was almost within reach. The accident, too, was strange and unexpected. Though the water at that point ran swiftly, with a strong undertow, no particular danger was apprehended to persons of skill and experience in canoe navigation, as it is believed that neither Mr. Saalbach nor his wife gave any serious thought to the probability of disaster.

After proceeding some distance above Dixie Landing, Mr. Saalbach pushed his little craft to a large rock, where he and his wife landed. It is thought they had intended to return from that point, having found it difficult to stem the swiftly flowing stream. Mrs. Saalbach had stepped into the canoe and her husband was in the act of following her when he either stumbled, or his foot slipped on the wet rock. He fell forward into the boat, which was at once overturned; precipitating both into the water, which is very deep at that point.

Presumed to Have Been Stunned
Mr. Saalbach, it is surmised, struck, his head as he fell, for, though he was an expert swimmer, he was not seen again above the surface of the water. J.H. Boyden and James F. Drysdale, who were in a canoe not more than 100 yards away, saw at once that Mr. and Mrs. Saalbach were in a terrible plight, and Mr. Boyden and Mr. Drysdale paddled with all their might toward the couple in the water. When near the place where the canoe capsized Mr. Drysdale, who was in his bathing suit, sprang into the river in the hope of rescuing one of the unfortunate couple, but his effort was fruitless. He saw Mrs. Saalbach rise to the surface when he was a few yards away, but though he redoubled his efforts, he was unable to reach her in time.
A few minutes later Mr. C.E. Engle, who was at Dixie Landing, and who was attracted by the shouts, joined the two men at the scene of the accident. They watched the water for some time, but neither Mr. Saalbach nor his wife came to the surface.

Later Lieutenant Sutton, assisted by a score of canoeists of the Washington Canoe Club, of which the drowned man was also a member, dragged the river for several hundred yards, but without result.

Was an Expert Canoeist

Mr. Saalbach was an all-round athlete and an expert canoeist. He was regarded as one of the most skillful of the members of the canoe club. Until recently he was accustomed to making his excursions on the water in a tiny and frail canoe, but after his marriage he secured a larger boat with a view of safety when he went out with his wife. He was a graduate of Heidelberg University in Germany, and a few weeks ago received his diploma in the National University Law School. He had been employed in the War Department for several years and was forty-six years of age.

His wife came to this country but a short time before their marriage, which occurred in this city last October. No relatives of either of them are at present in Washington. Mr. John Metzeroth, a brother of Mrs. Saalbach, is out of the city with his family.

Swept Over Dam

Purcell lost his life after being swept over the dam opposite High Island. He and Dr. "Dick" Dear had gone out in the afternoon about a third of a mile above High Island for the purpose of experimenting with the canoe. Leaving their clothes on a rock they paddled out in midstream, where they upset the boat and attempted the task of pushing it ashore. They were not long, however, in discovering that they were unable to battle successfully with the current, which was much stronger than they had anticipated. With Purcell at the bow and Dear at the stern the boat was rapidly swept toward the dam. Even then the young men had little thought of danger for they were under the impression that the downward sweep would be arrested at the dam. This opinion was based upon the experiences of former years when the water was not so high. But as the two men and the little craft swept nearer to the dam both Purcell and Dear saw that they were in a desperate situation. Though they attempted to catch hold of something to stay their progress, they were swept over into a cataract, in which both were dashed against jagged rocks and badly cut and bruised.

As the two swept over the dam they were separated. Dear managed to regain his hold on the canoe, but Purcell was washed away in the current far to one side. It was impossible for them to get together again, but they called to each other as they were borne along. It was about a third of a mile below the dam that Dear lost sight of his companion. At that time the latter was heading for a clump of small bushes growing out of the water, which was also at that place studded with rocks. Dear heard Purcell call "Dick," but the latter, looking back was unable to catch another glimpse of his form.

Dr. Dears Recital

Speaking of the tragic affair today Dr. Dear said: "Some time after I lost sight of Purcell I was compelled to part with the boat, as I thought I saw an opportunity of reaching a high rock and of thereby avoiding what appeared to be certain death if I was swept down the cataract setting toward the Virginia shore just above the Chain bridge. I made a superhuman effort and swam to the rock, where I clung for nearly three-quarters of an hour, while Mr. Andrew P. Tallmadge, Mr. W. Roy Garett and Mr. Hunter Tennant, all of the Highland Canoe Club, and Mr. Eugene Clough procured a skiff, and Tallmadge and Garrett yelling to me to hang on, came to my assistance."

The rescue it is said, was a daring and hazardous undertaking. Messrs. Tallmadge and Garrett were compelled to row with all their might and skill in an oblique direction against the current. With Dear in the boat they retraced their course reaching the island without mishap. Dr. Dear was suffering from severe cuts and bruises. He was conveyed to the residence of Dr. Joseph Rogers, 721 8th street, where his wounds were dressed. He was resting comfortably today.

Statement by Eyewitness

Mr. Gene Gough, who was an eyewitness of the unfortunate tragedy, said today.

"The two young men, Dear and Purcell, came up the feeder in a canoe, passed the dam and landed on a little rock near Snake Island, where they left their canoe, preparatory to going in swimming. They then took the canoe out and upset it in the river, which was more than ordinarily high by reason of recent rains and was very swift. The current swept them down past Snake Island and over the dam. Dear had hold of the canoe nearly all the time, and continually called on Purcell to catch hold of the boat also for protection; but Purcell, swept onward by the current, was unable to do this. After they had passed over the dam it appeared that they both might be saved as they were both excellent swimmers and at that time showed no signs of exhaustion.

"Some few minutes later, however, as the mad rush of waters carried them in the direction of Little Falls and they had reached a point between High Island and the Virginia shore it was observed that Dear lost his hold on the boat and was looking around for Purcell and calling for "Bob" (Purcell), whose body now could no longer be seen. Every moment Dear's danger became greater and his body was flung about mercilessly among the sharp projecting rocks as he struggled to maintain himself above the waves and foam which momentarily threatened to engulf him utterly. He was approaching the most dangerous portion of the rapids.

"Mearifime Tallmadge and I had been running along the banking yelling encouraging words to the boys with all our might, telling them to hold up and that we would come to help them.

"Soon after the disappearance of Purcell, who had, as it seemed to us, been thrown violently against a rock and stunned so that he could struggle no longer. Dear managed by an extraordinary effort to retain a hold on one of the larger rocks, crawled upon it and eventually stood upright. We continued to call loudly to him and telling him to remain where he was till we could secure a canoe. Dear then called out, asking: "Is Bob all right" and we answered: 'Yes he is saved.' We were afraid to alarm Dear, who, on hearing this, gave hearty evidence of satisfaction, clapping his hands to show his pleasure.

"A canoe was secured by Hunter Tennent and myself, and we carried it across High Island on our shoulders as quick as possible, and W. Ray Garrett and Andrew J. Talmadge got in the canoe, went out to the rock and rescued Dear.

Covered With Bruises
"When Dear was brought to the shore his body was covered with bruises, and he was bleeding in a dozen places, having evidently suffered terribly from being crushed violently against the rocks by the raging current and eddies. I asked Dear soon after he reached the shore how it happened, and he explained simply that Purcell and I were plaing at rescue and purposely upset the canoe, but before we knew it the current had us and we were whirled over the dam.

"Dear further said to me that he had asked Purcell before they went in whether he could swim, and Purcell declared he could take care of himself with all safety, and that they could overturn the boat without danger."

Robert Purcell resided with is parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Purcell, at 415 Florida avenue. He was well known as a high school athlete, having played several seasons on the football and baseball teams of the Central High School. He was about twenty-five years of age.

Inquest Unnecessary
The body of Mr. Saalbach was removed in an ambulance to the morgue. It is understood that the coroner regards an inquest as unnecessary. Bruises were discovered on the head and side of the body.

Whenever the water is high in the river as the result of the melting of snow on the upper stretches in the early spring or after continued heavy rains, as at present, the spot just above Dixie Landing where Mr. and Mrs. Saalback were drowned yesterday is one of the most dangerous in this vicinity, barring, of course places where the water actually falls over the rocks as it does above Chain bridge.

After tumbling over Little Falls, the waters of the river rush onward in a narrow bed of extreme depth, which does not widen to any considerable extent until Dixie Landing is reached. Near the exact point at which Mr. Saalbach's canoe was upset a ledge of rocks projects from the bottom without reaching the surface. This is practically at the foot of the gorge referred to and the effect is to cast the swiftly flowing water into many swirls and increase the velocity of the current for a short distance.

At low water, such as was noted only a few weeks ago, this condition practically disappears, and at times any sort of a boat may proceed nearly to the foot of Little Falls without the slightest danger. The Potomac is one of those rivers that rise and fall very suddenly, and on such occasions the entire chart of the currents is apt to be altered, so that a boatman experienced in the waters at one time may find himself an entire stranger to them at another.

It is because of these facts, it is believed, that a number of fatal accidents have occurred in the portion of the river in question. Recognizing that the spot, so frequently devoid of danger, was very treacherous as a result of the recent heavy and continuous rains, the officers of the Washington Canoe Club, from whose house Mr. and Mrs. Saalbach started yesterday, had posted a notice warning its members from venturing beyond Dixie Landing.

Where Current Is Always Strong

Canoeists frequently paddle at low water on "the Broadwater" above High Island and venture with safety very close to the edge of the feeder dam over which Purcell and Dear's upturned canoe drifted. The dam is about a mile above Chain bridge, and between it and Little Falls, farther down the river, the current is always quite strong, and on occasions exceptionally so. "The Broadwater," upon which the annual regatta of the Interclub Canoe Association was held a few weeks ago, is also transformed into a dangerous stretch when the waters are high.

Being in the water with an upturned canoe, which at the best is hard to move, the two young men probably found themselves swept relentlessly over the dam and into the lower stretches before they could do anything to prevent it. Only an effort of almost superhuman strength could prevent a headlong rush over Little Falls from the place in question when the river is swollen.

Another Body Found

Remains of Mrs. Saalbach Taken From the River

A colored man named William Bryan living at 1155 17th street, this morning about 5:30 o'clock discovered the body of Mrs. Edward R. Saalbach, floating in the river near Analostan Island. Mrs. Saalbach was drowned last Sunday by the overturning of a canoe.

Bryan secured the body and towed it to the wharf of Littlefield & Alvord and the police were notified. Policeman Stange was on duty at the harbor office when the message was received. He immediately proceeded to the wharf mentioned for the body in his naptha launch Louisa, taking a bateau along. He was accompanied by William Gross and Henry Ashford, who are employed at the office of the harbor precinct.

Upon reaching the place where the body had been made fast, Policeman Stange and his assistants realized that a difficult task confronted them, because the remains were in an advanced state of decomposition. They succeeded in lifting the body into the bateau, however, and then removed it to the morgue. An examination of the remains showed that there was along piece of wire, such as is used by feed dealers for baling hay, entangled in the skirt. The wire, the superintendent of the morgue thinks, probably aided in keeping the body upon the bottom of the river for a while.

Held by a Wire

It is the custom of men on boats to throw all kinds of refuse into the river. The wire may have been entangled or fastened to a branch of a tree or upon a stone on the bottom of the river and left in such a position that the skirts were caught by it and the body held fast until the current pushed it away from the object to which it was fastened.

The condition of the body was such as to indicate that it had been in the river for several days, so inquiring friends who called at the morgue were not permitted to view it. After the accident occurred near Dixie Landing Sunday afternoon, and the police were notified, they did all they could to recover the bodies, dragging the river and watching along the shores. It was feared that nothing could be accomplished by dragging, so the police were surprised when the body of Mr. Saalbach was recovered in that manner.

When Acting Coroner Glazebrook was informed of the finding of the remains he gave a certificate of accidental death, a similar certificate having been issued in the case of Mr. Saalbach. Undertaker J. William Lee, who had already prepared the body of the husband, took charge of the remains of the wife. Dr. Glazenbrook thought that the condition of the body indicated that it had floated yesterday and been exposed to the sun. It is stated that the bodies may be cremated.

Search for Purcell's Remains

Searchers and watchers were along the river all day yesterday endeavoring to recover the body of Robt. Purcell, the Central High School graduate who lost his life near High Island, Sunday while experimenting with Dr. "Dick" Dear. Mr. Mallon Purcell, father of the boy, called at police headquarters yesterday afternoon and conferred with Capt. Boardman as to the wisest course to pursue in the effort to locate the remains. Capt. Boardman, who is familiar with the conditions about High Island, told Mr. Purcell that to drag the river in the vicinity of where the drowning occurred would be an impossibility.
"I'm afraid," the captain said, "that you will have to wait until the water is lower or until the body rises to the surface."

Mrs. Purcell, the mother, is said to be breaking down under the strain. She is unable to understand why the body of her boy has not been recovered. Friends of the family were out early this morning to renew the search, and they mean to remain about the river until the body is recovered or until they reach the conclusion that the search is hopeless.

_Last Rites Over Dead_

_Funeral of Mr. and Mrs. Saalbach Tomorrow_

The remains of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Saalbach, who were drowned in the river near Dixie Landing Sunday afternoon, have been placed in metallic caskets and removed from the morgue to the undertaking establishment of J. William Lee, 332 Pennsylvania avenue. Funeral services will take place in Lee's Chapel at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Mr. John Metzeroth, a brother of Mrs. Saalbach, returned to the city from Bluemont, Va., yesterday and made the necessary arrangements. The services are to be conducted by the Rev. Paul A. Menzel, pastor of Concordia Church.

Members of the Washington Canoe Club, of which Mr. Saalbach was also a member, and members of his graduating class in the National Law School are to act as pallbearers. The remains of the husband and wife will be placed in the receiving vault at Congressional cemetery until the return of the aunt of Mr. Saalbach from Europe. Chief Clerk Kemp of the police department has taken charge of the effects of the couple, and relatives will ask for the appointment of an administrator when the aunt returns. Mr. Metzeroth expressed a desire that what remains after the funeral expenses are paid shall be turned over to the aunt.

Because of the several fatal accidents that have occurred upon the river this season, and the largely increased number of canoes in use, Maj. Sylvester, superintendent of police, regards it as desirable to establish a life patrol between the Highway and Chain bridges. Under the laws the police have but little authority upon the river. It is the opinion of the chief of police that the law or regulations should require occupants of all kinds of boats upon the river to carry lights after dark. This question does not arise from the Sunday drownings, however, but is because of the absence of such lights upon small boats some time ago that lives were lost. It was recommended at that time that such lights be required, but the proper authorities have never taken any action upon the recommendation.

Sackett, Arthur J.
The Evening Star, June 18, 1913
Murders His Wife; Then Shoots Self
Jealousy Said to Have Led A.J. Sackett to Use Gun. Two Children Orphaned.

Arthur J. Sackett, twenty-five years old, former resident of Fond du Lac, Wis., last night murdered his pretty young wife, Mrs. Flora Sackett, twenty years old, and then committed suicide using a revolver. The double tragedy was enacted in front of 109 E street northwest, about 11:50 o'clock. Sackett died instantly and Mrs. Sackett died at Emergency Hospital before surgeons had time to perform an operation.

By the double tragedy two children, Ruth, aged three and a half years, and John, one and a half years old, are orphaned. The children are with their grandmother, Mrs. J.M. Harrington, at the Royalton, 918 M street northwest, and will remain there, Mrs. Harrington having declared her intention of adopting the motherless and fatherless babies. The children were taken to their grandmother today by Mrs. Harry Sanger, an aunt of Mrs. Sackett.

"I have decided to end everything," Sackett wrote in a letter on the stationary on an F street hotel, in which he intimated that the "green-eyed monster" had played a part in the tragedy. Friends of the murdered woman, however, declare the husband had no cause for jealousy. He named a resident of the northwest section in his letter. Her friends say that husband and wife separated because he utterly failed to provide for her and their two children.

Max Tass Witnesses Tragedy
Max Tass, a tailor, nineteen years old, in front of whose house the tragedy occurred, witnessed the shooting, and Policeman Harbaugh of the sixth Precinct was not more than 100 feet distant when the shots were fired. So quickly did one shot follow another, however, that the tailor and policeman were unable to interfere.

A passing taxicab was stopped and the wounded man and woman were placed in it and rushed to the Emergency Hospital.

Sackett had shot himself in the head; the bullet penetrated the brain and life was extinct, it was found. Two bullets had struck Mrs. Sackett; one entered the face passing through the left jaw and shattering the shoulder. The wound had stunned the woman and caused her to fall to the pavement. While she was lying there helpless a bullet was sent into her chest.

The letter found on the dead man explained to the police why the double tragedy had been enacted and was the means of identifying the victims. Sackett had evidently written the letter last night, having dated it yesterday, and it was addressed to Mrs. Harry Sanger, Mrs. Sackett's aunt, 1223 New Jersey avenue northwest. It reads:

Decided to End Everything
"Dear Mrs. Sanger:
"I have decided to end everything, as I think it will be the best for Flora. She is not doing the right thing and I can't let the children suffer for her faults.

"I am sure that Ruth is well taken care of and I hope you will adopt her, and I am sure that in later years she will be a comfort to you and Mr. Sanger. As to little John, I don't know what will become of him, but I wish you could try and have a good family adopt him. Please notify my mother, at 157 Sheboygan street, Fond du Lac, Wis. She is the beneficiary of an insurance policy for $2,000 and I think you can see her about money for Ruth's and John's education.

"I regret this very much, but I have endured this as long as I can, and I cannot stand the separation from the children.

"I hope the young man Flora thought so much of will in the future not go between any more married couples, as he has certainly broken up ours.

"I must close now, as I am to see Flora soon. With love to Ruth and hoping you and Mr. Sanger will always remain devoted to each other, as it is the only way, sincerely yours.

"Arthur J. Sackett."

Had Been Twice Arrested
Arthur J. Sackett was not a stranger to the police. He had been arrested on charges of alleged dishonesty, but the cases against him were withdrawn. He also was arrested on his wife's complaint for alleged failure to support her and the children. The police say he was sent to Occoquan.

At the time of their marriage, it is stated, the young woman, who was only sixteen years old, believed Sackett was a physician at Providence Hospital, although it is stated, he was only an orderly.

Sackett, it is stated, ran away from home when he was a boy and enlisted in the navy. After coming to this city he got the indorsement of a western senator and obtained a position in the Navy Department. He later was employed as clerk in the stables of the street cleaning department and still later was employed at a local theater.

Mrs. T.T. Sackett, mother of the slayer and suicide, who resides at 157 Sheboygan street, Fond du Lac, Wis., was last night notified of his death. The young man's body was sent to the morgue this morning while that of his wife was turned over to a local undertaker.

_Drowned_

A youth some 12 years of age, named William R. Sadler, belonging to this city, was drowned while attending to a gill-net boat below Alexandria on Sunday. He was a good swimmer and his death is attributed to his falling into the water stunned by a blow from the boat’s boom, swept suddenly around during the passage of the mail boat.

Fails At Suicide

Sampson Turns on Gas, But Will Recover

James Sampson, a painter, thirty years old, was in a critical condition last evening when he was taken to the Casualty Hospital from his home, 317 G street northeast, suffering from gas poisoning. Consciousness was restored later in the night and relatives were assured that he was out of danger.

Policeman Wilson of the ninth precinct, who was summoned to the G street house, was told that Sampson had inhaled gas after a quarrel with his wife. Mrs. Sampson left home late in the afternoon, and when Leonard Hoffman, who occupies the upper portion of the house, came home Sampson uttered several threats of suicide.

At first Hoffman did not take the remarks seriously, but later he went to the Sampson apartment and found his neighbor seated on a chair with the end of a gas tube in his mouth. The cock of the gas fixture was open and gas was flowing freely. Mrs. Sampson went to the hospital in the evening and learned that her husband was on the road to recovery.

Victim of Poison Changes His Mind

James W. Sampson, Who Took Bichloride of Mercury, Is Now Anxious to Live

Suffering from the effects of bichloride of mercury, taken, it is stated, with suicidal intent, James W. Sampson, a painter, thirty-three years old, is a patient at Casualty Hospital. He has changed his mind about wanting to die, it was stated at the hospital this morning, and is anxious that Dr. W.L. Kelly, who has charge of the case, should save his life.

Dr. Kelly fears he will be unable to save the patient's life if the report that he took forty grains of the poison is true, although it is yet impossible to tell the true condition of the painter.

"He may die within forty-eight hours, or he may linger ten days," said the physician, "and he may recover. His condition is not promising."

Sampson's conduct last night created some excitement in the vicinity of 818 North Carolina avenue southeast, the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mattie Payne, where he and his wife have been, residing recently. The poison was taken in the presence of the wife and her mother, the husband, it is stated, declaring he wanted to die.

Objecting to what he termed outside interference, it is stated, Sampson became belligerent, and when Dr. Kelly tried to take charge of him he attacked him with a fork. In the ambulance on the way to the hospital, it is stated, Sampson became troublesome and tried to take an additional amount of poison.

Submissive at Hospital

When the hospital was reached the patient became more submissive, taking antidotes without objection and obeying the physician's instructions. He related the story of the family troubles that led to last night's attempt to end his life, and concluded by expressing sorrow for his conduct.

Sampson told Dr. Kelly that he left the city following domestic trouble and that he recently returned and found his wife had broken up housekeeping and returned to her mother. Last night he went to his mother-in-laws to effect a reconciliation and the taking of the poison was the result.
"I am in, what are you going to do about it?" Mrs. Payne declared Sampson said as he walked into the kitchen of her home last evening. She said she told him he had better leave the house as he had been placed on "his personal bonds to keep away from her home."

"When he saw his wife in the kitchen," Mrs. Payne said, "he took a small bottle from his pocket and poured six tablets on the kitchen table."

"You take six of these and I'll take six," Mrs. Payne said the husband told his wife.

Wife Refused Tablets
Mrs. Sampson, however, refused to do so, and the husband walked to the sink, where he secured some water in a glass. "He then placed his hand to his mouth, and I think he swallowed the other six tablets," said Mrs Payne. "In a few minutes he said he was burning up."

Neighbors were summoned and they remained until Dr. Kelly responded with the ambulance. Sampson declared he would not go the hospital. He had taken the poison to end his life, he declared, and he did not want to have the physician save his life.

He then tried to use the fork to prevent Dr. Kelly from taking him out of the house. He was soon overpowered, however, and placed in the ambulance. Before the vehicle had gone far he took tablets from his pocket, tried to take them and started a fight in which the physician and driver took an active part.

Sampson finally reached the hospital. Antidotes were administered and the stomach pump applied but the patient, it is stated, displayed unmistakable symptoms of the poison soon after he reached the hospital.

About two months ago Mrs. Payne had Sampson arrested on a charge of threatening her life. She told the judge in the Police Court that Sampson came to her home and threatened to kill her with a shotgun. Sampson's personal bonds were taken for him to stay away from his mother-in-law's home and not to trouble her any more.

Mrs. Payne declared that Sampson has not complied with the order of the court, and said that he frequently came to her home and demanded admittance.

The Evening Star, November 3, 1913, p. 18
Physicians Not Sure of Sampson's Condition
Painter Who Took Poison With Suicidal Intent May Lose His Life
Physicians at Casualty Hospital are not yet able to tell the actual condition of James W. Sampson, the painter, who took poison following a visit to the home of his mother-in-law Mrs. Mattie Payne, 818 North Carolina avenue southeast, and his failure to effect a reconciliation with his wife.

Sampson changed his mind about wanting to die, according to statements made at the hospital the night he took the poison, and is anxious to recover.

Mrs. Sampson and the children have visited him at the hospital several times. He seems to realize that his duty to his family can only be fulfilled by his recovery.

Sampson complains of a burning sensation in his throat and other symptoms of the poison. It is thought his condition is critical, although it may be several days before the physicians can determine if he is likely to die.

The Evening Star, November 7, 1913, p. 5
James W. Sampson Dies From Mercurial Poison
Bichloride Tablets Claim Painter Who Wanted to Die a Week Ago, But Recanted
James W. Sampson, painter, thirty-five years old, who took poison a week ago because of his failure to effect a reconciliation with his wife, Mrs. Nettie Sampson, at the home of her mother Mrs. Mattie Payne, 818 North Carolina avenue southeast, died at Casualty Hospital yesterday afternoon.

Sampson made a strenuous objection to being given treatment for the poison when taken to the hospital.

He quickly changed his mind, however, and after effecting a reconciliation with his family he was anxious to get well.

A week ago last night Sampson went to the home of his mother-in-law and saw his wife.

Offered Dose to Wife
It is stated that he offered her a dose of the poison and suggested that each take a similar quantity, but the suggestion was spurned and the husband took enough of the poison to kill an entire family.

Dr. W.L. Kelly experienced considerable trouble with Sampson in an effort to get him to the hospital, but soon after pressed a desire to get well and after his wife and children had visited him he was more anxious than ever to recover.

Coroner Nevitt gave a certificate of suicide and the body was turned over to an undertaker. It is probable that the funeral will take place tomorrow.

| Yesterday afternoon, an examination was held before Justice Cull, of the case of Frederick Furst, Chas. Brennan and Daniel Clare, charged with being concerned in the murder of James Sanderson on Wednesday night. It appeared from the evidence that there must have been a scuffle in the house of Sanderson, in which he was killed. One of the witnesses testified to reaching the place just as Sanderson was breathing his last, and also to finding a knife on the floor, which was not bloody. Another witness testified to finding two soldier coats in the house (which Furst has identified since as his) and also a revolver, bearing the appearance of having been used as a club. It appears that the men charged belong to the 14th company, 3d Massachusetts Heavy Artillery, and that after the murder Furst ran back to the camp and told what had happened, stating that he had had a scuffle with Sanderson, and while they were tussling another soldier, Oscar Moore, stepped up with a knife and stabbed him. It appears from Furst's statement that there were a number of soldiers together, and they got some whisky in Uniontown, but it being strong, Sanderson invited him and Moore to go to his house for water. As soon as they were in the house Sanderson demanded their money when the scuffle ensued, with the above result.

Brent and Clare, it appears, with two others, Taylor and Ferry--were arrested as deserters near Bladensburg, they making their way from the city, and the officers suspecting the two first with being concerned in the affair, were brought over on the charge. Sanderson's sister was unable to recognize Brennan as one of the men in the house by his face, but when he turned his back she immediately asserted that he was one.

The justice held Burst and Brennan for a further hearing on Saturday afternoon, and dismissed Clare. |

Drowned at Mouth of Sewer

Rising Tide Cut Off Small Boy's Escape

Wading With Companions, Nine-Year-Old Overton Sanderson Is Unable to Reach Shore

Overton Sanderson, nine years of age, son of Quince E. Sanderson, contractor, 513 8th street southeast, was drowned in the Eastern branch, near the foot of 12th street, yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred about 2:30 o'clock, but it was some time before the police were told of it. John H. Moran, a boatman, recovered the body nearly two hours after the boy was drowned and it was removed to the morgue. Coroner Nevitt made an investigation, gave a certificate of accidental death and permitted the removal of the body to the Sanderson home by Undertaker Nalley. Arrangements have been made for the funeral to take place Monday.

The Sanderson boy went to the river front yesterday afternoon with three companions and spent some time wading about in the shallow water near the mouth of the big sewer. While they were on the flats the tide turned and they found themselves in deeper water than they had anticipated. There was a big log in the water near the mouth of the sewer and the four boys climbed upon it and jumped in the direction of the shore. Sanderson landed in a hole that was made by the water from the sewer, while the others landed on the side where the water was shallow enough for them to wade. Sanderson called for help, but his companions were too badly frightened and too young to be of assistance, and the lad sank out of sight.

Willie Ridgely, one of the boys in the party, ran to the Sanderson home and told of the drowning. Overton Sanderson was a pupil in the second grade at the Lenox building. Yesterday about noon he took his father's dinner to him, returning the empty basket and going out to play, not telling his mother he was going to the river.

Again has a matron of the land
Again one more of those relics grand
Of the past has lingeringly left her stand
And hidden adieu to the nation.

Yet, why should we grieve that her voice should cease,
And her smile should lose its beauty;
She performed that noblest work of peace--
She fulfilled a mother's duty.

And why should the aged one moan and weep,
And the young ones vent their sorrow
In terms; Both her spirit immortal sleep
In a long, long slumber of darkness deep,
Or will it wake on the morrow?

Though her form be still, and her eye, once bright
With love, be no longer giving
A pleasure to all with its softened light,
Her influence still is living.

Aye, that will last while memory lives,
To relieve our minds of sadness--
To point our steps to the path that leads
To her and to endless gladness.--M.D.

<td>M. McGinnis Sands, a well-known resident of South Washington, and James Mahoney, a colored man, started out from Johnson's wharf about half-past eleven o'clock Tuesday night, when a fearful gale was blowing on the river, to visit fishing nets which Mr. Sands had set in the river just below Fort Foote. They set out in a flat-bottomed sail boat. As no news had been received from them, yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, Capt. J.T. Lewis and a brother of Mr. Sands went down the river in Capt. Lewis' tug boat, the D.M. Key. Off a point known as Sandy Bar, about ten miles down, they found the flat-bottomed sail boat capsized and caught in the nets. Putting ashore they found the body of Sands lying on the beach, partly undressed. No trace could be found of Mahoney, who it is supposed was drowned in deep water. Persons in Alexandria say that during Tuesday night's storm a capsized boat was seen drifting down the river past that city with two men clinging to the bottom. It is supposed, therefore, that the boat was swamped before reaching Alexandria, and that the two men clung to it until they were exhausted and benumbed. Sands, it is thought, finally took off his boots and some of his clothing and tried to swim ashore but was so exhausted that he drowned in the shallow water in shore. Sands, it is said was not a good waterman, and it was somewhat foolhardy to venture out in such a boat during the blow, which was the worst that has been experienced in this vicinity fo some</td>

He was exceedingly anxious, however, about his nets, which he was afraid would be swept away. His body was brought up to the city last evening in the tug D.M. Key, and taken to Wm. Lee's undertaking establishment, where the funeral will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The interment will be in the Congressional cemetery. The deceased was about 37 years of age, and married, but had no children. He lived at No. 902 6th street southwest, and had been a resident of South Washington nearly all his life, being greatly respected by his neighbors. For several years he had been employed by the Johnson Bros.

Suicide by Poison

About 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Bushrod Sanford, a white man, 56 years old, living at 218 13 1/2 street southwest, was taken suddenly ill, and Dr. C.V. Boarman was called in. Sanford told the doctor that he had taken poison, and soon afterwards expired. Coroner Patterson was notified, and with Drs. Hartigan and Boarman held an autopsy, finding that death was caused by poison, probably arsenic. There is no known cause for the act, and his family are in great distress.

For many years a much respected inhabitant of Alexandria. In the various relations in which she was called to act in society she justly acquired the love and esteem of all who knew her. Many who travel the round of time drop into the grave and are forgotten. But it is not so with her. Her afflicted children, her mourning relatives, her weeping friends, whilst they bow with humble submission to the Divine Will, will long deplore the bereavement they have sustained in her death. A friend who was for several years a witness of her course, who knew and prized her virtues, offers this humble tribute to her memory.

Two Cottages on Potomac River Near Glen Echo Raided by Homicide Squad

Police were at a standstill today in their quest for two youths wanted in connection with the killing of George Edward Sanford, 20, of 1213 K street S.E.

Detective Lt. George E. Darnall, chief of the homicide squad, acting on a tip, led raids yesterday on two cottages on the Potomac River near Glen Echo, Md., but found no evidence of the fugitives.

Sanford’s body, the heart pierced by a bullet, was left at Children’s Hospital early Saturday by two youths who still are at large, despite an extensive police search. The mother of one of them has appealed to him to surrender.

Sanford’s Two Wives

An Investigation of His Death to be Made This Afternoon

The remains of John M. Sanford, buried Saturday last, were disinterred this afternoon and taken to Lee's undertaking establishment, where, at 5 o'clock, Dr. L.W. Glazebrook, the deputy coroner, will make an autopsy, the result of which will make plain whether or not Sanford came to his death through foul play, as is supposed to be the case by his two sisters. Sanford married a widow, Mrs. Crupper, about two weeks before his death and subsequently made a will in her favor.

It is further claimed that Sanford committed bigamy by marrying Mrs. Crupper for, it is insisted the union of the deceased to Mrs. Rose Stockholm about fifteen years ago was never legally dissolved. The two drifted apart, it is said, and Sanford had not forgotten his wife, for he recently visited his daughter, Miss Ada Stockholm, a member of the Black Crook company. Mrs. Emilie Young and Mrs. Sarah Campbell sisters of Sanford, announce that they propose to ascertain the whereabouts of Miss Stockholm's mother, and by that means render void the will made by Sanford October 3 in favor of Mrs. Crupper.

It is not believed by his sisters that Sanford owned property in Syracuse or elsewhere.

The Inquest

Probable Natural Causes Brought Death to John Sanford

As announced in The Star, Deputy Coroner Glazebrook late yesterday afternoon made an autopsy on the remains of John M. Sanford, who died October 10, under what were claimed to be suspicious circumstances. Dr. Glazebrook discovered that Sanford had been in a far from healthy condition. A well-developed case of fatty degeneration of the heart was apparent, the kidneys were affected and the stomach and entrails inflamed and diseased. In the opinion of Dr. Glazebrook death was due to natural causes.

A chemical examination of the stomach and intestines and their contents is to be made, however, and for that purpose the organs mentioned were placed in a jar, hermetically sealed and sent to Mr. Hird, the chemist for the District. Nothing further in the way of investigation will be made until the report of the chemist is made, which cannot be for several days.

Mrs. Emeline Young, a sister of the deceased has received a communication from Mrs. Rosa Sanford, who, it is said, married Sanford years ago and was never divorced. In the letter wife No. 1 expressed surprise to learn of the second marriage of her husband, and stated that she would come to this city at once. Mrs. Sanford No. 2, who was Mrs. Crupper, is ill in bed at her residence, 207 G street northwest.

Death of John Sanford

The Inquest Probably Will Take Place Tomorrow

As stated in The Star Saturday, Coroner Hammert decided to further investigate the death of John Sanford, who died recently under suspicious circumstances, upon receiving the report of the chemist who made an analysis of the contents of the stomach of the deceased. As published, arsenic was found, but it was also shown that the poison formed a large proportion of the make-up of the fluid used in embalming the body.
Coroner Hammett stated this afternoon that he intends to wait until the arrival in this city from New York of Mrs. Rose Sanford, who claims to be the first wife of the dead man, before holding an inquest. Mrs. Sanford had not reached the city at a late hour this afternoon, but is expected this evening or tomorrow morning, so that the inquiry to determine the cause of death will, in all probability, occur some time tomorrow. The inquest will undoubtedly occupy considerable time, and be of interest, as medical testimony, in addition to that of the sisters of Sanford and of his first and second wives, is to be presented.

John Sanford's End

The Coroner's Jury Decides That Death Was Natural

The coroner's jury which assembled at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, as stated in The Star, to determine the cause of death of John M. Sanford, the government printing office watchman who died a fortnight ago under suspicious circumstances, in an unexpectedly brief period returned a verdict to the effect that Sanford came to his death from natural causes, and held no one responsible therefor.

But three witnesses were examined, Dr. Crosson, who attended Sanford; Dr. Dorset, chemist of the Agricultural Department, who analyzed the contents of the stomach of the deceased, and Dr. Glazebrook, the deputy coroner. The testimony of Dr. Crosson was that he saw Sanford while ill and gave a death certificate. Dr. Dorset described how he found arsenic in the contents of the stomach and also easily detected the presence of the poison in the embalming fluid used to preserve the body. Dr. Glazebrook, who made the autopsy, stated emphatically that Sanford had been afflicted with various diseases, and that the embalming fluid passed to all parts of the body, including the brain. According to Dr. Glazebrook, if the deceased had been given an irritant poison, his stomach would have been burned, which was not the case, as the autopsy disclosed.

Because of the early conclusion reached by the jury, the Sanford relatives, who were in attendance at the inquiry, were not given an opportunity to testify. Mrs. Crupper, who married Sanford a few days before his demise, remained outside of the undertaking establishment in a carriage, but was represented by Attorney J. McDowell Carrington. The attorney, it is said, was armed with copies of court records and other legal documents to prove that Mrs. Rose Sanford of New York, who claimed to be the first wife of the dead man, was not his lawful spouse. Mrs. Rose Sanford who was also in attendance, had in her possession a marriage certificate and letters written by Sanford to her, with which she intended to overcome the allegations that might be made by the attorney for Mrs. Crupper. It is now claimed that Mrs. Stockholm married Sanford under that name, when her name in reality was Close, and that she was the wife of a man known as Jerome B. Close, who later secured a divorce from her.

The next step in the matter will probably be litigation in the civil courts between Mrs. Stockholm and Mrs. Crupper to determine who is entitled to the property left by Sanford.

A Coroner's Jury Finds Sangston's Death Due to an Accident

An inquest was held by Coroner Carr at Lee's undertaking establishment at 2 o'clock this afternoon over the remains of Brakeman L.J. Sangston, who was injured while at work in the Baltimore and Potomac yards, on Virginia avenue, Thursday morning, and who died at the Emergency Hospital as a result of his injuries late yesterday afternoon.

The autopsy showed that the dead man's internal injuries were of a very serious nature and the doctors were surprised that he had lived for so long a time. He was twenty-three years old, and was unmarried.

Richard L. Darnell, engineer, who was on the engine at the time of the accident, was the first witness examined. He testified that about 1 o'clock Thursday morning, while the deceased was at work on Virginia avenue, he stepped between the tender and the car to fix a link and pin.

Sangston told witness that he stepped off while the car was in motion. A witness did not see the accident. He said that the engine was barely in motion at the time of the accident and was not going at a fast rate of speed.

Richard M. Fry, conductor of the train, also testified.

The jury rendered a verdict of accidental death.

T.J. Sangston, a brakeman employed by the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad Company, was badly injured about 1 o'clock this morning by being caught between the tender of a switching engine and a car in the Benning yard, while helping to make up a train. Fortunately for Sangston, he retained consciousness long enough to signal to the engineer to stop, otherwise he would have been crushed to death. He was removed to the Emergency Hospital, where, this afternoon, his condition was regarded as very critical.

Seeking Death Car
Police Looking for Automobile That Killed Satterfield
May Belong In Maryland
Reward Offered for Identification of Men in the Machine
Inquest To Be Held Monday

Deceased Was Crossing Pennsylvania Avenue Southeast at 15th Street When Run Down
Charles Satterfield of 721 7th street northeast was run down by an automobile at Pennsylvania avenue and 15th street southeast last night, receiving injuries from which he died a few minutes after reaching Casualty Hospital. The automobile was occupied by a party of four men, who departed unidentified. The tragedy was witnessed by Leon White of 1033 Jefferson street northwest and Miss Naomi Harrover, 1528 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, who were returning to Miss Harrover's home from an entertainment. Maj. Sylvester has offered a reward of $50 for the identification or apprehension of the men who were in the machine.

Run Down While Crossing Street
Satterfield, who was thirty-five years old, was crossing Pennsylvania avenue on his way home, when the touring car, moving eastward, came along and struck him. The car continued east across the Pennsylvania avenue bridge, the police were told, and disappeared.

Leon White and an unidentified young man picked Satterfield up and took him to a nearby drug store, where Albert F. Gorsuch the night clerk, assisted in caring for him until the arrival of an ambulance, which carried him to Casualty Hospital.

Surgeons at the hospital saw that Satterfield was in a dying condition. His neck was broken, several ribs were fractured and his back and side cut and bruised. The injuries he had sustained indicated that he probably had been struck on his side or back, and that wheels of the car had passed over him. He died a few minutes after he reached the hospital.

Satterfield was identified by papers found in his pockets. His father, Samuel T. Satterfield, who is employed as watchman in the government printing office, was notified of the accident.

Seeking Automobile Party
Detective Charles A. Evans acting chief of detectives, last night assigned Detective Armstrong to work with Precinct Detective Wise and others of the fifth precinct to ascertain the identity of the persons who occupied the automobile. Policeman Fisherty of the fifth precinct saw what he thought was a Ford touring car pass Pennsylvania avenue and 8th street a few minutes before the accident happened. Four men were in it.

Leon White this morning told the police he was certain that the car that inflicted the injuries to Satterfield was a Ford car, but Miss Harrover was not certain about the appearance of the machine. She thought that the automobile had a red body, but when further questioned she said she was so excited over the affair that she could not be positive about its color.

The police are anxious to find the unidentified young man who assisted White to remove Satterfield to the drug store, thinking he may be able to throw additional light upon the affair. White told the detectives that the young man said he thought the car was a Ford. White said he thought the automobile was running at a rate of about twenty or twenty-five miles an hour when Satterfield was struck, and it sped off in the direction of the bridge spanning the Eastern branch.

Police Not Promptly Notified
It was not until Satterfield had been taken to the hospital that the police were notified of the accident. Then the police of the fifth, ninth and eleventh precincts participated in the effort that was made to overtake the automobile but nothing was seen of it, and the police thought it probably belonged to a resident of Maryland.

Coroner Nevitt viewed the body this morning and heard the report of the police. He directed that an autopsy be performed and decided to hold an inquest Monday morning.

Clue Obtained By Police
Inspector Boardman said this afternoon there is no certainty that the automobile that killed Satterfield is of a particular make. The department received a clue which led Detectives Armstrong and Vermillion into Maryland, the chief of detectives said, although he did not know in just what part of the state the owner is thought to reside.
It was also stated that a number of persons residing in Prince Georges and Charles counties have been in the habit of coming to the local theaters at night and returning shortly after the close of the performances. Satterfield was killed shortly before 11 o'clock just about the time Marylanders or persons living in the county east of the city would be returning home from one of the theaters.

Held By Coroner

Five Men Accused of Satterfield's Death

In Automobile At Time

Were Located at Hughesville, Md., and Brought Here

Will Be Released On Bail

Dr. F.D. Chappelier One of Those Charged With Running Down Victim

Five men located at Hughesville, Md., as alleged occupants of the automobile which killed Charles Satterfield of 721 7th street northeast, in this city Friday night, were held this afternoon for action of the grand jury by a coroner's jury after an inquest at the morgue.

The men held for the grand jury are: Ambrose Smoot, a bartender, twenty three years old; F.D. Chappelier, physician, thirty-one years old; Raymond Hitch, merchant, thirty years old; William C. Woodburn, clerk, twenty-seven years old; Spencer Carico, an attendant at the Government Hospital for the Insane.

Accused by Verdict

The verdict of the coroner's jury was as follows:

Charles Satterfield came to his death at the Casualty Hospital November 9, 1912, from rupture of the liver and hemorrhage caused by being run over by an automobile the night of November 9, 1912, on Pennsylvania avenue southeast near 15th street, said automobile being occupied by Ambrose Smoot, Raymond J. Hitch, Fred J Chappelier, William C. Woodburn and Spencer Carrico. We hold them for the grand jury."

It is understood that these men will be released on bond today as soon as the amount of the bond has been set. George Ray of Georgetown will be their bondsman.

Testimony of Witnesses

Eugene H. Stobbe, an electrical machinist, was the first witness. He was on his way from Randall Highlands to Washington about 10:30 p.m. and he found Satterfield lying in the street. Coming across the Pennsylvania avenue bridge he passed an automobile wit five men in it, and the lamp on the right side was out Mr. Stobbe thought.

The car was going at high speed, and the men were sitting low in it. He could not identify any of the men in the machine.

Saw Wheels Strike

Lenard G. White, elevator operator, Riggs building, saw the front wheels of an automobile pass over an object lying in the street and at the time did not know it was a man until the man's hat blew off. Then he went out to it and found it was that of a man. He did not see the man knocked down

"The car that struck the man was black and looked like a Ford," he said. He could not recognize any of the men in the automobile.

Miss Naomi Hanover stated that an automobile running at thirty-five or forty miles an hour struck an object in the street.

Arrival at Police Headquarters

It was about 11 o'clock lastnight when the five Marylanders in one car and five detectives in two other cars reached police headquarters. The detectives had spent the greater part of the day and evening in Charles county, having returned there yesterday after their visit Saturday night. It was not until about 2 o'clock Sunday morning that the Saturday trip of Detectives Mullen and Warren and Precinct Detective Wise was finished, the officers having been lost in the woods shortly after they left Hughesville.

On the trip to Maryland Saturday night the five men who returned here last night were seen in Hughesville. They admitted having been in this city Thursday and Friday, and said they had returned home Friday night by way of the Pennsylvania avenue bridge and Silver Hill road to Brandywine, but they denied that their car had struck Satterfield, or that they had participated in an accident of any kind.
Had Supper at St. James

Statements made by the men were that they had supper at the St. James Hotel and that they started home about 10:30 o’clock. Satterfield was fatally injured near the west end of the bridge shortly before 11 o’clock. Although the five men discussed their trip freely and denied having participated in an accident, the detectives were convinced that their car had struck Satterfield.

Ambrose Smoot, who was operating the car, and Clarence Woodburn, who occupied the front seat with him, declared the car could not possibly have struck Satterfield without their knowing it, while Spencer Carrico, Raymond Hitch and Dr. Frederick D. Chappelier, occupants of the rear seat, were equally positive that the car was not in an accident.

Leaving the vicinity of Pennsylvania avenue and 6th street northwest about 10:30 o’clock, the police say, the automobile should have reached the place where the accident happened just about the time Satterfield was struck by a car. Continuing in the direction of Charles county, the five men in the automobile reached T.H., Prince Georges county, before midnight.

Dance in Town Hall

There was a dance in the town hall at T.B. that night and the automobilists made a short stop there. A.C. Wheatley, who conducts a bar at Brandywine, and who had attended the dance, rode home in the automobile with his friends. It is said that the automobile party remained at the bar some time before resuming their journey homeward.

Hughesville was reached about 4 o’clock Saturday morning. The five men professed to have known nothing of the accident in this city until the detectives visited Hughesville Saturday night and discussed the affair with them.

Warrant for Smoot

Yesterday about noon Detective Fortney, who had participated in the investigation, obtained a warrant for Ambrose Smoot, charging him with manslaughter, warrants not having been obtained for the others, but when the men reached here last night they were detained by the police. Bond was fixed at $4,000, and the men were told that $2,000 cash would be accepted. Rather than go to the trouble or expense of furnishing security the men remained in custody, being given comfortable quarters in witness rooms at the sixth precinct station.

The five men came to the city last night in the car in which they said they rode the night Satterfield was killed. It belongs to Louis Jenkins, hotel proprietor at Hughesville, for whom Ambrose Smoot attends bar. Clarence Woodburn, one of the five, is a son of the proprietor of the Hotel Woodburn at Hughesville. Dr. Chappelier is a practicing physician at Hughesville. Raymond Hitch is a merchant and Spencer Carrico is an attendant at the Government Hospital for the Insane. Hitch is the only one of the party who is married.

Funeral of Satterfield

Service Will Be Conducted Tomorrow at Home of His Father

Funeral services for Charles E. Satterfield will be conducted tomorrow morning at 10 o’clock at the home of Samuel T Satterfield, father of the deceased, 721 10th street northeast.

The interment will be at Congressional cemetery. Mrs. Satterfield, mother of the victim of the accident, died about five years ago.

"Death Car" Not Found In Southern Maryland

Detective Warren Returns From Leonardtown Without Results

Detective Harry Warren was in Leonardtown, St. Marys county, Md., Sunday, conducting an investigation in reference to the recent death of Charles Satterfield who was knocked down by an automobile near Pennsylvania avenue and 15th street southeast and fatally hurt. His mission to the southern Maryland county was to make inquiries about a supposed damaged automobile that was recently shipped from there to this city to be repaired.

Inspector Boardman learned of the car having been shipped here and the detective was sent there to make an investigation, although five residents of the vicinity of Hughesville already had been held for the action of the grand jury as having been occupants of the so-called "death car."
The detective reported to Inspector Boardman that the Leonardtown car could not possibly have been the one that ran over and killed Charles Satterfield.

Friends of the several young men accused of having been occupants of the car at the time the accident happened think the visit to Leonardtown indicates that the police are not altogether satisfied that the Hughesville automobile is the one that inflicted the fatal injuries to Satterfield.

Recent Action of Authorities

"There is a strong element of resentment expressed by the most substantial citizens throughout the lower counties of Maryland at the actions of the Washington authorities in this case," wrote a Hughesville businessman to The Star. "The accused men are all in excellent standing down here, and have the full confidence and sympathy of the entire community.

"Without the slightest direct evidence that an automobile was responsible for the death of Mr. Satterfield, the accused men were taken to Washington and held under bail, the premium on the bond cost them $750, in addition to attorneys' fees and other expenses, while nothing has as yet developed which would indicate that the victim had been struck by an automobile or wagon, or had been held up and murdered by a highwayman in this lonely part of the town.

"The Washington police department seem to be strongly impressed by the fact that some southern Maryland automobile is responsible for this unfortunate man's death, and these lower counties are being thoroughly searched to secure additional evidence. Investigations have been in progress at LaPlata, Hughesville and other automobile centers, which may produce any evidence bearing on the identity of the guilty parties in this case."

Mother and Son Die

Dr. Samuel Saunders, jr., a member of the staff of the Binghamton (N.Y.) State Hospital, Binghamton, N.Y., died there Monday following an illness of two weeks. On Tuesday, the day following the death of Dr. Saunders, his mother, Mrs. Adelaide Price Saunders, widow of the Rev. Samuel Saunders, died at the University of Virginia. The mother and son were buried yesterday afternoon in the Congressional cemetery.

The senior Dr. Saunders, husband of Mrs. Saunders and father of Dr. Saunders, who died some years ago, was pastor of the Second Baptist Church of the southeastern section of Washington for a number of years. Dr. Saunders, recovering from an attack of influenza, paid a visit to his mother at the University of Virginia three weeks ago, his mother having been ill at the time. Returning to his work in Binghamton, he suffered a relapse from influenza and died from its effects.

Saunders. Officers and members of Men's Cliff Rock Beneficial Association are notified to attend the funeral of our late brother, Theodore M. Saunders from Metropolitan A.M.E. Church, M street between 15th and 16th streets n.w., Thursday, May 10, 1923 at 2 p.m.

<td>Died, On Saturday morning last, Mrs. Sawyer, wife of the Hon. L. Sawyer, A Representative in Congress from North Carolina. The sickness of Mrs. S., which was chiefly an inflammation of the lungs, was short. Scarcely two weeks since, she appeared to possess her usual good health and spirits, and to participate in that pleasure and exercise, which the most confident, conscious of those blessings, usually enjoy; but, alas, her days were then numbered to a short span, and a painful separation awaited an affectionate husband. In all the duties of a wife, she was truly exemplary, virtuous, and pious, in the first degree; and kind and charitable to all. With perfect calmness she resigned herself to the will of her Maker, where the spirit of her interesting and only child had flown but a few months before. May they rest in peace! -- Gazette.</td>

The air of Heaven was stirred with love
When entered there our darling dove,
Celestial choirs with raptures flame
As she adored the "Lamb once slain."
Her heavenly gain to earth is loss.
Dear Savior, purify this dress;
Go with us though the swelling tide,
And through this furnace walk beside.
Seven times its wont our burnings glow,
Seven times affliction's pangs we know.
God of compassion! to us flee,
And succor us, the stricken three.

A rosebud, radiant, pure and fair,
From Sharon's tree was lent,
To be our joy, our tender care,
The lonely bud was sent.
We thought it ours with ardent love
We claimed it as our own,
A gift, a boon, from Him above,
His choicest, blessing shown.
Our bud is gone, whose rosy light
Illumed our happy home;
We felt it droop, we wept its flight,
The Rose of Sharon's own. A.W.W.

The Evening Star, December 19, 1907, p. 2
Death of James F. Scaggs
Member of Local Bar Victim of Bright's Disease
Prominent Member of Secret Fraternities and Identified With Numerous Local Interests
James F. Scaggs, a prominent member of the bar of the District of Columbia, died this morning at Providence Hospital, after a protracted illness. Arrangements for the funeral are being made, but have not been completed.

Mr. Scaggs was a native of Maryland, and was fifty-one years of age. He came to this city while yet a boy and learned the printers' trade.

He was employed for a time in the government printing office, and while so employed studied law and graduated about twenty-five years ago from the law school of Georgetown College. Entering upon the practice of his profession he attained high rank and practiced in all the courts of the District.

Until about two years ago Mr. Scaggs was president of the Southwest Washington Citizens' Association, and was otherwise identified with local interests, but ill-health compelled him to resign. He had for several years past been a sufferer from Bright's disease, but until Saturday last, when he was taken to the hospital, he was able, in a large measure, to attend to business at his office in the Columbian building, 5th street northwest.
Mr. Scaggs was unmarried, but a brother and Mrs. Everette, a sister, both of this city survive him. Mr. Scaggs was prominent in Masonic affairs, being a past master of Lafayette Lodge, F.A.A.M., of this city. He was a member of the deMolay Commandery, Knights Templar, and of the Mystic Shrine. He was also a member of the Knights of Pythias and of the Odd Fellows.

It is understood that the funeral will be in charge of the Masonic fraternity.

Services in Fifth Baptist Church Sunday Afternoon

Funeral services over the remains of James F. Scaggs, a member of the District bar, who died early yesterday morning at Providence Hospital, will be held in the Fifth Baptist Church, E street southwest, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Weston Bruner, pastor of the church will conduct the services. The deceased was a member of Lafayette Lodge, No. 19, F.A.A.M.; of DeMolay Commandery, Knights Templar, and of Almas Temple of the Mystic Shrine. The pallbearers will be selected from the membership of these organizations. The members of Lafayette Lodge will have charge of the services.

Mr. Scaggs was the eldest son of James S. and Martha C. Scaggs, both deceased. Born in this city in 1856, Mr. Scaggs received his education in public and private schools here. In August 1873, he was appointed an apprentice in the government printing office to learn the printing trade, where he continued for thirteen years. Subsequently, as stated in The Star yesterday, he graduated in law from the Georgetown University Law School, receiving the faculty cash prize for general proficiency as a student. In June, 1887, he resigned his position in the government printing office, and was for thirteen years an examiner for the Columbia Title Insurance Company, which position he resigned to enter a private practice of the law. As a speaker Mr. Scaggs made quite a reputation, and it is said of him that he reflected the highest credit on the printing craft as a successful man in the professional world. Mrs. Emma L. Everett, his sister, and one brother, Eugene C. Scaggs, survive him. The remains will be placed in a vault at Congressional Cemetery to await interment.

Will of James F. Scaggs

The will of James F. Scaggs, dated November 7, 1906, was filed today for probate. The sum of $50 is bequeathed to the trustees of the Fifth Baptist Church for the purchase of suitable books for the Sabbath school library and to be known as the Alice M. Whitemore Scaggs and Deborah E. Whitmore collection. The remaining estate is devised to Mrs. Hannah Pettit.

Mrs. Pettit, who is also named as executrix, this afternoon filed a renunciation of any claim under the will. The estate, it is said, will probably be divided between the brother and sister of the deceased.

Final Services Over Remains of James F. Scaggs

Impressive ceremonies, conducted by the Rev. D. Weston Bruner, pastor of the Fifth Baptist Church, in E street southwest, near 6th street, where the funeral services were held, marked the burial of James F. Scaggs, who died at Providence Hospital last Thursday.

Dr. Bruner took his text from Isaiah, "However useful or beautiful one's life, it is soon finished." The pastor sketched the life of Mr. Scaggs, telling of his achievements, of his character and his attitude toward religion.

"The value of life," Dr. Bruner said, "is measured by the friends made and the kindly acts done. It is unnecessary for me to praise our departed brother. This great concourse present is the best eulogy that could be delivered to his life and works."

After the sermon funeral services according to the ritual of the Knights Templar were conducted by members of DeMolay Commandery, under the leadership of the prelate, William Hart Dexter.

These services concluded, the hymn "Nearer My God to Thee" was sung and while its strains still sounded in the church the casket was borne between lines of Knights Templar extending to the street.

Lafayette Lodge, F.A.A.M., of which Mr. Scaggs was a past master, conducted the services at the grave according to its ritual.

Mr. Scaggs, who was fifty years old, was a graduate of Georgetown Law School, and practiced his profession in this city. Until two years ago, when ill health compelled his resignation, he was president of the Southwest Citizens' Association. Although for a long time he had been suffering from Bright's disease, he continued his work at his office in the Columbian building, and before the courts, until a week ago Saturday, when he was taken to Providence Hospital. His sister, Mrs. Emma L. Everette, and his brother, Eugene C. Scaggs, are his only surviving relatives. Mr. Scaggs never married.

Body Badly Mangled
Conductor Scala Falls to His Death From Cabin John Car
Edward J. Scala, twenty-four years old, conductor on the Cabin John line, met his death shortly after 8 o'clock last night when he lost his footing and slipped from the running board of a rapidly-moving westbound car, on Cabin John road near McCoy station. The conductor's body was badly mangled.

Conductor Scala had a new motorman on his car last night and about the time the car reached Foxhall road he went to the front platform and suggested that faster speed should be made, the police were told, and when he turned to return to the rear end of the car he missed his footing and fell.

Scala was unconscious when picked up and taken to Georgetown University Hospital. He died before reaching the hospital. Coroner Nevitt will hold an inquest at the morgue tomorrow morning. Scala resided at 320 12th street southeast.

The Evening Star, July 10, 1913, p. 9
Death Held Accidental
Coroner's Jury Gives Finding in Case of Alvin J. Scala
A verdict of accidental death was reached by a corner's jury at an inquest held at the morgue today to investigate the death of Alvin J. Scala, conductor in the employ of the Washington Railway and Electric Company, who was killed on the Cabin John line Tuesday night.

Testimony given at the inquest was to the effect that Scala possibly missed his footing on the running board of his car and was struck by a trolley pole. While finding that Scala's death was the result of an accident the jury added that the close proximity of the trolley poles to the tracks on that line is a menace to the conductors.

Leader of the US Marine Band from 1855 - 1871. Accompanied Lincoln to Gettysburg.

The Evening Star, May 5, 1862
Dress Parade of the Marines
The first parade of the marines since receiving their new uniform took place at the Garrison this morning, in the presence of a large number of ladies and gentlemen, who were highly pleased with the appearance and discipline of the battalion. The line was formed at 10 o'clock, the band and drum corps, under Prof. Scala and Drum Major Roche, taking the right, and the four companies, numbering nearly 400 men, marching into their places; after which they were reviewed by Brig. General Harris, commandant of the corps. The battalion was then marched around the ground several times, and were drawn up in line, where they went through the manual of arms in a style which they are celebrated for; the movements being done on the instant, and the men moving as if they were part of a complicated machine. The new uniform—consisting of dark-blue coats with heavy yellow epaulettes and orange trimmings, light-blue pants, and regulation caps with a large brass frontispiece and a pompon of the smallest size—had the effect of setting off the corps to a better advantage than with the old uniform. The officers appeared in their old uniform, having been disappointed in receiving their new ones.

Lines on the Death of our Charlie--Little Flower
I knew my darling boy must go,
And when at last the storms
Of winter time came rudely on,
He faded from my arms.

Be patient with me, friends, 'tis hard
With such a grief to strive,
I've lost the prettiest peace on earth
That ever was alive.

So let me sit and weep the while,
You count his artless ways,
Think what he was to me if you
Can find so much to praise.

I know Heaven's gifts are due to Heaven
Though all Heaven's light I lack,
And with the interest of his growth
Of beauty give him back.

I gave him back--sweet friends forgive
My tears this heavy hour,
The world is all a wintry waste
Without my precious flower.

In the graveyard, softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one I love so dearly,
In her lonely, silent grave.
Farewell, Emily, may your slumber
Be as gentle as your love,
And when God will call me homeward,
May we meet in heaven above.

And with farewells unspoken
She calmly entered her eternal home.

Funeral of G.W. Scheerer
Civil War Veteran and Agricultural Department Employee
The funeral of George W. Scheerer, a Union veteran of the civil war, and one of the older employees of the Department of Agriculture, whose death occurred Monday, will take place from the family home, 713 D street, tomorrow afternoon.  The deceased is survived by five children, all of whom reside in this city.

Mr. Scheerer was born in Baltimore October 19, 1832 and received his education in the schools of that city.  At the outbreak of the civil war he enlisted in Troop A, 1st Maryland Cavalry, and served with the Army of the Potomac until the latter part of September, 1864, when he was honorably discharged at Petersburg, Va.  As a Union cavalryman, the deceased participated in practically all of the big battles in northern Virginia through the years of 1862 and 1863, receiving several severe wounds.

Upon taking up his residence in this city at the close of the war, Mr. Scheerer engaged in various occupations until 1893 when he was appointed to a position in the Department of Agriculture.  He became a member of the G.A.R. in 1882 and was associated with Kit Carson Post, No. 2, of this city.  He was an active member of the Old Guard, retiring from active participation several years ago on account of ill health.  At the time of his death the deceased was a member of Independent Lodge, No. 77, I.O.O.F., the Philadelphia Encampment, No. 10, I.O.O.F., and the Cigarmakers International Union.

Scheitlin, Christina Wilhelmina
Scheitlin. This morning at 5 o'clock, Christina Wilhelmina, infant daughter of Margaret Y. and Jacob Scheitlin, aged nine months. The friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral without further notice, on Sunday afternoon, the 21st instant, at 4 o'clock, from the residence of the child's grandfather, Mr John Hitz, No. 99 south A street, Capitol Hill.

Scheitlin, Jacob
The Evening Star, April 10, 1880
Suicide by Drowning
He Died Because He Thought His Life a Failure
Yesterday afternoon a colored man reported to the police station at Bening's that he had discovered the body of an unknown white man floating in shore on the north side of the Eastern Branch at a point known as the Devil's Elbow, just in the rear of the poorhouse which he had secured to a stake in the water. The police repaired to the place designated, but the tide being high the body was submerged and a further investigation was postponed until this morning, when it was loosed from the stake and brought ashore. The body was identified later in the day as that of Jacob Scheitlin, who was well-known in this community. He was a widower, his wife having died sometime since. Deceased was 54 years old and he leaves two young sons living. In his pockets were found a few pennies, match box and pocket knife; also a letter in which he states, "My wish is that I have Christian burial in some spot, only that after my death I do not come in contact with hypocritical and false-swear people. My two boys, my spirit will always watch over you." etc. He speaks of his life having been a failure in consequence of bad connections and surroundings. The remains were taken to the dead-house connected with the almshouse, and Coroner Patterson was notified, who went down there, and after informing himself of all the facts gave a certificate of burial and the remains were turned over to his relatives.

Locals
Messrs. John Hitz, L.W. Guinand, Kaspar Kneesi, Adolph Gebner and Jacob Scheitlin have organized a society under the name of the Winkelreid Steftung, the object being to provide in an equitable manner, a fund for the benefit of widows, orphans, heirs and assigns, and have filed a certificate of incorporation.

Scheitlin, John
Scheitlin. On Friday morning, 30th instant after an illness of but 16 hours, John eldest son of Jacob and Margaret Scheitlin in the 7th year of his age. His funeral will take place from the residence of his grandmother, Mrs. John Hitz, No. 29 south A street, Capitol Hill on Saturday the 31st instant at 3 o'clock p.m. The friends of the family are invited to attend.

Scheitlin, Johnnie
Scheitlin. On Thursday, November 26, 1891, at 2:10 o'clock a.m., Johnnie, only child of John G. and Minnie E. Scheitlin, aged 2 years and 22 days.
The struggle of life is ended
With Johnnie for evermore,
For his spirit has taken its flight
To that celestial shore,
Where flowers bloom forever
And peace reigns within,
And none but the pure can enter
Into that holy inn.
Funeral from the residence of his parents, 728 Twelfth street southeast, at 3 o'clock p.m., Saturday, November 28.

Scheitlin, Margaret V.
Among his (John Hitz, Sr.) three children were Edgar's grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Scheitlin, ... During Edgar's boyhood, his grandmother Scheitlin lived across the square, and she and his great-uncle (John Hitz, Jr.) were frequent Sunday visitors at the Hoover household. The family often spent Sunday evenings seated around the parlor table, with the white-bearded Swiss consul general leading the Bible reading.

Murder and Suicide

Double Tragedy Enacted in Southeast Washington
Result of Jealousy
Husband Finds Dead Wife and her Slayer Together
William Bottomly Kills Mrs. Mary F. Scheitlin
And Then Shoots Himself

Another double tragedy was entered on the police annals of Washington last night as the result of the alleged unfaithfulness of a wife, following closely after a somewhat similar case in West Washington. According to the best evidence obtainable it appears that Mary Frances Scheitlin, aged 35 years, the wife of Rudolph B. Scheitlin, employed as an electrician in the navy yard, was murdered in her home, at 750 9th street southeast, by William Bottomly or Bottemby, 38 years of age, who is said to have been a frequent visitor at the Scheitlin home during the absence of the husband. After firing the fatal shots at Mrs. Scheitlin from a 38 caliber bulldog revolver the murderer turned the weapon on himself and committed suicide by shooting himself through the right temple.

It was evident that death was almost instantaneous in both cases. Two shots were fired into the woman's head—one entering immediately behind the right ear and the other in the mouth.

Detective's Investigation

Detective Patrick O'Brien of headquarters, who was assigned to the case by Capt. Boardman, made an immediate investigation of the circumstances surrounding the double fatality. He learned that the murderer was what is known as a bar-room singer, and that he had been paying clandestine visits to Mrs. Scheitlin for a long time, against the protests of the husband. On the occasion of his visits he always brought liquor to the house and the two often indulged to the point of intoxication.

The husband, finding that his protests against the visits of Bottomy were without avail, as he informed Detective O'Brien, he had determined to pack up his effects and leave her November 1. He added that he had informed her that if she preferred the fellow Bottomy, with his ribald songs and his strong drink, to a true and industrious husband, he would leave the place for all time.

When Mr. Scheitlin first entered his home about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and saw Bottomy and his wife stretched out on the floor, he believed that they were both drunk. He saw blood about the place, but decided that it was the result of the man and woman falling or engaging in a fight. He therefore went out to look for a policeman to have them taken from his home. He found Policemen Thompson and Price, and they went with him to the house.

It was quickly discovered that a murder and suicide had been committed. Bottomy was found with his head lying across the woman's breast, and the police believe he had placed his ear against her body after shooting her to see if she had stopped breathing before he fired the shot into his own head. The revolver was found at the dead woman's feet where it had fallen from the hand of the murderer. The bodies were sent to the morgue.

Police Theory

It is the theory of the police that on the occasion of the visit of Bottomy to the Scheitlin home yesterday he had words with the woman; that as the time was drawing near for the husband to return from his place of employment, the woman urged the man to depart, as she had informed a friend that Rudolph had threatened to leave her on November 1, and she was going to be good and try to cause him to change his mind and live again happily with her. It is believed that Bottomy resented this and opposed her decision to try and live a witty life with her lawful husband. She stuck to her determination, it is thought, and he in a drunken frenzy fired the fatal shots. When found by the policeman, he bore evidence of having been under the influence of liquor, and the remains of a pint of whisky were found in a flask in his pocket.

The wife had returned to her sober senses and realized that her husband was going to leave her, and that Bottomy could not support her, and she made the decision which is thought to have resulted in her death and that of the man who had caused her all the trouble.

Mr. Scheitlin informed Detective O'Brien that he believed the man had been calling on his wife for some time, and that he had heard things since her death which he had not heard before of their transactions. He also said his wife was a good woman except at those times when she indulged in intoxicants. She had more than once threatened to leave her husband when he chided her for her misconduct, and on several occasions had taken the pictures from the wall preparatory to carrying out her threat. She was engaged in hanging pictures on the wall and tidying up the house to make a good impression on her husband when Bottomy called and the tragedy took place.

Soldier in War With Spain

Rudolph B. Scheitlin, the husband was a Spanish war soldier, having been the first man to enlist in Company F, 1st District of Columbia Volunteers, in 1898. He served in the Cuban campaign with honor. At the close of the war he married Mary Frances Smith, daughter of Wylie Smith of Brick Church Station, near Upper Marlboro, Md. After securing employment in the navy yard he established a modest little home at 750 9th street southeast, and lived happily until Bottomy and strong drink came in, and then, it is said, happiness and content went out.

"At last," said Scheitlin, sadly, "I almost lost hope, and finally determined to leave my wife for good."

Since his wife's death the husband has learned, so he told Detective O'Brien, that Bottomy's clandestine visits have continued for about two years. On several occasions when he found the invader at his home he had requested the police to remove him.

Mrs. Scheitlin was evidently in the act of hanging a picture on the wall in the process of tidying up her home and restoring happiness, when Bottomy shot her from behind, and she tumbled, dying, to the floor.

Bottomy was not given a good reputation by the police when they were asked about him today. The husband Scheitlin, is said to be a grandson of John Hitz, the first Swiss consul in Washington.

Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt today gave certificates of murder and suicide in the cases. Mr. Scheitlin had his wife's remains taken to Nally's undertaking establishment on 11th street southeast, and says he will give her a Christian burial. The body of Bottomy was still at the morgue at a late hour this afternoon.

Schell. At Providence Hospital, on Wednesday, January 7, 1903, at 10 a.m., of diabetes, F.M. Schell, aged 75 years. Funeral private.

_The Evening Star, January 8, 1903, p. 16_

_Dead of a Veteran_

_Served in Mexican War with Kentucky Legion_

_Close Friend of the Late Justice Field--_

_Pioneer of '49 in California_

Francis Marion Schell, one of Washington's few survivors of the Mexican War, and who has long been a familiar figure in this city, died yesterday at Providence Hospital after a short illness of diabetes. The disease took a form that necessitated the amputation of one of his limbs, which he endured with the fortitude which was a characteristic of his long life. The operation was, however, unavailing, and, after lingering for a day, he died. He was conscious up to a moment or two before death.

Mr. Schell was born at Frederick, Md. in 1827, but early went to the west. He served in the Kentucky legion through the Mexican war, and was a member of the small and ever-decreasing band of Mexican veterans which yearly called on the President New Year day. He was also a member of the local society of California Pioneers, who some years back made annual trips to Marshall Hall. He went to California after the Mexican war, and drove two wagon trains "the plains across." He was an active spirit in the stirring times in San Francisco, which culminated in the vigilance committee's work of ridding that city from a reign of lawlessness. His influence and active co-operation were given to the supporters of law and order. Mr. Schell was a close personal friend of the late Associate Justice Stephen J. Field, their friendship dating back from early times in California.

Returning from California to the east after the civil war, Mr. Schell settled in Indiana, and resided there a number of years. He came to Washington as an attaché of the House of Representatives under the administration of Speaker Michael C. Kerr of Indiana. Since that time he has made Washington his residence and had many warm friends here. He was a Knight of Pythias for more than thirty years, and took particular interest in the work of Ascalon Temple, Knights of Khorassan, of which he was a charter member and Rathbone Temple of the Rathbone Sisters.

Mr. Schell was a man of large stature and fine personal appearance, and until very recently was in robust health for one of his age. He had been married more than half a century. His wife, three sons and three daughters survive him. His funeral will be held next Monday, the delay being occasioned by the desire of the family to await the arrival of his sons, E.P Schell and A. Pearl Schell, from San Francisco and Frank M. Schell, jr. from Chicago.

Schneider, Gottlob C.
At Brooklyn, New York on Tuesday morning, November 7, 1899, Gottlob C. Schneider, formerly of Washington, D.C., husband of Sarah Kelly Schneider in the 75th year of his age.

Mr. Gottlob C. Schneider, the last of the original Schneider brothers of Washington, passed away this morning in Brooklyn, N.Y., where he and his wife and daughters had made their home for several years past. Mr. Schneider was well known and highly respected here, where for sixty years he was identified with the city's interests. He was next to the youngest of five brothers and three sisters, of whom Frederick, August, Louis H. and Christian G. Schneider and Mrs. Caroline Acker have passed away within the past five years, leaving now only two sisters, Miss Louise R. Schneider and Mrs. Catherine G. Rheem, surviving.

Mr. Schneider, like all of his brothers, was, up to the time of his retirement, engaged in the metal working business, in which he was regarded as an expert. For a number of years past he had been an invalid, and about three years ago he suffered a severe attack of grip, that left him with a heart trouble which was the immediate cause of his death.

Mr. Schneider leaves a widow, two sons, T.F. Schneider and William E. Schneier, both well known and actively engaged in business here, and four daughters, Misses Clara, Annie, Maud and May. They have the sympathy of a wide circle of relatives and friends in Washington in their bereavement.

The remains of Gottlob Schneider, who died the 7th instant in Brooklyn, N.Y., as announced in The Star, will reach the city at 2:40 p.m. today. Funeral services were held in Brooklyn. The interment will be at Congressional cemetery. Pallbearers have been named as follows: Dr. R.H. Gunnell, Benj. W. Holman, Clarence B. Rheem, A. Leo Bergmark, W.H. Snyder and Wm. A. Easterday.

U.S. Patent Records, 1857
No. 17,522 -- Gotlob C. Schneider, of Washington, D.C. Approved Hob for Cutting Screw-Chasers. Patent dated June 9, 1857. This hob is formed on its circumference with a number of parallel cutting edges a, which are in planes at right angles to the axis of the cylinder, instead of having the cutting edges arranged helically around the cylinder. In cutting screw-chasers with this improved tool, it is secured in a lathe; and as it is caused to revolve, the chaser to be formed is held against the teeth a in an oblique position; and as the position can be changed in different chasers, it follows that screw-chasers having various inclinations can be cut with the same hob.

Claim -- The hob for cutting the threads of screw-chasers, constructed in the manner described.

A Coast Survey Scandal
Charges of Corruption Against B.A. Colonna--
He Denies and Explains
Mr. Howard J. Schneider, a draughtsman formerly employed in the coast survey office, has written a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury charging corruption in office on the part of B.A. Colonna, assistant in charge of the bureau, and E.H. Fowler, a draughtsman. He charges that he had to contribute money to Colonna and make a present to Fowler in order to keep his place in the bureau. He says he did work for the Boston and Maine railway company, for which $204 was paid by the treasurer of the company, and that of that sum Colonna received $50. Other specifications are similar in character.

Mr. Colonna denies the charges. He says work done for outside parties has to be paid for. An estimate is made of the cost and a deposit of the amount required. The sums, he says, deducted as in the cases cited by Schneider, were the differences between the actual cost of the work and the estimates, which were greater, and the money so deducted was returned to the parties making the excessive payment.

Dreadful Occurrence

The following painful event took place in this city last Friday evening. It adds another to the many instances on record of unfortunate and distressing accidents which arise from the improper and unsafe use of firearms by boys and other young persons who handle them in a careless and incautious manner.

While two youths of the names of Buckingham and Schobert, both, as we understand, amiable and well-disposed lads, were sporting with a double-barreled fowling-piece on the Mall, south of the Washington Canal, and in the second Ward of this city, the gun unfortunately went off while in the hands of Buckingham, and its load of shot was lodged in the head of Schobert, who at the time was not more than three or four feet from the muzzle of the gun. It is said, we know not whether correctly or not, that the gun had been unfortunately left cocked, when placed in the hands of Buckingham, and that in that way it went off suddenly, without any pulling of the trigger; another statement is that Buckingham pulled the wrong trigger when the loaded barrel was discharged. Which is the right statement we are unable to learn, and have been averse to inquire of the friends of the two lads, whose feelings are deeply lacerated by this untoward and distressing event. We are satisfied that the sad occurrence, in its worst aspect, arose from the want of caution, or was purely accidental. It is a source of inexpressible grief to two respectable families, towards whom the sympathies of our community are strongly excited. Respecting the poor sufferer's condition at the time we write this paragraph, (Sunday, 10 o'clock a.m.) we have ascertained from a correct source, that he still lives, but that the professional gentlemen who attend him entertain no hope of his recovery. His skull is dreadfully fractured and his brain shattered.

Since writing the above, we learn that poor young Schobert expired at noon this day (Sunday).

Brigadier General Albin F. Schoepf died yesterday at his home at Hyattsville, Md.

The Evening Star, May 12, 1886
The Late Gen. Schoepf
A meeting of the associates of the late Gen. Albin Schoepf, an examiner in the Patent office, together with a number of patent attorneys, was held yesterday afternoon, and appropriate resolutions, drawn up by a committee consisting of Assistant Commissioner Vance, Judge Clark, Col. Seeley, W. Peirce Bell, and R.W. Fenwick, were adopted. Gen. Schoepf was one of the oldest examiners in the office, having first entered the government in 1856. During the war he enlisted, and as brigadier general was distinguished for his bravery.

U.S. General Civil War. Commandant of Camp Delaware. Born Krakow, Poland. Other family listed on memorial are in-laws: Julia B. Kesley, William Kesley; and children: Julie Magdalene, Emily Tyler, Burton Harrison, and Juliette Bates.

Schoepf was born in Poland and came to the United States in 1851. While working as a porter in a Washington hotel, he met Joseph Holt, then the commissioner of patents. Schoepf followed Holt to the War Department, where he was given a field command in 1861, brigadier general of volunteers. He served in the Army of the Ohio until he asked to be relieved and was then given command of the federal prison camp at Fort Delaware, near New Castle, where he earned the unpopular nickname, "General Terror." The camp, located on a marshy site unsuitable for large numbers of prisoners, housed Confederate political and naval prisoners and had a notorious reputation for overcrowding and mistreatment.

Mrs. Julie B. Schoepf Dies At Her Home Here
Was Native of This City and Widow of Civil War Officer of Note
Mrs. Julie B. Schoepf, widow of Gen. Albin Schoepf, died at her apartment in the Burlington at 8:16 a.m. yesterday. Mrs. Schoepf, the daughter of Rev. William Kesley and Mabel Bates Kesley, was born in this city January 3, 1836. She is survived by seven children -- Lilly S. McElhinney, Albin Frank Schoepf of Zanesville, Ohio; Joseph Holt Schoepf of Asheville, N.C.; W. Kesley Schoepf and Alexander M. Schoepf of Cincinnati; Theodore H. Schoepf of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Alice W. Carr of Washington. A sister, Mrs. W.A. McElhinney, also survives her. The entire family was present at the time of Mrs. Schoepf's death.

Suffers Heart Attack
Twelve days ago Mrs. Schoepf suffered an acute attack of heart trouble, which was the direct cause of her death. This attack was induced by the recent death of a daughter who had lived with Mrs. Schoepf for many years.

Brig. Gen. Schoepf was a notable figure in Washington and Cincinnati during the civil war. He came to the United States from Hungary, his birthplace, with Louis Kossuth in 1852 and was commissioned a brigadier general from Maryland shortly after the outbreak of the civil war. He saw active service for two years, leaving the army because of illness. After serving several months as member of a military commission at Cincinnati he was assigned to command of Fort Delaware, where he remained until the close of the war.

Death of Dr. Scholl
Prominent Physician and Long a Resident of Washington
Dr. Joseph Scholl, a native of Carlsruhe, Germany, died, after a brief illness, in the eightieth year of his age, at his residence in this city June 6, 1902.

Dr. Scholl graduated at Tubingen, Germany, in the year 1850, after which he came to this country and settled in Newark, N.J., where he became prominent in his profession. During his term as coroner in that city he, with others, established the first free hospital. In 1861 he made this city his permanent home and identified himself with the city's welfare. He was much respected as a citizen and appreciated for his professional services by many of the old residents, but in late years practiced little. He was one of the oldest members of the Medical Society and Medical Associations, and one of the originators and incorporators of what is now the Emergency Hospital.

A son, two daughters and three grandchildren survive him. His funeral will take place Monday, June 9, at 3 o'clock p.m.

The Evening Star, June 10, 1902
Wills Filed for Probate
The will of the late Dr. Joseph Scholl dated October 26, 1901 was filed today for probate. His estate is left to his children, Robert W. Scholl, Mrs. Louise Scott and Mrs. Emily Powell. The two daughters are named executrix.

Deaths in the City
William R. Scholl whose death occurred yesterday from the effects of the heat, was a draftsman employed in the Agricultural Department. He lived at 615 D street northwest where he died about 9:30 o'clock last night. During the day he suffered greatly from the hot weather, and his temperature was above normal when he left the office. Feeling ill, he took a dose of medicine, and upon reaching home he made an effort to reduce his temperature. After dinner he played for a time with his little child, and then went to his room, still complaining of the heat. He repaired to the bath room shortly after 9 o'clock, thinking a cold bath would help him. His father went to the bath room about the hour stated and found his son in the tub with ice on his head. He was unconscious and a physician was summoned, who reached the house in a few minutes, but Mr. Scholl died before his arrival.

Schoolcraft, Henry Rowe (1793-1864), U.S. explorer and ethnologist, born in Guilderland, N.Y.; U.S. agent in Lake Superior region for nearly 20 years; 'Indian Tribes of the United States', 6 volumes published by order of Congress, provided background for Longfellow's 'Hiawatha', p. 62 -- General Alexander Macomb, commander in chief of the Army, invited him (Nicollet) to read with him before its publication the report of Lieutenant James Allen who had that summer accompanied the expedition of Henry Rowe Schoolcraft, Indian agent of Michilimacina, to find the true source of the Mississippi [Journal of an "Expedition into Indian Country" to the Sources of the Mississippi, made under the authority of the War Department in 1832 (23rd Congress, 1st Session, House Documents, 323 -- serial 257 (Washington, 1832)]). Thirteen years before, Schoolcraft had been with Lewis Cass, then governor of Michigan Territory, on an expedition to the same country and his narrative had had enormous impact on the reading public both in the United States and abroad. Its most valuable passages were then, as now, about the Chippewa nation with whom he had had much contact. Allen was the engineer and mapmaker of the second expedition in 1832 whose purpose was largely geographical. He had used only a chronometer, and to Nicollet his results left much to be desired. But the report's very existence and the fact that Nicollet was invited to study it indicated the interest of the government in other more exact explorations.

p. 167 -- Taliaferro (Indian agent to the Dakotas at Fort Snelling) was more than pleased to have his guest (Nicollet) go north, but his reasons were not entirely scientific. Schoolcraft was now Indian agent at La Pointe on the south shore of Lake Superior, and, much to Taliaferro's disgust, the Chippewas had been placed under his jurisdiction. There were rumors that a powerful chief had been encouraged to say that Taliaferro was inciting the Dakotas to war against the Chippewas, and the Major hoped Nicollet would find out the truth of these machinations against himself. He had, in fact, burned the midnight oil as he drove his pen across the pages of his diary in uncontrolled rage against some of the statements made in Schoolcraft's book which, surprisingly enough, he had not seen until Nicollet had given it to him.

Appletons' Cyclopedia of American Biography

Schoolcraft, Henry Rowe (Mar. 28, 1793 - Dec. 10, 1864)

Explorer, ethnologist, was born in Albany County, N.Y., the son of Lawrence and Margaret Anne Barbara (Rowe) Schoolcraft and the great-grandson of James Calcraft, as the name was then spelled, who emigrated from England to Albany County, N.Y., in 1727. Henry enjoyed the opportunities of the common school in Hamilton, N.Y., and was able to matriculate in Union College at fifteen. Later he attended Middlebury College. He favored language and natural science, especially geology and minerology. His father was a glass maker, and the boy studied this industry and in 1817 started at Utica, N.Y., a book on glass making. He began his explorations with a visit to the mineral regions of southern Missouri and Arkansas in 1817-18, then Indian country. His report, "A View of the Lead Mines of Missouri," was published in New York in 1819. By this time he was considered a competent geologist, and he was sent on the Cass exploring expedition in 1820 to the upper Mississippi and the Lake Superior copper region. His "Narrative Journal of Travels through the Northwestern Regions of the United States . . . to the Sources of the Mississippi River" appeared in 1821. Later, in 1832, he made another expedition to the sources of the Mississippi, which he described in "Narrative of an Expedition through the Upper Mississippi to Itasca Lake, the Actual Source of the Mississippi" (1834), reissued as "Summary Narrative" in 1855 with an account of the earlier expedition of 1820 and an appendix of official reports and scientific papers. His wide acquaintance with the Indians led to his appointment in 1822 as Indian agent for the tribes of Lake Superior. Thereafter his predilections were for those Algonquian tribes inhabiting the vast forests around the great lake. In 1823 he married a quarter-blood Chippewa girl, who, though educated in Europe, understood and shared much of the primitive Indian culture. She died in 1842.

The importance of the Indian subject was firmly fixed in his mind, and for the remainder of his life he pursued his chosen work in season and out of season. Encouraged by the government, whose need was data on the Indian problem, he was given official promotion as superintendent of Indian affairs for Michigan in 1836 and served in the department until 1841. During this period he negotiated several treaties with the Chippewa, probably most important of which was the treaty of Mar. 28, 1836, whereby the United States obtained title to the northern third of the lower peninsula and the eastern half of the upper peninsula of Michigan. Always active in forwarding the study of Indians, he helped to found the Historical Society of Michigan in 1828 and the Algic Society of Detroit in 1832. In many ways he promoted the study of the ethnology of the Indian, both at home and abroad. His literary remains are of impressive bulk. They consist of descriptions of his explorations, writings on the manners and customs of the Indians, and tales and legends.

Of these perhaps the most important are "Algic Researches (2 vols., 1839) concerning Indian mental characteristics, "Oneota," originally issued in eight paper covers (1844-45) describing the Indian history and prospects, "Notes on the Iroquois" (1847), a popular account, and "Personal Memories of . . . Thirty Years with the Indian Tribes" (1851). Most of these works were literary rather than scientific, as is characteristic of the unspecialized anthropological science of the period. Realizing that the scientific material he had collected should be set in order, he projected an Indian encyclopaedia; but this was set aside for the great work on which his reputation as an ethnologist must rest. Subvented by the government, he began in 1851, "Historical and Statistical Information Respecting the History, Condition, and Prospects of the Indian Tribunes of the United States" (6 pts., 1851-57). This work, six folio volumes, excellently illustrated with steel engravings from paintings by Seth Eastman, was a collaboration dominated by Schoolcraft. In spite of shortcomings, it contains valuable and indispensable material on the Indians and is a monument to a great American explorer and ethnologist.

Schoolcraft was fluent, interesting, convincing, and made a good public appearance. He traveled much and received many honors. He published nothing after 1857, and it is said that rheumatism and paralysis put an end to his work. He was survived by his wife, Mary (Howard) Schoolcraft of Beaufort District, N.C., to whom he was married in 1847.

Dictionary of American Biography

Schoolcraft, Lawrence, soldier, b. in Albany county, N.Y., in 1760; d. in Verona, Oneida Co., N.Y., 7 June, 1840. His grandfather James, came from England in the reign of Queen Anne, settled in Albany county as a surveyor, and in later life was a teacher, and adopted the name of "Schoolcraft" in the place of his original family name of Calcraft. The grandson served during the Revolutionary war, and as a colonel in the second war with Great Britain. He was the superintendent of a large glass-factory ten miles west of Albany.

His son, Henry Rowe, ethnologist, b. in Albany county, N.Y., 28 March 1793; d. in Washington, D.C., 10 Dec., 1864, was educated at Middlebury College, Vt., and at Union, where he pursued the studies of chemistry and mineralogy, learned the art of glass-making, and began a treatise on the subject entitled “Vitreology,” the first part of which was published (Utica, 1817). In 1817-18 he traveled in Missouri and Arkansas, and returned with a large collection of geological and mineralogical specimens. In 1820 he was appointed geologist to Gen. Lewis Cass’s exploring expedition to Lake Superior and the head-waters of the Mississippi river. He was secretary of a commission to treat with the Indians at Chicago, and after a journey through Illinois and along Wabash and Miami rivers, was in 1822 appointed Indian agent for the tribes of the lake region, establishing himself at Sault Sainte Marie, and afterward at Mackinaw, where, in 1823, he married Jane Johnston, granddaughter of Waboojeeg, a noted Ojibway chief, who had received her education in Europe. In 1828 he founded the Michigan historical society, and in 1831 the Algic society. From 1828 till 1832 he was a member of the territorial legislature of Michigan. In 1832 he led a government expedition, which followed the Mississippi river up to its source in Itasca lake. In 1836 he negotiated a treaty with the Indians on the upper lakes for the cession to the United States of 16,000,000 acres of their lands. He was then appointed acting superintendent of Indian affairs, and in 1839 chief disbursing agent for the northern department. On his return from Europe in 1842 he made a tour through western Virginia, Ohio, and Canada. He was appointed by the New York legislature in 1845 a commissioner to take the census of the Indians in the state, and collect information concerning the Six Nations. After the performance of this task, congress authorized him, on 3 March, 1847, to obtain through the Indian bureau reports relating to all the Indian tribes of the country, and to collate and edit the information. In this work he spent the remaining years of his life. Through his influence many laws were enacted for the protection and benefit of the Indians. Numerous scientific societies in the United States and Europe elected him to membership, and the University of Geneva gave him the degree of L.L.D. in 1846. He was the author of numerous poems, lectures, and reports on Indian subjects, besides thirty-one larger works. Two of his lectures before the Algic society at Detroit on the “Grammatical Construction of the Indian Languages” were translated into French by Peter S. Duponceau, and gained for their author a gold medal from the French institute. His publications include “A View of the Lead-Mines of Missouri, including Observations on the Mineralogy and Geology of Missouri and Arkansas” (New York, 1819); a poem called “Transallelegania, or the Groans of Missouri” (1820); “Journal of a Tour in the Interior of Missouri and Arkansas (1820); “Travels from Detroit to the Sources of the Mississippi with an

Shot Himself in the Head with a Rifle

Was It An Accident or a Suicidal Attempt?

Last night about 11 o'clock, a boarder in the Imperial hotel named B.S. Schorn shot himself in the head, with a new rifle he had purchased, inflicting a bad wound in his forehead, which it is believed by his attending physician, Dr. Stanton, will prove fatal. The guests were startled at the report of the firearm and ran to his room--No. 82--when the unfortunate man was found on the floor with the rifle beside him. On examination it was found that the ball entered above the left eyebrow, taking an upward direction, tearing the skin and flesh and fracturing the skull, and lodged in the ceiling above. Mr. Schorn is about forty years of age, a Dane by birth, and for several years has been employed in the Third Auditor's office, but had been recently without employment. There seems to have been no reason for an act of suicide, and the belief is that it was accidental. The weapon was a repeating rifle, made by Evans, of Mechanic's Falls, Me. He stated to Col. Pierce, a friend, that he was in the act of loading his rifle when the charge exploded. He was alive and conscious at 9 o'clock. Later in the day his condition was thought not to be dangerous.

Died of His Wound

J. Reinold Schorn, who shot himself on the 12th inst., died yesterday at the Imperial hotel. He had been improving since the accident, until last Thursday night, when a relapse took place, and, although everything possible was done by his physician, he sank into a stupor and died. The remains were turned over to W.R. Spear, the undertaker, and the funeral took place this afternoon. As Mr. Schorn has no relatives in this country, his remains will be placed in the vault of the Causten family at the Congressional cemetery until a message can be received from his parents in Cologne, Prussia, of their wishes regarding the disposition of the body. The deceased was 37 years of age, and a great favorite with his fellow clerks. Since the shooting, the mind of the deceased has been so impaired that his friends refrained from talking of the occurrence, and therefore it will never be positively known whether the shooting was accidental, as it is supposed to have been, or a suicide.

Death of Mrs. Schrader

Mrs. Anna Schrader, wife of Mr. Fred. F. Schrader, a popular newspaper man of this city and a member of the Post staff, died at her home, 1325 Vermont avenue, Friday after an illness of several weeks. Up to within a few hours of her death Mrs. Schrader was supposed to be rapidly recovering from a recent dangerous operation. An unlooked-for complication ensued at an early hour Friday morning, however, and despite all efforts she sank rapidly and died at 12:30 o'clock.

Because of unexpected delays en route, the father of Ms. Anna Schrader, his only child, will not reach the city until this evening. Therefore the funeral of Mrs. Schrader has been postponed until 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, from her late residence, 1325 Vermont avenue.

The eldest son, John Christian Schroeder, was given broad musical schooling and adopted the piano. He played in the old Willard Hotel orchestra and conducted the Raleigh Hotel orchestra during the years T.J. Talty was manager of the hotel. Retired from professional music, and since 1888 -- 37 years -- has been assistant secretary of the Washington Safe Deposit Company. I often meet John at lunch and with George Havenner, Ed Hazleton Bradbury Heights, Ed Scanlon, Bill Cross, "Sid" Wallback, Mike Levy and Welby Smallwood, we hold a consortium on affairs of government. The newspapers, commissioners, congress, and the President do not always conform to our decisions and we have thought of asking them to sit at our table and get the right dope on how the country should be run. We would like to hand them some knock-out reasons why the income tax in the higher brackets should be lowered. Every time one of us makes a hundred thousand or so we feel that the tax is heavy.

Funeral Tomorrow of Admiral Schroeder
Retired Naval Officer Passes Away. Had Long and Distinguished Career.

Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, U.S.N., retired, died at the Naval Hospital in this city yesterday afternoon from heart disease, with which he had suffered for many months. He is survived by his widow, two sons, Seaton Shroeder, jr., and Wainwright Schroeder, and three daughters, Sarah F. Shroeder, Joanna A. Shroeder and Mrs. Moulton K. Johnson. For many years the family has resided at 1816 N street. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon and burial will be in the Arlington national cemetery, with the usual military ceremonies.

Son of U.S. Minister
Admiral Schroeder was the son of Francis Schroeder, former United States minister to Sweden, and was born in this city in August 1849. Graduating from the Naval Academy in September, 1868, he served successively with the Pacific fleet, on the Benicia in Chinese waters, on the Pinta in the north Atlantic, on the Swatara, and on the Gettysburg on a special mission in the Mediterranean in 1877-8. He served various details in the hydrographic office, the fish commission and the Navy Department.

Held Various Posts
During 1879-80 he was associated with the late Lieut. Commander H.H. Gorringe, U.S.N., in transporting from its original site in Egypt, the Obelisk now in Central Park, New York city. Later he served on the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius, and the battleship, Massachusetts. He commanded the battleship Virginia and afterward the Louisiana, during the memorable cruise around the world of the Atlantic battleship fleet in 1898-9. He served at the Washington navy yard and in July, 1900 was appointed naval governor of Guam, where he performed efficient service for about two years.

Succeeds Admiral Sperry
In May 1906, he succeeded the late Rear Admiral Sperry in complete command of the Atlantic fleet and served in that capacity until his statutory retirement for age in August, 1911. He was advanced in rank for eminent and conspicuous services in the Spanish-American war. During the world war he was recalled to active duty in the hydrographic office, Navy Department.

Death of John Schultz

Navy Yard Clerk for Past Forty-Five Years

John Schultz, sixty-eight years of age, died suddenly of acute indigestion this morning.

Mr. Schultz had been a clerk at the navy yard for forty-five years. During the same period he had been a member of Naval Lodge, No. 4, F.A.A.M., twenty-five years of that time having served as its secretary. He was also treasurer of Orient Commandery, No. 5 of the Knights Templar, and secretary of Washington Naval Chapter, No. 6, Royal Arch Masons.

He has been practically a life-long resident of this city and was well known in lodge circles. He was also a veteran of the civil war.

We lay thee in the silent tomb,
Sweet blossom for a day;
We just began to view thy bloom.
When thou art called away.

Friendship and love have done their last and now can do no more;
The bitterness of death is passed and all thy sufferings o'er.

Little Elsie was our darling
Pride of all our hearts at home;
And an angel came and whispered,
Little Elsie, do come home.
Oh, think how she suffered and moaned with pain;
In the long night hours we soothed her in vain,
Till God, in his mercy, sent down from above
An angel that whispered a message of love.

Edgar L. Scott Dead

Young Business Man of East Washington Victim of Pneumonia

Edgar L. Scott of southeast Washington died yesterday morning at 9;20 o’clock of pneumonia. He was taken ill a week ago and from the beginning the disease assumed a serious character. Mr. Scott, who was twenty-six years old, was the son of Amanda J. and the late William H. Scott. With his brother he was engaged in the wood and coal business, and his young life ended on the threshold of what promised to be a very successful career. He was one of the best-known young men in East Washington and attracted to himself a host of friends. The news of the fatal termination of his brief illness in death came as a great shock to his friends. Mr. Scott was prominent in Masonic circles, being a member of Anacostia Lodge, No. 21, F.A.A.M.*

Scott, John R.: On Monday morning, June 8, 1891 at his late residence, 472 M street southwest, John R. Scott aged 54 years. Funeral will take place from above number on Thursday at 3 p.m. Friends invited.

The Evening Star, June 10, 1891
Death of Mr. John R. Scott
Mr. John R. Scott died at his residence, 472 M street southwest, on Monday evening, aged 54 years. Mr. Scott was a native of Alexandria, Va., and was in the employment of the old Washington and Alexandria railroad at that place for some years; subsequently was a drawkeeper on the Long bridge, but for about fifteen years had been employed at the depot as a watchman or special officer and in the latter capacity has been favorably known as the obliging officer on the platform of the Baltimore and Potomac railroad. He had, a few weeks ago, an attack of the grip, and this was followed by pneumonia, which caused his death. He was for a long series of years a member of Metropolis Lodge of Odd Fellows. His funeral will take place tomorrow at 3 o'clock.

Scott, John R.: On Monday morning, November 28, 1904 at 7:55 a.m. at the residence of his parents, 1115 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, John R. Scott in the 23rd year of his age, the beloved son of Charles D. and Ella Scott. Funeral from his late residence, Wednesday, November 30 at 2 o'clock p.m. Relatives and friends are invited to attend.

The Evening Star, November 3, 1892
The Funeral of Policeman Scott
The death of Policeman John T. Scott removes from the police force one of the oldest and most faithful men who ever wore the blue uniform and brass buttons. Maj. Moore issued an order to the force making a detail of twenty-four men to attend the funeral. The order also paid a high tribute to the character of the deceased.

The funeral of the deceased officer took place from his late residence on 6th street northeast at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The pallbearers were selected from Harmony Lodge, No. 9, Magenenu Encampment, I.O.O.F., and the police force, of which organizations the deceased was a member.

Revs. W.J. Thompson and Robert Emmons of the Fourth Street Methodist Church conducted the services at the house and the burial services at the cemetery were conducted by the Odd Fellows.

Scrivener, Alice V.

On Wednesday, October 2, 1901, Alice V. Scrivener, daughter of Margaret and the late William B. Scrivener aged 23 years. Funeral from her late residence, 2315 I street northwest, Friday, October 4 at 2 p.m. Friends and relatives invited to attend.

Scrivener, Amanda A.

On Tuesday, June 22, 1897 at 9:30 p.m., Amanda, wife of the late Louis Scrivener. Funeral Thursday, June 24 at 2 p.m. from her late residence, 2315 I street northwest. Relatives and friends invited to attend.

Scrivener, Charles

The United States vs. Charles Scrivener, charged in two cases, with assaulting Mary Ann Scrivener, his wife, in April last, and again in May, having been sent to jail in each case, and being bailed on both commitments. It appeared that Scrivener was in the habit of drinking excessively, abusing his family, disturbing and alarming the neighbors, and on one occasion was stopped in pursuit of his wife with an axe in his hands. This was a common thing with him, and in the two cases under trial his conduct was of the same outrageous character. When sober he was always peaceable but very seldom was he sober. The testimony for the defense also proved the violence of Scrivener when intoxicated, and his good conduct when sober; but represented that the wife and her family was to blame. "They treated him worse than nigger is treated in Washington." He was even harmless when drunk, but harsh and abusive in language; though no one need be afraid of him. The witness was not, himself. The evidence, however, was sufficient to convict, and the jury accordingly pronounced him guilty. At the suggestion of Mr. Radcliffe, counsel for defendant, the court suspended sentence until Monday, to allow of some arrangement being made to secure Scrivener's property to his children, and to take steps for his reformation and restoration to himself and his family. The whole trial exhibited a sad picture of the consequences of over-drinking, and the tantalizing tempers of the women of his household, who did not appear to know how to manage the crazily-inebriated man. Scrivener was sent to jail in the mean time.

Scrivener, Clara May

Miss May Scrivener, who was well known in musical circles in this city about 15 years ago, died in New York City Saturday afternoon, according to word received here today. She is survived by two brothers, Herbert Scrivener, Plaza Apartments, and Louis Scrivener, McLean, Va. Her body was brought here yesterday, and funeral services were held at Wise's undertaking establishment this morning. Interment was in Congressional Cemetery.

Scrivener, Eliza

On May 1, 1894, at 9 p.m., at the residence of her nephew, G.F. Barse, 1920 17th street Anacostia, Mrs. Eliza Scrivner, in the 74th year of her age. "At rest." Funeral from her late residence Thursday, May 3, at 2 p.m. Relatives and friends invited (Baltimore and Calvert county papers please copy).

Sealey. On Tuesday, March 23, 1909, Alexander Sealey of Hotel Stratford. Funeral on Thursday, March 25 at 3 o'clock p.m. from the Congregational Church (Rev. Dr. Fishburn), Columbia road west of 14th street northwest.

The Evening Star, March 23, 1909
After But A Week's Illness
Death of Alexander Sealey of the Hotel Stratford
Succumbs to an Attack of Asthma and to Heart Trouble -- Formerly an Expert Engraver
Alexander Sealey, owner and proprietor of the Hotel Stratford, 14th and Monroe streets northwest, died in the family apartments there this morning at 5:30 o'clock, after an illness of only a week. His demise was due to asthma and heart trouble, from both of which he had suffered for some time. He always seemed to bear up well with all attacks of the trouble until about one week ago, when he was again taken ill. His condition gradually became worse, until the end came this morning. His wife was with him when he died.

Funeral services will be held at the Stratford Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. M. Ross Fishburn, pastor of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, will officiate. The interment will be in Congressional cemetery.

Mr. Sealey was born in New York city sixty years ago. He was a son of Alfred Sealey, said to be one of the best bank note engravers in the country fifty years ago. The son received an offer to become an engraver in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing about thirty years ago, and at once came to this city and took up his residence.

He continued in this position until about ten years ago, when he bought the Hotel Stratford, which had been built by the late Dr. Hammond for a sanitarium.

John L. Seamark Dead
Long Known in Washington as "Original Cough Drop Man"

"Seamark's double X Philadelphia cough drops; for coughs and colds, sore throats and hoarseness."

This cry, which has long been a familiar one on the business thoroughfares of Washington, will be heard no more. John L. Seamark, the original cough drop man, is dead. His death occurred Wednesday at his home 1256 4 1/2 street southwest, at the age of sixty-eight years. His birthplace was in England. His funeral will take place at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the above number. In rain or shine, cold weather or warm; when the winds were soft and balmy, or when they blew fiercely and frigidly from the north, the familiar figure of Seamark, with his big tin box suspended in front of him, could be seen as he passed through the throngs.

John L. Seamark was a man of good qualities and supported his wife and children by tireless efforts. Perhaps some people scoffed at and ridiculed the humble calling of the cough drop man, as with cheerful face he confronted the frosty breath of winter or the sympathetic south breezes, but he had a mission to perform -- the care of his family -- and he was always in earnest and did not mind the idle chaffing of some of the passersby.

There have been several alleged "original cough drop men" in Washington, but John L. Seamark, it is declared, was "the" original one. He had been engaged in the traffic for nearly thirty years and was a familiar figure to old and young in all parts of the District.

When he first started in the business he procured his cough drops from a Philadelphia firm with the understanding that the cough drops were not to be sold to any other person in Washington, for the purpose of conducting a business in opposition to his. What was his surprise, therefore, one night several years ago while making his rounds to be confronted by two other cough drop men, with equipment similar to his and using his cough drops cry. He at once stopped dealing with the Philadelphia company and ever since that time made his own drops, which he called "Seamark's double X cough drops."

On one occasion Seamark met one of the rival cough drops men on F Street. The rival had a bad cold and between cries he would cough violently. His voice was also so hoarse that his cry could hardly be understood. As Seamark passed this fellow he sang out:

"You are a fine advertisement of a bad cold to be selling cough drops. 'Physician, heal thyself.'"

The result was that the rivals became involved in a mix-up and the services of a policeman were required to straighten out the tangle.
Seamark on fair, warm nights when colds were not so prevalent, conducted a stand at 8th street and Market space, where he had a contrivance for testing the lungs and an electric battery, guaranteed to cure nervousness and that "awful after feeling."

_The Washington Times, Saturday, December 31, 1904_

Original Cough Drop Man, John L. Seamark, Is Dead

Funeral Today for Vendor Whose Unique Crying of Wares Made Him a Familiar Figure in Washington

Funeral services for John L. Seamark, the original cough drop vendor of Washington, were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from his residence, 1256 Four-and-a-half Street southwest.

The Rev. Dr. Richard Williams, of Epiphany Church, officiated and interment was at Congressional Cemetery.

The death of Seamark on Wednesday removed one of the quaintest and most familiar characters in Washington. For thirty years his vigorous cry had been heard upon the streets while he walked back and forth through the business section of the city vending his "celebrated cough drops."

Irrespective of the attention which Seamark attracted by the forcible manner in which he cried his wares, he was a noticeable figure in other ways. Medium in height, sturdy of build, with firm step and of sterling lungs, he was a character that would attract attention anywhere.

Despite his sixty-eight years, his eye was keen and reflected a clear brain and intelligent mind. An iron gray Van Dyke beard, which he kept scrupulously clean, was the most striking feature of his appearance.

Attired in clothing more or less shabby, and carrying his cough drops in a tin box slung over his shoulders, Seamark could be found each day during the winter parading the business center of the city. Pedestrians knew of his presence before he had approached within two blocks of them, his penetrating cry echoing for squares around.

"Seamark's celebrated tablets. Five cents a package. P-h-i-l-a-delphia cough drops. Good for coughs or colds," was one variation of his cry which has become as familiar as a popular song to pedestrians along F Street and Pennsylvania Avenue.

Year in and year out the strange chant had been heard on the streets, and, it was not unusual for one to try to mimic Seamark's manner of vending.

As the original cough drop man, Seamark believed himself to hold sole right to the streets as a vender of that article. Once or twice others have attempted to enter his field of business, but their stay has usually been short and unsuccessful.

It is said that Seamark once became engaged in a fistic encounter with a man of about his own age on account of the latter's attempt to infringe his territorial rights.

Seamark was a native of England, but had spent most of his life in this country. He is survived by a widow.

Seaton, Arthur
Seaton. In this city, yesterday morning, Arthur, infant son of William W. Seaton.

Seaton, Augustine
National Intelligencer, January 11, 1836
At Fort Gibson, in the Arkansas Territory, on the 19th day of November last, in the 26th year of his age, Lieutenant Augustine F. Seaton, of the army of the United States, eldest son of William W. Seaton, Esq., of Washington, D.C. His deeply afflicted Parents have been thus called to mourn over their first born, the pride, the joy, the hope of their lives. His premature decease is scarcely less mourned by a circle of affectionate relatives, and numerous friends, to whom his manly virtues, his purity of morals, and his amiable temper endeared him.

He died, says the Official Report of his death, "after a long illness, contracted in the execution of his duty, while on command in the Prairies last Summer; an officer of much promise and greatly esteemed, and who bid fair to become an ornament to his profession."

"We should but increase the poignancy of your grief," say a committee of officers of the Post, in announcing the sad event to his Parents, "were we to dwell upon the graces of his person, the accomplishments of his mind, the attaching social qualities of your Son."

Such is the universal language of those who knew him, and such, with his unspotted fame, the only consolation to his Parents for his death, at a far distance from them, of disease contracted in the most zealous and faithful discharge of duty, in a description of public service which has, in proportion to numbers, been more fatal to life, from the dangers of climate and circumstance, than the bloodiest battle-field.

Child Found Dead In Crib In Bethesda
Six-month-old Charles R. Seaton, jr. of 219 Melrose avenue, Bethesda, Md. was found dead in his crib this morning by his mother. The Bethesda rescue squad was summoned but was unable to revive the child, which was pronounced dead by Dr. J.G. Ball. Death was believed due to suffocation but an autopsy will be held today according to Montgomery Co. police.

Malcolm Seaton Dead
Was Long Identified With the Patent Office
Expired at Marblehead Neck, Mass. After Brief Illness --
Prominent in Masonic Circles

Malcolm Seaton, examiner in the patent office, who has been connected with that branch of the government service since 1866, died at Marblehead Neck, Mass., Tuesday. Mr. Seaton was 75 years of age, and had long been a member of several branches of the Masonic order of the city. He leaves a wife, one son and a daughter. He had been visiting the Massachusetts coast during the summer, and was ill but a short time.

The funeral will occur tomorrow at 4 o'clock p.m. from Trinity P.E. Church. The members of the family are at the residence of Capt. Seaton Schroeder, U.S.N., 1816 N street.

Mr. Seaton was a past grand master of the Grand Lodge of Masons of the District of Columbia, and that body will officiate at the funeral. He was also a member of the Scottish Rite for the southern jurisdiction of the United States.

Malcolm Seaton was a son of the late William Winston Seaton, himself worshipful master of Lebanon Lodge, No. 7, of this jurisdiction for seven years, and grand master of the Masons of the District of Columbia for the years 1821, 1822 and 1823, and one of the leading citizens of Washington, having served as mayor of the city during its government as a municipality from 1840 to 1850. The father was also editor of the National Intelligencer until his retirement from business in 1865.

Born in Washington

Mr. Seaton was born in Washington, May 12, 1829, and received his education in the private schools of this city, at Alexandria and at Kingsley's Military School, near West Point, N.Y. In 1848 he was appointed an aide in the United States coast survey, under Prof. Alexander Dallas Bache. In 1850 he resigned to accept the position of assistant engineer in the boundary commission to run the line between the United States and Mexico under the treaty of Guadaloupe Hidalgo, serving in that capacity until the last stake was driven at the mouth of the Rio Grande in 1853, he having worked in the interval on the line from New Mexico to California, thence back to El Paso and through Mexico.

In 1853 he was reappointed an assistant in the coast survey, but his health having failed from exposure in the swamps of Louisiana and Texas, he accepted a position, October 26, 1860, in the census office, which position he held until the work on the census was finished in July 1866, when he was transferred to the United States patent office, his commission bearing the date, August 1, 1866. In this office he advanced through the several grades of assistant examiners, and in July, 1880, was appointed chief clerk of the bureau, and on October 1, 1882, was promoted to the grade of principal examiner.

Funeral of Malcolm Seaton

Services to Be Held Under Masonic Auspices This Afternoon

Funeral services over the remains of Malcolm Seaton, principal examiner in the patent office, who died at Marblehead, Mass., Tuesday, will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Trinity P.E. Church. The body reached this city yesterday morning, and was taken to the residence of Capt. Seaton Schroeder, United States navy, 1816 N street northwest, where the members of the family are staying.

Mr. Seaton was a past grand master of the Grand Lodge of Masons of the District of Columbia, and the funeral is in charge of that body. A meeting was held at Masonic Temple at 3 o'clock for the announcement of pallbearers and the completion of other arrangements.

Mr. Seaton leaves a wife and no children. He was born in this city May 12, 1829, and received his education in the private schools of this city, at Alexandria and at Kingsley's Military School, near West Point, N.Y. In 1848 he was appointed an aide in the United States coast survey, under Prof. Alexander Dallas Bache. In 1850 he resigned to accept the position of assistant engineer in the boundary commission to run the line between the United States and Mexico under the treaty of Guadaloupe Hidalgo, serving in that capacity until the last stake was driven at the mouth of the Rio Grande in 1853, he having worked in the interval on the line from New Mexico to California, thence back to El Paso and through Mexico.

In 1853 he was reappointed an assistant in the coast survey, but his health having failed from exposure in the swamps of Louisiana and Texas, he accepted a position, October 26, 1860, in the census office, which position he held until the work on the census was finished in July 1866, when he was transferred to the United States patent office, his commission bearing the date, August 1, 1866. In this office he advanced through the several grades of assistant examiners, and in July, 1880, was appointed chief clerk of the bureau, and on October 1, 1882, was promoted to the grade of principal examiner.

Kenton N. Harper, History of the Grand Lodge, 1911

p. 388-389: Grand Master, 1902
This Brother, the son of the late William Winston Seaton, Grandmaster during the years 1821, 22, and 24, was born in Washington City, District of Columbia, May 12, 1829. He received his education in the private schools of the city of his birth, with the exception of the time he was a pupil in Benjamin Hallowell’s school of Alexandria, Va., and a student of Capt. Kingsley’s military school on the Hudson River near West Point.

In 1848 he was appointed an aid in the United States Coast Survey, the distinguished scientist, Prof. Alexander Dallas Bache, at that time being its superintendent. In 1850 he resigned to accept the position of Assistant Engineer in the Boundary Commission to run the line between the United States and Mexico, under the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, and served in that capacity until the last stake was driven at the mouth of the Rio Grande in 1853, having in the meantime worked upon the line from New Mexico to California, returning across the country to El Paso, and thence down through Mexico to Camargo on the Rio Grande.

In 1853 he was reappointed as assistant in the Coast Survey, but his health failing from exposure to the swamps in Louisiana and Texas, he accepted a position October 26, 1860, in the clerical force of the United States Census, which position he held until the work on the Census was finished in July, 1866, when he was transferred to the U.S. Patent Office, his commission bearing date August 1, 1866. In this office he advanced through the several grades of assistant examiners, and in July, 1880 was appointed chief clerk of the bureau, and on October 1, 1882, was promoted to the grade of principal examiner, which position he held during the remainder of his life.

Bro. Seaton was made a Master Mason, November 7, 1867, in Columbia Lodge, No. 3, of this jurisdiction, and on removing his residence to Georgetown, D.C. (now West Washington), he affiliated with Potomac Lodge, No. 5, of that city. He was elected Senior Warden of that lodge in 1889, and in 1890 was elected its Worshipful Master. In 1892 he was elected Junior Grand Steward of the Grand Lodge, and successively passed through the several chairs, and was elected December 4 and installed December 27, 1901, as M.W. Grand Master. This position he filled with signal ability, dignity, and grace. He exacted a strict adherence to constitutional provisions, the ancient landmarks, customs, and usage's, and observance of fraternal courtesies; his dignified and courtly bearing always commanded respect and deference; his suavity of manner made it always a pleasure to approach him and be in his society, and his choice of language and grace of expression always insured him an attentive audience.

Bro. Seaton was also a member of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States, in which he had taken eighteen degrees. He was a member of Orient Lodge of Perfection, No. 2, until it surrendered its charter in December 1902, and was later a member of Mithras Lodge of Perfection, No. 1, and also of Evangelist Chapter Rose Croix, A.A.S.R., located in the city of Washington.

The latter years of his life were years of suffering, which culminated in his death September 6, 1904, at Marblehead, Mass., whither he had gone but a short time before in the hope that the change might prove beneficial.

The Late W.W. Seaton

The decease of W.W. Seaton has caused the most profound grief in this community where he was universally known and beloved and expressions of regret reach us from every quarter. The Corporation offices in the City Hall are closed today and the schools are dismissed.

The Evening Star, March 5, 1880

Last of the Old Seaton Mansion

A building permit has been issued by Mr. Entwisle, the inspector of buildings, to Ed. Abner for the construction of a hall and lager beer garden on E between 7th and 8th streets northwest. The site for this garden is the old Seaton mansion, which is now being torn down. This fine old brick mansion, with wide hall, ample parlors and other apartments, and garden in the rear, has been historic for over half a century as the residence of Ex-Mayor W.W. Seaton, one of the proprietors of the National Intelligencer, and associate editor with Mr. Joseph Gales. It was the resort of all the notable people who visited Washington, and where most generous hospitality was dispensed. It is said that President Harrison, who was the guest of Mr. Seaton, used the northeast chamber of the second story for the preliminary meetings of his Cabinet before his inauguration. Mrs. Seaton superintended the management of the garden, and each of the distinguished persons who were visitors contributed a fruit tree. Mr. Calhoun's pear tree was long noted in city pomology. Mr. Webster sent a New England apple tree, Mr. Clay an apricot tree, Mr. Benton a cherry tree, Mr. Alex. Porter, of La., a fig tree, Silas Wright a plum tree, and other Senators other trees and thus the garden was planted by senatorial hands.

The School Memorial to W.W. Seaton

The Benefit Performance Tomorrow Night

The pupils and ex-pupils of the high school will present the play of Julius Caesar at the National Theater tomorrow (Thursday) night. The process of the performance will be their contribution towards erecting a monument to the late W.W. Seaton, esq., whose name, as a co-editor of the National Intelligencer, mayor of Washington, and prominently a friend of the public schools, is a household word among our older citizens and persons interested in our school system. An entertainment of this or a similar character is the only way in which the young people can testify their interest in the enterprise and they deserve every encouragement for their appreciation of one whose efforts in their behalf antedated their births, and the object forcibly commends itself to our readers. We are informed that the performance will be much better than the average dramatic efforts; that Miss M.K. Schreiner and Mr. Thad. K. Sailer have been untiring in their instruction in the elocutionary and managerial departments; that the amateur orchestra contains superior musical talent, and that the "Lawrence Barrett Dramatic Club" has among its members amateurs of pronounced ability.

Perley's Reminiscences, pp. 56

Colonel William Winstead Seaton, was by trade a printer, and his generous hand was ever ready to aid those of his fellow-craftsmen who were in destitute circumstances--indeed, the superannuated composers of the 'National Intelligencer' always received "half pay." Coming here when Washington was only just "staked out," he was honorably identified with the growth of Washington City, and his administration as Mayor is favorably spoken of by the citizens of all classes and parties.

Grand Master, 1822-24

Brother Seaton was born January 11, 1785, at Chelsea, Va., and was a lineal descendant through his father of one of the oldest and most historic families of Scotland, and through his mother of an equally illustrious English family, that of Winston, both of which settled in Virginia in the latter part of the seventeenth century, and were prominently identified with the early history of the Colonies.

His youth was passed at the ancestral home where a domestic tutor directed his education until he reached in Richmond what was then the culminating academic polishing of "Ogilvie, the Scotchman," a pedagogue of great reputation at that period. The great Patrick Henry was a near-relative and frequent guest at the Virginia home, and very fond of young Seaton, directing his early sports and giving him the rich benefit of his companionship.
At the age of 18 Bro. Seaton's mind was matured, his ambition aroused, his vocation decided, and he passed into the arena of public life, entering with manly earnestness upon the career of political journalism, of which he was one of the country's pioneers. His first essay in the field of politics was as assistant editor of the "Richmond Journal." This was followed in the next few years by editorial work in Petersburg, Va., Raleigh, N.C., and Halifax, N.C. At Raleigh, to which place he returned after a short absence, he became associated with Mr. Joseph Gales in the publication of the "Register," and in 1809 became united in marriage with Miss Sarah Gales, sister of the above-named. In 1812 the firm of Gales & Seaton acquired "The National Intelligencer and Washington Advertiser," which had lately been founded, and Bro. Seaton entered upon what proved to be his life work, his journal proving at once a financial success and for many years a powerful factor in the national political world.

During the War of 1812 Bro. Seaton and his partner were both enrolled in the military service and were stationed for some time at Fort Warburton, the present site of Fort Washington, and was with his command when it met the British at Bladensburg, August 24, 1814, and took a conspicuous part in the sharp engaged that ensued. In Admiral Cockburn's passage through the city he caused the "Intelligencer" office to be sacked and all the property, books, and papers to be burned.

An intimate of Jefferson, Marshall, Aaron Burr, Patrick Henry, LaFayette, Daniel Webster, and practically all the prominent men of the country during his adult life, his prolonged career was interwoven with the social and political annals of Washington.

While his great intellect was directed toward the shaping of the national policies of his day he was yet an active and valued citizen of his adopted city, and served as Mayor from 1840 to 1850, having previously twice declined the honor.

He was an ardent worker in the cause of education and was untiring in his efforts to improve local school conditions.

In religion he was Unitarian and was one of the founders of that church in Washington. He was also one of the founders of the Washington Monument Association and its first vice-president.

While the great novelist, Charles Dickens, was in this country he was entertained by Bro. Seaton, and in the raciness and charm of manner, in the genial goodness stamped on every lineament of his countenance this keen reader must have seen the lovable man, and the immortal Cherryble Brothers might seem to have been inspired by the subject of this sketch and his partner, so nearly akin in every gentle characteristic.

His genial cordiality, his captivating courtesy, his large hospitality and readiness of beneficence had few equals, and won the individual affection of all with whom he came in contact. These qualities, united with his great personal charm, his full intelligence and the seal of distinction with which nature had stamped him, marked him out from his fellow-men, and it was but natural that on all civic public occasions, whether it was an address of welcome to an incoming President or to speed a parting one, to inaugurate benevolent institutions or to assume the more delicate and gracious task of presiding at social festivals, that he should be called upon, and thus upon the occasion of the sojourn of Lafayette to this country, the special charge of the nation's guest seemed by tacit consent to devolve upon Bro. Seaton, and how well he discharged this duty is testified by the life-long friendship then formed with our distinguished French ally.

Through an unfortunate combination of circumstances growing out of the war, the "Intelligencer" lost ground, and on December 31, 1864, Bro. Seaton retired from active connection therewith, after an unprecedented term of service of 52 years. His great generosity, however, had interfered with his accumulating a competence in that time, and in his own words he retired "with nothing."

For 20 years, Bro. Seaton gave unsparringly of his time and talents for the upbuilding of symbolic Masonry in this jurisdiction, and, falling as this activity did, within the most trying period in the history of the Fraternity, the value of his services cannot be too highly rated. While his original lodge is not a matter of available record his connection with the local Craft began with his affiliation with Lebanon Lodge, No. 7, January 20, 1815. He was elected Senior Warden the following year, and served as Master, 1818 to 1821, and again from 1825 to 1827. During the interim between these terms he served as Grand Master for 1822, 1823, and 1824. He withdrew from active participation in Masonic affairs in 1836.

It is worthy of note that his son, Malcolm Seaton, also served as Grand Master of this jurisdiction in 1902.

At the patriarchal age of 81, after several years of severe suffering, which he bore with patience and fortitude, he passed away June 16, 1866.
"And thus," in the language of one of his biographers, "undimmed by a single unworthy act, in every word and thought of his spotless life a true gentleman, duty his watchword, exalted honor his instinct, Christianity his guide, William Winston Seaton bore his historic name untarnished to the grave; nobly illustrating the legend of his family arms; 'In via virtuti via nulla.'"

Smithsonian Institution

Yesterday being the day appointed for the annual meeting of the Regents of the Smithsonian Institution, the Board assembled at 12 o'clock at the Institution Building.

    Present:  Hon. Millard Fillmore, Chancellor
              Hon. Jefferson Davis
              Hon. James M. Mason,
              Hon. H.W. Hilliard,
              Hon. Richard Rush,
              Gen. J.G. Totten,
              W.W. Seaton

The Secretary, Professor Henry, made, pro forma, a report of the operations of the Institution during the past year.

Mr. Seaton, from the Executive Committee, made in like manner a report of the disbursements of the Institution during the past year, the state of the funds, and a fiscal plan for the ensuing year.

General Totten, from the Building Committee, reported in like manner the progress of the building, and the proceedings of the committee in regard to the buildings and grounds during the past year.

There being two vacancies in the Board, which were expected to be filled in the course of a few days, the Board transacted no further business than to go through the edifice

Mrs. Carrie Sebring Dies; Widow of Ex-Police Aide

Mrs. Carrie H. Sebring, 84, of 5320 Colorado avenue N.W., widow of Francis A. Sebring, for many years chief clerk of the Police Court, died yesterday at Sibley Hospital after a month's illness.

Mrs. Sebring, a native of Abia, Iowa, came to Washington at the age of 12 with her parents. She married Mr. Sebring, a prominent Mason and Police Court employee for 40 years in 1883. Mr. Sebring died seven years ago.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Stephen O. Ford and Mrs. George P. Plummer, both of Washington.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Monday at the Hines funeral home. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Sebring, Police Court Clerk For Last 30 Years, Dies at 77

Francis A. Sebring, 77, clerk of Police Court for the last 30 years, who would have been retired March 1, died today at his home, 5320 Colorado avenue, after an illness of two months.

Mr. Sebring, who had been confined to his home by illness since early in December, asked to be retired in a letter addressed to Presiding Judge John P. McMahon last month. His request, made because of poor health, was approved and Walter F. Bramhall has been appointed as his successor, to take office March 1. William A. Norgren is acting chief clerk.

Retirement of Mr. Sebring, who had been an employe of the court more than 40 years, was blocked in 1932 when Police Court judges interceded in his behalf and obtained special orders from President Hoover waiving terms of the economy act in his case.

Praised by Judges

In asking that he be retained in office beyond the retirement age fixed in the act, the judges said in their request to the President that Mr. Sebring's "capability, sound judgment and energy and capacity for work has not been diminished because of his age"

President Hoover granted a 30-day extension in office and later a further extension was granted under which he had held office up to the time of his final illness.

The judges paid high tribute to the veteran court clerk in their request of 1932.

"Under his progressive regime" they said, "the system in vogue in the Police Court is well above the average found in other jurisdictions. In view of the splendid organization which he has built up and his ability to handle difficult situations, which constantly arise, and his thorough knowledge of all precedents and retentive memory relating thereto, which are of inestimable value to the judges, his retention is therefore considered vital to the interests of the general public and to the judges of this court."

Refused Vacations

The judges cited the fact that he had been absent from his desk because of illness only twice in his long term of service -- during the World War, when he was a victim of the influenza epidemic, and in 1919, when he was run down by an automobile. For many years he refused to take vacations.

Mr. Sebring was prominent in Masonic affairs. He was a thirty-third degree Mason, past master of Temple-Noyes Lodge, past potentate of Almas Temple of the Shrine, past high priest of Mount Vernon Chapter, Scottish Rite, and past commander of Columbia Commandery, Knights Templar.

Born in Chatfield, Minn., Mr. Sebring came to Washington as a young man, after having been admitted to the bar in North Dakota. He was graduated from the University of Rochester in 1886. He was personal page to James G. Blain during part of Blaine's service in the House and then worked for the Census Bureau and the Treasury Department before going to Police Court 43 years ago.

Collected Autographs

For 60 years Mr. Sebring had collected autographs of eminent American statesmen which fill a volume of more than 100 pages. He began the hobby in 1876 when he was a page in the House and obtained the signatures not only of all members of the Congress of that period but practically all the notable Capitol figures of the day, even of the justices of the Supreme Court. Resident Grant and his cabinet members all signed. All of the Presidents since Grant have signed. His book has been sought for years by collectors of Americana.

Mr. Sebring is survived by his widow, Mrs. Carrie H Sebring; two daughters, Mrs. Stephen O. Ford of this city and Mrs. George P. Plummer of Rockville, Md., and by two sisters, Mrs. Celia Sebring Knoeppel of Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. Libbie Doremus of Newton Center, Mass.

Funeral services wil be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the home, with interment in Congressional Cemetery.

St. John's Rector to Conduct Funeral Service for Police Court Clerk

Funeral services for Francis A. Sebring, 77, clerk of Police Court for the last 30 years, who died yesterday at his home, 5320 Colorado avenue, after a two-month illness, will be held at his house tomorrow at 2 p.m. Rev. Oliver J. Hart, rector of St. John's Church, will officiate.

Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery, where both church and Masonic blue lodge services will be conducted. Eight Masonic pallbearers will serve, two being from Temple-Noyes Lodge, of which Mr. Sebring was past master, Collin Guy and Adolphe Gude. He was a thirty-third degree Mason.

An employe of the court for more than 40 years, Mr. Sebring would have been retired March 1 in recognition of a request made by him to Presiding Judge John P. McMahon last month.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Carrie H Sebring; two daughters, Mrs. Stephen O. Ford of this city and Mrs. George P. Plummer of Rockville, Md., and two sisters, Mrs. Celia Sebring Knoeppel of Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. Libbie Doremus of Newton Center, Mass.

Funeral of William L. Selby

The funeral of William L. Selby of Southeast Washington took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. George Tait, 421 15th street southeast. The deceased was in his sixty-sixth year. He was regarded as a highly charitable man; had been a life-long resident of the District, and was employed at various times under the general government. At the time of his death he was an employee of the District government, working on the parks, where he had been for the last five years. Mr. Selby was thoroughly familiar with agricultural pursuit and was a true lover of nature. It is said of him that he never used an oath nor ill-treated a dumb animal. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. L.H. Lamar, pastor of Wilson Memorial M.E. Church. He leaves three sons and two daughters.

In Memoriam

Mary Elizabeth Selden was born on the banks of James river, in the state of Virginia, in the year 1809. Left an orphan at an early age she was the ward of John Tyler (after President of the United States) until her marriage to James M. Selden, also of Virginia. During the fifty years of her widowhood (for her husband died in 1847) she devoted herself unceasingly to her children, and impressed upon them her unusual character and exalted standard. Her example of perfect faith encouraged and exhorted them, as was also the unvarying cheerfulness which made her to the end a sunbeam in her home, and sympathetic companion to the youngest in it. Thus was she made, and thus did she grow, in faith, and charity and patience. Her life, which expired on the 24th of April, was remarkable, not only for the years that it numbered, but for the triumph, which changed trials of the body into victories of the soul and all the misfortunes of time into riches of eternity. Her life had been passed not without toil and tears, and yet was not made weary by the toil nor bitter by the tears, but, on the contrary, deemed only ennobled by the strain and sweetened by the sorrows of her pilgrimage. Year after year had departed from her, but her joy and her hope, her faith and her charity, did not depart. The children and the children's children, whom she had created and blessed by her love, blessed her in return with their own. This was the sweet reward of the habit of good will, of her charity of nature, as of a soul benevolent by birth. No need came in her presence or to her knowledge without exciting in her the longing and the care to relieve it. As the shadow of evening drew around the sunset of this life we could see the stars of evening already in her sky. The flowers upon her bier, which lay afterward like a coverlid upon her grave, were but a copy of the fragrance which her life exhaled. Thus she fell at last into the lap of her mother earth, like the mellowed fruit of all her eight and eighty years.

Beautiful was the 24th of April, with all the beauty of spring and the year's fresh birth. But a rarer beauty gathered around the human life which went out with the dying day. Kind and genial was the life's morning, and sweet the new life imparted as it ascended to the noble purity of noon; and fair, most fair, the parting grace of one who threw the touches of her tenderness on every fleck in the sky, every pain of the flesh, and by kindling these with the light of her own spirit, made them agents of immortality.

Death of a Venerable Citizen

The announcement of the death of Col. Wm. Selden, which took place yesterday, on M street, near 12th, was received with sorrow by his many friends and acquaintances in this District. Col. Selden was born in Norfolk, Va., in 1790, and came here in the latter part of President Van Buren's administration, and in '38 or '39 was appointed Treasurer of the United States, succeeding Hon. John Campbell, who resigned on account of ill health. He proved to be such an upright, conscientious officer that his services were retained by the succeeding administrations -- Tyler's, Polk's, and during a part of Taylor's. He resigned in November, 1850, and shortly afterwards took an interest in the banking firm of Selden, Withers & Co., succeeding R.W. Latham & Co. In 1857 he was appointed by President Buchanan U.S. marshal of this District, succeeding Major J.D. Hoover. This position he held until 1861 -- Marshal Lamon succeeding him. During President Johnson's administration he was appointed collector of internal revenue for the Norfolk, Va., district, but in consequence of advanced years and failing health he held it but a few months. Col. Selden was a man of upright character, a communicant of the Episcopal Church for many years, and leaves behind him a spotless reputation, of which his children may well feel proud.

His funeral will take place from the Church of the Incarnation, 12th and N streets, on Friday afternoon, at two o'clock.

The Evening Star, May 2, 1874

The funeral of the late Col. William Selden took place yesterday afternoon from the Church of the Incarnation, corner of 12th and N streets, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. Rev. John H. Elliott, associate rector of the Church of the Ascension, officiated, and after the services the cortège proceeded to the Congressional cemetery, where the interment was made. The remains were enclosed in a handsome walnut casket with silver moldings and bar-handles, the lid of which bore the inscription, "William Selden, born January 31, 1791; died April 28, 1874," and it was profusely decked with floral garlands, crosses and wreaths. The pall-bearers were Senator J.W. Johnston, Wm. S. Mitchell, W. Bell, Senator J.W. Stevenson, Thomas Green and Conway Robinson.

Death of John H. Semmes

A Native of the District, Where He Lived All His Life
Once Prominent in Business Circles and Identified With the Movements That Advanced the City.

Mr. John Harrison Semmes died shortly before noon today at his residence at Chevy Chase. Mr. Semmes had been seriously ill ever since he suffered an attack of vertigo and fell on Pennsylvania avenue a couple of weeks ago. His head was cut and an attack of paralysis followed. His system, weakened by age and constant exertion, could not withstand the strain, and his death had been expected to occur at any time.

He was seventy-five years old, and was born in Georgetown, his father settling there after immigration from England. His father's brother was Admiral Raphael Semmes of the navy.

For many years Mr. Semmes was one of the most prominent and active businessmen in Washington, and was connected with nearly every enterprise looking to the advancement of the city. He was the builder and long-time owner of the Seaton House, on Louisiana avenue, afterward occupied by the city post office, and was for years the head of the important grocery firm of John H. Semmes & Co., located at 9th street and Pennsylvania avenue. He was a man of most rigid conscientiousness in all his dealings. Business reverses overtook him, but he never relinquished his energy or purpose, and up to the time of his recent sickness attended to his affairs with all the zeal of one half his age.

Every morning in summer he would leave Chevy Chase at 6 o'clock, and in the winter at a few minutes past that hour, and this custom he kept up to the day of his accident. He leaves a widow and three daughters, Miss Semmes, Mrs. Leon Dessez and Mrs. Colhoun. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed, but it will take place Monday, at the interment will be in Congressional cemetery.

The Washington Post, January 8, 1898, p. 7
John Harrison Semmes Dead

Passing of Prominent Figure from Circle of Older Business Men

One of the most prominent and active of the older business men of Washington, Mr. John Harrison Semmes, died yesterday shortly before noon at his residence at Chevy Chase. About two weeks ago Mr. Semmes succumbed to an attack of vertigo and fell on Pennsylvania avenue. His head was severely cut and an attack of paralysis ensued. To such a strain his system, weakened by advanced age, and constant exertion, proved unequal, and his death had been half expected at any time since the accident.

The deceased was born in Georgetown seventy-five years ago, his father having settled there after migrating from England. His father's brother was Admiral Raphael Semmes, of the Confederate Navy. For many years Mr. Semmes has been identified with every movement that had for its object the improvement of Washington. In business he was as conscientious as he was successful, and the business house of which he was the head, the grocery firm of John H. Semmes & Co., was for years the most important in the city. Financial reverses overtook him after his retirement from active commercial life, but did not daunt him, for up to the time of the accident which led to his death, Mr. Semmes devoted himself to his private business affairs with all the devotion that marked the earlier years of his life.

A widow and three daughters, Miss Semmes, Mrs. Leon Dessez, and Mrs. Calhoun, survive him. Services will be held at the late residence, Monday at 11 o'clock. The interment will be in Congressional Cemetery and will be private.

The Evening Star, January 3, 1898
Illness of John H. Semmes

Mr. John Harrison Semmes is lying serious ill at his residence in Chevy Chase, and, owing to his advanced age, his recovery is believed to be doubtful. Mr. Semmes was born in Georgetown 75 years ago, his father, who was a brother of the famous Admiral Raphael Semmes, having emigrated from England and settled there. Mr. Semmes, in spite of his advanced age, has preserved an active interest in everyday affairs and attended to his business interests with all the zeal and energy which characterized his early years. Christmas day he came into the city and was waiting for a car on Pennsylvania avenue and 10th street when he was seized with an attack of vertigo. He fell to the pavement and cut a severe gash over his right eye. This wound was sewed up at the Emergency Hospital, whence Mr. Semmes returned to his suburban home. He did not appear to be very much the worse for his injury, and spent the evening with his family, retiring to bed at his usual hour. Sunday morning it was found that he was in a very precarious condition. He was unconscious. He was first visited by Dr. J.D. Morgan, and is now under the charge of Dr. Cuthbert. The injury received Christmas day caused a severe shock to his already weakened system, and, in addition, symptoms of paralysis were apparent. Mr. Semmes rallied slightly Friday night under the effects of nitroglycerine, and was conscious next morning. Mrs. Semmes, Miss Semmes, Mrs. Calhoun and Mrs. Dessez, the children of Mr. Semmes, are in attendance upon him.

The Evening Star, March 24, 1861

Fire

Yesterday afternoon, between three and four o'clock, fire broke out in the roof of the back kitchen attached to the premises owned by Mr. John H. Semmes, and occupied by Mr. A.W. Burch, in Ninth street, opposite the western end of the Centre Market. It seems that a person who lives next door to the place fired went out on the roof in question with a small cooking furnace, with which he proceeded to do some cooking. The wind was blowing a small hurricane at the time, and the concern was capsized upon the tar and gravel roof, and in a minute or two the blaze burst forth. The Franklin engine was soon on the spot and at work, and by the efforts of its members the fire was confined to the kitchen, which it partially destroyed before it was extinguished. Mr. Burch is of the opinion that his neighbor had better do his cooking on his own premises in future.

The late John Sessford, who had identified himself for many years with the progress of our city, and was universally esteemed in this community, was buried yesterday. The funeral services were held in the East Baptist church, ,and the ceremonies were of a most impressive and solemn character. Prayer was first offered by Rev. Dr. Samson; after which Rev. John C. Smith read the 10th Psalm. A sermon was then preached by Rev. Dr. Hill, from the text: “He was a good man and just.” A large number of the friends of the deceased and his family were present, including several veterans of 1812 and many Government clerks.

Joseph Sessford Dead
Widely Known and Generally Popular Washingtonian
Prominent for Many Years in Local Theatrical Circles -- Sketch of His Life.
Mr. Joseph Stevenson Sessford of the National Museum died yesterday at his residence, No. 147 Carroll street southeast, after an illness of two months. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock p.m. Monday and interment will be made in Congressional cemetery.

Mr. Sessford was born in Washington sixty-seven years ago and had resided here continuously since. His parents came to the District in 1820, from Newcastle, England, but were originally Scotch, the family being prominent in Roxburgh, just across the English border. He became popular early in life and continued so until the end. His tall, spare figure -- he was six feet five inches in height -- was a familiar one to Washingtonians and his genial disposition, charitable nature and fund of pleasant anecdote made him generally liked and assured of welcome wherever he went.

Interesting Theatrical Experience.

Previous to entering the government service in the National Museum, which was about twenty years ago, Mr. Sessford was prominently identified with several of the local theaters in responsible positions. He was the assistant treasurer of the old Washington Theater, then a leading playhouse, that was formerly Carusi's saloon and is now the Lyceum Theater, and during the war took the same position with Ford's Theater on 10th street and was in the box office the night that John Wilkes Booth shot President Lincoln. His last theatrical connection was with the National, from which he retired to take the place he held at the time of his death.

Wide Acquaintance With Actors

Few men had a wider acquaintance with the leading actors of the last and previous generations than Mr. Sessford, and his memory was replete with stories and anecdotes about all of them, from the elder Booth and Forrest down to John T. Raymond and the later comers. The news of his death caused general expression of sorrow throughout the city when it became known.

Mr. Sessford is survived by a widow, Mrs. Sarah Weedon Sessford, who was the daughter of H. Alexander Weedon, who ran the line of stage coaches from the navy yard to Georgetown before street cars were established in Washington, and by three sons, Dr. Joseph S.F. Sessford, H.W. Sessford and C.E. Sessford. He was one of the early members of the Knights of Pythias, joining that order shortly after its establishment in this city by Justus H. Rathbone and one of the few surviving members of the original Damon Lodge.

Outrageous Assault

Mr. J.S. Sessford, the treasurer of the theatre, was assaulted on the night before last, at the restaurant of Mr. Hancock, by a party of rowdies, a part of whom were Washingtonians, and a part from Alexandria. He had stepped in there to see a gentleman, and while standing in the bar room was assaulted and struck several times by a man named Burch, who stood facing him, and at the same time he received several blows from some four others who were in the rear. Desirous to avoid a reencounter at such fearful odds, he backed out of the place as soon as possible, without endeavoring to defend himself. We understand he has caused warrants to be issued for the arrest of these scape-graces.

Supposed Suicide

Last night, Lewellyn Seibert, a cabinet maker, aged 26 years was found dead in his work shop on 12th street, between H street and New York avenue. Sergeant Brosnan with Privates Bryan and Slater took charge of the body, until the arrival of the coroner, who ordered. Its removal to the residence of the parents of the deceased, on H street, near 12th. It was first thought that death was caused by the heat, but there is now some reason to believe that Seibert committed suicide. He was in the 6th precinct police station on Saturday for safe keeping and while there made several attempts to take his life, but was prevented by the promptness of the officers in putting hand-cuffs on him.

The Evening Star, July 20, 1876

Local News

It is now stated that the sudden death of Mr. Lewellyn Seybirth, cabinet maker as mentioned in yesterday's Star resulted from congestion of the brain superinduced by the heat and not suicide.

Shaaff. On Friday, at his seat in this District, Dr. John T. Shaaff; a Physician of celebrity, and a gentleman of high standing in society. It is seldom that, within so short a space, so many valuable men have been lost to a community as small as ours.

Debts due by me as administrator of my late brother Arthur Shaaff to be paid.

To son Arthur Shaaff, chest of plate deposited in the Fredericktown branch bank, gold watch chain and seals; gold sleeve buttons, gold headed cane, all books and arms that belonged to my late brother Arthur Shaaff.

To son John Thomas Shaaff, my gold watch chain and seals; my gold headed cane; gold sleeve buttons, my medical library, and surgical instruments.

To wife Mary Shaaff, my carriage and pair of bay horses, my coachman Paul, a slave for life and the breakfast service of plate now in use.

Residue to be equally divided between six children: Margaretta Jane Shaaff, Arthur Shaaff, Ann Shaaff, Mary Shaaff, Chas. Sydebotham Shaaff and John Thos. Shaaff.

It is my will that Plato, the confidential servant of my late brother should be manumitted and set at free liberty at the period my son Arthur Shaaff arrives at age, and receive $100 as a mark of my respect for his integrity and good conduct.

History of the Medical Society of D.C., 1811-1909
Born 1753, Frederick Co., Md. Probably not M.D.; Licentiate Med. and Chirurg. Faculty, Md. Incorporator of the Medical Society under the first charter. Died April 28, 1819. One of the founders of the Med. and Chirurg. Faculty; its Treasurer, 1799-1801; member of "Governor's Council" of Maryland, 1798-1800. Said to have been an alumnus of Univ. of Edinburgh, Scotland. Married Mary Sydebotham, of Bladensburg, Md., June 29, 1807, a public meeting was held at Annapolis, to denounce the attack of the British Frigate "Leopard" upon the U.S. Ship "Chesapeake," on June 22d off Norfolk, and to "support such measures as should be adopted by the Government." Dr. Shaaff was one of a committee of twelve, including the Governor of the State, "to carry out the resolutions." See Cordell's Med. Annals of Maryland, 1903, p. 564.

The head of the Shaaff family, Dr. John T. Shaaff, a graduate of the University of Edinburgh, died in 1819 and was described by the Daily National Intelligencer as "a physician of celebrity and a gentleman of high standing in society."

Arthur, one of Ann's brothers, married Mary Forsyth, daughter of Senator John Forsyth of Georgia who was Secretary of State in both the Jackson and Van Buren Cabinets. The three sons of this marriage-John, Arthur, and Francis Key Shaaff-served as officers of the Confederate States Army.

Ann's sisters also married well. Mary became the second wife of Andrew Stevenson, Speaker of the House of Representatives for years and American Minister to the Court of Queen Victoria. Jane married John Johns who served a period as President of William and Mary College and was the Episcopalian Bishop of Virginia. During the Civil War Johns gave spiritual comfort to wounded and dying Southern soldiers on the battlefields.

...Ann herself never married.

Fraternal Orders To Hold Services for C.D. Shackelford
Odd Fellows and Masons to Conduct Rites For Press Foreman
Final tribute will be paid to Charles D. Shackelford, 69, who died at Doctors Hospital yesterday, by two fraternal orders in which he was prominent, the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and Masons.

Funeral services by the Odd Fellows will be conducted at the Hines funeral home at 8 o'clock tonight and by the Masons at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the same place. The Masonic services will be conducted by Columbia Commandery of Knights Templar. Interment will follow at Congressional Cemetery, where Lebanon Lodge of Masons will hold services at the grave.

Mr. Shackelford suffered a stroke last week, after which pneumonia set in, resulting in his death early yesterday morning.

A native of the District of Columbia, Mr. Shackelford received his education in Washington schools. He was press foreman at the United States News. He had been connected formerly with the Washington Herald when it was published on Eleventh street near E street N.W., and at one time had engaged in the real estate business here.

Mr. Shackelford had been active in both the Odd Fellows and the Masonic orders, achieving leadership in several branches of Masonry. As a Mason he had been master of Lebanon Lodge; high priest of Eureka Chapter, Royal Arch Masons; commander of Columbia Commandery of Knights Templar of which he also at one time was captain of the drill team, and was potentate of Almas Temple of the Mystic Shrine, of which for several years he was captain of the Arab Patrol.
Mr. Shackelford, who resided at 62 U street N.W., is survived by his widow, Mrs. Julia Shackelford, and a sister, Mrs. Lida Godsey Sandy of this city.

Elected Potentate of Almas Temple at Annual Session Last Night

Charles D. Shackelford, prominent in Masonic and real estate circles, was receiving congratulations today on his election as illustrious potentate of Almas Temple at the annual meeting of the nobles of the Mystic Shrine last night at new Masonic Temple auditorium.

The new potentate, who has been acting potentate since the death of Henry Lansburgh, was immediately installed in office with other officers for the year elected at the same time.

Other officials elected included Roland S. Robbins, chief rabban; Gen. Amos A. Fries, assistant chief rabban; George B. McGinty, high priest and prophet; Edwin C. Dutton, oriental guide; Frank E. Ghiselli, treasurer, and F. Lawrence Walker, recorder. Members elected to represent local Shriners at the Imperial Council to be held next June at Philadelphia were J. Harry Cunningham, Arthur E. Cook, Mr. Lawrence and L.P. Stewart. William Montgomery, George E. Fleming and Thomas E. Gerald were elected trustees.

Plans were discussed at the meeting for the entertainment of thousands of Shriners and heir families who are expected to visit Washington incident to attending the Imperial Council at Philadelphia. The meeting also heard reports of officers and committees for the year.

Mr. Shackelford, the newly elected potentate, is a member of the Washington Board of Trade and the City Club, a past master of Lebanon Lodge, past high priest of Eureka Chapter, past commander of Columbia Commandery No. 2, Knights Templar, and a past monarch of the Grotto. He is active in the Odd Fellows order.

Funeral of Aaron Shaneor

The funeral of Aaron Shaneor, whose sudden death was noted in The Star yesterday, occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon from his late home, 1124 I street southeast. The interment was in Congressional cemetery.

The death of Mr. Shaneor occurred at midnight Saturday. He had, it is said, performed a hard day's work at the navy yard where he was an expert steam hammerman. He was born in Altoona, Pa., in 1857, and came to this city when a young man. For many years he was known on the stage as Harry Melville. Later he became property man at the old Theater Comique, 11th and C streets.

His wife and one daughter, Miss Mary Virginia Shaneor, survive him. Washington Lodge of Elks attended the obsequies.

Mr. Sharp, who was in charge of the Baltimore and Potomac depot here for several years, was born May 16, 1826, at York, Pa. He began his railroad service thirty-five years ago as a brakeman on the Susquehanna road, between York and Lancaster, Pa., and afterward baggage-master and conductor on the Northern Central. He was promoted to the superintendency at Suamokin, Pa., and then to trainmaster at Harrisburg. About thirteen years ago he was transferred to this city as assistant to Mr. E.L. DuBarry, the superintendent here, and on the transfer of Mr. DuBarry he was placed in charge here. He was of fine physique and perfect health up to a few years ago, when at the wreck at Four-mile run, he contracted a cold that broke him down. He leaves a wife and eight children--five daughters and three sons. Mr. Sharp, who was originally a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, went with those who withdrew from Ryland chapel and formed the Tabernacle congregation a few years ago. The pall-bearers will be Messrs. Geo. White, Wm. J. Stephenson, Wm. Worrell, W.J. Murtagh, R.F. Downs and A.C. Irvine.</td>

The Funeral of Joseph K. Sharp

The funeral of the late Joseph K. Sharp, of the Baltimore and Potomac railroad company, at the Tabernacle church, yesterday afternoon, was largely attended. There were present Messrs. H.H. Cartger, superintendent; Mr. Carlisle, train master, and other officials of the railroad from Wilmington, Baltimore and other points. Surrounding the coffin were beautiful floral tributes from the employees of the railroad, the Adams Express company, the Sunday school of the Tabernacle and members of the church. The services at the church were conducted by Rev. Mr. Schofield, the pastor, and Rev. W.L. McKenny; and in their remarks they paid feeling tributes to the memory of the deceased. During the services Mrs. Powell sang the favorite hymn of the deceased: Nearer, my God, to Thee. The pall-bearers were Messrs. George White, W.J. Stephenson, William J. Murtagh, William Worrell, R.F. Downs and A.C. Irvine. The remains were taken to the Congressional cemetery, where the interment took place.

Sheaffer. Suddenly at 624 9th street southwest at 9:25 p.m., May 13, 1911, Charles F. Sheaffer, beloved husband of Annie I. Sheaffer aged 54 years. Notice of funeral hereafter (Baltimore papers please copy).

The Evening Star, May 14, 1911, p. 1
Death Comes Suddenly To Chas W. Sheaffer
Stricken With Paralysis While Driving His Automobile Through the Mall
While driving his automobile through the Mall last night at 7 o'clock Charles W. Sheaffer of 624 9th street southwest was stricken with paralysis and died two and a half hours later.

Mr. Sheaffer was riding with his brother-in-law, Mr. Yateman of Baltimore. He was in particularly good spirits and appeared to be in the best of health. The vehicle had just left the grounds of the Department of Agriculture and was entering the Monument grounds when Mr. Sheaffer suddenly lurched forward over the steering wheel.

Mr. Yateman Acts Promptly
Mr. Yateman immediately turned off the power and stopped the machine. He found it impossible to arouse Mr. Sheaffer, and, starting the machine, drove rapidly to Mr Sheaffer's home.

Within twenty minute after he was stricken Mr. Sheaffer was examined by Dr. R.T. Holden, but medical aid was of no avail and he died about 9:30 o'clock.

Mr. Sheaffer, who was one of the best known citizens of the southwest section of the city, was a member of the firm of Sheaffer & Stuart, wholesale fish dealers.

No Previous Illness
His partner, George W. Stuart, said last night that Mr. Sheaffer had been in excellent health to all appearances and had not been indisposed at all yesterday. He was heavily built weighing about 225 pounds, though not more than 5 feet 9 inches tall. He was fifty four years old.

Mr. Sheaffer was born in Laurel, Md., but for the last thirty-five years has made his home in Washington. His widow and nine children survive him.

Funeral of C.W. Sheaffer
Services to Be Held Tomorrow at the Family Residence
Funeral services for Charles W. Sheaffer of 624 9th street southwest, who died Saturday night following a stroke of paralysis will be held at his residence tomorrow. Rev. Patrick Murphy of Epiphany Chapel will officiate and the interment will be made in Congressional cemetery.

Mr. Sheaffer was stricken while driving his automobile through the Mall, and died two hours later at his home. He is survived by his wife and nine children. He was for years a commission merchant in southwest Washington.

Death of Mr. James J. Shedd
A Resident of Washington for Seventy Years and Highly Esteemed
In the death of Mr. James J. Shedd, which occurred yesterday at his residence, No. 1507 Rhode Island avenue, Washington loses one of its oldest and most highly esteemed citizens.  Mr. Shedd was born in Hollis, New Hampshire, in 1810, and became a citizen of Washington in 1830, going into business with his brother, the late William P. Shedd. he retired in the early sixties and has since led a life of leisure, preserving, however, an ardent and active interest in everything that pertained to the good of the District.

Mr. Shedd is survived by a widow.  His nephews are S.S. Shedd, John L. Shedd and William Shedd, all of this city.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, from the late residence, where services will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Kelly of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Shedd was one of the earliest members and with which he was identified prominently until his death.

John H. Shelton Dead, Victim of Paralysis

Lifelong Resident of Capital and Active as a Business Man

John H. Shelton, a lifelong resident of this city, died suddenly at his home, 406 12th street southeast, last evening at the age of sixty-four years. He was stricken with paralysis while superintending the erection of a monument in Congressional cemetery late yesterday afternoon. He was immediately removed to his home, where he died shortly after 11 o'clock.

The funeral is to be held from his late residence Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, services being held at the chapel in Congressional cemetery, where interment is to be made beside the body of his wife, who died about three years ago. Masonic rites are to be conducted by Naval Lodge, No. 4, F.A.A.M., of which he has been a member since January 16, 1873. He was also a member of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants.
Mr. Shelton had always lived in the southeast section of the city, and for more than forty years had been proprietor of the monumental and stone works which bear his name. He was also proprietor of a wood and coal store, and owned a large amount of real estate.

Twice when vacancies occurred in the superintendency of the Congressional cemetery he had been offered the position, but had declined both times. He had remained active in business, although he had once before suffered from a slight stroke of paralysis.

He leaves one son, Joseph Elmon, who was associated with him in business; two daughters, Mrs. Alexander Gordon and Mrs. John Kenney; one sister, Miss Sarah Shelton, and five brothers, William R., Charles F., Benjamin, Millard and Marion Shelton.

The Evening Star, October 25, 1907
Jos. G. Shelton Dead
Veteran Policeman and Native Washingtonian
Arrangements were completed today for the funeral of Joseph G. Shelton, a veteran policeman, whose death was announced in The Star, yesterday. The services will be held at the family home, 406 12th street southeast, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and the interment will be at Congressional cemetery. It is said former associates of deceased will act as pallbearers.

Joseph G. Shelton resided in Washington since his birth here, March 5, 1829, and was identified with nearly every movement for the advancement of the interests in general and East Washington in particular. Appointed a policeman October 18, 1861, soon after the old auxiliary guard had been merged into the first metropolitan police force, he performed the duty of a patrolman in the exciting and trying period of the civil war. He had many thrilling experiences with deserters, bounty jumpers and desperate characters who flocked to Washington during the war period.

There was a saying among the policemen in those days of the fire and smoke of war that there was on any average one murder a day in this city. The policemen were therefore required to perform heroic service. It is said Mr. Shelton was one of the officers who responded to the call of Patrolman Clements when he arrested single-handed nearly an entire company of Zouaves near the Capitol in 1862. Many of the intoxicated Zouaves were taken to the old central guardhouse on Louisiana avenue, between 9th and 10th streets, and there put through the "ducking" process. It is explained that the drunken men were placed in small cells and the hose turned on them, deluging them with water until they were sober enough to be released.

On the Pension Roll
Mr. Shelton served as a policeman until April 15, 1887, before the era of call boxes and patrol wagons, when owing to physical disability, he was placed on the pension roll of the department. He also retained his membership in the Police Relief Association. He was also stationed at the White House during the civil war, and was frequently detailed as a bodyguard to President Lincoln. His sagacity and bravery won for him high esteem about the city and among the police force where he had many friends. He was on terms of personal friendship with Mr. Lincoln as the result of his position at the Executive Mansion, and was also acquainted with many other famous men of that day.

He was stricken with paralysis about three weeks ago without warning while he was conversing with his daughter, Miss Sarah E. Shelton, and fell to the floor. Several times since the attack it was feared he would die, but on each occasion of an apparent relapse he seemed to rally. He gradually lost strength, however, and the end came at ten minutes past 2 o'clock yesterday morning.

The Evening Star, October 2, 1907
With Lincoln When He Died
Veteran Policeman Nearing Portal of Death
Was at Ford's Theater as Escort
When President Was Assassinated -- His Record

Suddenly stricken with paralysis, Joseph Shelton, a veteran policeman, lies at the point of death at his home, 406 12th street southeast. Last night his demise was expected at any moment, and today the attending physicians hold out no hope for his recovery. Mr. Shelton served as an escort and accompanied President Lincoln to Ford's Theater the night he was shot and helped to carry the wounded President to the house on the opposite side of the street, where he died.

Mr. Shelton was conversing with his daughter, Miss Sarah E. Shelton, when the attack of paralysis came, and fell to the floor. He remained unconscious until a physician arrived and applied restoratives. It was said this afternoon that his death is momentarily expected.

Mr. Shelton is a life-long citizen of the District of Columbia. He was born here March 5, 1829, and was appointed a member of the metropolitan police force October 18, 1861, soon after its organization. He performed duty as a guardian of the peace until April 15, 1887, when he was retired on a pension owing to physical disability. He is still on the pension roll and besides is a member of the police relief association.

For several years of the exciting period of the civil war Mr. Shelton was stationed at the White House and was on terms of personal friendship with President Lincoln, it is said. He was frequently detailed as Mr. Lincoln's body guard because of his bravery and sagacity.

His service on the Washington police force was at a period before the telephone and patrol system had come into use. For a number of years it was necessary to drag obstreperous prisoners from the outlying sections of the city to the old central guard house on Louisiana avenue between 9th and 10th streets.

During the civil war Policeman Shelton had a number of trying experiences with deserters, bounty jumpers and other hard characters that flocked to this city. He is regarded as one of the few remaining landmarks of the old police force of nearly half a century ago.

Funeral of John H. Schenck

Advertising Writer for Many Years for New York Firms

Funeral services for John H. Schenck, an advertising writer for many years for New York business firms, were held in the chapel of the Wright undertaking establishment, 1337 10th street northwest, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, and the interment was in Congressional cemetery.

Mr. Schenck died at the home of his mother-in-law, 1770 U street northwest, Wednesday evening in the eightieth year of his age. He was born in New Brunswick, N.J., and began work in newspaper offices at an early age. He lived at different times in New York, Philadelphia, and Kansas City, where he was well known in business circles as a writer. He retired from business several years ago on account of his advancing years.

Mr. Schenck leaves a wife, who was Rachel E. Danenhower of this city.

Succumbs to Hemorrhage of the Brain This Morning
Mrs. James E. Shepard of 231 Pennsylvania avenue southeast died this morning at 12:30 o'clock at the George Washington University Hospital of a hemorrhage of the brain after an illness of over four weeks. Mrs. Shepard, who was formerly Miss Mamie Belle Smith of Staunton, Va., was married to Mr. Shepard, an employee at the navy yard, about four years years ago and during her residence in this city since that time had made many friends. A month ago, it is stated, Mrs. Shepard complained of pains in her head and a short time later she was taken to the George Washington University Hospital. She was placed under treatment there, but her condition gradually became worse until the end came this morning. Mrs. Shepard always impressed her friends as one of a most happy disposition and one who seemed to thoroughly enjoy life. When her death became known today there was much regret expressed. She was twenty-five years of age.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock from Zurhorst's undertaking parlors, at 301 East Capitol street. Rev. Dr. Albert Evans, pastor of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church, will conduct the services. The pallbearers will be Messrs. E.L. Tucker, M.A. Bowen, W.B. Bryant and T.B. Jordan. Mrs. Shepard is survived by her husband. The interment will be in Congressional cemetery.

Mr. Dempsey B. Sherrod died Saturday, at 345 Pennsylvania avenue, in this city, aged 50 years. Mr. Sherrod was the general agent for the American Printing House and University for the Blind, and had many acquaintances and friends here and in other parts of the country. Being himself entirely blind, he had devoted himself to the well-being and improvement of all thus afflicted. He was a man of intelligence and great tenacity of purpose, and had his life been spared, would no doubt have accomplished a great work for the blind. His funeral was well attended yesterday, by kind and loving friends.

Weary heads in sadness bended,
Aching hearts in anxious dread.
Silent watched the painful moments
By the little sufferer's bed.
Till the fearful hush was broken
By an angel's soothing wing.
And the air grew sweet with incense,
And angelic voices sing.

Small Boy Missing; Last Seen At River
Police Fear Everett Sherry Was Drowned in the Eastern Branch

Everett Sherry, eight years old, son of William Sherry of 1312 11th street southeast, failed to return home last night after he had gone out in the afternoon to play.  At 9 o'clock last night, his parents becoming alarmed, appealed to the police to search for him.

A brief investigation made by the police of the fifth precinct led to the theory that the missing boy had probably been drowned in the Anacostia river near the north end of the Anacostia bridge and this morning the harbor police began to drag for the body.

The boy the police were told, was seen climbing about the second pier from the north end of the bridge about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon by a man named Cooper, who was on a houseboat a short distance from the bridge.  He did not see what became of him.

During the investigation last night the police were given a boy's cap that was found near where the boy was last seen.  It was thought the cap belonged to Everett Sherry, but his mother declared it did not.

When neighbors learned that the little fellow had been reported missing a number of them displayed an active interest in the search and early this morning his companions were about the bridge assisting in the search that was being conducted there.

Everett was barefooted when he left home yesterday afternoon. He wore a blue jacket, black trousers and white cap.

_Harbor police, however, have not abandoned hope of finding Everett Sherry_

_Where is Everett Sherry?_

He is the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sherry of 1821 11th street southeast, and he has not been seen since Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He went out to play with some of his little friends at that time, and, since he went toward Anacostia bridge, his parents believe he has been drowned.

The people of the neighborhood knew the boy well, and a woman, a friend of the Sherry family, says she knows that Everett got as far as the bridge. Beyond that nothing is known. Even the harbor police, who have been dragging the river, have not answered the hourly questions of the boy's frantic father and mother.

_Clue Is Cast Aside_

The only clue so far has been a cap found on the bridge. It was an ordinary cap, such as might be worn by any boy, but this clue has been cast aside as worthless, since Mrs. Sherry believes her child had on a white cap with some advertising lettering on it when he left home to play. That cap has not been recovered.

Although the boy was little more than a child he had almost a grown-up acquaintance with the river. He paddled in the water at the shore and sailed about in boats. He was well known to the men who work along the river, especially to the watchman on the bridge, who is a friend of the Sherry family. The watchman, however, has not been able to help solve the mystery.

_Believe He Is Dead_

Harbor police spent considerable time yesterday looking for Everett, but had to abandon their search temporarily when they learned of the recovery of the body of George W. Collins, near Dixie Landing. It is probable they will go to work searching for Everett Sherry today. Other police in the city have not given up hope that the child is alive, and descriptions of him have been sent out to all precincts.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherry, however, have abandoned hope. They believe their boy would have returned to them if he were alive.

Funeral services were conducted at Nalley's chapel at 2 o'clock, and the interment was in Congressional cemetery. Many of the little friends of the boy, who was familiarly known among his companions as "Chic" Sherry, were in attendance.

Two boys paddling about the river near the foot of 2d street southeast found the body floating in the river. They made it secure near the sewage pumping station, and the harbor police conveyed it to the wharf.

Friday night when the search for the missing boy was instituted the police learned that he was last seen playing near the north end of the Anacostia bridge. They were unable to find any one who had seen him later, and the conclusion was reached that he had been drowned.

Harbor police dragged the river for the body, but the heavy rain Friday night, it is thought, washed the body down stream. The mother of the missing boy believed there was a possibility that he still was alive, and late yesterday afternoon when she learned of the recovery of the body she collapsed.

A certificate of accidental death was given by the coroner.

The Veteran Bookseller Passes Away--
Sketch of a Long and Honorable Career

Mr. Jos. Shillington, the well-known bookseller, died yesterday afternoon at his residence, 216 E street northwest. He has been so long a familiar figure in this city and had such a large circle of friends and acquaintances that his death will cause general regret. Among his intimate friends the news of his death confirmed what his condition had form some time led them to apprehend. Last December, Col. Shillington, as he was generally known, had a stroke of apoplexy, from which he never recovered. He has, however, been able to attend to his business, until about two weeks ago when he was taken sick and was confined to his bed. No immediate fatal results were anticipated until a few hours before his death, when his symptoms became alarming, and he gradually passed away. He was sixty-four years of age.

Mr. Shillington was born March 12, 1823, in Ireland, on the estate of Gen. Ross, who commanded the British force which destroyed the Capitol and other public buildings in this city in 1814, and who was afterward
Mr. Shillington was from the first a democrat, but during the war was an ardent unionist. At the beginning of the war, when the communication northward was cut off, Mr. Shillington at the instance of the Postmaster General, opened communication with Baltimore by pony express, by which valuable service was performed. Mr. Shillington never held a public office, although he was frequently urged in ante-bellum days to become a candidate for the city councils. He, however, served one or two terms, with his usual conscientious discharge of duty, as a commissioner to select names for the jury box. He was married a few years before the war and his estimable wife survives him. He leaves four children, two sons and two daughters. His oldest son, Joseph, is a young lawyer of marked ability, practicing now at the Washington Bar.

There will be a meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Parker's, of the booksellers and stationers of the city, to take appropriate action in regard to the death of Mr. Shillington.

Funeral Arrangements
The funeral will take place from the residence, at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon, and the officiating minister will be Rev. Dr. Sunderland, a friend of the deceased for over thirty years. The interment will be in the Congressional Cemetery. The pall-bearers will be some of the oldest friends of the deceased.

Funeral of Joseph Shillington
The funeral of the late Joseph Shillington took place this afternoon from the family residence, 216 E street northwest, and was the occasion for the assemblage of one of the largest gatherings of the older citizens of the District seen here for years. Many of those present had been friends of the deceased for over a third of a
The corpse attired in a plain suit of black, was, in accordance with the expressed wish of the deceased, placed in a plain cloth-covered casket, devoid of any ornamentation save the handles and screw heads. There were many floral tributes on and about the coffin. The services were those of the Presbyterian Church, conducted by Rev. Dr. Byron Sunderland, a long tried friend of the deceased. The pastor spoke feelingly of his personal relations with the dead and of his high character, etc. At the conclusion of the services the corpse was borne to the hearse and taken to the Congressional Cemetery for interment, the following named gentleman acting as pall-bearers: Wm. Galt, Crosby S. Noyes, W.B. Morrison, Frederick pilling, Wright Rives, Geo. M. Oyster, Benjamin Charlton and O. Bestor.

Action of the Booksellers
At a meeting Saturday evening of the booksellers and stationers of Washington to take action in regard to the death of Mr. Joseph Shillington there were present Messrs. W.H. Morrison, E. Morrison, Robert Beall, W.H. Lepley, W.B. Easton, R.C. Ballantyne, J.C. Parker, C.C. Pursell, John F. Paret, Messrs. J. Bradley Adams and E.J. Burt sent word regretting their inability to attend the meeting. Preambles and resolutions were adopted paying tribute to the upright character and genial qualities of the deceased, recording their "sincere and heartfelt regret that the familiar form and face will no more be seen among us," making expression "of the debt of gratitude under which we stand collectively and individually to our departed friend for his precept and example as citizen and business man," acknowledging "the comfort and assistance we have often received in times of trouble, both in our business and family circles, by his cordial sympathy and warmth of heart," and extending "to his family and many friends our most sincere and heartfelt sympathy and condolence."

Col. Joe Shillington
Our esteemed and enterprising fellow-citizen, who is now making the tour of Europe, is, according to the latest private accounts, enjoying himself finely; visiting the principal cities, and participating in all the enjoyments compatible with his gallant but modest character. We take this opportunity to say we doubt the rumor that the main object of his visit to "fatherland" was to get himself a wife, as (whether with justice or not we cannot say) it has all along been reported that he was made an unwilling captive to the charms of a fair Washingtonian before he left the city. Time, however, will verify or contradict the assertion.

As our friend Joe is observant of men and things, we may anticipate that he will enable us, on his return, to present to the public some of his notes of travel, including his items taken in the camp of the Allies before Sebastopol!

Services in Memory of Joseph Shillington
Funeral of the Dead Lawyer Will be Held in Late Home Tomorrow Afternoon.

The funeral services of Joseph Shillington will be held at his late residence, 1745 U street northwest, Thursday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Friends and relatives are invited to attend the services at the home, but the interment will be private.

Mr. Shillington was a native of this city, having been born here in 1860. He lived here all of his life and was one of the most prominent lawyers of the District, being at one time Assistant United States District Attorney under Henry E. Davis.
Mr. Shillington is survived by a widow, Mrs. Mary Acker Shillington, and two daughters, Misses Katharine and Florence Shillington.

Court Shows Respect
District Attorney Beach today made an oral motion in Criminal Court No. 1 asking that when an adjournment was taken it be in respect to the memory of Joseph Shillington, a member of the District bar, who died yesterday at his home in this city. Justice Wright presiding, directed the clerk to enter a record upon the minutes of the court to show an adjournment was taken in memory of the death of Mr. Shillington.

Mr. Shillington was appointed assistant district attorney by Henry E. Davis while the latter was at the head of the District Attorney's office. He resigned when General Anderson was named as the successor to Mr. Davis. In speaking of Mr. Shillington, Mr. Beach said:

"There is much in the charity of death which provokes extravagant eulogy. But I shall not say more than a few words in respect to his memory.

Here is the passing of a man. I shall say nothing of his professional attainments; of his high view of professional ethics; of his faithfulness to friends, and his fearlessness to foe, if foe he had.

We merely wish to refer to the high degree of courage and patience with which for the past three years he met the ravages of grim disease. I take it that no man who has gone hence suffered more than this poor man for the past three years; I take it that no man ever showed greater fortitude in meeting the grim reaper or greater freedom from the morbid repining than he. It has been our custom when our rans are depleted that the court session be closed for the day.

I take it to be a custom more honored in the breach than in the observance."

He asked the court to enter upon the minutes of the court the announcement, which was done.

Death of Mrs. C.E. Shinn

Mrs. Clarissa Ebert Shinn, widow of Dr. A.J. Shinn, died of heart failure at 930 o'clock today, at the residence of her son, C.M. Shinn, 125 11th street northeast. Mrs. Shinn's husband died more than forty years ago, in Metropolis City, Ill. She survived all of her children but one. She had been a member of the Presbyterian Church from her girlhood. Had she lived until November 10 next she would have celebrated her 84th birthday anniversary, and she was even in her later years a remarkably active woman. Her last illness was very brief, the ailments incident to her age producing disease of the heart, followed by a sudden collapse.

Funeral of Mrs. Clarissa Ebert Shinn

The funeral of Mrs. Clarissa Ebert Shinn took place from the residence of her son, C.M. Shinn, at 2 o'clock p.m. yesterday, Rev. Albert Evans, pastor of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church, officiating. The pallbearers were Capt. J.E. Hart, Thomas Ellis, S.J. Block, John Cockley, Josiah H. Shinn and Frank Linthicum. Many beautiful floral tributes were sent by friends. The interment, which was private, was at Congressional cemetery.

Shinn Boy Better

Surgeons at Providence Hospital this afternoon announce that the condition of Harry Shinn, the eight-year-old son of Harry A. Shinn, of the office of the chief clerk of the police department, who was accidentally shot by a young companion while the latter was handling a revolver yesterday afternoon, is decidedly improved. The bullet, which was located by X-rays, is lodged near the spine. The paralysis which attacked the boy is said to be due solely to shock, and is dissipating, as evidenced by the fact that the patient is now able to move his feet. The accident happened at Kenilworth, D.C.

The Evening Star, August 6, 1911, p. 5

Harry Shinn Not So Well

The condition of Harry Shinn, the young son of Harry A. Shinn assistant property clerk at the police department, who was accidentally shot by a companion a few days ago, was not regarded as favorable last evening. It was stated by a member of the family that the boy's condition grew alarmingly worse about 4 o'clock yesterday morning, and continued serious until 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Last night he was resting more easily. He had been very restless and his temperature was quite low.

A consultation of the physicians, Dr. L.S. Savage and Dr. Charles S. White, was held, to which Dr. James F. Mitchell, was invited. Another X-ray photograph was taken, which it is believed is an improvement upon the first and more clearly locates the bullet.

If conditions are favorable an operation will be performed today. The paralysis of the limbs still continues.

Jury to Pass on Shooting of Son of Police Department Official

Funeral services for Harry A. Shinn, jr., son of the assistant property clerk of the police department, who died at Providence Hospital last night as a result of a bullet wound he sustained last Tuesday when Willie Rahn, a companion, accidentally discharged a pistol, will be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. The services will be conducted at the residence of C.M. Shinn, grandfather of the deceased, 145 11th street northeast. The interment will be at Congressional cemetery.

An inquest will be held this evening in Prince Georges county, Md., not far from the Shinn home at Kenilworth, in order to have a jury pass upon the circumstances attending the affair.
The Shinn lad was not quite eight years old. He attended the Kenilworth public school and had been promoted to the third grade. He had looked forward to the beginning of the coming school term with much pleasure and had only recently said he was anxious for school to reopen.

Willie Rahn, who resides in Prince Georges county, Md., about a mile from Kenilworth, called at the Shinn home last Tuesday morning and invited young Harry to spend the day with him. The boys had attended school together and had been companions. It was some time before noon when the two boys left Kenilworth and started for the Rahn home, and before 12 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Shinn learned of the shooting.

Objected to "Fun" With Gun
Mr. and Mrs. Rahn were in the city at market, an eighteen-year-old boy employed by the Rahns having been left in charge of the premises. Shortly after the two boys reached the home of the little host, it is stated. Willie Rahn was asked by the youth employed to get him a cigar and it is said, Willie was looking through a bureau drawer for the cigar when he found the pistol.

The weapon having failed to fire when Willie Rahn pulled the trigger several times, it is stated, he finally pointed it toward his little guest. The latter entered his objection to that form of play and turned to leave the house. Just as he turned the weapon was discharged and the bullet entered his back.

Willie Rahn and the older boy carried Harry Shinn from the house to the pump and when they realized he had been dangerously wounded they became frightened and started away. The wife of a neighbor of the Rahns heard the report of the pistol shot and made an investigation. She soon learned what had happened and summoned assistance.

Slayer Kills Self

Samuel Shipley Commits Suicide After Shooting Wife

Child the Only Witness

Fourteen-Year-Old Boy Unable to Prevent Tragedy

Couple Had Lived Apart

Husband and Father Drunk and Had Been Arrested on Non-Support Charge

Following a quarrel with his wife, from whom he had been separated for several years, Samuel Shipley, a boilermaker, fatally shot her last night and then fired a bullet into his head, dying almost instantly. The tragedy occurred at 11:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Shipley, who with her four children lived at 514 9th street southeast.

William Shipley, the fourteen-year-old son of the couple, witnessed part of the tragedy, but was unable to prevent the double killing. The boy let his father into the house about two hours before the shooting occurred. Shipley used his revolver shortly after his wife returned home.

Coroner's Inquest Held

A verdict of suicide and murder was reached by a corner's jury at the morgue today.

William Shipley, the son, was the most important witness at the inquest.

The boy said his father was asleep when his mother returned home. His mother, he said, scolded him because he had let his father in.

"When she woke him up," the boy said, "he looked at her hard."

Witness was sent upstairs. He heard his parents engaged in a quarrel, his father making use of an oath.

"When I heard the shots," he said, "I started down the steps and fell. My father went in the other room and shot himself."

"Was your father a drinking man?"

"He used to drink a good deal."
"Was he intoxicated when he called at the house last night?"

"He was not real full."

Dr. Charles S. White, deputy coroner, described the wounds received by the husband and wife, and Dr. O.J. Posey told of the death of the woman at the Casualty Hospital.

Policeman Wise told the jury that he had been Shipley in the police station several times. On one occasion, he said, Shipley was locked up for alleged non-support, and on another occasion he was charged with drunkenness. Witness saw him Monday night and he appeared as if he had been drinking.

It is probable that the body of the woman will be interred in Congressional cemetery, while the body of the husband will probably find a resting place in Glenwood cemetery.

Had Been in Panama

Shipley, who was a boilermaker and expert mechanic, had been separated from his wife for more than a year and had been before the Juvenile Court for alleged failure to support his family. He recently returned from Panama, where he went to work on the canal. He was permitted to go away because of a promise he made Judge DeLacy that he would send part of his earnings to his wife and children.

When he returned to Washington he displayed a desire to see and return to his family. His conduct, however, was not such as to induce Mrs. Shipley to believe she would receive better treatment from him than she had received before he deserted her and went to Panama. It is said she had not the slightest idea of being a party to a reconciliation. In addition to his other faults, it is stated, Shipley had been indulging in strong drink and his wife feared he would harm her.

Whistled for His Son

Mrs. Shipley was away from home last night when her husband called. His efforts to bring one of the children to the front door to answer the bell proved futile, and the man, under the influence of liquor, with a loaded revolver in his pocket, went to the rear of the house. Climbing the back fence, Shipley came to the rear door and whistled, as he had done in his happier days when he wanted to attract the attention of his children.

His son, William recognized the whistle and went to the lower floor to ascertain what his father wanted, not stopping to dress himself.

"I'm wet and cold," said the father in response to the child's inquiry, "and I want to come in to get dry and warm."

His plea induced the boy to open the door and admit him to the house. A short conversation was engaged in by father and son and the latter returned to his bed in a room on the second floor. When he reached his room he recalled that he had been told not to admit his father to the house, and he felt uneasy. Finally he got up and went downstairs, accompanied by Villa, this nine-year-old sister. The children remained there only a few minutes, returning to the upper floor and retiring shortly before the return of their mother. When Mrs. Shipley reached the house she was surprised to find her husband there. He was lying on the couch in the back room, not having given any thought to a hat his wife had left on the couch when she left the house earlier in the night.

Not Bothered About Hat

Mrs. Shipley was not pleased to find her husband in the house, and she soon called him to account for having ruined her hat. The intruder was not bothered about that, he said.

With little, if any warning, the boilermaker drew his weapon from his pocket and fired at his wife. Before Mrs. Shipley had fallen to the floor, the son, who had admitted his father to the house, rushed into the room. He saw his other fall to the floor, he told the police last night and he also saw his father commit suicide.

William and the other children screamed with fright. It was but a few seconds before a number of neighbors reached the house. They found the body of Mrs. Shipley stretched upon the floor of the parlor, while in a rear room was the lifeless body of the husband. Ms. Shipley was dying. Policemen from the fifth precinct soon reached the house and took charge of the premises. They sent the wounded woman to the Casualty Hospital. Coroner Nevitt directed that the body of the man be taken to the morgue.

Unable to Find Letter

Shortly after reaching the 9th street house the assistant morgue master learned that the woman had died, and he went to the hospital, taking both bodies to the morgue. While the assistant morgue master was at the house making an investigation he was told by the boy that his father had written a letter while waiting for the return of the wife and mother, but no trace of a letter was found.

"I saw papa write the letter," declared the frightened child, "but I don't know where he put it."

The police had a bright light in almost every room and the boy requested that some of them be lowered.

"If you burn so much gas the bill will be so big that we will not be able to pay it." the child exclaimed, not knowing his mother was dead.

Shipley kissed William and his sister farewell just before the latter went upstairs, telling them they would not see him again. He also said something about their mother being taken care of.

When the assistant morgue master reached the morgue with the bodies of the victims of the double tragedy he made a careful search of the pockets in the man's clothing, but found no trace of the letter his son said he had written. He did find a photograph of Mrs. Shipley, a government employment certificate, membership card in Boilermakers' Union No. 459, and 5 cents in cash in his pockets.

Four children survive the dead couple. They are William, fourteen years old; Ethel, eleven years old; Villa, nine years old, and Alfred, seven years old. Thomas Engel, residing at 323 M street southwest is the father of the slain woman, while Samuel Shipley, father of the man who used the revolver, lives at 1741 8th street northwest. It is probable the grandparents will take care of the orphan children.

The Evening Star, December 27, 1880
A Terrible Christmas Tragedy
A Woman Fatally Shot by Some One Unknown
Before Her Death She Gives Birth to a Child

About 1 o'clock Christmas day, as Mrs. Jane Shiply, living at No. 222 4 1/2 street southwest, was in the act of going out of a backdoor of her house into the yard she was shot by some unknown person from the direction of Willow Tree alley, the ball, a large size one, entering the abdomen and passing nearly through her body. Drs. Hammett and Fenwick were called in and succeeded in extracting the ball, but the injury proved fatal. The unexpected shot was of course a great shock to Mrs. Shiply, and she was delivered of a son--her third child--five hours after the shooting. Inflammation then set in from the wound and she lingered in great distress until last night when death relieved her of her sufferings. She was the wife of Mr. Thomas Shiply, a blacksmith, doing business on C between 4 1/2 and 6th streets northwest, and was 26 years old. The oldest child is five years of age. No clue has been discovered as to who fired the fatal shot, but Lieut. Gessford's officers think they will discover who it was. The occurrence has caused considerable excitement in that neighborhood, the belief being that it was the careless use of fire arms by some of the colored people in a rear alley.

An Arrest
Edward Lucas, a colored man, was arrested this morning by Officer McGreeay, of the first precinct, charged with the shooting. His friends claim that he was shooting, with a revolver, at some sparrows on a shed, and that the shooting of the woman was entirely accidental. They will have a chance to explain the firing of such a strange missile at birds before the coroner's jury. The inquest will be held tomorrow.

Lucas had a fight that morning with a colored man next door to his house, named Smith, in which Smith got the best of it, and Lucas went and got a pistol and shot once into his yard and after awhile shot again, when Mr. Shiply ran around the corner and said, "O, my God; who killed my wife?" Lucas, who was then looking out the window replied, "I don't know; there has been shooting going on all the morning about here."

The Evening Star, December 28, 1880
Shooting of Mrs. Shipley
Coroner's Inquest Today

Coroner Patterson held an inquest, at twelve o'clock today on the body of Mrs. S. Jane Shipley, who died yesterday morning about 6 o'clock from the affects of a pistol shot in the abdomen, received on Christmas day while in the act of stepping out of the rear door of her house, No. 222 4 1/2 street southwest.

Lieutenant Gessford this morning summoned the jurymen, who just before 12 o'clock repaired to the house and viewed the remains, after which they went to the first precinct station house on B street near 4 1/2 street, and listened to the testimony.
The jurymen were as follows: Jos. A. Burch, George W. Smithson, F.D. Dowlng, W.A. Barnes, John Morse, John Imrie, J.E.F. Carlin, James F. Dawson, Wm. N. Croggon, Wm. C. Harvey, J.N. Rudd and John Wise, with Mr. Carlin as foreman.

The Bereaved Husband's Testimony
The first witness called was Mr. Theodore Shipley, husband of the deceased. He testified that at the time of the accident he was dressing himself for dinner his wife being engaged in cooking the Christmas turkey and remarked that she would go out and get some wood to increase the fire, so that the turkey would get done. Just as she went out of the door she screamed out "O, my God, I am shot," at the same time holding her hands on her stomach. She fell into his arms (Here the witness broke down and could hardly proceed for the choking in his throat.) He laid his wife down and ran out in the direction the report came from and inquired who it was that shot. There had been considerable firing that day of fire-crackers. Every one denied having seen any one shoot.; This colored man was the first one he saw looking out of the window, and witness asked him who had shot into his house. He replied that he did not know, but the shooting had been done on the other side. His next door neighbor's house had been shot into that day from the same direction.

A Witness Who Made A Narrow Escape
Mr. Phillip Colbath testified that he lived at 220 4 1/2 street, next house north of Mr. Shipley's. He testified that he got up about 9 o'clock, and went into his yard, when he heard a pistol shot, and a ball struck his kitchen door close by him. At 12 o'clock going out to get a bucket of water he heard another shot and a scream in Mr. Shipley's yard. Mr. Shipley at once called out to witness "Somebody has shot my wife," and at the same time he hard some one say "there has been shooting about here all day." Mr. Shipley at once ran to the rear of his lot, and witness saw the man in the window put his hand behind him as if putting away something.

A Colored Witness
Robert James, a colored man testified that he lives in Willow Tree alley. He and Ed. Lucas had had some words in the morning in his alley, and afterward he (witness) went to his home. He afterwards met Lucas at the corner of C street and Willow Tree alley, and they had some more words together, Lucas asking witness what he had hit him for. Witness replied, "Because you hit me with a stool on Friday night." He then warned witness to watch him (Lucas); afterwards witness then went up the alley again Lucas preceding him. Lucas stopped at the pump and said he had to go down to the Island and went out at C street while witness went into Mrs. Coaths house back of Mr. Shipley's. Witness sat down about hafl an hour there and on opening the door he saw Lucas coming to the alley and he stood in the alley about fifteen minutes, while witness remained in the house. Witness noticed that Lucas either moved out of the alley or went into the backyard. Witness then went to his own house, next door to Mrs. Coats. After he had been in his room about 15 minutes he heard the report of a pistol sounding at the next door. Witness started to look out of his window, when Emma Smith, who was in the room, warned him that it was a sham of Lucas' to get him out so that he could shoot him (Witness). He then sat down. He then heard some one else shooting in the alley and soon another shot was heard when Mr. Shipley came into the alley and charged Lucas with shooting his wife. Lucas denied it, Mr. Shipley insisting that he did it. Witness heard the shot and saw the smoke pass by the window. At this time quite an alarm was raised and a man named Scott said, "Don't give it away." Witness gave the names of several colored men who were in the alley at the time.

Dr. Hammett Describes the Wound
Dr. Hammett testified that he was summoned about 1 o'clock. When he arrived he found Mrs. Shipley in the dining room lying in great pain on the floor near the door where she was shot. On examination, found a wound in the right side. Dr. Fenwick soon arrived and they found that the ball had lodged in the left side near the hip near the skin; the entrance of the ball was above its exit some two inches. The wound was the cause of her death.

Dr. G.P. Fenwick corroborated the statement of Dr. Hammett. He was present at the delivery of the child, about six hours after she was shot.

Charles Jackson and Emma Smith, both colored, testified but threw no new light on the shooting.

Getting To It
Wm. Lucas, a small boy, the twelve year old son of the arrested man, said all he knew was that his mother said that his father had shot a woman. She told him that when he came home from play.

Julia Lucas, wife of defendant, testified that all she knew was that she was in the street when she heard a loud report, and starting home she heard someone say that a white woman was shot. Witness found this pistol Christmas near Shea's. She didn't know what thus she found it,as she was drunk.

Mrs. Ella Whitlow, who lives at 342 B street southwest, corroborated the former witness.
Lucas Says He Is Innocent

The defendant Lucas here asked to be heard, and said there had been shooting all the morning, and it was actually dangerous to be out on the street. He denied firing the shot or of having a pistol in his possession. He was innocent of the charge.

Lucas is about 35 years old, quite black, and has a sullen, bad look.

The Verdict

The jury gave a verdict that they believe that death was caused by a pistol shot from a pistol in the hands of Ed. Lucas. Lucas was committed by the coroner for the action of the grand jury.

William Shipley, Ex-Store Guard

William Theodore Shipley Ex-Store Guard

William Theodore Shipley, 75, a retired guard for Kann's Department Store, died Saturday at his Herndon (Va.) summer home of a heart condition.

A native and life-long resident of the District, Mr. Shipley had attended public schools here.

He had worked as a guard for the Government and then, in 1933, went to work for Kann's as a guard. He remained there in that capacity until his retirement in 1955. He lived at 5235 Kansas avenue N.W.

He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Allwine of 510 North Monroe street, Arlington, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Bilsborough of the home address and Mrs. Elizabeth White of 9902 Markham street, Silver Spring.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Deal Funeral Home, 4812 Georgia avenue N.W. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery.

The Evening Star, June 30, 1898
Results in Death
James Shoemaker Dies of Injuries Received May 30
Wm. Webster Charged With Assault
Alleged to Have Kicked the Boy in the Side
The Coroner's Verdict
Coroner Carr held an inquest this afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock, at the undertaking establishment of J.W. Lee, in the case of the small boy, James Shoemaker, who, it is alleged, was kicked in the stomach by William Webster at a garden party held in Anacostia the 30th of May.
Yesterday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock the boy died. The police learned of the death soon after it occurred, and Coroner Carr arranged for the inquest.
Those who were on the jury were George O. Miller, James Holmes, Otto Holtnorth, John Garner, William Wolf and Albert Schlotterback.

William Webster, who has been in custody for some time, was present at the inquest, as were his relatives, and also several relatives of the dead boy.

Deputy Coroner Glazebrook made the autopsy, and he told the jury that death was due to rupture of the intestines, followed by peritonitis and prostration. Such an injury would likely have followed a kick in the abdomen. The boy was greatly emaciated and the condition of his body showed that he had been sick for several weeks.

Testimony of Witnesses
Asbury Butler testified that the Methodist Church of Anacostia gave a garden party at Mr. Linger's and witness was there. Mr. Webster was there as watchman, and witness saw him kick Shoemaker.

"Where did he kick him?" asked the coroner.

"In the side," answered witness.

"Did he kick him hard?"

"No, sir."

Witness explained that a crowd of boys were playing in a summer house when Webster came in and proceeded to put them out. In putting Shoemaker out he kicked him.

Edward Johnson, another boy, who was in the party, gave similar testimony. He witnessed the entire affair, and it was his opinion that Mr. Webster kicked the Shoemaker boy as hard as he could.

Shriver King, who was also in the party of boys, told the jury that Mr. Webster "chucked" him (witness) out of the door, and he afterward saw the Shoemaker boy kicked out.

Mr. Webster, in his own behalf, told the jury that the boys annoyed him. He said he took hold of the Shoemaker boy by the arm and said: "Brother, I want you to get out of here."

The boy went out crying and his father came and asked why he had kicked him. He denied that he had kicked the boy and said that whatever happened to him was an accident.

"Had you been drinking?" he was asked.

"I had been drinking some during the day," he answered "but I hadn't taken anything since supper."

"I can say with a clear conscience," said Webster "that I did not intentionally injure the boy."

The Boy's Accusation
George W. Shoemaker, brother of the deceased, testified that while at the garden party his little brother came over to his father and complained of being hurt.

"That Webster fellow kicked me," he said.

Witness and his father saw Webster, and he characterized the boy's complaint as a "_____ _____ lie."

"Was your brother taken sick immediately?" the coroner asked.

"Yes, sir," was his response; "he was sick all night, but he went to school afterward. On Sunday he went to church, and his teacher advised him to go home, as he was sick. When he came home he dropped in a faint."

Dr. Harrison of Anacostia testified that he was called to attend the boy several days after he was injured. He told of the progress of the illness. His death, the doctor thought, was due to peritonitis following an injury.

The jury returned a verdict holding Webster responsible for the boy's death, and he was returned to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

The Alleged Assault
The lawn party at which the assault is alleged to have occurred was given under the auspices of the choir of the Anacostia M.E. Church, on the grounds of the Linger place, 512 Harrison street, Anacostia. Webster was, it is said, hired to watch that night over the grounds, as the party was to be continued through the next night. He entered the grounds early, and it is charged he was under the influence of liquor. Some young children who were playing about on the music pavilion began to tease the watchman, it is said, and he pursued them. It is charged he seized young Shoemaker and kicked him twice in the left side near the stomach. For this act he was discharged on the spot.

The boy was compelled to take his bed five days afterward, and was since under the constant care of physicians. During the earlier stages of the illness it looked as though he had some chance of recovery, but blood poisoning set in, it is stated, and medical skill was unavailing. His sufferings are described to have been intense. He was a delicate appearing, quiet child, and was a general favorite with all who knew him. He had not missed a day this year from the public school, where he was in the third grade, up to the time of his illness, and the interest he had in his studies was the one thing that made him hold out so long before going to bed. He would go to his class and answer to his name, but would be unable to continue there for the remainder of the session.

The Man Accused
Webster, the man accused of kicking the lad, is known to everybody in Anacostia. He is a good-natured, hard-working fellow, when not drinking. Ever since he lost an arm in the machinery of a bakery, about ten years ago, he has been a hard drinker. He is thirty-seven years old, and is married, being the father of two children, one having been born since Webster was imprisoned.

The Shoemaker family bear no ill-feeling toward Webster, and if the matter rested with them, it is said, he would not be prosecuted. Both Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker are worn out to the point of illness with the strain of mind and the duties imposed on them by their child's illness.

The Evening Star, July 4, 1898
James Shoemaker Buried
It became necessary Saturday evening to send young George Shoemaker, brother of the little boy whose death resulted from a kick in the groin, to Providence Hospital for treatment. Mr. George W.S. Shoemaker, father of the boy, is still confined to his bed, having been unable to attend his son's funeral. The funeral services over the deceased child were held from the Anacostia M.E. Church. The building was filled to its utmost capacity, particularly with little ones of the Sunday school, of which the lad had been a devoted member. There were many beautiful floral pieces covering the white coffin. The pallbearers had been chosen by the lad himself before his death, and were the following young people; Watson Isaac, Sewall Fort, Lester Pitcher and Carl Tilghman, Rev. C.O. Isaac, pastor of the Anacostia M.E. Church, officiated.
The superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. J.E. Powell, also spoke, bearing to the Sunday school a message of love from the child, who had asked shortly before his death to see the superintendent for this purpose.

Mr. Shreve had been a lifelong resident of the District, and was one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Washington. His wife and six children survive him. His four sons are Wm. O. Shreve, jr., Capt. C.M. Shreve and Lieuts. Samuel F. and John H. Shreve of the Washington Light Infantry. His daughters are Mrs. Mamie R. Fitzsimmons of Philadelphia and Mrs. Sallie A. Wilson. Chas. S. Shreve is his only surviving brother. The funeral will take place Monday next, at 3:30 p.m., from the family residence, 1545 6th street northwest. Mr. Shreve died on the anniversary of the death of his brother, Samuel F. Shreve, formerly of Anacostia.

Cousin Asks Court to Appoint an Administrator

A petition for the appointment of an administrator of the estate of Moy Shun, a citizen of the empire of China, who had resided for five years in the District, was today filed in the Probate Court. The application is made by Moy Pong, who declares that the decedent owned personal property amounting to $360, and left as his next of kin Zon Shun, his wife, and four minor children, all living in China. Moy Peng says he is a cousin of the decedent, but waives any right to administer the estate, and asks that the letters be issued to Attorney J. Clarence Price.

This is said to be the first time that administration of the estate of a Chinese citizen has been asked of the District Supreme Court.

Charles Siegert was one of the circus hands attached to the Wallace shows, met with an accident last night which may result in permanent injury. Siegert joined the circus at Bryan, Ohio, eleven weeks ago to take care of the ponies and has been in the habit of making his bed on top of one of the cages in which there is a fine Bengal tiger. Last night he retired as usual after the show, but was awakened shortly after 1 o'clock by the tiger, who was making a meal off his right leg, and who had just about finished stripping the portion within reach of his terrible teeth and claws. It is supposed that Siegert turned over while asleep, and that his leg dropped over the side of the cage in plain view of the beast. The tiger clutched it with his claws, drew it within reach and began upon it with his teeth.

Siegert awoke with a yell that awoke everything within the square and aid was quickly forthcoming in the shape of lighted torches, sharp irons and clubs which were used relentlessly by the keepers to beat the tiger back. The animal had a good hold, however, and did not relinquish his grip until forced to the other side of the cage by the merciless drubbing given him. Siegert was rescued and hurried off to the Emergency Hospital, where his terrible wound was dressed.

It was found that the leg was badly lacerated from the knee down, part of the calf being torn away, exposing the bone. After an examination, it was decided not to amputate the limb at present, the physicians at the hospital hoping to save it.

Siegert's death was undoubtedly due to shock. Weakened by the loss of blood he was in no condition to stand the fearful strain upon his nerves, and after a bold fight for life, he succumbed. It will be remembered that he made his bed Monday night upon the roof of the Bengal tiger's cage. In some manner his right leg swung over the edge and dangled in front of the iron bars. Quick as a flash the beat clutched the limb with its claws, and pulling it between two of the standards, sank its fangs deep into the flesh. Siegert's cries aroused the entire circus, but it was fully ten minutes before he was rescued from the position into which he was thrown by the pressure upon his leg. The dead man was 21 years of age, and lived in Tolleston, Ind. He joined the circus eleven weeks ago, and was by trade a butcher. It is said he was the support of a widowed mother.

An effort will be made by the police authorities to communicate with some relatives of the deceased, who are said to live in Tolson, Ind.

The Evening Star, August 9, 1893
Harry Sigger's Death
It Resulted from an Overdose of Morphia
Harry M. Siggers, the youngest son of George Siggers, a rule in the government printing office, died suddenly Monday under circumstances that were thought to be rather curious. Coroner Woodward has made an investigation of the case, and decided that the young man came to his death from an overdose of morphia. Whether or not it was taken with suicidal intent is a matter for conjecture. There was no reason apparent for suicide, but as he was accustomed to the use of the drug it is thought hardly likely that it could have been an accidental overdose, especially as the amount taken was very large.

Young Siggers was employed in the office of C.A. Snow & Co., patent attorneys, of which firm his brother is a member. He had been in poor health for some time and on Monday remained home from the office and stayed in his room all day. He did not come down to dinner and when his room was entered he was found lying on the bed, evidently very near to death. A physician was summoned at once, but he could do nothing, and about 5 o'clock death came. On investigation of the case Dr. Woodward found a prescription for morphia which had been given the young man some time ago by a physician when he was suffering from despondency.

An inquiry at the pharmacy developed the fact that the prescription had been refilled more than a score of times, as there is no law in the District to prevent the refilling of such a dangerous prescription any number of times. The family did not know that the young man was a victim of the morphine habit. The coroner gave a death certificate in accordance with the facts. The deceased was in his 22nd year. He was unmarried and lived with his family at 808 East Capitol street.

Regret for Mr. Siggers
At a special meeting of the class of '90, Washington High School, held last evening, to take action concerning the death of Harry M. Siggers, resolutions were unanimously adopted expressing profound sorrow and testifying to appreciation of the dead man's many admirable qualities of head and heart. Also the resolutions state that during the three years of association in the High School abundant opportunity was given to become impressed with the high ideals toward which the deceased was striving. The resolutions are signed by Tenney Ross, Wm. M. Wilson, B. Bruce Banks, J.M. Chamberlin, S. Carroll Ford, Florence C. Mortimer, E.S. Duvall, jur., and Carrie H. Smith.

Missed From His Desk And Found Dead At His Home

John Silance of U.S. Land Office Accidentally Asphyxiated in Kitchen of Residence

Missing from his desk at the land office this week, an investigation disclosed that John Silance, sixty years old, had been accidentally asphyxiated in the kitchen of his home, 1316 North Carolina avenue northeast.

The discovery of his death was made by J.W. Byler, chief of the tractbook division of the land office, and Policeman Hauschild of the ninth precinct. Mr. Silance was at the government department Saturday. He did not return Monday or yesterday. When he failed to appear at the office today it was thought strange, as no word had been received from him and he had not asked for leave of absence.

Mr. Byler went to the house with the policeman. They broke open the back door and found the body lying on the kitchen floor while the room was filled with gas.

Defective Fixture in Gas Range

Coroner Nevitt made an investigation and discovered that gas was escaping from a defective fixture of a gas range and accordingly gave a certificate of accidental death.

Mr. Silance was born at Harpers Ferry, W. Va, and had been employed as a clerk in the land office since 1882. His wife died about two years ago, and he is said to have resided at the North Carolina avenue house alone. A son resides in this city and is said to be employed by a steamship company.

Sim, Harriet
Yesterday morning after a painful and protracted illness, Mrs. Harriet Sim, the wife of Dr. Thomas Sim. Her life was eminently benevolent and useful and her death is sincerely lamented by a large circle of devoted friends. The friends and acquaintances of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral this morning at 10 o'clock.

 Reinterred from St. John's, July 1860 **

Sim, Dr. Thomas
On the 15th instant, of the prevailing epidemic (cholera), after an illness of forty-eight hours, Doctor Thomas Sim, for many years a distinguished Practitioner of this city.

Doctor Sim was in the 63d year of his age. For scientific acquirement, professional experience, soundness of judgment, and practical benevolence, he has not left a superior.

The unlimited confidence reposed in his skill and judgment by many of our oldest and most respectable families, to whom his services have justly endeared him, would have rendered his death at any time, a subject of heartfelt regret in this community. At this juncture, when a frightful and desolating malady is stalking among us, unappeasable and almost unconquerable -- when confidence is shaken by the want of success in its treatment, the loss of such a man is a public evil, and his demise will have created a chasm not readily or speedily to be filled.

In the wise though mysterious dispensations of Divine Providence, the shaft of death not infrequently pierces a shining mark, and in this instance it is trusted that, as the good Samaritan to whom many of us have been accustomed confidently to look for succor in our distresses, has been so unexpectedly removed, we shall find incitement for preparation, in our bereavement, to render an account of our stewardship when the awful mandate of Jehovah shall summon us to the judgment seat.

Friend of Comm. Steven Decatur who witnessed his will as he lay dying.

 Reinterred from St. John's, July 1860 **

Will of Dr. Thomas Sim, of Washington, D.C. (dtd. 1832, probated Sept. 21, 1832)
I desire that my remains may be decently interred in the site of the burial ground attached to St. John's Episcopal Church, in the City of Washington, parallel with the remains of my beloved wife, Hannah L. Sim, and that James Butt be employed to fix over it the same kind of monument as covers my dear wife, with the simple inscription of my name, birth and age.

Debts to be paid, and if necessary by collections from books for medical services
To Mrs. Margaret C. Mead, my plated candelabras or branched candlesticks, and I get of her to accept them not for their intrinsic value but as an acknowledgment of the grateful recollections which I entertain of her uniform benevolent kindness to me, more especially at a time when I most required sympathy and attention.

By deed of manumission in Dec. 1831, and recorded in the Co. Court of Washington, D.C., I liberated former slave Laura, then aged 30 years, at expiration of 5 years from Dec. 1, 1831, and her infant son John at age 21 years.

A deed from Charles Goldsborough, Esq. of Shoe Creek, [Dorchester] Co., Eastern Shore, Md., to my late wife Hannah L. Sim, for term of service of negro girl named Dorothea, or Dolly Nicholls, which deed is recorded in Dorchester Co., Md.; term will not expire until 1839; Laura and her son John; Dolly and her infant daughter Rebecca shall be free, and $25.

My elderly female servant Fanny Peters, for residue of her natural life, she has been the friend and protector of Laura; that Fanny and Laura live together and be provided for
To Ann Caroline Smith, youngest sister of Samuel Harrison, Esq., and now residing in his family, all residue of my estate.

A Navy Yard Employee
Says that the Politicians Want Him Removed
"Just as often as election time comes around we hear talk about charges against employes of the navy yard, and we expect them."

This was the answer of Capt. Charles O'Neal, inspector of ordnance at the navy yard, when asked concerning the charges against O.T. Beaumont, quartermaster of the projectile department.

"What are the charges?" inquired The Post reporter.

"I have received no official notice of the charges, and know absolutely nothing about them, except what has been published in the newspapers."

Mr. Beaumont was also seen, but had not officially been notified of the charges. "I understand, however," he said, "that John B. Simering of Baltimore, a machinist in the ordnance shops, has charged me with violating the civil service laws, in having collected campaign funds to aid in the election of President Cleveland. He has been anxious about my discharge ever since the administration changed, and is still banging away. They all know I am a Democrat, having been president of the Maryland Democratic Club at the last presidential election and if they don't want me I can get out."

"What has Simering against you?"
"Nothing, except that I am a Democrat. I came here as a fourth-class machinist eight years ago, and have worked my way up to the position I now hold, without influential backing, on my own merits."

Simms, Ann  d. 27 Oct 1858  67 yrs.  R75/107
Simms. On the evening of the 27th instant, Mrs. Ann Simms, in the 68th year of her age. The deceased had been for 30 years a consistent member of the Baptist Church in Alexandria and Washington, and was truly an example of the vital influences of religion, as well in the cheerful submission with which every trial was met, as in the blessed hope which it is at once the privilege and duty of the Christian to cherish. Through much suffering she reached the term of life, dying as she had lived, calmly, meekly, trustingly; and has left to her children, whom she loved tenderly, as she was tenderly loved in return, the well grounded assurance that the event which they mourn was to her but the dawn of a holy and happy immortality.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her daughter, on D street, near the corner of 11th, Island, on Saturday, the 29th, at 2 o'clock p.m. Friends are respectfully invited to attend. (Alexandria Gazette will please copy).

At her residence at High Point, (D.C.) in the 57th year of her age, Mrs. Mary H. Semmes. The life of this excellent lady was most exemplary. Few have merited a higher eulogium than she for the fidelity with which she discharged all the relative duties of life, exhibiting a rare instance of gentleness, patience, and energy under peculiarly severe trials.

By her engaging disposition, her ardent friendships, and amiable domestic virtues she secured a large share of the affections of all who knew her. For her servants she manifested a deep interest, ever mindful of their temporal comfort, and solicitous for their spiritual welfare.

She died in the communion of the Episcopal Church, and has, we cannot doubt, exchanged a life of trial and of suffering here for one of rest and happiness hereafter.

Died at Eighty-Five
Johnson Simonds, Who Was a Member of the Old Police Force
The death at an early hour this morning of Mr. Johnson Simonds recalls the days preceding the organization of the metropolitan police force.  Mr. Simonds was a member of the old police force under John T. Towers, and was afterward a member of the auxiliary guard under the late Captain Goddard.  The deceased was eighty-five years old at the time of his death.  For several years he has been too feeble to perform any physical labor, but he was confined to his bed only about two weeks.  He was father of Mr. George Simonds and uncle of Mr. Benjamin Simonds, both of whom were members of the present police force several years ago.  Mrs. Simonds is still living, and George Simonds is her only child.  He is fifty-six years old.

The funeral will take place Friday afternoon from the late residence of the deceased, No. 1258 10th street northwest.  Interment will be at Congressional cemetery.

A Girl Terribly Burned
About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon a girl named Nellie Simons, an inmate of the Women's Christian Association Home, on 13th, between R and S streets was badly if not fatally burned. She was standing close to a stove engaged in toasting a piece of bread, when her dress, coming in contact with the stove, ignited, and she was in a moment enveloped in flames. Her screams attracted the attention of other inmates, who wrapped her in blankets and extinguished the flames, but not until some portions of her body had been burned to a crisp, and notwithstanding every effort for her relief, she has since died. The unfortunate affair was an accident in which no blame can be attached to the worthy ladies in charge of the institution.

Simonton. In this city on the 15th instant, John W. Simonton aged about 65 years formerly a citizen of Key West, Florida and recently a resident here. His funeral will take place on this Tuesday afternoon at half past 4 o’clock from Mrs. Wallingford's boarding house on 4 and 1/2 street at which his friends and acquaintances are invited to attend.

Old Records, A.G.O., show no military service of a colonel or other officer named John W. Simonton (or John Simonton) prior to 1854. The records do show, however, that one John W. Simonton served in the War of 1812 as a private in Captain John B. Moorhead's Company, 1st Regiment (Kennedy's), Pennsylvania Militia. His service commenced September 1, 1814, and ended March 5, 1815. His place of residence is shown as Dauphin County, Pa. He was discharged in Baltimore.

Jefferson, B. Brown, “From Key West, The Old and The New,” 1912
John Watson Simonton - Mr. Simonton was a native of New Jersey, but his business connections were with several Southern cities and Cuba. After the settlement of Key West, his winters for several years were generally spent here, his Northern residence being Washington, D.C. He had an extensive acquaintance among the members of Congress, and was on intimate terms with several prominent men of the then administration, his influence always being exerted for the best interests of the island. After the location here of the United States troops in 1831, he was for some time sutler of the post, and was subsequently interested in the manufacture of salt, as the representative of a company whose stock was principally held in Mobile and New Orleans. He afterwards engaged in business in the latter city and died in Washington in May, 1851. His social qualities, amiability of temper, energetic business habits, and various places of residence caused him to have an extensive circle of friends and acquaintances.

The brightness of earth can ne'er woo my heart,
Nor take from this bosom grief's festering dart,
For mother, dear mother, lies pale with the dead,
The flowerets breathing perfume o'er her head.
Death rode on that storm, paralysis in hand,
And bore my dear mother from the beautiful land
The sunshine can no more enwreath her gray hair,
Those blue eyes are closed, death's seal, it is there!
The relatives and friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend her funeral on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Ellen Steaurt, No. 131 13 1/2 st, Island. (Baltimore Sun please copy).

Simpson, Suddenly on Sunday February 24, 1907 at 6 pm at her residence Giesboro DC after a lingering illness which she bore with Christian fortitude. Anna S. beloved wife of James W. Simpson. She is survived by her husband, one son and three daughters.
I shine in the light of God,
His image stamps my brown;
Through the shadows of death my feet have trod,
I reign in glory now.
Then why should your tears run down
And your heart by sorely riven?
For another gem is the Saviors’ Crown
And another soul in heaven.
By her husband and children.

B. Louis Simpson Dead
Was Capital Resident for More Than Thirty Years
B. Louis Simpson, a resident of Washington for more than thirty years, died Wednesday at his residence, 150 11th street southeast, after an illness of several months.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o’clock tomorrow afternoon, Rev. Paul R. Hickok of Metropolitan Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment will be in Congressional cemetery.

Mr. Simpson was born in Baltimore sixty-five years ago. He was the son of Col. Benjamin L. Simpson of the 9th Maryland Union Infantry. He was educated in the schools of that city and obtained his business training in the counting room of Enoch Pratt, the philanthropist. Later he served as an inspector in the Baltimore Customhouse.

He came to Washington in 1881 and established a coal business on Pennsylvania avenue, between 6th and 7th streets southeast, which he continued for the remainder of his life.

Sometime when all life's lessons have been learned,
When sun and stars forever more have set;
The things which our weak judgments here have pruned
The things over which we have grieved with lashes wet;
Will rise out of life's dark page
As stars shine forth in brighter tings of blue
And we shall see how all God's plans were right
And what we deemed reproof was love most true.

The National Intelligencer, December 15, 1848

A message was received from the House of Representatives by Mr. Campbell, their Clerk, announcing the death of the Hon. Alexander D. Sims, a Representative from the State of South Carolina, and the action of the House with reference thereto.

Mr. Butler, Mr. President: My late colleague, the Hon. Alexander Dromgoole Sims, whose death has just been announced by the resolution read, took his seat in the House of Representatives for the first time, in the Twenty-ninth Congress. A few days before his sudden death, which took place on the 16th of the last month, at Kingstree, South Carolina, he learned that he had been returned for the third time, by the same district, to Congress. These marks of popular favor were honorable evidence that he had won and retained the confidence of an intelligent constituency.

Mr. Sims was born in Brunswick county, Virginia, on the 12th of June, 103. His highly respectable parents, though in moderate circumstances, belonged to that class of persons who placed a high value on the advantages of a liberal education, and two of their sons attained eminence and distinction, and, by their success in life, made a worthy requital for the sacrifices of their parents.

The deceased, of whom I am speaking, if not a scholar in the highest import of that term, was a gentleman of excellent intellect, of various and elegant literary attainments. His brother (late a professor of Alabama University) was an eminent divine and ripe scholar. My colleague, after passing through his ordinary academic course, became a student in the North Carolina University, and continued in that institution until his junior year, when, perhaps attracted by the high reputation of Dr. Nott, for whose character he seemed to have entertained a pious veneration, he joined one of the higher classes in Union College, in the State of New York, and was graduated in that institution in 1823, leaving behind him a high reputation for capacity and attainments, especially in those branches of learning comprehending the tasteful pursuits of literature and the philosophy of the human mind.

On his return from college he studied law in the office of his uncle, (the late Gen. Dromgoole,) and for one or two years after his admission to the bar he practiced in the courts of Virginia. His success not being equal to his expectation or the aspirations of his ambition—for he was an ambitious man—he removed, in 1826, to Darlington district, South Carolina, and took charge of an academy. In this situation he was eminently useful, and laid the foundation of many enduring friendships, to which he may perhaps have been indebted for his subsequent success in life. Some of his pupils are now citizens of distinction, and bear testimony to the excellence of their teacher and preceptor, and perhaps the highest and most honorable monuments he has left behind him are intelligent citizens who acknowledge with gratitude the instructions derived from him.

Mr. Sims was admitted to the Bar of South Carolina in the year 1829 and soon acquired a lucrative practice. As a counselor, solicitor, and advocate, I can speak of him with unfeigned pleasure. He was engaged in the most important causes on his circuit, and was always equal to them. In the Supreme Court some of his arguments are marked by research, learning, and ability.

His ambition aspired rather more to political distinction than to forensic reputation, and before he entered upon the responsible duties of public life he took an active part in popular meetings in the exciting politics of the time. In 1840 he was returned a member of the Legislature of South Carolina. His efforts here enhanced his reputation among his constituents and fellow-citizens, and he was transferred to the Congress of the United States.

His career in that body is better known to others present than to myself. Judging from a notice taken of him in a late book of biographical sketches, he has acquired something like a historical reputation. In early life he was thoroughly schooled in the doctrines of the Republic party, and throughout his political career he adhered to them with consistency and firmness.

Mr. Sims possessed in a very high degree what is implied in the term address. He was a pleasing speaker, a man of frank and conciliating manners, and of kind and tolerant disposition.

The triumph of his late success, and his sudden death, were brought in instructive proximity with each other, and are mournful commentaries on the mutability of human life, and the nothingness of human ambition.

If he had faults, Mr. President, (and who of us is without them?) “the heart knoweth its own bitterness;” let them sleep with him in the grave, the common lot and the rebuking leveller of mankind.
Mr. President, I offer the following resolutions:

Resolved unanimously, That the Senate has heard with deep sensibility of the death of the Hon. Alexander D. Sims, a Representative from the State of South Carolina.

Resolved unanimously, That the members of the Senate, from a sincere desire of showing every mark of respect to the memory of the deceased, will wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved unanimously, That, as a further mark of respect for the memory of the deceased, the Senate do now adjourn.

And the Senate adjourned.

The National Intelligencer, Monday, January 8, 1848
The occurrence of four deaths amongst the members of Congress, being unexampled in one session, is well calculated to produce anxiety in the friends of the members, generally, at home; and we were about to make a remark or two with the view of removing unreasonable apprehensions at a distance, when the following appropriate observations met our eye in the Gazette of this city, which suit our purpose as well as any thing we could say, and we therefore copy them.

“During no previous session do we recollect that we have ever been so unfortunate, in the loss of our National Representatives; however, as to the general health of our city, we again repeat, a fact speaks for itself, our resident citizens enjoy their usual share of good health; as the official bill of mortality, for December, which we have published, will testify; 22 adults and 4 children are the total number of deaths for thirty-one days, in the most inclement and changeable season of the year; and that, in a population of about 14,000 souls. These remarks are submitted merely with a view to meet, at the threshold, imputations, from any quarter, that may operate against the character of our city, for its usual good health, and its salubrious atmosphere.”

We would add to the above a single remark—that, when we consider the number of persons of which the National Legislature is composed, being about 230—assembling here and residing during the most inclement months of the year—when we consider also, the great change of habits which many of them undergo, as to exercise, irregular meals, confinement in boarding houses, etc. and remember, moreover, that many of them are men far advanced in life—when we consider these circumstances, we ought rather to feel surprise, that deaths in this body have heretofore been so rare.

Sintlear, John
d. 14 Oct 1811

_The National Intelligencer, October 15, 1811_

On the 14th inst. John Sinclair, a native of Ireland, but for many years a resident of this city -- A warmer heart was never chilled by the cold hand of death. In a rough, uneducated form, was enclosed all that can ennable the human species. A high and correct sense of honor -- a manly independence -- strict sense of justice, and bold sincerity which could never suffer him to disguise his sentiments. His industry was indefatigable -- his benevolence unbounded -- his piety sincere and fervent. In the humble and obscure walks of life he was always doing good. The idle and vicious he stimulated to honest industry. The good, the poor, and the wretched, he comforted, encouraged and supported. As a husband and father he was kind and affectionate; as a friend he was firm and sincere.

When such characters occur in the humbler walks of life, their virtues ought to be made known, that they may be imitated.

His remains were followed to the grave by a large number of his friends and neighbors, and buried with religious and Masonic rites.

Funeral of Mrs. Skidmore Will Be Held Tomorrow

She Had Been a Resident of Washington for Over Half a Century

Funeral services for Mrs. Ann E. Skidmore, a resident of South Washington for many years, who died at her home, 301 11th street southwest, yesterday morning, will be held at Ryland M.E. Church at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Skidmore was a native of Virginia and was in her seventy-ninth year. During her residence in South Washington of more than a half century she was a member of Ryland Church and was widely known in church circles as an active Christian worker. She was particularly beloved among the poor and needy of that section of the city, and her charities and benefactions were conspicuous traits of her daily life.

Mrs. Skidmore had witnessed the gradual evolution of old Washington into the present city of beautiful proportions.

She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Annie L. Powers, and two sons, Jared F. Skidmore and James L. Skidmore.

Death of Mr. J.H. Skidmore

Mr. James H. Skidmore, for the past 42 years a leading fish dealer in our markets, died last evening at his residence, No. 305 10th street southwest. Mr. Skidmore was a native of Georgetown, D.C., and has resided in South Washington for over thirty years. When a mere boy he went into the fish business in the markets, and for many years past had been regarded as one of the leading dealers here. He added to his business that of fishing several shores on the Potomac. It was his boast that he was never absent two successive days from his business up to a year ago, when his health began to fail. A few weeks ago he was forced reluctantly to take to his bed. He leaves a wife and four children. Mr. Skidmore and was a kind and affectionate husband and father, and was generous to a fault. He had a host of friends here and elsewhere who will sympathize with the bereaved family. This morning the family received a telegram from the dealers in Fulton market, New York, tendering their sympathy. The funeral will take place Sunday.

<td>Francis Marion Skinner, 84 years old, retired chief clerk of the issuing division, United States Treasury Department, where he was employed for 40 years, died at his residence, 454 Tenth street southwest, yesterday after an illness of three weeks. Mr. Skinner was a veteran of the Union Navy and had long been active in fraternal circles here. He was retired from the Government service four years ago. Many years ago Mr. Skinner gained distinction by rescuing two men from drowning. The first time he dived overboard to rescue a man who fell from a boat and on the second occasion, rescued an escaped inmate of an asylum, who attempted to drown himself. Mr. Skinner served on the U.S.S. Tulip during the Civil War, rising to the grade of ensign. He was a past commander of Lincoln Post, Grand Army of the Republic; was an organizer and had held every office in Champion Council, No. 15, Junior Order of United American Mechanics; member of the Columbia Lodge of the Shield of Honor; had held all chairs in the Crusader Commandery, No. 180, Knights of Malta, and was at one time lieutenant commander of the Naval Veterans' Association of the District of Columbia. He also was a charter member of the &quot;Old Guard&quot; of this city and served as color sergeant of that organization for four years. Prior to his service in the Treasury Department, Mr. Skinner served for four years as a member of the Metropolitan police force here. Prior to then, as a newsboy, he sold first copies of The Evening Star. He was a native of Dumfries, Va., and came to this city with his father, the late William Skinner, when a boy. Mr. Skinner was married three times. His first wife died in 1873 and his second in 1912. He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Lillian T. Jacobsen, and two sons, Mitchell A. and Francis M. Slack, (Son)
...The only and beloved son of Gertrude and Stanley Slack departed this life on the 19th of January, 1879, aged 6 months. May he rest in peace.

Slack, Amelia A.L.
...On Thursday, January 76, 1897, Mrs. Amelia A.L. Slack, widow of William B. Slack. Funeral from her late residence, 735 13th street southeast, Saturday, January 9 at 3 p.m. Friends invited to attend.

Slack, John H.
...John H. Slack of this city, who was well known as a jockey and later as stable manager for owners of race horses, committed suicide at Beverly Farms, Mass., last Saturday by hanging. His body was brought to this city, and the funeral took place this morning from the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary E. Slack, 417 6th street northwest. Interment was at Congressional cemetery.

Slack, Junius Brutus
...Policeman Junius B. Slack after years of faithful service and participation in many a severe struggle received a wound last night that in all probability will end his career on earth. The wound was received in the line of duty and was apparently for no cause whatever, except that the person who committed the crime was filled with liquor, which made him feel as though he had to kill something or somebody. The name of that individual is Charles H. Myers, a butcher by trade, but who for some time past has earned his living driving a wagon and carrying passengers between the eastern terminus of H street and Benning.

He Used a Butcher Knife

Not many weeks ago Policeman Ehlers of the ninth precinct was called to the house to quiet Myers and he did so without making an arrest. He threatened to take him out of the house if he did not keep quiet, and after that, it is said, Myers used language to the effect that he would use his butcher knife, and the officer was told to be on the lookout for him, as he had threatened to "kill the d------ Dutch policeman."

J.H. Slack, Horseman, Ends Life By Hanging

He Tried to Quiet a Drunken Man

Officer Slack had quieted Myers several times when he was under the influence of liquor, and last night he had only attempted to do what he had done on previous occasions. The officer had been on duty and had just returned home, where his wife awaited him with the usual late supper. When he reached the front gate he heard Myers using bad language and disturbing his family generally, but as he did not feel well, he told his wife that he would wait until this morning and procure a warrant for Myers.

Officer Slack, being a mounted policeman, had to put his horse in the stable, and as he passed through the yard Myers seemed to employ more strength than ever in the use of expletives. Myers could not be induced to go into the house and go to bed, but he left his premises and strated on the road toward the city. The officer seeing his advice was of no avail, went out and met Myers at the front gate and told the intoxicated man of his intention to arrest him.

Mrs. Slack's Story
Mrs. Slack, the officer's wife, who witnessed what happened, tells the story in this way; When the officer tol dmYers that he was under arrest and before he had put his hand upon him Myers used the knife and Mr. Slack cried: "He's killed me."

Myers then turned toward his own yard and the officer followed him. When in Myers' yard they came together and although so dangerously wounded Slack used his club and fought to the last to maintain his arrest, exhibiting the nerve that has distinguished him on more than one occasion. The result was that Myers' head was severely cut and his right arm was broken below the elbow. In the tussle Myers, who is a heavy man, fell upon the prostrate form of the officer and it was with difficulty that the officer's wife and Myers' son got them separated.

Mrs. Slack Blew the Distress Call
The officer's whistle was taken from his pocket by his wife, who blew the distress call and summoned Policemen Wannell and Brown, who, upon searching the premises, found Myers in the yard walking to and fro, suffering from the effects of the punishment given him by the officer. The knife with which the injury was inflicted was found beneath the porch where Myers had thrown it.

The officer was taken into his house and Dr. Strickler was soon at his bedside. He found that the knife had entered between the fifth and sixth ribs and had passed beneath the skin a distance of from four to six inches, as the blade of the knife indicated from the blood stain upon it. The condition of the officer's vest looked as though Myers had made a second attempt to use the knife, but it did not pass further than the garment.

Dr. Leach dressed the wound on Myers' head and he was then taken to the Emergency Hospital, where his broken arm was set.

Officer Slack's Condition
Drs. McKim and Strickler, the police surgeons, were looking after the officer this morning. The wound is an ugly one, and appearances indicate that the knife was twisted when in the wound. Dr. McKim said he would not say that the wound was necessarily fatal, as it was too early this morning to state the exact extent of it.

The weapon is held at the ninth precinct station to be used as evidence in event of the case reaching the courts. It is what is called a splitting knife, the blade being about twelve or fourteen inches long. The rust marks on the knife show that it had not been in use for a long time.

Myers in the Police Court
Myers, who is a badly disabled man, was taken to the Police Court this morning, where he was confronted with a warrant sworn out by Policeman Wannell charging him with attempted murder. Lawyer Sillers represented the prisoner, and made application for his release on bail, but Judge Miller declined to fix bail in the case without the consent of the prosecuting attorney. Myers was very sick when he appeared in court. His head is badly cut, and he seemed to be in a dazed condition. He declined to be interviewed only because he was too ill to talk. After court was over for the day he was committed to jail to await the result of the officer's injuries.

The Evening Star, November 26, 1891
Officer Slack Dead
He Could Not Survive the Wound Inflicted by Myers--
His Good Record on the Force
A brave policeman is dead, and his loss is mourned not only by his family, friends and brother officers, but also by the law-abiding citizens, who respected him as much as the law-breakers feared him. Officer Slack passed away about twenty-four hours after he received the fatal stab wounds inflicted by his neighbor, Charles J. Myers, the butcher and driver of a public coach, as published in yesterdays Star.

Yesterday morning Police Surgeons McKim and Strickler visited the patient and while they knew that the wounded officer was in a bad way, they gave the family hoeps of his recovery.
Maj. Moore, in his endeavor to do all in his power toward saving the officer's life, sent for Dr. J. Ford Thompson and had him see the dying man, whose condition was corrected stated in yesterday's Star. He made an examination of the patient and said he could give the family no hopes in the world, as he considered the wound a fatal one.

Later in the evening Maj. Moore received word that the officer was resting quietly, and he then had some hope of his ultimate recovery.

His Last Moments

Policeman Crawford of the eighth precinct was sent to the Slack residence last night to sit up and look after his brother officer.

Mrs. Slack, who had remained with her husband ever since the fatal minute, was tired out, but as she had little hope of his recovery she determined to remain with him until the last moment, and so she did. Mr. Stanley L. Slack, the officer's brother, who is a teacher at the Reform School, reached the house shortly after dark and remained until the last moment. Shortly before 2 o'clock the patient seemed stronger and wanted to sit up. He was raised and was able to sit up without assistance. He apparently recognized everybody in the room, and, taking his brother by the hand, he said, "It is all up with me."

Then he wanted to lie down again, and as he did so he breathed his last.

The Dead Policeman's Record

Officer Slack was one of the best known members of the police force, having worn the blue clothes and brass buttons since 1880. He was born near Langley, Fairfax county, Va., July 18, 1846, and when quite young he came to the District and lived in what is known as the old first ward, where he served his apprenticeship as a carpenter. For a number of years he worked at his trade for J.G. Naylor, an extensive carpenter and builder, and in 1876 he applied for a position on the police force. The disfigurement of his face operated against him and he was rejected by the surgeons. He was persistent, however, and four years later he received his appointment. Lieut. Vernon, who was then captain, assigned him to the present eighth precinct, where he has done duty ever since, with the exception of a short time that he was in the present sixth precinct.

A Terror to Illicit Liquor Dealers

Soon after his appointment as an officer he was put on the mounted service and has done duty in the county, particularly along the Benning and Bladensburg roads and in the vicinity of Ivy City. From time to time he has performed valuable services for the authorities at the reform school, and through his strict attention to duty he had about succeeded in stopping the sale of liquor on his beat on Sunday, and had made that section a quiet place, where rowdies and thieves seldom went and violated the law. During his term of service he made many enemies among the whisky men and lawbreakers, but the law-abiding citizens remained faithful to him, and for that reason in his many trials he came out all right.

His father was the late John Hancock Slack, who was teacher of languages in the school in the old Bank of Columbia in Georgetown. His mother was Lydia Hastings of Georgetown.

The Funeral on Sunday

The deceased leaves a wife and five children, the youngest being seven months old. His funeral will take place at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Markham, and the interment will be made in Congressional cemetery.

Investigating the Case

This morning Maj. Moore had Inspector Swindells detail Detective Block in the case, as he wanted a thorough investigation made. An order announcing the officer's death and making a detail of twenty-four men to attend the funeral will be issued by Maj. Moore tomorrow.

The fatal meeting between the officer and his neighbor, as published in yesterday's Star, happened about ten minutes before 1 o'clock yesterday morning, when the officer returned home from duty. After the fatal injury had been inflicted and Myers had also received severe injuries the distress whistle was blown and Policemen Brown and Wannell responded. When the officers reached there the men were not clinched, but the officer had been taken into his house and Myers was in his yard, not far from where he had thrown the knife.

Mrs. Myers, who is an estimable lady, appeared upon the scene, but she probably had no idea of the damage that had been done. Policeman Wannell thought that that was Mrs. Myers' first appearance on the scene and he says that she remarked 'That's whisky; that's whisky.'

The officer said he asked her not to repeat it as he did not want Myers excited any more than he already was. Knowing what had been done the officer feared he would repeat the assault and they proceeded cautiously toward him, expecting every moment to see him draw the knife or a revolver, but when they caught him he was not armed.

_Another Wound Found_

After the officer's death it was discovered that the wound of the left side was not the only one made by the "splitting knife," as there was another stab wound almost as bad in appearance as the one which had been dressed by the physician and which it was supposed had caused death. This wound was in the region of the groin and was about the same width as the other wound and was probably as deep. It is probable that one wound was received after the men clinched in the yard, when the then dying officer was attempting to maintain his arrest.

_The Coroner to Investigate_

Coroner Patterson was notified of the officer's death this morning and this afternoon he went to the house of the deceased in company with Deputy Coroner Schaeffer. The latter made the post mortem examination.

_Aid for Mrs. Slack_

Detective Block has started a subscription for the family of the deceased policeman by heading the list with $5.

Slack. The remains of the late Officer Junius B. Slack will be buried from the vault at Congressional Cemetery, Thursday, December 17, 1891 at 2 p.m. Friends invited to attend.

"The National Intelligencer, July 28, 1834

Obituary

The Hon. Charles Slade, of Illinois, whose decease was mentioned in a brief paragraph some days ago, we since learn, died of Cholera, after a few hours illness, at the house of Captain John Steen, near Vincennes, on his way home from Congress. His remains were interred at Vincennes, with Masonic honors.

"In his sudden death, (observes a correspondent of the Globe) we have another instance of the frail tenure which attaches us to life and all earthly enjoyments. He left this scene of legislative and party strife, full of health and hope, anxious to behold again his beloved wife and children after a longer absence than they had ever before felt; but, within a short distance of these endearing objects, he has been forever arrested by an invisible hand. Yet, if the Christian has hope, his was a sudden translation from the toils and cares of this, to that better sphere of being, where a bright reversion awaits the righteous..

"Mr. Slade was a native of Alexandria, in this District, born of respectable parents, who gave him a plain and religious education. At an early period of life, with limited means, and without the advantage of friends, he went to Illinois, and established himself on the Kaskaskia river; and there, by a course of diligent attention to business, sustained by intelligence and probity, he acquired much reputation, if not considerable wealth. He was a member of the State Legislature several years, and distinguished in the Assembly for the useful, rather than the shining qualities, in short, an unostentatious man of business, looking steadfastly to the good of his constituents, and that of the general community, by carefully studying their interests, and making himself thoroughly acquainted with the condition, wants, and resources, of this young and most fertile State. These properties brought him into Congress, where his modesty, gentleness, unaffected simplicity of heart and manners, united to much intellectual promptitude, gained the respect and esteem of all with whom he came into contact. He made no pretension to oratory, but what he said was always at the proper time, and to the purpose. Though he made no display in Congress, he was remarked for the regularity of his attendance, and his untiring patience during many of its long and vexatious sessions; and, as a member of the Committee on Roads and Canals, he was equally attentive to his duties, and anxiously alive to the wishes of his constituents.

"Mr. Slade was certainly in the path to the highest honors of his adopted State, and would have lost no reputation as her Representative in the National Legislature; and the early fall of such men must be matter of general regret, if not to be regarded as a public calamity. In his death, Illinois has lost a patriot, his family a most affectionate husband and father, and the writer of this article a friend long to be lamented."

Isaac C. Slater of Washington died suddenly at his country home, Poniona, near Lovettsville, Va., yesterday afternoon. He had left the city for his farm on Saturday, and was at that time apparently in perfect health. His unexpected demise was a great shock to his family and large circle of friends in this city.

Mr. Slater was for many years an active business man of Washington. For the last twenty-two years he had been in partnership with ex-Assistant Postmaster General William B. Thompson, doing business under the firm name of Thompson & Slater with offices in the Glover building, on F street northwest. He bore an excellent reputation and was very popular with his associates in business. Mr. Slater was a native of Loudoun county, Va., and about sixty-five years of age. He had a residence in this city and also the country home in Virginia, at which he died.

Funeral of Isaac C. Slater
Services Tomorrow at Church of the Reformation
Interment to Be in the Congressional Cemetery --
List of the Pallbearers

The funeral of the late Isaac C. Slater will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Church of the Reformation. The services will be conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. John Weidley, assisted by Rev. Dr. Butler of the Luther Memorial Church. The interment, which will be private, will be at Congressional cemetery.

The honorary pallbearers will be ex-Assistant Postmaster General W.S. Shallenberger, ex-Postmaster General E.P. Postlewaite of Philadelphia, ex-Representative James H. McGowan, Amzi Smith, J.H. Crew, Frank Farnsworth, John A. Southlender and Fourth Assistant Postmaster General DeGraw.

The active pallbearers will be Henry Hesse, Henry Stopsack, Calder Unger, Dickerson Hoover, John Erbach and Burns Downey.

His Public Service
The deceased was formerly an official of the Post Office Department, but had long engaged in the practice of the law in partnership with Col. William B. Thompson, under the firm name of Thompson & Slater, with offices in the Glover building on F street. The firm made a specialty of railroad business and was very successful in the practice as railroad attorneys. Mr. Slater was a native of Virginia, having been born in the county in which he died February 25, 1843. He removed to Washington with his parents in 1857, and for a number of years was connected with the Post Office Department.

In 1885 he became a partner of ex-Assistant Postmaster General William B. Thompson in the practice of the law, and this association continued until his death.

He became a member of the Masonic order in Virginia, and soon after his removal to Washington affiliated with Federal Lodge, No. 1, the oldest lodge in the District. His card of transfer was presented August 28, 1866, and he was therefore a member of Federal Lodge for over forty years. He became a member of Columbia Chapter, No. 1, R.A.M., February 6, 1867 and had continued more than forty years a member of that body. He was knighted in Washington Commandery, No. 1, K.T., July 13, 1888, and was a member until his decease.

Mr. Slater's death was unexpected, and, although he had been ailing for some time, came as a great shock to his family and business associates. He is survived by one son, Harris W. Slater of New York; a daughter, Helen C. Slater, and a grandson, William I. Slater of this city. He also leaves a brother, William F. Slater of the Post Office Department.

Death of a Well-known Citizen

Mr. John S. Slater a well-known citizen of East Washington, died at his residence after an illness of several months. Mr. Slater was born July 21st 1837, and died on the same day in 1875, at about the same hour on the day that he was born, thus making him exactly 38 years of age. In early life he learned the carpenters' business, but when the internal revenue bill was passed he became connected with the office of the assessor for this District, and served in that and the collector's office for several years. He next took a position under the District government, and had been engaged for some time as principal clerk in the office of superintendent of assessments and taxes. Mr. Slater was for many years a leading member and class leader of the East Washington Methodist Protestant church, and an officer of the Sunday school, and was one of the organizer's of the North Carolina avenue mission of the M.P. church a few years since. Mr. S. was a staunch temperance man and a prominent member of the Rechabites, and was also a member of St. John's Lodge, No. 11, Columbia Chapter No. 1, of Masons, and of the Masonic Mutual Relief Association. He was an earnest Christian of the strictest integrity, possessing the confidence and respect of all who knew him. By his death the District government has lost a faithful officer, the community a good citizen, and the church a zealous member. Many friends will sympathize with his widow and orphaned child. His funeral will take place at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the North Carolina avenue mission.

The Evening Star, July 24, 1875

The funeral of the late John S. Slater took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the North Carolina avenue mission of the M.P. Church, which was crowded to its utmost capacity by the relatives and personal friends of the deceased, among them many of our old and substantial citizens. The services of the church were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Jesse Shreve, assisted by Revs. Oliver Cox and T.D. Valliant, after which the cortego was formed and marched to the Congressional cemetery, where the Rechabite funeral services were performed by Eagle Tent, Chief Ruler T.B. Marche officiating. The remains were deposited in the family lot.

Slater, Mrs. Margaret

Slater. On the morning of the 19th, Mrs. Margaret Slater in the 47th year of her age, wife of William Slater and daughter of the late Isaac Cooper of this city. The friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral from her late residence on New Jersey avenue at 2 o'clock today.

Slater, Margaret E.

Slater. On Friday evening, June 1, 1877 of membraneous croup, Maggie E., eldest daughter of Jacob J. and Sarah A. Slater, aged 7 years 8 months 5 days. Funeral will take place from residence of his parents, No. 1930, 9th street s.w. at 3 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, the 3d inst. Friends and acquaintances of the family are respectfully invited to attend.

Loud Cries For Help Heard
Twining City Residents Aroused By Appeals
Nothing Discovered on Investigation,
But Apprehension of a Tragedy Is Entertained
Residents of Twinning City were aroused last night at about 11:15 o'clock by piteous cries for help which appeared to come from the Washington side of the river. An investigation by several persons, who rushed across the Pennsylvania Avenue bridge pointed to a tragedy of some kind that was unsolved at a late hour last night. A passenger on a car for Randle Highlands crossing the bridge shortly before 11:30 o'clock last night said that two negroes ran across the bridge and turned toward Benning after telling one of the searchers that they had heard no noise.

The Washington side of the river at that point is about as gloomy and dark a place as there is in the city. The bank slopes down steeply to the water's edge, and below the bridge are railroad tracks on which is no light except that of an occasional passing train. Looking down upon the place from the bridge always gives pedestrians an unpleasant sensation, and when the cries were first heard coming from the pitlike depression several men who had gone to bed dressed themselves and rushed to give what assistance they could.

A first the cries were very loud. "For God's sake, help me. I can't hold out much longer," in a man's voice was heard very nearly in every part of Twinning City. Among the first men to get to the Washington side of the bridge were Charles N. Baker and Arthur L. Baker. They plunged down the bank and began a careful search, but the cries had become almost inaudible and finally ceased.

The searchers called out, "Where are you?" several times, but received no answer.

The two negroes mentioned climbed up the bank about the time the Twinning City people were arriving. They said they had heard nothing, but the answer did not satisfy the men who had been aroused by the cries, and they told the motorman of a car which stopped on the bridge to have the policeman at the east end arrest the men. By the time the car reached the policeman the negroes were out of his reach. They turned into the Anacostia road and went off in the direction of Benning at a rapid rate.

The men who heard the cries and searched the place firmly believe that some one was killed and thrown into the river.

Fisherman's Body In River
Slater Fell From Coal Chute Near Bridge
Drowning Man's Cries Roused Twinning City Residents,
But Help Came Too Late
The man whose piteous cries for help roused residents of Twinning City to the north end of the Pennsylvania Avenue bridge, at a late hour Saturday night, as stated in The Sunday Star, was Robert Slater, thirty-five years of age, who lived with his wife and child at 242 1/2 14th street southeast. Slater had left home earlier in the night to go fishing, and members of the crew of the police boat recovered the body shortly after 6 o'clock.

When the body was taken from the channel of the river near the coal chutes of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company it was fully dressed. Fishing tackle found in the coat pockets indicated that Slater had fallen overboard before he started to fish. Charles N. Baker, Arthur L. Baker, George Sears and Policeman Seabin, who responded to the cries for assistance Saturday night, it is believed, could have saved him had he been able to keep himself above the surface of the water one minute longer.

It took the men several minutes to run from Twinning City to the north end of the bridge. They responded to his cries for help by shouting to him to hold on to the coal chute until they could reach him, but his cries ceased just before the north end of the bridge was reached and he sank below the surface of the water.

During the investigation yesterday the police learned that a man and woman were seen near the water's edge some time before he accident occurred, but, they say, there is nothing unusual about such persons being seen about there. They were not there at the time Slater was drowned. Two colored men were crossing the bridge and heard the cries, but they were too much frightened to go to the man's assistance.

Coroner Nevitt made an investigation of the drowning last night. He learned from relatives of the dead man that the latter, who was a tinner, had been in the habit of spending his Saturday nights fishing. They were satisfied that he had accidentally fallen overboard and lost his life. The coroner gave a certificate of accidental death, and Undertaker Schippert took charge of the body to prepare it for burial.

A master carpenter, Slight was employed in January 1825 by Charles Bulfinch, who was just finishing the Capitol's first dome. He subsequently became the Capitol's "handyman," performing such jobs as fixing sticking desk drawers for the Senate, repairing clogged gutters for the Commissioner of Public Buildings, and installing shelves for the Clerk of the House of Representatives. When Walter came to the Capitol to begin construction of the extensions he appointed Slight the foreman of carpenters.

Slight's years of experience proved invaluable when it came time to dismantled the old wooden dome. Having maintained the dome for years, he knew it well. The copper covering on the outer dome, for example, had been replaced by Slight, who advised captain Meigs on how it could be economically removed using curving ladders he had devised for its installation. Slight also warned Meigs of the weak spot in the center of the rotunda floor—a circular opening he had helped close in 1828 to prevent rising damp air from ruining Trumbull's paintings. Meigs designed the tripod scaffold to stand clear of the former opening. Slight and his men built the scaffold as well as the temporary wooden roof that protected the rotunda during construction of the new iron dome. Ironically, his son Robert, a rigger on the new dome, slipped from the scaffold and was found dead on the temporary roof. Slight died in 1860 after 15 years of helping to build, maintain, improve, dome and redome the Capitol.

Found Dead in His Room
Corporal of Marines Believed to Have Committed Suicide
A man whose body was identified as that of James T. Small, a corporal of marines, was found dead in a room at 1226 Pennsylvania avenue northwest this morning about 9:30 o'clock. On the floor beside his bed was an empty bottle on which was a label showing it had contained laudanum. When Corporal Small engaged the room last night he retired without going through the formality of registering, and nothing was known of his identity until a marine was called from the barracks. He promptly identified the body and said that Corporal Small was a member of the squad of marines on duty on the Mayflower.

The room in which the corporal died had three occupants last night. Those who spent the night there besides Small were Frederick F. Schwab and Robert L. Eubank. When these men arose and were ready to leave the room they made an unsuccessful effort to arouse the marine. Concluding he was a heavy sleeper they withdrew from the room and thought no more about him until they heard he was dead. He was alive when they saw him, they declared, and his body was warm, when the police were summoned to the hotel.

In the pocket of the dead man's coat was a letter, in which he stated it to be his intention to end his life. It was said at the navy yard t his afternoon that the only man named Small on the Mayflower was Thaddeus Small. He enlisted from Philadelphia, and gave Atlantic City as his home. The letter found on him was addressed to a friend in New York.

John Smallwood
Navy Yard Shipcarpenter
(by Patricia Smallwood Sheetz
Huntington, Maryland)
It has been extremely difficult to discover facts about John Smallwood, for although he lived eighty-two years, he left little paperwork behind. I have researched the Census Records, Boyds' Directories, and historical data to unravel a few facts. John was born in 1800, just as the city he lived in was becoming known as Washington, DC. In 1800, one historian wrote, "Washington the new Capitol has been recently occupied. It was hardly a village, except on paper, and contained only the Capitol, the White House, two departmental buildings, and a few boarding houses. The public buildings were still uncompleted. Mrs. Adams, the wife of President John Adams, found the audience room of the White House convenient for drying clothes, and the representatives met in a temporary building erected in the middle of the unfinished Capitol."

John first appeared in the Boyds' Directory in 1827. He was listed as working for the Navy Yard as a ship carpenter and living at the NW corner of 10e and K Street. I have verified through, the District of Columbia's Marriage records that he was married three times. His first wife, Mary Mills bore him nine children. At present, I have determined that two of these children had children. I believe also that I have evidence of at least two sisters of John.

John was a hardworking individual. At various times he had his grandchildren and their children living with him. He arranged for many people to be buried, I think possibly they were church members who were the last in their families. John was a member of the Odd Fellows Organization in SE Washington, DC. and served as their Grand Noble for several years.

At this time I am unable to positively identify John's parents, but from the data I have on hand it leads me to believe he is a child of a Charles County Smallwood family. Mary Mills Smallwood is buried at Congressional Cemetery, along with her daughter Catherine and son Samuel, Range 46, Site 35. Their grave is unmarked. John died 6 February 1882 and is buried at Congressional Cemetery, Range 40, Site 195.

Smallwood, John Eston
b. 4 Jun 1862 - d. 11 Apr 1930  R70/D-2

John Eston Smallwood, Sr.
Navy Yard Supervisor and Washington Light Guard Lieutenant
(by Patricia Smallwood Sheetz
Huntington, Maryland)

John Eston Smallwood was born in Washington, DC on the 4th of June 1862 to Lemuel B. Smallwood and Mary Elizabeth Bartlett. John was named after his grandfather, John Smallwood (1800-1882). He was approximately 5'10" in height, thin and always wore a mustache.

What little is known about John Eston has been abstracted from his official work record. By 1874, John was 12 years old and working at the Navy Yard which is located on M Street in Washington, DC. He was the third generation of Smallwood's to work there, serving continuously for 55 years, one of the longest records of uninterrupted service in local government branches. He started as a helper and was promoted three times. His final position was supervisor of surveys for the Navy Yard.

Besides his position with the Navy Yard John found time to serve with the District National Guard, as a Lieutenant. He was also a drill master of several teams of the Mount Vernon Council No. 10 Junior Order of United American Mechanics, of which he was recording secretary for 27 years. As a charter member of the Mount Vernon Council he created and organized the Mount Vernon Council No. 18, Daughters of America. His fraternal affiliations included membership in the National Lodge No. 12, F.A.A.M.

In 1885, John married Mattie Cornelia Turner the daughter of Zachariah Turner and Ann Rebecca Latham. They had three children (1) Ida Gertrude Smallwood (Yost); (2) Mary Ella Rebecca Smallwood (Poole); and one son, (3) John Eston Smallwood Jr.

Patricia Smallwood Sheet, Huntingtown, Maryland Research
Lemuel B. Smallwood was the youngest son of John and Mary (Mills) Smallwood. He was born in Washington, DC on 1 January 1840. He had grey eyes, auburn hair and was 5 feet 10 inches in height at the time of his enlistment in the Army on February 27, 1864. He was assigned to Company F of "Cole's Calvary," First Regiment Potomac Home Brigade Cavalry. After the burning of Chambersburg, Pa., in July 1864, by a raiding party of Confederate Cavalry, "Cole's Cavalry" assisted in driving the enemy out of Maryland. Later Lemuel was commissioned and transferred to Company M as a Sergeant by Captain Wall. By the winter of 1864-5 "Cole's Cavalry" was assigned to duty in West Virginia for the remainder of the Civil War to protect that section from the Confederate's, under General Rosser and Mosby's Guerrillas. Lemuel was stationed at the following military sites, Harper's Ferry, Virginia; Point Lookout, Maryland and Deep Creek, West Virginia. He was Honorably Discharged from the Army on June 28, 1865.

Before his enlistment in the Army, Lemuel attended the District's school system till he was 12 years old. As a young man he was employed at the Navy Yard in Washington, DC as a blacksmith. He also served with the Washington Light Guards (DC's National Guard).

Lemuel died in Washington, DC on October 12, 1873. He is buried at Congressional Cemetery, Range 70, Site 3, Section D. Pension papers state that he contracted consumption in the service and never recovered from its effects:

Mrs. Smallwood Dead
Lifelong Washington Resident Succumbs at Age of 83
Mrs. Mary E. Smallwood 83, a lifelong resident of Washington, died yesterday at the home of her son, L. Vernon Smallwood, 1603 Lincoln road northeast, after a long illness.

She was the oldest member of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, having joined at the age of 5. Mrs. Smallwood was one of the original organizers of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in Washington. She was the widow of Lemuel B. Smallwood, commissary sergeant in Cole's 1st Maryland Cavalry during the Civil War and a retired navy yard employe.

She is survived by three sons -- John E., Isaac C. and L. Vernon Smallwood -- a sister, Miss Ida Bartlett, and a brother, Edwin C. Bartlett, civil service examiner.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church by Rev. Frank Steeleman, followed by interment in Congressional Cemetery.

The National Intelligencer, November 11, 1836
It is due to the memory of the pious and amiable lady, whose death was announced in your paper of Thursday, to give a somewhat more extended obituary notice of her. Mrs. Smallwood was the relict of Samuel N. Smallwood, formerly Mayor of Washington. She was among the oldest female inhabitants of our city, in which she resided for upwards of thirty years, beloved and esteemed by all who knew her. Her disposition was so mild and gentle, and her temper so inoffensive and amiable, that she passed through life without making an enemy, or intentionally wounding the feelings of a single human being. "Her very failings leaned to virtue's side," and though she had her sorrows and afflictions (for who, in this vale of tears, can be exempt from them) she always bore them with pious resignation and yielded to the stroke of Providence with entire submission. Thus this excellent woman died as she had lived, a pattern of Christian virtue, and an example of moral purity, worthy of imitation.

Great Changes in Southeast Washington Are Shown By Rambler
The will of Ruth Smallwood shows her feeling for her slaves and names bits of personal property--silver sugar bowl, etc.--which she thought a great deal of. Those things may have been left her by her parents. They may have been in the family for generations. They may have been associated with her early years as wife and mother. She was careful of them and bequeathed them to her children, Clara Smallwood and Mary Ellen Addeson. Women understand how many memories may hang about a cream pitcher or a pair of sugar tongs.

The Rambler assumes that Ruth Smallwood was the widow of Samuel Nicholls Smallwood, lumber merchant and Eastern Branch wharf owner who died in 1824 and left an estate of large value. His widow, Ruth, and son, William A., were administrators. I have not found the will or the administration case of William, and I assume that he did not die in Washington, but I do not warrant that my search was complete. The will of Ruth shows that the wealth bequeathed by Samuel N. Smallwood to his widow and son decreased and nothing is extraordinary in that. It be an old story. Ruth's will was signed October 6, 1836, and offered to the court for proof November 8, 1836. The witness was D'Archy A. French. You will get more comfort from reading the will than reading my comment on it, so the will follows:

"Item--It is my will and request that my daughter Clara should it be her wish shall sell and dispose of her house and lot on Eleventh street and purchase with the proceeds thereof the house and lot now in my possession on Seventh street, with the lot contiguous thereto, that she may secure to herself a comfortable home and dwelling, and I desire and request that the rest of my children and heirs will consent to it.

"I give and bequeath to my daughter, Clara, one of my best beds, bedsteads, mattress and furniture attached to it, that I leave at my death, to be selected by herself, also my silver sugar dish, silver sugar tongues, silver cream jug, half dozen silver dining spoons, eight silver teaspoons, one pair of looking-glasses to be chosen by herself, also my piano and claw-footed table, also my large Bible and my two trunks, one large and a small one.

"Item--I will and desire that my executor hereinafter named, as soon after my death as convenient will sell and dispose of my negro girl Harriet, now aged about 16 years, to some good master or mistress in the District of Columbia, and not to any one living outside the District, to serve as a slave the period of 10 years from the time of my death, and no longer, after which period I will the said negro girl Harriet to be free and set at liberty, being desirous to reward her for her fidelity to me, and I wish and desire my executor to apply the proceeds arising from the sale of negro Harriet for the term aforesaid to the payment, first of my funeral expenses and the balance to the payment of my just debts.

"Item--I will my negro woman Mima free from the time of my decease, and desire that she may be set at liberty immediately thereafter. I also will and desire that my old negro woman Lyda shall be free and set at liberty from the time of my death, and I will and desire that my negro woman Mima shall live with her, wait on her and take care of and treat kindly my said old faithful negro Lyda so long as she shall live.

"Item--It is my will and desire that my executor shall hire out somewhere in the country my negro man Robert and pay the proceeds of his hire regularly to my two daughters Mary Ellen Addison and Clara., the same to be divided equally between them.

"Item--I will and desire that my children will provide some small but comfortable house for my old faithful servant Lyda, to live in so long as she survives, and I will and desire my daughters, Mary Ellen Addison and Clara, to apply and appropriate so much of the funds arising from the hire of Robert as they may think necessary to the support of old Lyda.

"It is my will and desire that my beloved children and heirs will, after my decease, have the burial ground handsomely paled in as a toke of respect and veneration."

John Addison, Jr. was named in the will as executor.

Resolved, unanimously, That, as a mark of respect for the memory of the deceased, the Members of the two Boards will wear crape on the left arm for the space of thirty days, and that the like testimony of respect be recommended to the officers of the Corporation generally.

Resolved, unanimously, That the Members of the two Boards, with their Secretaries, will attend the funeral of the deceased; and that a committee to consist of two Members from each Board, be appointed to cooperate with his friends in making the necessary arrangements.

Resolved, unanimously, That the Register of the City and all other officers of this Corporation, be requested and are hereby invited to join the two Boards in attending the funeral.

Resolved, unanimously, As a further mark of respect for the memory of the deceased, That the two Boards do now adjourn, and that they stand adjourned until Monday the 4th of next month.

Resolved unanimously, That the Presidents of the two Boards be requested to transmit to the widow of the deceased a copy of the foregoing resolutions.

The National Intelligencer, Saturday, October 2, 1824

The funeral of our late Mayor S.H. Smallwood, Esq. took place yesterday afternoon and was respectfully and numerously attended. As a mark of respect to the merits of this citizen, the shops on the Avenue were closed at 3 o'clock yesterday for the remainder of the day.

The Navy Yard Section During the Life of the Rev. William Ryland
Columbia Historical Society, Volume 4

Mr. Smallwood was one of the first of the city's merchants, being mostly engaged in the lumber business. He owned one of the wharves on the Anacostia River near the foot of Fourth Street, and was actively engaged in many other things. He was a director in one of the banks; was an incorporator of the Washington City Canal, which was expected by its projectors to be a mine of wealth to the stockholders and a source of great benefit to the city; was one of the incorporators of the Navy Yard Bridge Company, which built the first bridge over the Anacostia after the two bridges across that stream were destroyed during the invasion of the city by the British in 1814; was one of the managers of the public lottery authorized by the city government for raising funds for the building of public school houses and of the city hall; and was mayor of Washington from 1819 to 1822, and again from June to September, 1824. He died in 1824. His daughter married Jonathan Prout son of William Prout, owner of what was known as Prout's Farm, out of which was formed much of the city in the Navy Yard section.

The residence of Mr. Smallwood is still standing, being what is now known as 324 Virginia Avenue southeast.

Colonel Samuel N. Smallwood was a leading dealer in lumber and building supplies. He lived at the corner of 2nd & N St., S.E. (now part of a public housing project just southeast of the Waterside Mall), in the neighborhood of Smallwood’s Wharf located at the foot of 2nd St., S.E. on the “Eastern Branch” (the Anacostia). At the time it was one of the main wharves of the City.

In 1820 the City had a population of 13,474, of whom 3,636 were black (1/2 slaves and 1/2 free). There were 2,141 buildings in Washington including a Masonic Hall and eleven churches. Alexandria and Georgetown were significant ports at the time having 9,844 and 7,519 inhabitants respectively.

Smallwood first entered public life in 1804 when he was elected to the 3rd Council as Alderman (serving with Rapine). He was reelected in 1806 and 1809-1811. Smallwood was elected Mayor by the City Councils in 1819. In 1820 Congress amended the city charter to provide that the Mayor be elected by popular vote to a term of 2 years. Smallwood was the first to be so elected. He lost the election of 1822 to Thomas Carberry, but was reelected Mayor in 1824. His term was cut short when he died Sept. 30, 1824 at the age of 52.

His last act (signed Aug. 24, 1824) created the committee to make arrangements to receive and entertain General Lafayette. Members of the committee included Maj. Genl. Brown (R57/150-152), Commodore Tingey [R57/1], Daniel Carroll, Richard Bland Lee [R28/24], and George Watterston [Hamilton & Watterston family vault].

During Smallwood’s term plans were adopted for a City Hall as designed by George Hadfield [R30/33], and the site on Judiciary Square was selected. He also authorized an Act to pay Francis Scott Key $60 for services as the City Counsel and Attorney.
Smallwood was one of the founders of the Congressional Cemetery. Mr. Crew’s History of Washington (p. ???) shows Smallwood as one of the signers of the article incorporating the cemetery on April 4, 1807. Smallwood was a vestryman of Christ Church and his name appears as a member of the Board of Trustees absent at a meeting in 1812 but present at meetings from 1816 to 1824.

From 1823 to 1824 Smallwood served, together with Commodore Tingey, on a committee to acquire funds from Congress to build a brick wall to enclose the cemetery. Their efforts resulted in an appropriation of $2,000 and the first brick wall was erected in 1824.

Smallwood, his wife, and several children who died in infancy are buried in the family plot. The children who survived to adulthood are buried as far afield as St. Anthony, Minnesota where his son served as a minister.

Melancholy Suicide

About seven o'clock last evening, Mr. Cyrus L. Smead, a clerk of the Treasury Department, resident at No. 631 Pennsylvania avenue at the corner of east 3d street, left his home during the absence of his wife, to whom he addressed a note stating that he was about to go to the foot of 3d street (Blagden's Wharf) to drown himself, and bid her farewell forever. He pulled his clothes off and left them in the room. His wife, on returning about nine o'clock, discovered the note, and immediately informed the police, when officers Pierce and Whitmore went to search for him and found his hat on the wharf with a stone in it.

His body was recovered this morning, and Coroner Woodward is holding an inquest upon it this afternoon.

The deceased was a strictly temperate man, but had for some days been in a despondent state of mind, it is supposed, caused by pecuniary troubles. Yesterday, however, he was more cheerful than usual.

Smidley, Elinora

On Wednesday, May 18th, Elinora, infant daughter of Margaret and Antone Smidley, aged 1 year 7 months and 4 days.

Dearest Ella, thou art gone,
From this world of sin and sorrow,
Into realms of peace and bliss,
Where cold, stern death hath lost its terror.
No more we clasp thee in our arms
Or purse thy little head;
No more we watch thy gentle sleep,
For thou, or Ella, art dead.

We loved her—yes, no tongue can tell
How much we loved her and how well;
God loved her too, and He thought best
To take her home to be at rest.
God gave and Got hath taken away
The child that was his own—
A child perhaps too much beloved,
And too much toden on.

The friends and acquaintances of the family are requested to attend the funeral at the house of his parents—No. 811 6th street west, between south M and N sts.

On the 22nd instant of consumption in the 22d year of his age, John Smidley. The friends of the family are requested to attend his funeral from the residence of Mr. G. Evans on C between 4 ½ and 6th streets at 2 o’clock p.m. tomorrow.

Smidley, John

Suddenly with chronic croup, on Monday, April 11th, 1859, John, only son of Margaret and Antotte Smidley, aged 2 years 11 months and 13 days.

Not long ago he fill’d his place,
And sat with us to learn;
But he has run his mortal race,
And never can return.

That once loved form, now cold and dead,
Each mournful thought employs;
We weep our earthly comforts fled,
And wither’d all our joys.

Hope looks beyond the bounds of time,
When what we now deplore
Shall rise in full, immortal prime
And bloom to fade no more.

Death spreads his withering wintry arm
And beauty smiles no more
Ah! where are now those rising charms
Which pleased our eyes before?

The National Intelligencer, December 31, 1812
Died, in this city, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon (Dec. 30, 1812), the venerable John Smilie, a Representative in Congress from Pennsylvania, aged about 71 years. He was a native of Ireland, but arriving in this country at an early age, was engaged in the war of the Revolution both in civil and military capacities. Since that period he has never been out of public service, in conventions, in the Legislature of Pennsylvania and of the United States, in which several capacities he has distinguished himself as the firm and undeviating supporter of Republican government and of his country's rights. At the commencement of the present session the estimation in which he was held was evinced by his appointment to the important station of Chairman of the committee of Foreign Relations. He has descended to the Tomb of his Fathers, crowned with years and honor, carrying with him the profound regrets of his intimate acquaintances, and the respect of all mankind.

The funeral of John Smilie will take place this day at half past 2 o'clock from the Capitol.

In the House. Melancholy Interruption
Mr. Findley rose. It is my melancholy duty, said he, to announce to this House that my venerable colleague; and old friend and associate John Smilie, is no more. He departed this life at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

A committee was then appointed to superintend the funeral of the deceased, consisting of Messrs. Findley, Lyle, Brown, Roberts, Davis, Lacock and Hynenian.

A resolution was unanimously adopted, requesting each Member of the House, in testimony of their respect to the memory of John Smilie, to wear crape on the left arm for one month.

And, on motion of Mr. Fitch, the House adjourned.

The National Intelligencer, Friday, January 1, 1813
John Smilie
As the name and public services of our deceased venerable friend have been long known, some account of his history may be proper. He was a native of the county of Down, in the North of Ireland; from whence he came to the then colony of Pennsylvania in the year 1762, and settled in the county of Lancaster, where he married into a respectable family, and continued to reside until 1781, when, with his family, consisting of his wife and three children, he removed to the county of Fayette, in the Western parts of Pennsylvania, to an excellent farm, on which his family still reside. During his residence in Lancaster county, the revolutionary war commenced, in which Mr. Smilie was not an inactive looker-on; he was a member of the early committees of conference, etc. preparatory to that event, and when it actually commenced was among the foremost in actual service in the militia, particularly in the winter of 1776-7, when the American cause was at the lowest ebb and wore the most unpromising aspect. He was a member of the state Legislature for Lancaster county when the important law for the gradual abolition of slavery passed, which, being the first law for that purpose passed in America, still reflects great honor on that assembly. Its passage, for which Mr. Smilie was a zealous and influential advocate, was opposed by a numerous minority.

After removing to the western country he was in 1783 elected to the Council of Censors, an important political body peculiar to the first constitution of that state, and continued ever after, till his decease, to be a member of either the State Legislature, the Executive Council, two State Conventions, or of Congress, without, it is believed, the intermission of one year. He had nearly completed his sitting in seven successive Congresses, besides having been a member of the third Congress, at his decease, and was elected to serve in the 14th Congress, which from a sense of his increasing bodily frailty he had wished to decline.

His honest and ardent zeal for and promptitude in advocating what he believed to be for the public good, has been long known and acknowledged by all political parties. In private life, as a citizen and neighbor, his character was wholly unimpeachable. She who was the wife of his youth still survives to deplore his loss, and also one son and daughter with their families, and several grand children by a daughter who has been many years deceased.

The above is a short outline of the history and character of one of the most steady and zealous patriots of 1776, of whom but few now remain.

The complaint which terminated his mortal career at the advanced age of 71 years, was a typhus fever.

Mr. Amzi Smith's Condition
The condition of Mr. Amzi Smith this afternoon was regarded as showing no improvement. He suffered another hemorrhage this morning and while it seemed to leave no appreciable effect, it was not encouraging.

The Evening Star, August 25, 1907, p. 10
Amzi Smith Is Dead
Was Many Years Head of Senate Document Room
Friend of Famous Men
Known Far and Wide for His Marvelous Memory
Valuable To Government
No Index Necessary When He Was Around --
Funeral Arrangements Announced Later
Amzi Smith, for forty-three years connected with the document room of the United States Senate, and for many years in charge of that important branch of the Senate, died last night of typhoid fever, in the sixty-fourth year of his age. He would have been, had he lived until today, just sixty-four years old.

Mr. Smith was known by every public man whose business took him to the United States Capitol for the last generation, and he possessed a remarkable memory both for faces and for the indexes of public bills, documents, reports and executive communications which annually found their way into both houses of Congress.

It took him but a moment to indicate where any public document could be found in the vast storehouse over which he presided. Senator George of Mississippi once said to him: "You might burn up all he indexes in he Senate, Amzi, and you would be all right."
When the end came the deceased was surrounded by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Richard Hawes of this city and Mrs. John Schreyer of Milton, Pa., and his son, Frank P. Smith, an architect of Boston. Another son, Amzi Smith, jr., of Johnson City, Pa., has been telegraphed for, but has not reached the city.

Mr. Smith became ill about one month ago, but said little to the members of his family. Finally, about ten days ago, he was compelled to take to his bed, and the physician in attendance announced that he was suffering with typhoid fever. His condition gradually grew worse until the end. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Since the Forty-Seventh Congress
Probably no better test of the esteem in which Mr. Amzi Smith was held by those who were his employers can be shown than by the annual insertion in the appropriation bills of Congress of this item: "For superintendent of the document room (Amzi Smith), $3,000." In other words Congress stipulated that the appropriation for that office should be expended only in favor of one man, Amzi Smith.

This was done for one purpose; namely, that in event of a change in the head of the department to which Mr. Smith was accredited, during the recess of Congress, no one would dare to appoint another man to his place. It also served notice upon the horde of hungry office-seekers ever thronging the Senate that the Senate was satisfied with Mr. Smith and did not want any one to come prowling around after his place.

Since the Forty-seventh Congress (and that is a long time) this provision has appeared in the annual supply bills. In recent years it has probably been superfluous, since no man who had knowledge of affairs as they existed would have possessed the temerity to ask for Amzi Smith's place. It was acknowledged that he was invaluable and that the Senate so regarded his status.

Col. Bright's Tribute
Col. Richard J. Bright, who served twice as sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, told a Star man the other day an incident bearing upon this phase of the case.

"When I first took charge of the office of sergeant-at-arms, in 1879," said Col. Bright, "Mr. Smith's position was under my office. There had been a change of administration, the democrats coming in, and there were about 5,000 applications for some one hundred positions. Among the demands I received was one for Mr. Smith's place. I pointed out to those who asked for it, that Mr. Smith's office was peculiar; his office was a workshop of the Senate, and it was necessary to have a man at the head of it who could do the work demanded by the Senate. It was far more important to the democrats of the Senate that they should have in that place a man who could on the spur of the moment answer calls made upon him, for information to be used for partisan purposes, if you please, than it was that some good democrat should be provided with a place. That view was accepted and Mr. Smith was not disturbed."

Col. Bright went on to say that later, when he was about to go out of office, he was called upon to supplant Mr. Smith. One of the greatest republicans in the Senate was back of the applicant for Mr. Smith's place. Col. Bright went to this senator and suggested that while he would not take it upon himself to anticipate his successor (Col. Dan Ransdell) and would not make a change in Mr. Smith's place anyhow, he suggested that if this senator should try it, he would find the Senate unanimously opposed to the change. The senator concurred in his view and withdrew his indorsement.

Later, Mr. Smith's office was placed under the jurisdiction of the secretary of the senate, and it would probably have required a caucus of senators to have displaced him at any time.

Held in High Esteem
Disbursing Officer Nixon, who is one of the oldest and most valued employes of the Senate, said of Mr. Smith:

"I have served the Senate contemporaneously with him for forty years and more. No man had a wider acquaintance among public men or was held in higher regard. He knew every one, he seemed to know everything that every one wanted to know and he knew all about it. I was looking over the records the other day and found that Mr. Smith came here in 1864. He held minor positions at first, but was steadily advanced. I think he obtained his great hold upon his position in 1877. In that year the Senate adopted a resolution directing the removal of the public documents from under the roof of the Capitol and their proper assortment. This work Mr. Smith undertook. He became acquainted with every public document on file, and possessing a remarkable memory was able thereafter to refer at a moment's notice to the document treating of any specified subject, and could give its number off hand."
This was Mr. Smith's great forte. If a senator should come to him and say, "Amzi, I am going to talk about so-and-so; what can you refer me to having a bearing on that subject?" Mr. Smith in a jiffy could tell him that way back yonder in the year so and so the Secretary of the Treasury, or the Secretary of State, or the public printer, or somebody else had sent in a report on that question. Also, senator or representative this or that had made a speech on it; all of which he would refer to in his records, and in a few minutes have the inquirer loaded down with information.

This faculty came in handy to men of both parties, in both the House and Senate. Mr. Smith's mind was encyclopaedic and not partisan. He was employed to remember, and he did remember. If there was a hot debate in either the House or Senate, and some statesman sent a page scurrying to Amzi Smith with perhaps just a hurried scrawl, giving the head of the subject only, before the page had time to catch his breath for the return trip Mr. Smith would have the documents forthcoming. He did not stop to inquire if the solicitor was democrat or republican.

His Greatest Faculty
Mr. Smith's greatest faculty lay in his ability to help seekers for information. Often, and, indeed, in most of the instances, public men would come to him with the vaguest kind of ideas as to what they wanted. They knew in a general way what they were after, but did not know in what directions to look for it. Mr. Smith would set them right at once. He seemed to divine what people were after, and indeed tell them what they themselves did not know they wanted. Then he would tell them where to find it, which was a double service.

As might be supposed, he was a busy man. His office was likely to be thronged with people making all kinds of harassing and sometimes seemingly impossible requests. The man has yet to appear who will say that he ever failed to receive courteous treatment at Mr. Smith's hand. It seemed as if nothing was too much for him. Let the Senate sit, thirty or forty hours at a time, as often it has done, and he was at his desk ready to answer promptly, politely and effectively. That is what wore him out. His acquaintances will tell you that he wore out his life in this service of detail; his friends know it to be true.

In recent years he had been failing physically, but never mentally. His frame was meager and delicate, but his mind was strong. Once he dropped out of his chair completely exhausted, but in a day or two insisted upon being back at the desk. He was not only held in high regard by public men, but was beloved by them. Senators and the older representatives looked upon him as a friend. He was something more than an employe of Congress.

He was widely known over the country. Every one who wrote to the document room for information received attention. Scientists, literateurs, writers on economics and politics, historians and others depended upon him. Every librarian in the country knew Amzi Smith, by reputation if not personally, and probably felt that he knew him personally.

He was born in West Newton, Pa., in 1843, and had resided here since 1864. He left a wife, two daughters and two sons; Mrs. Schroyer of Milton, Pa.; Mrs. Richard Hawes of this city; Amzi Smith, jr., of Johnson City, Tenn., and Frank Smith, an architect, of Boston.

His office was left in charge of trained men, who served under him for years, at the head of whom is George Boyd, who has been Mr. Smith's right-hand man in recent years and upon whom has devolved most of the hard work of the office.

Funeral of Amzi Smith
Many Friends Attend the Services at the Family Home
Funeral services for Mr. Amzi Smith, late superintendent of the Senate document room, were held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the family residence, 314 Maryland avenue northeast, conducted by Rev. John Weldley, pastor of the Church of the Reformation. The services, which were both simple and beautiful, were attended by many friends of the deceased. Interment, which was private, was in Congressional cemetery. The pallbearers were George H. Boyd, W.E. Burns, R.B. Dixon, Henry Blair, Frank Bright and Horace Dodge.

The family has received letters and telegrams from all parts of the country and from many prominent people conveying expressions of regret at Mr. Smith's death and of tribute to his worth and the esteem in which he was held.

The Evening Star, Monday, October 1, 1894

Death of Chas. F. Smith

Mr. Charles F. Smith, for many years superintendent of the Congressional cemetery, and for the past two years a clerk in the pension office, died suddenly of dropsy Saturday night at his residence, No. 321 A street southeast. He was in apparently good health when he retired at 10 o'clock, but shortly before his death he arose and tottered down stairs, telling his family he was ill. He lay down on the parlor sofa and in a few minutes was a corpse. He leaves a widow and five children. The body will be buried with Masonic honors at
Congressional cemetery tomorrow afternoon, the deceased having been a prominent member of Naval Lodge, No. 4.

History of the Naval Lodge, No. 4, F.A.A.M., p. 49

December 15, 1892, a committee consisting of Past Masters, Charles A. Stockett and Arthur J. Symonds and Brother Charles F. Smith, appointed Nov. 17, 1892, reported recommending the site on the northwest corner of 4th street and Pennsylvania avenue, S.E. ... May 4, 1893, the following building committee was appointed: ... Charles F. Smith, ... who died Sept. 29, 1894, less than five months before the completion of the building. While never having served the Lodge as its Master, he was one of the most earnest and valuable workers, and contributed largely by his efforts to its success. He was for years the Superintendent of the Congressional Cemetery, and was subsequently employed at clerical work in the Pension Office. At the time of his death he was in his 54th year.

Smith, Charles F.
On Monday, May 15, 1905, Charles F., son of David R. and Emma D. Smith, aged 12 years 9 months.

Smith, Charles F.
On Saturday, February 25, 1939 at his residence, 1348 North Carolina avenue n.e., Charles F. Smith, beloved husband of Nettie Smith (nee Harlow). Funeral from residence of his son, Paul C. Smith, 2628 10th street n.e. on Tuesday, February 28 at 8:30 a.m., thence to Holy Comforter Church where mass will be offered at 9 a.m. Relatives and friends invited. Interment Congressional Cemetery.

Smith, Charles Willard
On Thursday, August 10, 1899 at 6:30 a.m., Charles Willard, infant son of Elmer E. and Katie Smith, aged 13 months and 20 days. Funeral from the residence of his grandparents, 735 4th street southeast on Saturday morning, August 12 at 10:30 o'clock. Friends and relatives respectfully invited to attend.

Smith, Charlotte A.
On Friday, July 21, 1911 at 8:20 p.m., Charlotte A., widow of Richard B. Smith and beloved mother of Mrs. Eva S. Poore and Mrs. Katie C. Crymes. Funeral Monday, July 24 at 3 p.m. from Gorsuch M.E. Church, corner 4 1/2 and L streets southwest. Relatives and friends invited.

Smith, Chauncey
Of pneumonia, on March 10th, 1882, in this city, Chauncey Smith, in the 80th year of his age. Due notice of time and place of funeral hereafter.

The Evening Star, March 10, 1882

Death of an Aged Government Clerk
Mr. Chauncey Smith, for 43 years past a clerk in the Post Office department, died at his residence 225 B street northwest, today, of pneumonia. Mr. Smith had attained the ripe old age of 80 and was ill but three days. His brethren of the Masonic fraternity, of which he was a prominent officer, as well as his host of friends throughout the city, will be grieved to learn of his sudden taking off. His life was devoted to acts of genuine charity and kindness.

The Evening Star, March 13, 1882

The Funeral of Chauncey Smith, who for nearly fifty years held responsible positions in the Post Office department, took place yesterday afternoon from the Masonic Temple, which was crowded by his many friends of the Masonic fraternity, of which he was a prominent member. The casket containing the remains was taken from the late residence of the deceased, on B street, and borne to the Temple, where it was placed in the center of the large hall. The Masonic choir rendered some appropriate selections and the funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Sunderland, who recited the pure and blameless private and unostentatious life of the deceased and his love of true charity. At the close of Dr. Sunderland's remarks the Knights Templars services were performed. The pall-bearers were E.G. Davis, Myron M. Parker, I.L. Johnson, R.W. Handy, A.T. Longley, Frank Marshall, M.B. Sutter and A.L. Fox, representing the various branches of the Masonic order to which the deceased was attached. The remains were interred in Congressional Cemetery, where the funeral rites of the blue lodge were celebrated.

Smith, Christina S.
On November 9, 1887, at 6:45 a.m., Christina S. Smith, wife of John George Smith. Relatives and friends invited to attend the services at her late residence, 404 7th street southwest, Friday, at 2 p.m. Interment private. No flowers.

<td>On Friday night last was briefly noticed in The Star of Saturday. Mr. Smith was a native of New York city, and in early life was a contractor for railroad work, etc. During the war he was an officer of the 15th New York regiment (engineers), which was for some months quartered east of the navy yard. After the war closed and on being mustered out he brought his family here and settled. Under President Johnson's administration he held the position of justice of the peace, and was attached to the office of Judge Fisher, the district attorney, for some months. Under the late district government he went into the business of contracting and did some very important lines of work, among others, paving 1st street west, in connection with which he tore up the line of railroad track connecting the Baltimore and Ohio railroad with the Alexandria railroad. He was also a contractor on the Capitol grounds, and his last work was the improvement of 1 street north. Mr. Smith had a large circle of acquaintances. He was a member of B.B. French Lodge of Masons, who will attend his funeral from his late residence, on 3d street, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.</td>

Body Found In Street
Three Held in Connection With Death of Alleged Bootlegger

Three colored residents of Benning are under arrest in connection with the death yesterday of Edward, alias "Doc," Smith, fifty, 130 Anacostia road, Benning, who was scheduled to appear in Police Court today on a bootleg charge, and whose body they are said to have taken to Ridge road and Alabama avenue southeast and abandoned.

Smith died in the home of Edward Keyser, colored, 4143 Benning road northeast, early yesterday morning. Occupants of the house kept the body in the house until last night, when it was taken to Southeast Washington and abandoned, it is reported.

Some time before the body was found by passing motorists police of the eleventh precinct were told that there was a dead man in the Keyser home. Acting Lieut. Dent, accompanied by members of his command, visited the home and were told the report was erroneous. When a second message telling of the presence of a dead body in the house was received the police returned to the house and arrested Keyser.

Shortly after Keyser's arrest the police received a report of the finding of Smith's body. Detectives Brodie and Vermillion assisted the Anacostia police in an investigation of the affair. Mrs. Louise Keyser, wife of the man arrested; Mary Hawkins, also colored, 4278 Benning road northeast, and Vernon Ennis, a sixteen-year-old colored neighbor, were arrested and booked as being held for investigation.

Keyser, Mary Hawkins and the Ennis boy are said by the police to have been occupants of the automobile in which the body was taken from the Keyser home and abandoned on the road. Ennis was driver of the car.

Dr. Hugh McCormick Smith, Ex-Chief of Fisheries, Dead

Famous Scientist Had Made Studies Throughout World

Dr. Hugh McCormick Smith, internationally prominent ichthyologist and former United States commissioner of fisheries, died yesterday at his home, 1209 M street N.W. Dr. Smith, who was connected with the United States fishery service for 36 years, was commissioner from 1913 to 1922, having served as deputy commissioner from 1903. He was adviser in fisheries to the Siamese government from 1923 to 1934.

He was born in Washington, November 21, 1865, the son of Thomas Croggon and Cornelia Hazard Smith, and was educated at Central High School and the Medical School of Georgetown University, from which he received his medical degree in 1888. He also received an LL. D. degree from Dickinson in 1908.

Entered Service in 1886

Dr. Smith's interest in scientific work was awakened while he was still in high school by Prof. Spencer Baird, who was commissioner when Dr. Smith entered the Fish Commission in 1886. He was assistant in charge of the division of fishery industries from 1893 to 1897, and from then until 1903 was assistant in charge of inquiry on food fishes and fishing grounds.

In 1900 he was named to represent the Government at the first international fishery congress at Paris, and represented the country at the third congress at Vienna in 1905 and served as secretary general of the fourth congress held here in 1908.

In 1901 and 1902 he was director of the marine fisheries biological laboratory at Woods Hole, Mass., and from 1907 to 1910 served as director of a Government expedition to investigate development of fisheries in the Philippine Islands. Dr. Smith was a member of the medical faculty of Georgetown University from 1888 to 1902.

Dr. Smith was named expert special assistant to the United States counsel at the arbitration hearing of the North Atlantic fisheries dispute held at The Hague in 1910, and was appointed by President Taft the same year as a member of the international commission for the settlement of disputes arising with Canada and Newfoundland under the award of the Hague tribunal. Two years later he represented this Government on the permanent international council for the exploration of the sea and the following year was appointed by the President as joint commissioner on behalf of the country for the control of fisheries in the boundary waters of the United States and Canada.

International Studies

In the 21 years from 1900 to 1921, Dr. Smith investigated fisheries in Canada, France, Great Britain, Norway, Denmark, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Italy, Hawaiian Islands, Japan, China, the Philippines, Borneo and Ceylon. He also made a number of extended trips in this country.

At the time of his resignation in 1922, he was the only fish commissioner since the establishment of the bureau who had risen from the bottom to the top. When Herbert Hoover, was Secretary of Commerce he wrote of Dr. Smith:

"I believe your service for 36 years, rising from the bottom to the top, in one of our great scientific bureaus, is unique in the history of the Government."

Dr. Smith not only put into effect many constructive economic measures in commercial fisheries regulations and discovered a number of new species, but confirmed the existence of the "archer fish." This fish, by propulsion of a drop of water along its groused tongue could bring down insect prey from branches well out of water.
In 1923 Dr. Smith was invited by the royal government of Siam to become special assistant to the crown to study and develop the fisheries of that country and three years later was named director of the Siamese Department of Fisheries. He dealt directly with the royal brothers and brothers-in-law in high government positions. Dr. Smith was given a residence, a laboratory with assistants and two boats.

On Smithsonian Staff

Since his return from Siam, Dr. Smith had been engaged in research work in regard to Siamese fish and had almost completed an elaborate monograph on fresh-water fish of Siam, with some 300 illustrations. He was associate curator of zoology at the Smithsonian Institute and had gone to his office there until the latter part of last week.

Dr. Smith had written a number of articles and papers on ichthyology for Government and other publications. He was a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, member of the American Ornithologists Union, American Society of Naturalists, American Fisheries Society, serving as president, 1907-8; president of the Biological Society of Washington in 1919, member of the District Medical Society, a member of the Cosmos Club and a vice president of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants.

Held Many Medals

Dr. Smith was the holder of a number of medals, including a gold medal from a fishery exposition in Bergen, Norway, in 1898; a medal in the same year from the Trans-Mississippi International Exposition, Omaha, for services in preparing exhibit of the Bureau of Fisheries; silver medal award in 1908 from the Imperial and Royal Austrian Society; several bronze commemorative medals from Siam and a commemorative medal in 1931, following cruise of a Danish research vessel.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma H. Smith, and two daughters, Mrs. Carl H. Claudy, jr., of Washington, and Mrs. E.V. Cowdry of St. Louis, Mo.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m., Wednesday at Gawler's funeral home, 1750 Pennsylvania avenue n.w., with burial in Congressional cemetery.

Death of a Well-Known Citizen

M. J. Moody Smith, an old Treasury clerk and well-known citizen of this District for the last thirty years, died at his residence, No. 1222 Pennsylvania avenue, on Sunday night at 9 o'clock, after a few days' illness, aged about 73 years. M. Smith was a native of Massachusetts, and immigrated to Ohio when a young man, where he identified himself with the early settlers of that state in many important enterprises, and was generally known and respected there and in Kentucky, where he was also well-known. For over twenty-four years he has been a clerk in the Treasury department, where he was noted for his efficiency. He was one of the oldest Masons in this District, having been connected with the fraternity for more than fifty years. The remains, ensconced in a costly walnut casket, covered with silver Masonic emblems, from the establishment of
Mr. Anthony Buchly, undertaker, were removed from the former residence of the deceased to the Masonic Temple at 1 o'clock today, under the escort of Columbia Commandery, No. 2, Knights Templars, when the burial services of the Blue Lodge and Templars were performed. The interment will be made at Congressional Cemetery this afternoon, under the conduct of Rose Croix Evangelical Chapter, Scottish rite. The pall-bearers are from B.B. French Lodge, Columbia Commandery, Albet Pike Consistory, No. 1, S.S., Robert de Bruce Council No. 1, Knights Kadosh, and Mithras Lodge of Perfection.

The Evening Star, June 21, 1877

The Funeral of M. J. Moody Smith took place yesterday afternoon from Masonic Temple, as stated in yesterday's STAR. The burial services in the Temple were conducted in the Rose Croix degree by General Albert Pike, Sovereign Grand Commander of the Scottish rite for the southern jurisdiction. The Masonic choir, under Professor Henry Bradley, sang some appropriate selections. Further Masonic ceremonies took place at the Congressional Cemetery.

Inquiry Into Cause of Death

Coroner Nevitt is investigating the death of James Elwood Smith, aged five weeks, infant son of David and Mary Smith, who live at No. 39 Monroe street, Anacostia. Its death occurred about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It is stated that the child was sick and was given a dose of patent medicine. Dr. Harrison was afterward called in, but the child died, and under the circumstances the doctor refused to give a certificate without consulting the coroner. It is believed that the death was caused by an overdose of the medicine.

The body of the infant was removed to the morgue, where an autopsy was performed this afternoon. The contents of the stomach and a portion of the medicine will be sent to the District chemist for analysis.

Resident of the District Since the Civil War--Funeral Services This Afternoon
James H. Smith, 73 years old, a resident of Anacostia since early in the civil war, died at his home, 147 Maple View place, Saturday after a long illness. Funeral services were held this afternoon at the family home, and later at the Anacostia M.E. Church, Rev. G. Leroy White officiating. The pallbearers were James Simpson, Henry W. Eno, George W. Shoemaker, George F. Pyles, Edward Cator and George W. King. Interment was in Congressional Cemetery.

Since 1862 Mr. Smith had resided here, most of this time in the suburb of Anacostia. He was born in Maryland. During the civil war he was employed in the local navy yard. On several occasions he responded to the call for the defense of Washington when fear of southern invasion was upon the city.

His wife, Mrs. Mary E. Smith, and six children, J.E. Smith, Charles Smith, John S. Smith, Mrs. Ida Darling, Miss Ella Smith and Miss Lillie Smith, survive him. All are residents of the District.

James S. Smith Dead
Employee of Government Printing Office and Union Veteran
Mr. James S. Smith, a stereotyper at the government printing office and for many years secretary of the Stereotypers' Union of this city, died Saturday night at 11:30 o'clock at his home, No. 80 I street northeast. Mr. Smith has been a sufferer from rheumatism for a number of years, and this disease was the direct cause of his death. He was fifty-two years of age and leaves a widow and one son.

Mr. Smith was a talented singer and for many years had charge of the choir of Christ Church southeast. He was connected with the government printing office for twenty years and was one of the best-known members of the stereotyping fraternity in the country. The funeral will take place from his late residence tomorrow, the services being in charge of Farragut Post, G.A.R., of which the deceased was a member.

Obituary
Smith. We are once more in a brief period of time, called upon to mourn the loss of another fellow-workman, suddenly called from our midst by that Omnipotent Power from whom there is no appeal.

While the deceased was not a member of our union, yet he was bound to us by ties of fraternity and closely affiliated with us in craftship, we as a body mourn his loss.

As fellow-workmen we extend our deep and heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved family, partly realizing from our own feelings what theirs must be.
A conscientious workman wherever placed; prominent in the councils of his craft; true and faithful in the performance of the many duties intrusted to him; a kind and indulgent father, a loving husband, a God-fearing man, and a patriot of his country in its time of need, we feel that in the death of James S. Smith we suffer a loss almost irreparable but realize at the same time that he surely has gone to his heavenly reward and it will be said to him: "Well done, good and faithful servant."

Obituary

Resolved of Respect
At a special meeting of Stereotypers' Union, No. 19, I.T.U., held last Monday evening, the 27th instant, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in His dispensations to remove our former friend and companion, James S. Smith, from this sphere of life, and while that summons was sudden and unexpected, there was a mercy in it, and that while regretting, we bow in submission to that Supreme Will who ordereth all things well.

In the sudden death of our friend his associates and the members of this union have lost an earnest and faithful worker from the day of its organization, and we desire to put upon record our appreciation of his worth and untiring services, and to this end be it,

Resolved by the members of Stereotypers' Union, No. 19, I.T.U., in special meeting assembled, That we do hereby express our deep regret at our sudden loss and extend to his widow and family our heartfelt sympathy. Be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the proceedings of our regular meetings and that an engrossed copy be sent to his widow and that the same be published in two of the daily papers of the city and the Typographical Journal.

Smith. October 13th, little Jessie, the only child of William C. and Kate Venable Smith, aged fifteen months and nineteen days.

One little bud adorned our bower,
And shed sweet fragrance round;
It grew in beauty hour by hour,
Till oh! the spoiler seized the flower
And crushed it to the ground.
Yet not forever in the dust
That beauteous bud shall lie;
He--in the garden of the just
Beneath God's loving eye, I trust,
'Twill bloom again on high.

Death of a Venerable Pastor

Rev. Dr. John C. Smith, the well-known pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian (9th street) Church for nearly 40 years, died at his residence on New York avenue, between 9th and 10th streets yesterday afternoon, aged about 85 years. Dr. Smith was a native of Baltimore, studied theology under the late Dr. Duncan, and graduated at Princeton College. We next hear of his journeys as a colportner in the neighborhood of Old Point Comfort in Va. where his labors resulted in the organization of a church which he served as pastor for a few years. About 1837 he received a call to the Bridge Street Church, Georgetown, which he served for a little over a year, when receiving a call to the Fourth Church in this city, he accepted it, and entered on his duties here September 10th, 1838, succeeding Rev. Mason Noble, who had followed Rev. J. Noble Danford. Dr. Smith was at that time apparently in bad health, and it was supposed by many that he would live but a few months. For years afterwards it was supposed that his death was near at hand. So certain were some members of his congregation that he would not live, that the late Anthony Preston, during a visit to Scotland, procured a handsome monument to be over the grave of his loved friend. Mr. Preston did not find Mr. Smith dead on his return, as he feared, and he himself, dying several years ago the monument was placed over his grave. Dr. Smith was, in some respects, a model pastor, and performed a vast amount of labor for one so weak as he was. He was social in the extreme and was universally loved and respected by young and old, both in his congregation and outside. For over a year past Dr. Smith has been confined most of the time to his home from the effects of a fall last winter, and it is said that this was the cause of his death. The funeral will take place at 11 o'clock on Monday morning next, from the church on 9th street near G.

Funeral of Rev. Dr. Smith

The funeral of the late Rev. Dr. John C. Smith, for nearly forty years the pastor of the 4th (9th street) Presbyterian church, who died at his residence on New York avenue, near 9th street, on Wednesday afternoon last, took place from the church at 11 o'clock this morning, and was attended by a large concourse of citizens, the church being much too small to accommodate the assemblage. The pulpit was draped in morning as also the organ and the family pew. On one side of the pulpit there was a monument of flowers typifying unity and love, the base being two feet in depth, composed of flowers (contributed by the scholars of the Sunday School) and the shaft six feet (contributed by the congregation) surmounted by a crown with cross (contributed by the Young People's Association). The word "Rest," appeared on the monument in immortelles, and the whole stood ten feet one inch in height. On the Bible rest was placed a crown and a cross in front (gifts of Rev. J. T. Kelly and wife), a star by Mrs. Connolly, and an open Bible in flowers by Mr. and Mrs. Merchant. The remains, in an elegant casket, were brought in the church, followed by the family and immediate friends, about 11 o'clock, the associate pastor, Rev. J.T. Kelly, reading the burial service -- the following being the pall-bearers; Rev. Dr. T.D. Addison, Trinity (Episcopal) church; Rev. Dr. J.G. Butler, Memorial (Lutheran) church; Rev. B.F. Bittinger, Westminster (Presbyterian) church; Rev. Dr. A.H. Ames, McKendree (Methodist) church; Rev. Dr. J.H. Cuthbert, First Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. Westcott, of Howard University. As the remains were borne up the aisle, the choir sang "Rest, Spirit, Rest," (Rooke,) and during the services also sang. "Cast thy Burden Upon the Lord," (Mendelsohn,) and the Funeral March of Chopin. Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Shepherd, of Philadelphia, and Rev. Dr. John Leyburn, of the Associated Reformed Church of Baltimore (the church with which Dr. Smith first united,) each made short addresses. The remains were taken to the Congressional Cemetery, where the interment was made, and the floral monument which was at the church was placed on the grave.

Accident to the Rev. John Smith

The Intelligencer of this date has the following: The Rev. John C. Smith, D.D., Pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church in this city, was among the passengers in a car which was thrown down an embankment on the Southside Railroad, between Petersburg and Lynchburg, Va., on Thursday last. He was brought home on Saturday last, where he lies in much pain from the bruises and contusions he received; but we are gratified in being able to state that no permanent injury is expected to result from them.

The railroad accident, which was noticed in Saturday's paper, seems to have been more serious than at first stated. One of the firemen was instantly killed. Among those severely bruised were Mr. Alfred King, coachmaker, of Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Ely, Mr. Venable, the mail agent, Mr. Davis, the conductor, Mr. Jones, the engineer, Mr. J.B. Hiliard, Mr. Wood and Mr. Wilson, of Cumberland county, Mrs. Smith, of Prince Edward, Mr. Anderson, and Mr. Bruce, of Lynchburg. Many whose names are not given were more or less injured. A number of the stockholders were returning home from the annual meeting at Petersburg. The engine and cars were crushed, and not a passenger escaped bruises.

The Fourth Presbyterian Church -- The Rev. Dr. John C. Smith, of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, yesterday preached his twenty-eighth anniversary sermon before a very large congregation, his text being from the 7th verse, 12th chapter of Romans -- "Our ministry; let me wait on our ministering, or he that teacheth on teaching." In the course of his sermon, Dr. Smith alluded to the fact that of the five men and eighteen women in the original roll of members of the church but three remained -- Patrick Crowley [R81/231], Catherine Wilson and Polly Robinson. Besides those three, there were 237 on the roll when Dr. Smith took charge of the congregation, and of that number there were now living nine men and thirty-one women. There are now 566 communicants, 523 of whom are members of the church. During the past year forty-one new members have been received, eight have died, and fifteen been dismissed. There were twenty-six marriages, and the baptism of ten adults and twelve infants. The average gain of membership during the last twenty-eight years has been 38 - 47. During the time Dr. Smith has had charge of this church he has attended the funerals of three Presidents, and ex-President John Q. Adams, and also the funerals of a large number of distinguished statesmen.

Middleton Smith, author of more than a score of books on scientific subjects, who retired from the Department of Agriculture several years ago, died at his residence, 1724 Euclid street, at 8 o'clock last night. He was 78 years old and had been ill with heart disease since last January.

Mr. Smith's last book, which he had just finished before his death, was entitled "Two Years Beyond the Arctic Circle." Other books on the far north written by Mr. Smith include "Life and Superstitions of the Eskimos" and "Gardening in Northern Alaska." He spent two years in the arctic region as an observer with the Point Barrow, Alaska, expedition of 1882.

Mr. Smith belonged to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Explorers' Club, and the Arctic Club of New York, of which he was one time vice president. He also was active in the Republican club of this city. Mr. Smith was a native of Bainbridge, Pa., and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marie Van Hook Smith.

Middleton Smith Claimed By Death

Middleton Smith, 78 years old, Arctic explorer and author on numerous scientific subjects who had an unusual career in Government service for 41 years died at his residence, 1734 Euclid street, last night; after an illness lasting since January. He was retired in 1922 from the Department of Agriculture, where he had charge of statistical work 22 years.

Mr. Smith knew both the late Admiral Peary and Dr. Cook intimately and was asked, officially, to give an opinion on whether Admiral Peary and Dr. Cook had reached the North Pole. This opinion is to be found in the congressional records. As a vice president of the Arctic Club of New York, Mr. Smith was a member of a party which met Dr. Cook on his return to New York after visiting the Arctic circle.

Went to Arctic in 1881

Mr. Smith's first work with the Government was in 1881, when he volunteered his services in connection with international polar work. He was a member of the Point Barrow polar expedition of the year last mentioned and spent two years with it in the Arctic as a naturalist and observer.

He assisted in editing reports both of that expedition and the Lady Franklin Bay expedition, 1883 and 1890.

Mr. Smith was a special Government agent in the United States eleventh census 1890-94 and from that time to 1900 did statistical work in the Bureau of Statistics, United States Treasury Department. From 1900 until his retirement in 1922, he was doing statistical work for the Department of Agriculture.

Although having reached the retirement age when the retirement act went into effect in 1920, Mr. Smith was retained as a statistician in the Department of Agriculture for two more years by special request of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Author of Many Works

Mr. Smith served as a delegate from the Department of Agriculture to the Eighth International Geographic Congress of 1904 to which he contributed an article, "The Range and Habit of the Resident Birds of Point Barrow, Alaska."

He was also author of numerous other scientific subjects and bulletins. Among these were "Agricultural Graphics, Bulletin 7s, Department of Agriculture, and was joint author with Dr. O.E. Baker and R.G. Hainsworth of "A Geographic Summary of American Agriculture," and Yearbook, Department of Agriculture, 1917. Other publications of which he was author were "How to Give Elementary Lessons in Zoology," "Life and Superstitions of the Eskimos," "Gardening in Northern Alaska" and "Primitive Methods of the Capture of the Bowhead Polar Whale."

Mr. Smith was the inventor of the single-dot system for graphically showing crops and live stock based upon the United States Census of 1910.

He was a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Explorers' Club and the Arctic Club of New York, of which he was one-time vice president, and was also an active member of the Republicans Club of this city.

Mr. Smith was a native of Bainbridge, Pa., and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marie Van Hook Smith.

Funeral services will be conducted at the residence Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. John J. Queally will officiate. Interment will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Nathan Smith's Death

Passing Away of an Old and Much Beloved Clerk

Nathan A.C. Smith, an old employee of the Post Office Department, died yesterday morning at his home, 626 E street southwest. Mr. Smith was one of the best known clerks in the office, and had been employed in the department for twenty-one years. He held several important positions being at one time appointment clerk and at another chief of the bond division. He was born in Chelsea, Orange county, Vt., in 1833, but moved to Wisconsin when quite a young man. At the breaking out of the civil war he joined Company H of the 12th Wisconsin Volunteers, and was made lieutenant. He served throughout the war. Just prior to the opening of hostilities he was admitted t the bar.

Twenty-one years ago he accepted a position in the Post Office Department, where his venerable father, Chauncey Smith, was a clerk. Both father and son commanded the love and respect of their fellow clerks. Several years after the son came to Washington the father died. He was chief of the bond division at the time, and the son succeeded him. Some years afterward the son resigned and went west to engage in cattle raising. But the venture did not succeed, and he returned and was reappointed. A few years after he again resigned, and was again reappointed. He remained in the service but a short time when he resigned. During the close of the Spanish war he was appointed to a position in Cuba, but after some hesitation declined it. Shortly afterward his health became poor, and about three months ago he was taken ill. The funeral will be private, and will take place Sunday next at 2 o'clock p.m. The interment will be at Congressional cemetery.

The Evening Star, September 4, 1903
Overcome By Gas
Death of Peter H. Smith At His Home In This City
Peter H. Smith, twenty-eight years old, a former resident of Chicago, who has been employed as a plate printer in the bureau of engraving and printing for about five years, was found dead at his home, No. 18 12th street southeast, about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His death had been caused by inhaling illuminating gas. The condition of the body indicated that death had occurred at least 48 hours before his wife made the horrible discovery. Mrs. Smith accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Baldwin, to Baltimore, Sunday, taking her only child with her. Their outing ended yesterday, and about 5:30 o'clock the party reached the 12th street house. The condition of things in front of the house indicated that Mr. Smith had probably not been home for a day or two. Mrs. Smith pressed the button of the electric bell, and, receiving no response, she opened the door with her night key.

The odor of gas that greeted her made it apparent that there was something wrong, and hurrying to the upper floor of the house, she found the body of her husband on the floor. She stopped the flow of gas and opened the window, and Dr. Lothrop was summoned. He told the family that Mr. Smith had been dead for at least two days.

Coroner Nevitt called at the house later and made an investigation. The conditions as he found them convinced him beyond any doubt that the man's death was due to an accident. It was apparent that Mr. Smith had retired after having accidentally left the gas turned on. It is believed he detected the odor of gas during the night and that in making an effort to reach the window he fell and was unable to get up.

A certificate of accidental death was given and the body was prepared for burial.

Last Rites Performed
Remains of Peter H. Smith Buried in Congressional Cemetery
Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 18 12th street southeast over the remains of Peter H. Smith, who last Thursday was found dead in his bed room at the number mentioned. Death resulted from asphyxia, caused by escaping gas from a jet. It was proposed to hold the funeral Saturday morning, but the date of burial was postponed on account of the failure of the mother of the deceased to arrive here by that time.

Rev. Father Dowling of St. Peter's Catholic Church offered prayers at the residence before an assemblage of the relatives and friends and a delegation of the Plate Printers' Union of which Mr. Smith was a member. The pallbearers were chosen from this union, and were Clarence A. McClure, James McNally, Louis Nichols, Thomas Leforte, John Webster and Michael Bohle. Among the floral offerings on the casket were contributions from the Plate Printers' Union, the National Union and intimate friends. The body was interred in Congressional Cemetery.

The deceased attorney, who was the son of the late John A. Smith, for many years clerk of the District Court, and a cousin of Judge Walter S. Cox, was born in the city about fifty years ago. He was a man of some means, and while an honored member of the local bar, practiced his profession but little. He was unmarried and leaves three sisters surviving him. He was a genial, whole-souled man, of courtly manners, and one of the best-known and most popular members of the bar.

He was one of the original members of the Metropolitan Club, president of the Patuxent Club, and the originator of the Lawyers' Club. Notice of his funeral will be made this afternoon or tomorrow.

Action of the Courts
In Equity Court No. 1, Mr. R. Ross Perry announced the death of Mr. Smith, referring to him as a man who was beloved by every member of the bar, and stating that at another time he would refer at greater length to the great loss which the bar and community have sustained in the death of an honored associate.

A Tribute to His Memory
Bar Association Takes Action Upon Death of Attorney Smith
Addresses Made by Members and Resolutions Adopted--
The Association Will Attend the Funeral
A very largely attended meeting of the members of the local bar, called by President Henry E. Davis of the District Bar Association, was held at the city hall yesterday afternoon to take appropriate action on the death of Richard Smith, a well-known member of the bar. In the absence of Mr. Davis, Mr. Leigh Robinson presided.

A committee, of which Mr. Jere M. Wilson was chairman, was appointed to prepare suitable resolutions, and later reported.

The Report
The resolutions set forth that the members of the bar of the District of Columbia have heard with profound sorrow of the sudden and untimely death, on the 23d of June instant, of their beloved friend and brother lawyer, Richard Smith; that in the death of their dear friend and brother the bar of the District of Columbia has lost a faithful and honored associate, and the citizens a valuable and useful member of the community, who, by his rare personal and genial qualities as a man, his lovable disposition, his frank and generous nature, which impelled him always to give his time, his services and his means in advancing the happiness of his friends, and in assisting the less fortunate of his fellow beings, has left behind him a memory that will live and be cherished during the lives of all who knew him.

It was also directed that the chairman of the meeting convey to the afflicted family of the deceased a copy of the resolutions with the expression of profound sympathy. Also, that the chairman of the meeting present the resolutions to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia and the Court of Appeals, with the request that they be entered upon the minutes of the court.

Remarks by Members
In presenting the resolutions and moving their adoption, Mr. Wilson referred to Mr. Smith as one of the most genial, big-hearted e ever knew, one who devoted his life to promote the happiness of others.

Col. Enoch Totten spoke of Mr. Smith as a most lovable man, as one who never uttered an unkind word about another being, and as one to whom little children, the keenest, best judges of human nature, gave unbounded love.

Mr. R. Ross Perry said that in the death of Mr. Smith, whom he had known from boyhood, not only the bar had lost a dear friend and lovable companion, but the community an honored and valued member. He was a man who will live not in "dull, cold marble," but in the hearts and affections of all who knew him, for his watchword throughout life was "Love thyself least."

The resolutions were unanimously adopted. It was generally agreed that the bar will attend Mr. Smith's funeral at 4:30 this afternoon, from his late residence, 1727 H street.

Interments in the Historic Congressional Cemetery

Last Updated: 2/13/2015
Mr. Perry moved that the court adjourn as a mark of respect to his memory.

Judge Cox replied in an appropriate manner, and granted the motion.

Mr. F.H. Mackey made the announcement in Equity Court No. 2, Judge Hagner granting a similar motion.

District Attorney Davis made a similar announcement and motion in Criminal Court No. 2, a like order being made by Judge Bradley. The same thing was done in Circuit Courts Nos. 1 and 2.

Richard Smith Buried

His Popularity Attested by the Attendance at His Funeral

The funeral of the late Richard Smith, the lawyer, who during his long life in Washington had enjoyed the universal esteem and affection of the best people of the District, took place yesterday from his late residence, No. 1727 H street northwest, at 4 o'clock p.m. The large attendance of representative people and the profusion of exquisite floral tributes attested the popularity of the dead man. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Wood of St. John's Church. The interment at Congressional Cemetery was attended only by the immediate relatives of the deceased. The honorary pallbearers who were members of the Metropolitan Club, of which Mr. Smith was one of the founders and always a leading spirit, and of the Bar Association, were Judge Andrew C. Bradley, Charles C. Glover, Marcellus Bailey, Judge Joseph K. McCammon, R. Ross Perry, William A. Boarman, William A. Gordon, Dr. William May, John A. Baker, ex-Representative John J. Hemphill and Dr. T. Morris Murray.

Killed By Lightning

Death and Destruction Caused by Electric Storm

At the Bathing Beach

Richard B. Smith Receives a Fatal Shock

Twelve Others Injured--Fluid Passes From Flag Pole to Interior of Boat House

Death and destruction followed in the wake of yesterday's storm, shortly after noon. At times it appeared that even the houses were shaken, and the thousands of persons who were on the streets, returning from the morning services in the churches, were forced to seek shelter in any convenient place. Some went under awnings and were drenched, while many of those who sought shelter in street cards were no better off. Lightning struck a number of places and did considerable damage.

The most serious damage done was at the bathing beach, where one life was sacrificed and a dozen persons were injured. The man who was killed was Richard B. Smith, a one-legged man, who was employed as a machinist in the navy yard. His home was at 613 South Carolina avenue. The list of injured includes Policeman Banagan, who does duty at the bathing beach; Jacob Hekimian, an Armenian, 21 years old; Frank Lombard, 17 years old, son of Policeman Lombard; 400 1st street northwest; Duncan Thompson, 13 years old, 228 1/2 13 1/2 street southwest; William Lines, 37 years old, employed as a District foreman, 117 2d street northwest; Charles Slaughter, colored, 20 years old, 43 Defrees street northwest; George B. Eshelman, 22 years old, a press feeder, 474 Massachusetts avenue northwest; George Washington, colored, 13 years old, 444 Prath's alley northwest; F.F. Sheckles, 20 years old, a bookkeeper, 1300 10th street northwest; Daniel Cunningham, colored, 24 years old, 14 Decatur street northeast; Robert Carroll, colored, 22 years old, 12 Decatur street northeast, and Oliver Patterson, colored, living at 10 Decatur street northeast.

Crowd of Bathers

Because of the intense heat yesterday morning a big crowd of men and boys made an early start for the bathing beach and scores of them were in the water. Many of them started toward the shore at the first sign of the approach of the storm, while others remained until the last minute. More than a score of bathers reached the boat house and sought shelter in the building rather than risk going to the dressing rooms. Those fared worst who took refuge in the boat house, where Moses N. Hekimian, an Armenian, conducted a refreshment stand. Smith, who was an expert swimmer despite the loss of his leg, was assisted from the shallow water to the boat house on the back of a friend. His attention was attracted to one of the boys who was hastening to get out of the path of the lightning and his remark was that there was no use trying to dodge lightning. He told the boy it would do no good to run, as one place was no safer than another. About this time there were several boats being rowed in the direction of the shore and two boats in which there were no occupants were overturned.

Those who had reached the boat house were standing near the open door watching what was going on outside. While they were thus employed the crash came. The tall flagpole on the boat house was struck by lightning and several of those who had sought shelter in the building suddenly fell to the floor. Smith was instantly killed, and for a short time it was believed that others were dead. It was several minutes before those who were but slightly stunned recovered their senses and were able to move. Charles Slaughter was unconscious and William Lines was also in an apparently serious condition. Slaughter's clothing had caught fire, but the flames were extinguished before he was burned. Duncan Thompson, who soon recovered from the fright and the effects of the shock, ran and told Police Banagan of what had occurred.

Hospital Physicians Notified
One glance in the boat house assured the policeman that physicians were needed, and he started off on a run to the Emergency Hospital. On the way to the hospital the policeman fell from exhaustion, but he recovered his strength enough to enable him to resume his journey. He fell a second time, and it is his idea that a shock from lightning had something to do with his fall. When he finally reached the hospital he was in a state of collapse and it was not until a stimulant had been administered that he was able to give the doctors the information that they were needed at the bathing beach. Drs. Dunn, Perkins and Hussey, resident physicians at the hospital entered the ambulance and the animal attached to the vehicle made a quick run through the rain.

Upon reaching the boat house the physicians faced a condition of affairs that required quick and heroic action, having made preparations to treat the victims while being conveyed from the river front in the ambulance. They found that Smith was dead and that those who were still unconscious were Slaughter and Lines. The former had been burned in addition to suffering from the effects of the shock. Lines had been injured by falling and had lost some blood. When the physicians had given them what treatment they could at the boat house the two victims were placed in the ambulance and driven to the hospital. Under the hospital treatment they soon got better, and this morning the belief was expressed that they will recover.

Eshelman, Washington and Sheekles were conveyed to the hospital in one of Knox's express wagons that happened to be on the river front at the time the building was struck. They had received minor burns and injuries and were sent to their homes yesterday afternoon.

Death Certificate Given
The body of Smith was removed to the morgue, and Coroner Nevitt gave the necessary death certificate. Undertaker Repetti conveyed the body from the morgue to his undertaking establishment this morning and prepared it for burial. There were two distinct marks on the body, showing the lines traversed by the lightning. They seemed to have started from the collar buttons and gone down the entire length of the body.

Smith's father, R.B. Smith, sr., is a machinist on the U.S.S. Marine, now undergoing repairs at Cramp's shipyards, Philadelphia, and his wife was on a visit to relatives at her former home in Baltimore yesterday. The father and wife were notified of his death. Arrangements for the funeral had not been completed this morning. It is believed that the two victims in the hospital will not be able to leave there for many days.

Given a Scare
The shock that caused so much damage at the bathing beach was not felt at the house of detention, where the prisoners and attendants were given a scare. Four colored women were held as prisoners in one of the large cells on the upper floor, and they were so badly frightened that they crawled under the bed, and all that was to be seen of them when the frightened matron returned to the room were their eight feet protruding from beneath the bed. Those who were on the first floor on the structure saw what appeared to be a ball of fire pass through the building. Some of them felt the shock. The building sustained no damage nor was anybody hurt.

During the storm at noon Johnson's Hotel and H.J. Staley's lunch room were not damaged but a number of persons were frightened. The streets were flooded and water caused some damage in cellars. When the second electric storm appeared in the afternoon people were better prepared for it, and there were not so many persons on the street. During this storm, Mary Shipley, the 15-year-old daughter of Wyatt Shipley, a grocer, was rendered unconscious by a bolt of lightning. She was seated at the front window of her parent's house on Good Hope Hill at the time. A physician was summoned from Anacostia. The child recovered in a short time.

Part of a chimney of the Corcoran building at Pennsylvania avenue and 15th street, was blown down during this storm. A mail box on the corner was demolished and a pedestrian had a narrow escape. The chimney at the house of Dr. E.E. Cissel, 2117 Pennsylvania avenue, was struck by lightning. About $25 damage was caused. An alarm of fire was sounded last night from box 729. This was caused by the crossing of wires near the M street bridge, and was due to the storm.

In Memoriam

Smith. In the death of Mrs. Sally Smith, which lately occurred in this city, a devoted family, many relatives, and a large circle of friends are each and all bereaved.

This aged lady--widow of the late well-known and lamented John A. Smith--was universally beloved as one who for nearly a century has illustrated every Christian grace; and while, with unselshief devotion in every relation of life, she dispensed happiness in her family, generous hospitality to her friends, a noble, unfailing charity to the destitute, and ever ready help for the church, she evinced a gentle loveliness of character very rarely equaled.

To the dear ones of the home circle, who must now learn to do without her loving presence, can be offered only the deepest sympathy, and sincerest hope that realizing her happiness they may be comforted. From her unbroken slumber she would say to them:
Oh, deep repose! Oh, slumber blest!
Oh, night of peace! no storm, no sorrow,
No heavy sighing in my rest.
To meet another weary morrow.
Think that with me the strife is o'er,
Life's cares and struggling battle ended;
Rejoice that I have gained the shore
To which my faltering footsteps tended;
Breathe the blest hope above the sod,
And leave me to my rest with God.
December 5th, 1883  A Friend.

Death of Dr Smith; Resident Many Years
For More Than Half Century Practicing Physician Here
Senate Page in Youth
Dr. Thomas C. Smith, for more than a half a century a practicing physician in this city, died at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 1133 12th street northwest, as the result of an acute digestive disorder. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at McKendree M.E. Church, Massachusetts avenue near 9th street. Interment will be in Congressional cemetery.

Dr. Smith was born in this city August 16, 1842, and at the age of seventeen years was appointed a page in the United States Senate, where he served with the late Senator Gorman, who was then a page. He attended the local public schools and later was a student at Gonzaga College. His medical education was received at Georgetown University Medical School, from which he was graduated in 1864. Just before the close of the civil war Dr. Smith served as a volunteer in the Army Medical Corps.

Second Oldest Member of Society
Dr. Smith was second oldest member of the District of Columbia Medical Society. He served as its president for one term and for thirty-five years had been its corresponding secretary. He was a trustee of Emergency Hospital when he died. He was president of the Obstetrical and Gynecological Society from 1897 to 1899, and was consulting physician in obstetrical cases at Freedmen's and other hospitals. He had been a trustee of Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., for seventeen years, and was president of the board of trustees of the Methodist Home for the Aged.

Dr. Smith is survived by a son, Dr. Hugh M. Smith, commissioner of fisheries, and a daughter, Miss Alice C. Smith. Dr. Smith's wife died four years ago. She was Miss Cornelia F. Hazard of this city.

Died, on Saturday, the 1st of August, in the 15th year of his age, Virginius Spence, youngest son of Fleet Smith, Esq., after a painful and lingering illness of several weeks. It may be satisfactory to his absent friends and relatives to know that he bore his sufferings with patient resignation and manly fortitude. Kind, affectionate, and amiable in his disposition, he was beloved by all who knew him, and particularly by his numerous schoolmates, who attended his funeral. It is extremely consoling to his bereaved parents, and brother, and sister, that his pastor then expressed the consolation he felt with his hopes in Jesus.

Hamilton Smith Dies at Seashore

Prominent D.C. Coal Dealer, 32d Degree Mason, Held Many Offices

W. Hamilton Smith, a resident of Washington since 1874, second vice president of the J. Maury Dove Company and a man nationally known in the coal trade, died suddenly in Atlantic City last night. Mr. Smith had been ill with angina pectoris since last New Year's eve, but his condition was considered to be improving. Only this morning his business associates received letters from him telling how much he had been benefited by his seaside visit and expressing the hope that he would be back at work by next Monday.

With Firm Forty-Five Years

Mr. Smith had been with the Dove company for forty-five years. He was president of the Coal Merchants' Board of Trade, vice president of the Standard Coal Company, and was one of the organizers and vice presidents of the National Retail Coal Merchants' Association of the United States. He was also a member of the Board of Trade. He was considered an authority on every detail of his chosen business.

Surviving Mr. Smith are his wife, who was Miss Elizabeth Steele Smith of this city, and a son, Dr. W. Hamilton Smith, jr., of Hagerstown, Md. Mr. Smith's first wife was a Miss Hodkinson. Born in New London, Conn., February 18, 1862. Mr. Smith came of old New England stock. He was eligible to every patriotic society, including the Society of Mayflower Descendants. His grandfather, William Hamilton, was born in 1790 in one of the four houses left standing after the burning of New London by Gen. Benedict Arnold, while Oak Hill cemetery of that city contains the graves of many generations of his forbearers.

High in Masonic Order

Mr. Smith's connections with Masonry were varied and of long standing. He was made a Mason in Harmony Lodge, No. 17, F.A.A.M., in 1886, was master of the lodge in 1890, and from 1891 until his death was its secretary. He became a Royal Arch Mason in Mount Vernon Chapter, No. 3, August 5, 1889, affiliated with Hiram Chapter, No. 10, September 6, 1894; and with Columbia Chapter, No. 1, on whose roles he is still carried, May 2, 1906.

He was knighted in Columbia Commandery, No. 2, Knights Templar, October 16, 1891, and was a 32d degree Knight Commander of the Court of Honor of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, having received his degrees in the local bodies, Mithras Lodge of Perfection, Evangelist Chapter, Knights Rose Croix; Robert de Bruce Council, Knights Kadosh, and Albert Pike Consistory, M.R.S., thirty-one years ago. He was also a noble of Almas Temple of the Mystic Shrine of which he was illustrious potentate in 1912.

Funeral Here Saturday

The body is expected to arrive in Washington some time tonight. Rose Croix funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 433 3d street northwest. Officiating clergymen will be Rev. William Tayloe Snyder, rector of the Church of the Incarnation, and Rabbi Abram Simon, pastor of the Eighth Street Temple, an old personal friend.

The History of the City of Washington, Its Men and Institutions

W. Hamilton Smith, manager, and one of the board of directors of The J. Maury Dove Company, was born in New London, Connecticut. He came to this city in 1873, and was educated in the public schools of the city and under private tutors. In 1876 he entered the employ of H. Clay Stewart, who at the time conducted a retail coal and wood business at the corner of Twelfth and H streets. Upon the retirement of Mr. Stewart from active business this yard was purchased by Mr. Dove for Solomon Stover, and is still one of the branch yards of the business. In 1890 Mr. Smith left the employ of Mr. Dove and for one and one-half years was connected with Messrs. Woodward & Lothrop, of this city, and with several of the local newspapers in special correspondence and as an ad writer for several firms of this and other cities, holding the responsible position in the Boston House of credit clerk. In 1891 Mr. Dove's business was rapidly increasing, and his other interests demanded so much of his attention that he arranged with Mr. Smith to return to his employ, and up to the incorporation of the company he has been connected with Mr. J. Maury Dove in the capacity of manager, Mr. Dove recognizing his ability with a liberal interest in the company on the date of its incorporation. Mr. Smith is well known in Washington business circles as a young man of undoubted integrity and fine abilities. He is a prominent Mason and has held several high offices in various organizations of that fraternity, and in his capacity as manager has brought to the new business the value of the training and experience which for years he received when in the employ of Mr. Dove.

Smith, Willie

TheEvening Star, September 11, 1903

Result of Accident

Willie Smith, thirteen years old, died at Providence Hospital this morning under circumstances which called for an investigation on the part of the coroner. It appears that the child's death was due to tetanus following an injury to his jaw inflicted by his brother, Clinton Smith, eleven years old. The injury was inflicted nearly two weeks ago while the boys were playing a game with sticks near their home on Huntoon place southwest. Willie received an injury to his right jaw which did not appear serious. Several days after he was hurt he was seen by a doctor at the Washington barracks, who told him his jaw was fractured. A physician was then called to the house and the injured boy was taken to the hospital. His condition was critical when he reached the hospital and the doctors were unable to prevent his death from lockjaw. Coroner Nevitt found that the blow was purely the result of an accident and gave a certificate accordingly.

Smith, Wilmer

Smith. On Monday, December 6th, 1886, at 2:20 a.m. of diphtheria, Wilmer, beloved and only child of Samuel A. and Katie M. Smith, aged 5 years and 5 months.

Leon Smith Drowned
Lad Loses His Life in the Potomac Yesterday

Leon Smith lost his life in the Potomac at the foot of 4th street southeast yesterday afternoon. He was seven years old and was playing with a number of companions on the wharf of the Smoot Sand Company when he accidentally fell overboard. His companions at once called for assistance and Guy Howard succeeded in getting the drowning boy ashore before life was extinct, but the lad stopped breathing soon afterward. Dr. Owens was summoned from Providence Hospital and worked for a time to restore life without results and the lad was removed to the hospital where artificial means of respiration were resorted to also without avail. Coroner Nevitt gave a certificate of accidental death and the body was removed to the home of the boy's parents, 741 5th street southeast from where the funeral will take place.

The police were summoned to the river front and the patrol wagon was used for the purpose of removing the boy to the hospital. It is stated by the police that there was a delay in reaching the hospital caused by a freight train obstructing the crossing. The man on duty at the crossing, knowing that the wagon was on its way to the hospital, stood on the crossing and flagged the train. The police thought the engineer paid but little attention to the flagman, and it was only because of the efficiency of the driver that the wagon and train did not collide.

Mr. Amzi Smith's Condition
The condition of Mr. Amzi Smith this afternoon was regarded as showing no improvement. He suffered another hemorrhage this morning and while it seemed to leave no appreciable effect, it was not encouraging.

The Evening Star, August 25, 1907, p. 10

Amzi Smith Is Dead
Was Many Years Head of Senate Document Room
Friend of Famous Men
Known Far and Wide for His Marvelous Memory
Valuable To Government
No Index Necessary When He Was Around --
Funeral Arrangements Announced Later
Amzi Smith, for forty-three years connected with the document room of the United States Senate, and for many years in charge of that important branch of the Senate, died last night of typhoid fever, in the sixty-fourth year of his age. He would have been, had he lived until today, just sixty-four years old.

Mr. Smith was known by every public man whose business took him to the United States Capitol for the last generation, and he possessed a remarkable memory both for faces and for the indexes of public bills, documents, reports and executive communications which annually found their way into both houses of Congress.

It took him but a moment to indicate where any public document could be found in the vast storehouse over which he presided. Senator George of Mississippi once said to him: "You might burn up all he indexes in he Senate, Amzi, and you would be all right."
When the end came the deceased was surrounded by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Richard Hawes of this city and Mrs. John Schreyer of Milton, Pa., and his son, Frank P. Smith, an architect of Boston. Another son, Amzi Smith, jr., of Johnson City, Pa., has been telegraphed for, but has not reached the city.

Mr. Smith became ill about one month ago, but said little to the members of his family. Finally, about ten days ago, he was compelled to take to his bed, and the physician in attendance announced that he was suffering with typhoid fever. His condition gradually grew worse until the end. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Since the Forty-Seventh Congress

Probably no better test of the esteem in which Mr. Amzi Smith was held by those who were his employers can be shown than by the annual insertion in the appropriation bills of Congress of this item: "For superintendent of the document room (Amzi Smith), $3,000." In other words Congress stipulated that the appropriation for that office should be expended only in favor of one man, Amzi Smith.

This was done for one purpose; namely, that in event of a change in the head of the departament to which Mr. Smith was accredited, during the recess of Congress, no one would dare to appoint another man to his place. It also served notice upon the horde of hungry office-seekers ever thronging the Senate that the Senate was satisfied with Mr. Smith and did not want any one to come prowling around after his place.

Since the Forty-seventh Congress (and that is a long time) this provision has appeared in the annual supply bills. In recent years it has probably been superfluous, since no man who had knowledge of affairs as they existed would have possessed the temerity to ask for Amzi Smith's place. It was acknowledged that he was invaluable and that the Senate so regarded his status.

Col. Bright's Tribute

Col. Richard J. Bright, who served twice as sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, told a Star man the other day an incident bearing upon this phase of the case.

"When I first took charge of the office of sergeant-at-arms, in 1879," said Col. Bright, "Mr. Smith's position was under my office. There had been a change of administration, the democrats coming in, and there were about 5,000 applications for some one hundred positions. Among the demands I received was one for Mr. Smith's place. I pointed out to those who asked for it, that Mr. Smith's office was peculiar; his office was a workshop of the Senate, and it was necessary to have a man at the head of it who could do the work demanded by the Senate. It was far more important to the democrats of the Senate that they should have in that place a man who could on the spur of the moment answer calls made upon him, for information to be used for partisan purposes, if you please, than it was that some good democrat should be provided with a place. That view was accepted and Mr. Smith was not disturbed."

Col. Bright went on to say that later, when he was about to go out of office, he was called upon to supplant Mr. Smith. One of the greatest republicans in the Senate was back of the applicant for Mr. Smith's place. Col. Bright went to this senator and suggested that while he would not take it upon himself to anticipate his successor (Col. Dan Ransdell) and would not make a change in Mr. Smith's place anyhow, he suggested that if this senator should try it, he would find the Senate unanimously opposed to the change. The senator concurred in his view and withdrew his indorsement.

Later, Mr. Smith's office was placed under the jurisdiction of the secretary of the senate, and it would probably have required a caucus of senators to have displaced him at any time.

Held in High Esteem

Disbursing Officer Nixon, who is one of the oldest and most valued employes of the Senate, said of Mr. Smith:

"I have served the Senate contemporaneously with him for forty years and more. No man had a wider acquaintance among public men or was held in higher regard. He knew every one, he seemed to know everything that every one wanted to know and he knew all about it. I was looking over the records the other day and found that Mr. Smith came here in 1864. He held minor positions at first, but was steadily advanced. I think he obtained his great hold upon his position in 1877. In that year the Senate adopted a resolution directing the removal of the public documents from under the roof of the Capitol and their proper assortment. This work Mr. Smith undertook. He became acquainted with every public document on file, and possessing a remarkable memory was able thereafter to refer at a moment's notice to the document treating of any specified subject, and could give its number off hand."
This was Mr. Smith's great forte. If a senator should come to him and say, "Amzi, I am going to talk about so-and-so; what can you refer me to having a bearing on that subject?" Mr. Smith in a jiffy could tell him that away back yonder in the year so and so the Secretary of the Treasury, or the Secretary of State, or the public printer, or somebody else had sent in a report on that question. Also, senator or representative this or that had made a speech on it; all of which he would refer to in his records, and in a few minutes have the inquirer loaded down with information.

This faculty came in handy to men of both parties, in both the House and Senate. Mr. Smith's mind was encyclopaedic and not partisan. He was employed to remember, and he did remember. If there was a hot debate in either the House or Senate, and some statesman sent a page scurrying to Amzi Smith with perhaps just a hurried scrawl, giving the head of the subject only, before the page had time to catch his breath for the return trip Mr. Smith would have the documents forthcoming. He did not stop to inquire if the solicitor was democrat or republican.

His Greatest Faculty
Mr. Smith's greatest faculty lay in his ability to help seekers for information. Often, and, indeed, in most of the instances, public men would come to him with the vaguest kind of ideas as to what they wanted. They knew in a general way what they were after, but did not know in what directions to look for it. Mr. Smith would set them right at once. He seemed to divine what people were after, and indeed tell them what they themselves did not know they wanted. Then he would tell them where to find it, which was a double service.

As might be supposed, he was a busy man. His office was likely to be thronged with people making all kinds of harassing and sometimes seemingly impossible requests. The man has yet to appear who will say that he ever failed to receive courteous treatment at Mr. Smith's hand. It seemed as if nothing was too much for him. Let the Senate sit, thirty or forty hours at a time, as often it has done, and he was at his desk ready to answer promptly, politely and effectively. That is what wore him out. His acquaintances will tell you that he wore out his life in this service of detail; his friends know it to be true.

In recent years he had been failing physically, but never mentally. His frame was meager and delicate, but his mind was strong. Once he dropped out of his chair completely exhausted, but in a day or two insisted upon being back at the desk. He was not only held in high regard by public men, but was beloved by them. Senators and the older representatives looked upon him as a friend. He was something more than an employee of Congress.

He was widely known over the country. Every one who wrote to the document room for information received attention. Scientists, literateurs, writers on economics and politics, historians and others depended upon him. Every librarian in the country knew Amzi Smith, by reputation if not personally, and probably felt that he knew him personally.

He was born in West Newton, Pa., in 1843, and had resided here since 1864. He left a wife, two daughters and two sons; Mrs. Schroyer of Milton, Pa.; Mrs. Richard Hawes of this city; Amzi Smith, jr., of Johnson City, Tenn., and Frank Smith, an architect, of Boston.

His office was left in charge of trained men, who served under him for years, at the head of whom is George Boyd, who has been Mr. Smith's right-hand man in recent years and upon whom has devolved most of the hard work of the office.

Funeral of Amzi Smith
Many Friends Attend the Services at the Family Home
Funeral services for Mr. Amzi Smith, late superintendent of the Senate document room, were held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the family residence, 314 Maryland avenue northeast, conducted by Rev. John Weldley, pastor of the Church of the Reformation. The services, which were both simple and beautiful, were attended by many friends of the deceased. Interment, which was private, was in Congressional cemetery. The pallbearers were George H. Boyd, W.E. Burns, R.B. Dixon, Henry Blair, Frank Bright and Horace Dodge.

The family has received letters and telegrams from all parts of the country and from many prominent people conveying expressions of regret at Mr. Smith's death and of tribute to his worth and the esteem in which he was held.

Death of Chas. F. Smith
Mr. Charles F. Smith, for many years superintendent of the Congressional cemetery, and for the past two years a clerk in the pension office, died suddenly of dropsy Saturday night at his residence, No. 321 A street southeast. He was in apparently good health when he retired at 10 o'clock, but shortly before his death he arose and tottered down stairs, telling his family he was ill. He lay down on the parlor sofa and in a few minutes was a corpse. He leaves a widow and five children. The body will be buried with Masonic honors at
Congressional cemetery tomorrow afternoon, the deceased having been a prominent member of Naval Lodge, No. 4.

Charles F. Smith, ... who died Sept. 29, 1894, less than five months before the completion of the building. While never having served the Lodge as its Master, he was one of the most earnest and valuable workers, and contributed largely by his efforts to its success. He was for years the Superintendent of the Congressional Cemetery, and was subsequently employed at clerical work in the Pension Office. At the time of his death he was in his 54th year.

Death of an Aged Government Clerk
Mr. Chauncey Smith, for 43 years past a clerk in the Post Office department, died at his residence 225 B street northwest, today, of pneumonia. Mr. Smith had attained the ripe old age of 80 and was ill but three days. His brethren of the Masonic fraternity, of which he was a prominent officer, as well as his host of friends throughout the city, will be grieved to learn of his sudden taking off. His life was devoted to acts of genuine charity and kindness.

The Evening Star, March 13, 1882
The Funeral of Chauncey Smith, who for nearly fifty years held responsible positions in the Post Office department, took place yesterday afternoon from the Masonic Temple, which was crowded by his many friends of the Masonic fraternity, of which he was a prominent member. The casket containing the remains was taken from the late residence of the deceased, on B street, and borne to the Temple, where it was placed in the center of the large hall. The Masonic choir rendered some appropriate selections and the funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Sunderland, who recited the pure and blameless private and unostentatious life of the deceased and his love of true charity. At the close of Dr. Sunderland's remarks the Knights Templars services were performed. The pall-bearers were E.G. Davis, Myron M. Parker, I.L. Johnson, R.W. Handy, A.T. Longley, Frank Marshall, M.B. Sutter and A.L. Fox, representing the various branches of the Masonic order to which the deceased was attached. The remains were interred in Congressional Cemetery, where the funeral rites of the blue lodge were celebrated.

<td>On Friday night last was briefly noticed in The Star of Saturday. Mr. Smith was a native of New York city, and in early life was a contractor for railroad work, etc. During the war he was an officer of the 15th New York regiment (engineers), which was for some months quartered east of the navy yard. After the war closed and on being mustered out he brought his family here and settled. Under President Johnson's administration he held the position of justice of the peace, and was attached to the office of Judge Fisher, the district attorney, for some months. Under the late district government he went into the business of contracting and did some very important lines of work, among others, paving 1st street west, in connection with which he tore up the line of railroad track connecting the Baltimore and Ohio railroad with the Alexandria railroad. He was also a contractor on the Capitol grounds, and his last work was the improvement of I street north. Mr. Smith had a large circle of acquaintances. He was a member of B.B. French Lodge of Masons, who will attend his funeral from his late residence, on 3d street, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.</td>

Funeral of Hanse H. Smith
Was Formerly Guard at Jail and Died at Hampton, Va.
The funeral of Hanse H. Smith, who was a guard at the District jail for a number of years took place this afternoon from the undertaking establishment of J.H. Bradley, 443 7th street southwest. His death occurred in the Hampton Soldiers' Home last Friday. The deceased was well known in this city, having been connected with the Grand Army and the Washington Lodge of Elks. Members of the latter organization made arrangements for his funeral and had Undertaker Bradley take charge of the body yesterday morning upon its arrival on the steamer from Old Point.
Mr. Smith was sixty-eight years old at the time of his death. He served with distinction throughout the war and spent about ten years of his life as a guard at the jail. During the latter service, it is stated, he participated in the execution of about twenty murderers, having actually sprung the trap that many times. His wife died about two years ago and he afterward went to the institution at Hampton. His body was interred besides the remains of his wife in Congressional cemetery. |

Dr. Hugh McCormick Smith, Ex-Chief of Fisheries, Dead

Famous Scientist Had Made Studies Throughout World

Dr. Hugh McCormick Smith, internationally prominent ichthyologist and former United States commissioner of fisheries, died yesterday at his home, 1209 M street northwest, Dr. Hugh McCormick Smith, husband of Emma H Smith and father of Mrs. Edmund Vincent Cowdry and Mrs. Harry Claudy and brother of Mrs. Frederick W. Klingelhofer. Services at Gawler's chapel, 1750 Pennsylvania avenue northwest on Wednesday, October 1 at 2 p.m. Interment Congressional Cemetery.

He was born in Washington, November 21, 1865, the son of Thomas Croggon and Cornelia Hazard Smith, and was educated at Central High School and the Medical School of Georgetown University, from which he received his medical degree in 1888. He also received an LL. D. degree from Dickinson in 1908.

Entered Service in 1886

Dr. Smith's interest in scientific work was awakened while he was still in high school by Prof. Spencer Baird, who was commissioner when Dr. Smith entered the Fish Commission in 1886. He was assistant in charge of the division of fishery industries from 1893 to 1897, and from then until 1903 was assistant in charge of inquiry on food fishes and fishing grounds.

In 1900 he was named to represent the Government at the first international fishery congress at Paris, and represented the country at the third congress at Vienna in 1905 and served as secretary general of the fourth congress held here in 1908.

In 1901 and 1902 he was director of the marine fisheries biological laboratory at Woods Hole, Mass., and from 1907 to 1910 served as director of a Government expedition to investigate development of fisheries in the Philippine Islands. Dr. Smith was a member of the medical faculty of Georgetown University from 1888 to 1902.

Dr. Smith was named expert special assistant to the United States counsel at the arbitration hearing of the North Atlantic fisheries dispute held at The Hague in 1910, and was appointed by President Taft the same year as a member of the international commission for the settlement of disputes arising with Canada and Newfoundland under the award of the Hague tribunal. Two years later he represented this Government on the permanent international council for the exploration of the sea and the following year was appointed by the President as joint commissioner on behalf of the country for the control of fisheries in the boundary waters of the United States and Canada.

International Studies

In the 21 years from 1900 to 1921, Dr. Smith investigated fisheries in Canada, France, Great Britain, Norway, Denmark, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Italy, Hawaiian Islands, Japan, China, the Philippines, Borneo and Ceylon. He also made a number of extended trips in this country.

At the time of his resignation in 1922, he was the only fish commissioner since the establishment of the bureau who had risen from the bottom to the top. When Herbert Hoover, was Secretary of Commerce he wrote of Dr. Smith:

"I believe your service for 36 years, rising from the bottom to the top, in one of our great scientific bureaus, is unique in the history of the Government."

Dr. Smith not only put into effect many constructive economic measures in commercial fisheries regulations and discovered a number of new species, but confirmed the existence of the "archer fish." This fish, by propulsion of a drop of water along its grooved tongue could bring down insect prey from branches well out of water.
In 1923 Dr. Smith was invited by the royal government of Siam to become special assistant to the crown to study and develop the fisheries of that country and three years later was named director of the Siamese Department of Fisheries. He dealt directly with the royal brothers and brothers-in-law in high government positions. Dr. Smith was given a residence, a laboratory with assistants and two boats.

On Smithsonian Staff
Since his return from Siam, Dr. Smith had been engaged in research work in regard to Siamese fish and had almost completed an elaborate monograph on fresh-water fish of Siam, with some 300 illustrations. He was associate curator of zoology at the Smithsonian Institute and had gone to his office there until the latter part of last week.

Dr. Smith had written a number of articles and papers on ichthyology for Government and other publications. He was a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, member of the American Ornithologists Union, American Society of Naturalists, American Fisheries Society, serving as president, 1907-8; president of the Biological Society of Washington in 1919, member of the District Medical Society, a member of the Cosmos Club and a vice president of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants.

Held Many Medals
Dr. Smith was the holder of a number of medals, including a gold medal from a fishery exposition in Bergen, Norway, in 1898; a medal in the same year from the Trans-Mississippi International Exposition, Omaha, for services in preparing exhibit of the Bureau of Fisheries; silver medal award in 1908 from the Imperial and Royal Austrian Society; several bronze commemorative medals from Siam and a commemorative medal in 1931, following cruise of a Danish research vessel.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma H. Smith, and two daughters, Mrs. Carl H. Claudy, jr., of Washington, and Mrs. E.V. Cowdry of St. Louis, Mo.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m., Wednesday at Gawler's funeral home, 1750 Pennsylvania avenue n.w., with burial in Congressional cemetery.

Death of a Well-Known Citizen
M. J. Moody Smith, an old Treasury clerk and well-known citizen of this District for the last thirty years, died at his residence, No. 1222 Pennsylvania avenue, on Sunday night at 9 o'clock, after a few days' illness, aged about 73 years. M. Smith was a native of Massachusetts, and immigrated to Ohio when a young man, where he identified himself with the early settlers of that state in many important enterprises, and was generally known and respected there and in Kentucky, where he was also well-known. For over twenty-four years he has been a clerk in the Treasury department, where he was noted for his efficiency. He was one of the oldest Masons in this District, having been connected with the fraternity for more than fifty years. The remains, encaused in a costly walnut casket, covered with silver Masonic emblems, from the establishment of Interments in the Historic Congressional Cemetery

Inquiry Into Cause of Death
Coroner Nevitt is investigating the death of James Elwood Smith, aged five weeks, infant son of David and Mary Smith, who live at No. 39 Monroe street, Anacostia. Its death occurred about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It is stated that the child was sick and was given a dose of patent medicine. Dr. Harrison was afterward called in, but the child died, and under the circumstances the doctor refused to give a certificate without consulting the coroner. It is believed that the death was caused by an overdose of the medicine.

The body of the infant was removed to the morgue, where an autopsy was performed this afternoon. The contents of the stomach and a portion of the medicine will be sent to the District chemist for analysis.

Obituary
Smith. We are once more in a brief period of time, called upon to mourn the loss of another fellow-workman, suddenly called from our midst by that Omnipotent Power from whom there is no appeal.

While the deceased was not a member of our union, yet he was bound to us by ties of fraternity and closely affiliated with us in craftship, we as a body mourn his loss.

As fellow-workmen we extend our deep and heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved family, partly realizing from our own feelings what theirs must be.
A conscientious workman wherever placed; prominent in the councils of his craft; true and faithful in the performance of the many duties intrusted to him; a kind and indulgent father, a loving husband, a God-fearing man, and a patriot of his country in its time of need, we feel that in the death of James S. Smith we suffer a loss almost irreparable but realize at the same time that he surely has gone to his heavenly reward and it will be said to him: "Well done, good and faithful servant."

Resolutions of Respect

At a special meeting of Stereotypers' Union, No. 19, I.T.U., held last Monday evening, the 27th instant, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in His dispensations to remove our former friend and companion, James S. Smith, from this sphere of life, and while that summons was sudden and unexpected, there was a mercy in it, and that while regretting, we bow in submission to that Supreme Will who ordereth all things well.

In the sudden death of our friend his associates and the members of this union have lost an earnest and faithful worker from the day of its organization, and we desire to put upon record our appreciation of his worth and untiring services, and to this end be it,

Resolved by the members of Stereotypers' Union, No. 19, I.T.U., in special meeting assembled, That we do hereby express our deep regret at our sudden loss and extend to his widow and family our heartfelt sympathy. Be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the proceedings of our regular meetings and that an engrossed copy be sent to his widow and that the same be published in two of the daily papers of the city and the Typographical Journal.

One little bud adorned our bower,
And shed sweet fragrance round;
It grew in beauty hour by hour,
Till oh! the spoiler seized the flower
And crushed it to the ground.
Yet not forever in the dust
That beauteous bud shall lie;
He--in the garden of the just
Beneath God's loving eye, I trust,
Twill bloom again on high.

The next house to this -- No. 308 -- was built by Henry Weightman [R52/138], a brother of Roger Chew C. Weightman, mayor of the city in 1824, 1825 and 1826. It dates back to 1835 or 1836. (Originally (and until changes were commenced a year or two ago) the house set back from the side-walk some distance, with a stone wall about two or three feet in height on a line with the adjoining houses. Francis Scott Key owned and occupied it for a time prior to 1843, when it was sold by his widow to the late John A. Smith, who was for more than 20 years clerk of the Circuit Court, and who with his family formed part of the best society in the city. Mr. Key had a portion of the west side devoted to an office with a separate door, but Mr. Smith abandoned this and made it a part of the dwelling proper. The house had a plain brick front, was unusually wide, and had old-fashioned high ceilings. Mr. Smith continued to have his home there until his death in 1868, and his widow remained there until her death in 1883. A year or two after that a son and three daughters constituting the family, moved into a northwest section of the city, and with the exception of the son, who died in 1896, they are living there now; also two granddaughters. The changes lately completed have placed an apartment house on the site, which has its frontage on a line with the neighboring houses.

Death of a Venerable Pastor
Rev. Dr. John C. Smith, the well-known pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian (9th street) Church for nearly 40 years, died at his residence on New York avenue, between 9th and 10th streets yesterday afternoon, aged about 85 years. Dr. Smith was a native of Baltimore, studied theology under the late Dr. Duncan, and graduated at Princeton College. We next hear of his journeyings as a colportner in the neighborhood of Old Point Comfort in Va. where his labors resulted in the organization of a church which he served as pastor for a few years. About 1837 he received a call to the Bridge Street Church, Georgetown, which he served for a little over a year, when receiving a call to the Fourth Church in this city, he accepted it, and entered on his duties here September 10th, 1838, succeeding Rev. Mason Noble, who had followed Rev. J. Noble Danford. Dr. Smith was at that time apparently in bad health, and it was supposed by many that he would live but a few months. For years afterwards it was supposed that his death was near at hand. So certain were some members of his congregation that he would not live, that the late Anthony Preston, during a visit to Scotland, procured a handsome monument to be over the grave of his loved friend. Mr. Preston did not find Mr. Smith dead on his return, as he feared, and he himself, dying several... years ago the monument was placed over his grave. Dr. Smith was, in some respects, a model pastor, and performed a vast amount of labor for one so weak as he was. He was social in the extreme and was universally loved and respected by young and old, both in his congregation and outside. For over a year past Dr. Smith has been confined most of the time to his home from the effects of a fall last winter, and it is said that this was the cause of his death. The funeral will take place at 11 o'clock on Monday morning next, from the church on 9th street near G.

Funeral of Rev. Dr. Smith

The funeral of the late Rev. Dr. John C. Smith, for nearly forty years the pastor of the 4th (9th street) Presbyterian church, who died at his residence on New York avenue, near 9th street, on Wednesday afternoon last, took place from the church at 11 o'clock this morning, and was attended by a large concourse of citizens, the church being much too small to accommodate the assemblage. The pulpit was draped in morning as also the organ and the family pew. On one side of the pulpit there was a monument of flowers typifying unity and love, the base being two feet in depth, composed of flowers (contributed by the scholars of the Sunday School) and the shaft six feet (contributed by the congregation) surmounted by a crown with cross (contributed by the Young People's Association). The word "Rest," appeared on the monument in immortelles, and the whole stood ten feet one inch in height. On the Bible rest was placed a crown and a cross in front (gifts of Rev. J. T. Kelly and wife), a star by Mrs. Connolly, and an open Bible in flowers by Mr. and Mrs. Merchant. The remains, in an elegant casket, were brought in the church, followed by the family and immediate friends, about 11 o'clock, the associate pastor, Rev. J.T. Kelly, reading the burial service -- the following being the pall-bearers; Rev. Dr. T.D. Addison, Trinity (Episcopal) church; Rev. Dr. J.G. Butler, Memorial (Lutheran) church; Rev. B.F. Bittinger, Westminster (Presbyterian) church; Rev. Dr. A.H. Ames, McKendree (Methodist) church; Rev. Dr. J.H. Cuthbert, First Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. Westcott, of Howard University. As the remains were borne up the aisle, the choir sang "Rest, Spirit, Rest," (Rooke,) and during the services also sang. "Cast thy Burden Upon the Lord," (Mendelssohn,) and the Funeral March of Chopin. Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Shepherd, of Philadelphia, and Rev. Dr. John Leyburn, of the Associated Reformed Church of Baltimore (the church with which Dr. Smith first united,) each made short addresses. The remains were taken to the Congressional Cemetery, where the interment was made, and the floral monument which was at the church was placed on the grave.

Accident to the Rev. John Smith

The Intelligencer of this date has the following: The Rev. John C. Smith, D.D., Pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church in this city, was among the passengers in a car which was thrown down an embankment on the Southside Railroad, between Petersburg and Lynchburg, Va., on Thursday last. He was brought home on Saturday last, where he lies in much pain from the bruises and contusions he received; but we are gratified in being able to state that no permanent injury is expected to result from them.

The railroad accident, which was noticed in Saturday's paper, seems to have been more serious than at first stated. One of the firemen was instantly killed. Among those severely bruised were Mr. Alfred King, coachmaker, of Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Ely, Mr. Venable, the mail agent, Mr. Davis, the conductor, Mr. Jones, the engineer, Mr. J.B. Hiliard, Mr. Wood and Mr. Wilson, of Cumberland county, Mrs. Smith, of Prince Edward, Mr. Anderson, and Mr. Bruce, of Lynchburg. Many whose names are not given were more or less injured. A number of the stockholders were returning home from the annual meeting at Petersburg. The engine and cars were crushed, and not a passenger escaped bruises.

The Fourth Presbyterian Church – The Rev. Dr. John C. Smith, of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, yesterday preached his twenty-eighth anniversary sermon before a very large congregation, his text being from the 7th verse, 12th chapter of Romans -- "Our ministry; let me wait on our ministering, or he that teacheth on teaching." In the course of his sermon, Dr. Smith alluded to the fact that of the five men and eighteen women in the original roll of members of the church but three remained -- Patrick Crowley [R81/231], Catherine Wilson and Polly Robinson. Besides those three, there were 237 on the roll when Dr. Smith took charge of the congregation, and of that number there were now living nine men and thirty-one women. There are now 566 communicants, 523 of whom are members of the church. During the past year forty-one new members have been received, eight have died, and fifteen been dismissed. There were twenty-six marriages, and the baptism of ten adults and twelve infants. The average gain of membership during the last twenty-eight years has been 38 - 47. During the time Dr. Smith has had charge of this church he has attended the funerals of three Presidents, and ex-President John Q. Adams, and also the funerals of a large number of distinguished statesmen.

Smith, John H.
John H. Smith, who died last Sunday, September 11, 1910 at 2 o'clock p.m., John H. Smith, devoted husband of Annie V. Smith, aged 62 years.
As we stood with aching heart
Seeing the one we loved so dearly
Pierced by Death's most cruel dart.
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
Our loss is great, we cannot complain
But trust in God to meet again.
By His Wife and Children

Celebrates Eighty-First Birthday
Mrs. Maria A. Smith celebrated her eighty-first birthday anniversary recently at her home, 442 Jackson street, Anacostia. There was a family reunion in her honor, which was made pleasant with the bestowal of a number of gifts upon Mrs. Smith, with an extension of best wishes, a musical program and the serving of refreshments. Mrs. Smith is a native of Stafford county, Va., being a member of the Bussell family, pioneers of that part of the state. She has lived in the District many years, and is the widow of Samuel A. Smith, who once resided at Congress Heights and was a Mexican war veteran.

Mrs. Smith is the mother of twelve children, eleven of whom are living. She has eighteen grandchildren. Those present at the gathering were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith of Baltimore, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Barry of Baltimore, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mayhew, Miss Lucy Smith, Mr. and Mrs. T.W. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Burch, Mr. and Mrs. S.J. Kearns, Mr. Frank R. Smith and family and Mr. and Mrs. Clark W. Teates.

Mrs. Marie Van H. Smith Dies At Her Home Here
Mrs. Marie Van Hook Smith, widow of Middleton Smith, polar explorer, died last night at her home, 1724 Euclid street, after an illness of 10 months.

Mrs. Smith was a native of Philadelphia and a descendant of two of the earliest families in Pennsylvania. She was educated in the Pennsylvania city and attained distinction for her work in music and art. As a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution she was quite active, having been registrar of the Continental Chapter for three years and a member of the advisory board for two years. She was a member also of the National Auxiliary of the Spanish War Veterans, the National Indian Association and the Ramabal Circle of Providence, R.I.

Middleton Smith died last October at the Euclid street home. He was well known in scientific circles here and was the author of more than a score of books upon scientific subjects. In 1882, Mr. Smith was an observer with the International Polar expedition at Point Barrow, Alaska.

Brothers and sisters who survive Mrs. Smith are Gordon Van Hook, Moley and Clifford Smith and Mrs. Emma T. Morris and Mrs. Antoinette Van Hook Browne, all of whom live in the West.

The depth of our sorrow no tongue can tell,
At the loss of our mother we loved so well,
While she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her sacred memory we will always keep.
By Her Loving Sons
Cassie, if at times the stain of grief
Upon our cheeks appears
It is because our saddest thoughts
Find some relief in tears.

By Her Loving Sisters and Brothers

Middleton Smith Dies; Noted Scientist
Author of Many Books Retired Years Ago; Expert on Arctic Matters |
Middleton Smith, author of more than a score of books on scientific subjects, who retired from the Department of Agriculture several years ago, died at his residence, 1724 Euclid street, at 8 o'clock last night. He was 78 years old and had been ill with heart disease since last January.

Mr. Smith's last book, which he had just finished before his death, was entitled "Two Years Beyond the Arctic Circle." Other books on the far north written by Mr. Smith include "Life and Superstitions of the Eskimos" and "Gardening in Northern Alaska." He spent two years in the arctic region as an observer with the Point Barrow, Alaska, expedition of 1882.

Mr. Smith belonged to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Explorers' Club, and the Arctic Club of New York, of which he was one time vice president. He also was active in the Republican club of this city. Mr. Smith was a native of Bainbridge, Pa., and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marie Van Hook Smith.

Middleton Smith Claimed By Death
Arctic Explorer and Veteran U.S. Worker Dies at Age of 78
Middleton Smith, 78 years old, Arctic explorer and author on numerous scientific subjects who had an unusual career in Government service for 41 years died at his residence, 1734 Euclid street, last night; after an illness lasting since January. He was retired in 1922 from the Department of Agriculture, where he had charge of statistical work 22 years.

Mr. Smith knew both the late Admiral Peary and Dr. Cook intimately and was asked, officially, to give an opinion on whether Admiral Peary and Dr. Cook had reached the North Pole. This opinion is to be found in the congressional records. As a vice president of the Arctic Club of New York, Mr. Smith was a member of a party which met Dr. Cook on his return to New York after visiting the Arctic circle.

Went to Arctic in 1881
Mr. Smith's first work with the Government was in 1881, when he volunteered his services in connection with international polar work. He was a member of the Point Barrow polar expedition of the year last mentioned and spent two years with it in the Arctic as a naturalist and observer.

He assisted in editing reports both of that expedition and the Lady Franklin Bay expedition, 1883 and 1890.

Mr. Smith was a special Government agent in the United States eleventh census 1890-94 and from that time to 1900 did statistical work in the Bureau of Statistics, United States Treasury Department. From 1900 until his retirement in 1922, he was doing statistical work for the Department of Agriculture.

Although having reached the retirement age when the retirement act went into effect in 1920, Mr. Smith was retained as a statistician in the Department of Agriculture for two more years by special request of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Author of Many Works
Mr. Smith served as a delegate from the Department of Agriculture to the Eighth International Geographic Congress of 1904 to which he contributed an article, "The Range and Habit of the Resident Birds of Point Barrow, Alaska."

He was also author of numerous other scientific subjects and bulletins. Among these were "Agricultural, Graphics, Bulletin 7s, Department of Agriculture, and was joint author with Dr. O.E. Baker and R.G. Hainsworth of "A Geographic Summary of American Agriculture," and Yearbook, Department of Agriculture, 1917. Other publications of which he was author were "How to Give Elementary Lessons in Zoology," "Life and Superstitions of the Eskimos," "Gardening in Northern Alaska" and "Primitive Methods of the Capture of the Bowhead Polar Whale."

Mr. Smith was the inventor of the single-dot system for graphically showing crops and live stock based upon the United States Census of 1910.

He was a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Explorers' Club and the Arctic Club of New York, of which he was one-time vice president, and was also an active member of the Republicans Club of this city.

Mr. Smith was a native of Bainbridge, Pa., and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marie Van Hook Smith.

Funeral services will be conducted at the residence Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. John J. Queally will officiate. Interment will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Nathan Smith's Death
Passing Away of an Old and Much Beloved Clerk
Nathan A.C. Smith, an old employee of the Post Office Department, died yesterday morning at his home, 626 E street southwest. Mr. Smith was one of the best known clerks in the office, and had been employed in the department for twenty-one years. He held several important positions being at one time appointment clerk and at another chief of the bond division. He was born in Chelsea, Orange county, Vt., in 1833, but moved to Wisconsin when quite a young man. At the breaking out of the civil war he joined Company H of the 12th Wisconsin Volunteers, and was made lieutenant. He served throughout the war. Just prior to the opening of hostilities he was admitted to the bar.

Twenty-one years ago he accepted a position in the Post Office Department, where his venerable father, Chauncey Smith, was a clerk. Both father and son commanded the love and respect of their fellow clerks. Several years after the son came to Washington the father died. He was chief of the bond division at the time, and the son succeeded him. Some years afterward the son resigned and went west to engage in cattle raising. But the venture did not succeed, and he returned and was reappointed. A few years after he again resigned, and was again reappointed. He remained in the service but a short time when he resigned. During the close of the Spanish war he was appointed to a position in Cuba, but after some hesitation declined it. Shortly afterward his health became poor, and about three months ago he was taken ill. The funeral will be private, and will take place Sunday next at 2 o'clock p.m. The interment will be at Congressional cemetery.

Overcome By Gas
Death of Peter H. Smith at His Home in This City
Peter H. Smith, twenty-eight years old, a former resident of Chicago, who has been employed as a plate printer in the bureau of engraving and printing for about five years, was found dead at his home, No. 18 12th street southeast, about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.  His death had been caused by inhaling illuminating gas.  The condition of the body indicated that death had occurred at least 48 hours before his wife made the horrible discovery.  Mrs. Smith accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Baldwin, to Baltimore, Sunday, taking her only child with her.  Their outing ended yesterday, and about 5:30 o'clock the party reached the 12th street house.  The condition of things in front of the house indicated that Mr. Smith had probably not been home for a day or two.  Mrs. Smith pressed the button of the electric bell, and, receiving no response, she opened the door with her night key.

The odor of gas that greeted her made it apparent that there was something wrong, and hurrying to the upper floor of the house, she found the body of her husband on the floor.  She stopped the flow of gas and opened the window, and Dr. Lothrop was summoned.  He told the family that Mr. Smith had been dead for at least two days.

Coroner Nevitt called at the house later and made an investigation.  The conditions as he found them convinced him beyond any doubt that the man's death was due to an accident.  It was apparent that Mr. Smith had retired after having accidentally left the gas turned on.  It is believed he detected the odor of gas during the night and that in making an effort to reach the window he fell and was unable to get up.

A certificate of accidental death was given and the body was prepared for burial.

The Evening Star, September 7, 1903, p. 16
Last Rites Performed
Remains of Peter H. Smith Buried in Congressional Cemetery
Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 18 12th street southeast over the remains of Peter H. Smith, who last Thursday was found dead in his bed room at the number mentioned.  Death resulted from asphyxia, caused by escaping gas from a jet.  It was proposed to hold the funeral Saturday morning, but the date of burial was postponed on account of the failure of the mother of the deceased to arrive here by that time.

Rev. Father Dowling of St. Peter's Catholic Church offered prayers at the residence before an assemblage of the relatives and friends and a delegation of the Plate Printers' Union of which Mr. Smith was a member.  The pallbearers were chosen from this union, and were Clarence A. McClure, James McNally, Louis Nichols, Thomas Leforte, John Webster and Michael Bohle.  Among the floral offerings on the casket were contributions from the Plate Printers' Union, the National Union and intimate friends.  The body was interred in Congressional Cemetery.

"Interments in the Historic Congressional Cemetery" Last Updated: 6/27/2012
The deceased attorney, who was the son of the late John A. Smith, for many years clerk of the District Court, and a cousin of Judge Walter S. Cox, was born in the city about fifty years ago. He was a man of some means, and while an honored member of the local bar, practiced his profession but little. He was unmarried and leaves three sisters surviving him. He was a genial, whole-souled man, of courtly manners, and one of the best-known and most popular members of the bar.

He was one of the original members of the Metropolitan Club, president of the Patuxent Club, and the originator of the Lawyers' Club. Notice of his funeral will be made this afternoon or tomorrow.

Action of the Courts
In Equity Court No. 1, Mr. R. Ross Perry announced the death of Mr. Smith, referring to him as a man who was beloved by every member of the bar, and stating that at another time he would refer at greater length to the great loss which the bar and community have sustained in the death of an honored associate.

A Tribute to His Memory
Bar Association Takes Action Upon Death of Attorney Smith
Addresses Made by Members and Resolutions Adopted--
The Association Will Attend the Funeral
A very largely attended meeting of the members of the local bar, called by President Henry E. Davis of the District Bar Association, was held at the city hall yesterday afternoon to take appropriate action on the death of Richard Smith, a well-known member of the bar. In the absence of Mr. Davis, Mr. Leigh Robinson presided.

A committee, of which Mr. Jere M. Wilson was chairman, was appointed to prepare suitable resolutions, and later reported.

The Report
The resolutions set forth that the members of the bar of the District of Columbia have heard with profound sorrow of the sudden and untimely death, on the 23d of June instant, of their beloved friend and brother lawyer, Richard Smith; that in the death of their dear friend and brother the bar of the District of Columbia has lost a faithful and honored associate, and the citizens a valuable and useful member of the community, who, by his rare personal and genial qualities as a man, his lovable disposition, his frank and generous nature, which impelled him always to give his time, his services and his means in advancing the happiness of his friends, and in assisting the less fortunate of his fellow beings, has left behind him a memory that will live and be cherished during the lives of all who knew him.

It was also directed that the chairman of the meeting convey to the afflicted family of the deceased a copy of the resolutions with the expression of profound sympathy. Also, that the chairman of the meeting present the resolutions to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia and the Court of Appeals, with the request that they be entered upon the minutes of the court.

Remarks by Members
In presenting the resolutions and moving their adoption, Mr. Wilson referred to Mr. Smith as one of the most genial, big-hearted men ever knew, one who devoted his life to promote the happiness of others.

Col. Enoch Totten spoke of Mr. Smith as a most lovable man, as one who never uttered an unkind word about another being, and as one to whom little children, the keenest, best judges of human nature, gave unbounded love.

Mr. R. Ross Perry said that in the death of Mr. Smith, whom he had known from boyhood, not only the bar had lost a dear friend and lovable companion, but the community an honored and valued member. He was a man who will live not in "dull, cold marble," but in the hearts and affections of all who knew him, for his watchword throughout life was "Love thyself least."

The resolutions were unanimously adopted. It was generally agreed that the bar will attend Mr. Smith's funeral at 4:30 this afternoon, from his late residence, 1727 H street.

Mr. Perry moved that the court adjourn as a mark of respect to his memory.

Judge Cox replied in an appropriate manner, and granted the motion.

Mr. F.H. Mackey made the announcement in Equity Court No. 2, Judge Hagner granting a similar motion.

District Attorney Davis made a similar announcement and motion in Criminal Court No. 2, a like order being made by Judge Bradley. The same thing was done in Circuit Courts Nos. 1 and 2.

Richard Smith Buried
His Popularity Attested by the Attendance at His Funeral
The funeral of the late Richard Smith, the lawyer, who during his long life in Washington had enjoyed the universal esteem and affection of the best people of the District, took place yesterday from his late residence, No. 1727 H street northwest, at 4 o'clock p.m. The large attendance of representative people and the profusion of exquisite floral tributes attested the popularity of the dead man. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Wood of St. John's Church, The interment at Congressional Cemetery was attended only by the immediate relatives of the deceased. The honorary pallbearers who were members of the Metropolitan Club, of which Mr. Smith was one of the founders and always a leading spirit, and of the Bar Association, were Judge Andrew C. Bradley, Charles C. Glover, Marcellus Bailey, Judge Joseph K. McCannon, R. Ross Perry, William A. Boarman, William A. Gordon, Dr. William May, John A. Baker, ex-Representative John J. Hemphill and Dr. T. Morris Murray.

Killed By Lightning
Death and Destruction Caused by Electric Storm
At the Bathing Beach
Richard B. Smith Receives a Fatal Shock
Twelve Others Injured--Fluid Passes From Flag Pole to Interior of Boat House
Death and destruction followed in the wake of yesterday's storm, shortly after noon. At times it appeared that even the houses were shaken, and the thousands of persons who were on the streets, returning from the morning services in the churches, were forced to seek shelter in any convenient place. Some went under awnings and were drenched, while many of those who sought shelter in street cards were no better off. Lightning struck a number of places and did considerable damage.

The most serious damage done was at the bathing beach, where one life was sacrificed and a dozen persons were injured. The man who was killed was Richard B. Smith, a one-legged man, who was employed as a machinist in the navy yard. His home was at 613 South Carolina avenue. The list of injured includes Policeman Banagan, who does duty at the bathing beach; Jacob Hekimian, an Armenian, 21 years old; Frank Lombardy, 17 years old, son of Policeman Lombardy; 400 1st street northwest; Duncan Thompson, 13 years old, 228 1/2 13 1/2 street southwest; William Lines, 37 years old, employed as a District foreman, 117 2d street northwest; Charles Slaughter, colored, 20 years old, 43 Defrees street northwest; George B. Eshelman, 22 years old, a press feeder, 474 Massachusetts avenue northwest; George Washington, colored, 13 years old, 444 Prather's alley northwest; F.F. Sheckles, 20 years old, a bookkeeper, 1300 10th street northwest; Daniel Cunningham, colored, 24 years old, 14 Decatur street northeast; Robert Carroll, colored, 22 years old, 12 Decatur street northeast, and Oliver Patterson, colored, living at 10 Decatur street northeast.

Crowd of Bathers
Because of the intense heat yesterday morning a big crowd of men and boys made an early start for the bathing beach and scores of them were in the water. Many of them started toward the shore at the first sign of the approach of the storm, while others remained until the last minute. More than a score of bathers reached the boat house and sought shelter in the building rather than risk going to the dressing rooms. Those fared worst who took refuge in the boat house, where Moses N. Hekimian, an Armenian, conducts a refreshment stand. Smith, who was an expert swimmer despite the loss of his leg, was assisted from the shallow water to the boat house on the back of a friend. His attention was attracted to one of the boys who was hastening to get out of the path of the lightning and his remark was that there was no use trying to dodge lightning. He told the boy it would do no good to run, as one place was no safer than another. About this time there were several boats being rowed in the direction of the shore and two boats in which there were no occupants were overturned.

Those who had reached the boat house were standing near the open door watching what was going on outside. While they were thus employed the crash came. The tall flagpole on the boat house was struck by lighting and several of those who had sought shelter in the building suddenly fell to the floor. Smith was instantly killed, and for a short time it was believed that others were dead. It was several minutes before those who were but slightly stunned recovered their senses and were able to move. Charles Slaughter was unconscious and William Lines was also in an apparently serious condition. Slaughter's clothing had caught fire, but the flames were extinguished before he was burned. Duncan Thompson, who soon recovered from the fright and the effects of the shock, ran and told Police Banagan of what had occurred.

Hospital Physicians Notified
One glance in the boat house assured the policeman that physicians were needed, and he started off on a run to the Emergency Hospital. On the way to the hospital the policeman fell from exhaustion, but he recovered his strength enough to enable him to resume his journey. He fell a second time, and it is his idea that a shock from lightning had something to do with his fall. When he finally reached the hospital he was in a state of collapse and it was not until a stimulant had been administered that he was able to give the doctors the information that they were needed at the bathing beach. Drs. Dunn, Perkins and Hussey, resident physicians at the hospital entered the ambulance and the animal attached to the vehicle made a quick run through the rain.

Upon reaching the boat house the physicians faced a condition of affairs that required quick and heroic action, having made preparations to treat the victims while being conveyed from the river front in the ambulance. They found that Smith was dead and that those who were still unconscious were Slaughter and Lines. The former had been burned in addition to suffering from the effects of the shock. Lines had been injured by falling and had lost some blood. When the physicians had given them what treatment they could at the boat house the two victims were placed in the ambulance and driven to the hospital. Under the hospital treatment they soon got better, and this morning the belief was expressed that they will recover.

Eshelman, Washington and Sheckles were conveyed to the hospital in one of Knox's express wagons that happened to be on the river front at the time the building was struck. They had received minor burns and injuries and were sent to their homes yesterday afternoon.

Death Certificate Given
The body of Smith was removed to the morgue, and Coroner Nevitt gave the necessary death certificate. Undertaker Repetti conveyed the body from the morgue to his undertaking establishment this morning and prepared it for burial. There were two distinct marks on the body, showing the lines traversed by the lightning. They seemed to have started from the collar buttons and gone down the entire length of the body.

Smith's father, R.B. Smith, sr., is a machinist on the U.S.S. Marine, now undergoing repairs at Cramps' shipyards, Philadelphia, and his wife was on a visit to relatives at her former home in Baltimore yesterday. The father and wife were notified of his death. Arrangements for the funeral had not been completed this morning. It is believed that the two victims in the hospital will not be able to leave there for many days.

Given a Scare
The shock that caused so much damage at the bathing beach was felt at the house of detention, where the prisoners and attendants were given a scare. Four colored women were held as prisoners in one of the large cells on the upper floor, and they were so badly frightened that they crawled under the bed, and all that was to be seen of them when the frightened matron returned to the room were their eight feet protruding from beneath the bed. Those who were on the first floor on the structure saw what appeared to be a ball of fire pass through the building. Some of them felt the shock. The building sustained no damage nor was anybody hurt.

During the storm at noon Johnson's Hotel and H.J. Staley's lunch room were not damaged but a number of persons were frightened. The streets were flooded and water caused some damage in cellars. When the second electric storm appeared in the afternoon people were better prepared for it, and there were not so many persons on the street. During this storm, Mary Shipley, the 15-year-old daughter of Wyatt Shipley, a grocer, was rendered unconscious by a bolt of lightning. She was seated at the front window of her parent's house on Good Hope Hill at the time. A physician was summoned from Anacostia. The child recovered in a short time.

Part of a chimney of the Corcoran building at Pennsylvania avenue and 15th street, was blown down during this storm. A mail box on the corner was demolished and a pedestrian had a narrow escape. The chimney at the house of Dr. E.E. Cissel, 2117 Pennsylvania avenue, was struck by lightning. About $25 damage was

<td>The Evening Star, December 5, 1883 In Memoriam Smith. In the death of Mrs. Sally Smith, which lately occurred in this city, a devoted family, many relatives, and a large circle of friends are each and all bereaved. This aged lady--widow of the late well-known and lamented John A. Smith--was universally beloved as one who for nearly a century has illustrated every Christian grace; and while, with unselfish devotion in every relation of life, she dispensed happiness in her family, generous hospitality to her friends, a noble, unfailing charity to the destitute, and ever ready help for the church, she evinced a gentle loveliness of character very rarely equaled. To the dear ones of the home circle, who must now learn to do without her loving presence, , can be offered only the deepest sympathy, and sincerest hope that realizing her happiness they may be comforted. From her unbroken slumber she would say to them: Oh, deep repose! Oh, slumber blest! Oh, night of peace! no storm, no sorrow,</td>

Dr. Thomas C. Smith, for more than a half a century a practicing physician in this city, died at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 1133 12th street northwest, as the result of an acute digestive disorder. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at McKendree M.E. Church, Massachusetts avenue near 9th street. Interment will be in Congressional cemetery.

Dr. Smith was born in this city August 16, 1842, and at the age of seventeen years was appointed a page in the United States Senate, where he served with the late Senator Gorman, who was then a page. He attended the local public schools and later was a student at Gonzaga College. His medical education was received at Georgetown University Medical School, from which he was graduated in 1864. Just before the close of the civil war Dr. Smith served as a volunteer in the Army Medical Corps.

Second Oldest Member of Society

Dr. Smith was second oldest member of the District of Columbia Medical Society. He served as its president for one term and for thirty-five years had been its corresponding secretary. He was a trustee of Emergency Hospital when he died. He was president of the Obstetrical and Gynecological Society from 1897 to 1899, and was consulting physician in obstetrical cases at Freedmen's and other hospitals. He had been a trustee of Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., for seventeen years, and was president of the board of trustees of the Methodist Home for the Aged.

Dr. Smith is survived by a son, Dr. Hugh M. Smith, commissioner of fisheries, and a daughter, Miss Alice C. Smith. Dr. Smith's wife died four years ago. She was Miss Cornelia F. Hazard of this city.

Woman Physicians Lament Death of the Veteran Practitioner

A resolution of tribute to Dr. Thomas C. Smith who died Wednesday after having practiced medicine in this city for more than fifty years, was adopted at a meeting of the Women's Medical Society last night.

It sets forth, "That the members of the society, who knew Dr. Smith as a colleague and friend, desire to pay tribute to his unswerving fidelity to duty: to his unflagging courtesy of demeanor to his associates in the profession, and to his loyalty to those who sought his aid in distress and suffering."

The committee appointed to make public the resolution was composed of Dr. Louise M. Blake, Dr. Phoebe R. Norris and Dr. M. Louise Strobel.

<td>Died, on Saturday, the 1st of August, in the 15th year of his age, Virginius Spence, youngest son of Fleet Smith, Esq., after a painful and lingering illness of several weeks. It may be satisfactory to his absent friends and relatives to know that he bore his sufferings with patient resignation and manly fortitude. Kind, affectionate, and amiable in his disposition, he was beloved by all who knew him, and particularly by his numerous schoolmates, who attended his funeral. It is extremely consoling to his bereaved parents, and brother, and sister, that his pastor then expressed the consolation he felt with his hopes in Jesus.</td>

Prominent D.C. Coal Dealer, 32d Degree Mason, Held Many Offices

W. Hamilton Smith, a resident of Washington since 1874, second vice president of the J. Maury Dove Company and a man nationally known in the coal trade, died suddenly in Atlantic City last night. Mr. Smith had been ill with angina pectoris since last New Year's eve, but his condition was considered to be improving. Only this morning his business associates received letters from him telling how much he had been benefitted by his seaside visit and expressing the hope that he would be back at work by next Monday.

With Firm Forty-Five Years

Mr. Smith had been with the Dove company for forty-five years. He was president of the Coal Merchants' Board of Trade, vice president of the Standard Coal Company, and was one of the organizers and vice presidents of the National Retail Coal Merchants' Association of the United States. He was also a member of the Board of Trade. He was considered an authority on every detail of his chosen business.

Surviving Mr. Smith are his wife, who was Miss Elizabeth Steele Smith of this city, and a son, Dr. W. Hamilton Smith, jr., of Hagerstown, Md. Mr. Smith's first wife was a Miss Hodkinson. Born in New London, Conn., February 18, 1862. Mr. Smith came of old New England stock. He was eligible to every patriotic society, including the Society of Mayflower Descendants. His grandfather, William Hamilton, was born in 1790 in one of the four houses left standing after the burning of New London by Gen. Benedict Arnold, while Oak Hill cemetery of that city contains the graves of many generations of his forbearers.

High in Masonic Order

Mr. Smith's connections with Masonry were varied and of long standing. He was made a Mason in Harmony Lodge, No. 17, F.A.M., in 1886, was master of the lodge in 1890, and from 1891 until his death was its secretary. He became a Royal Arch Mason in Mount Vernon Chapter, No. 3, August 5, 1889, affiliated with Hiram Chapter, No. 10, September 6, 1894; and with Columbia Chapter, No. 1, on whose roles he is still carried, May 2, 1906.

He was knighted in Columbia Commandery, No. 2, Knights Templar, October 16, 1891, and was a 32d degree Knight Commander of the Court of Honor of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, having received his degrees in the local bodies, Mithras Lodge of Perfection, Evangelist Chapter, Knights Rose Croix; Robert de Bruce Council, Knights Kadosh, and Albert Pike Consistory, M.R.S., thirty-one years ago. He was also a noble of Almas Temple of the Mystic Shrine of which he was illustrious potentate in 1912.

Funeral Here Saturday

The body is expected to arrive in Washington some time tonight. Rose Croix funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 433 3d street northwest. Officiating clergymen will be Rev. William Tayloe Snyder, rector of the Church of the Incarnation, and Rabbi Abram Simon, pastor of the Eighth Street Temple, an old personal friend.

The History of the City of Washington, Its Men and Institutions

W. Hamilton Smith, manager, and one of the board of directors of The J. Maury Dove Company, was born in New London, Connecticut. He came to this city in 1873, and was educated in the public schools of the city and under private tutors. In 1876 he entered the employ of H. Clay Stewart, who at the time conducted a retail coal and wood business at the corner of Twelfth and H streets. Upon the retirement of Mr. Stewart from active business this yard was purchased by Mr. Dove for Solomon Stover, and is still one of the branch yards of the business. In 1890 Mr. Smith left the employ of Mr. Dove and for one and one-half years was connected with Messrs. Woodward & Lothrop, of this city, and with several of the local newspapers in special correspondence and as an ad writer for several firms of this and other cities, holding the responsible position in the Boston House of credit clerk. In 1891 Mr. Dove's business was rapidly increasing, and his other interests demanded so much of his attention that he arranged with Mr. Smith to return to his employ, and up to the incorporation of the company he has been connected with Mr. J. Maury Dove in the capacity of manager, Mr. Dove recognizing his ability with a liberal interest in the company on the date of its incorporation. Mr. Smith is well known in Washington business circles as a young man of undoubted integrity and fine abilities. He is a prominent Mason and has held several high offices in various organizations of that fraternity, and in his capacity as manager has brought to the new business the value of the training and experience which for years he received when in the employ of Mr. Dove.

<td>Willie Smith, thirteen years old, died at Providence Hospital this morning under circumstances which called for an investigation on the part of the coroner. It appears that the child's death was due to tetanus following an injury to his jaw inflicted by his brother, Clinton Smith, eleven years old. The injury was inflicted nearly two weeks ago while the boys were playing a game with sticks near their home on Huntontown southwest. Willie received an injury to his right jaw which did not appear serious. Several days after he was hurt he was seen by a doctor at the Washington barracks, who told him his jaw was fractured. A physician was then called to the house and the injured boy was taken to the hospital. His condition was critical when he reached the hospital and the doctors were unable to prevent his death from lockjaw. Coroner Nevitt found that the blow was purely the result of an accident and gave a certificate accordingly.</td>

Three Boys Drown In Nearby Waters
Capsizing of Canoe Brings Death to Joel Cross and William W.F. Barron
Henry Smoot Loses Life While Wading
Father, Sitting on River Bank, Unable to Save Son -- Bodies Not Yet Recovered
Three boys were drowned yesterday afternoon within a short distance of this city. Joel Cross, 1423 34th street, and William W.F. Barron, 3506 M street, each nineteen years old, were drowned near Fletcher's as a result of the capsizing of a canoe, while Henry Smoot, sixteen years old, 209 11th street northeast, was drowned in Eastern Branch near Devil's Elbow, where he and two companions were wading. Daniel Smoot, his father, was seated on the shore watching the boys when the accident happened.

The three victims were prominently identified in church work. Young Smoot was crucifer and a member of the choir at the Episcopal Chapel of the Nativity, 14th and A streets northwest, while Barron and Cross were members of the Holy Name Society of Holy Trinity Church, 36th and O streets, Barron also was assistant master of ceremonies at the church.

Barron recently purchased a canoe, his friends stated, and yesterday afternoon he and Cross went up the river to enjoy a few hours away from the city.

The young men fastened their canoe to a rock opposite Fletcher's boathouse and strolled about the shore for several minutes. Seated on the rocks nearby were Mr. and Mrs. William S. Culbertson and their small child, 212 Maryland avenue northeast. The Culbertsons heard one of the canoeists ask his companion the time, and the other remarked that they had just forty minutes in which to return to the city. Entering the canoe, the boys paddled from shore and were in the deep water when their craft suddenly capsized and they were thrown overboard.

Thought Boys Were Swimming
William T. Finn, 528 23d street northwest, and the Culbertsons saw the young men struggling in the water,. Their first thought was that the canoeists had gone overboard purposely and that they were frolicking in the water, but they soon realized that such was not the case. One of them held to the overturned canoe for a few seconds and when the swift current broke his hold he shouted for assistance.
Mr. Culbertson and others hurried in boats to the scene of the accident. Cross and Barron were beneath the surface of the water at that time and did not reappear. The one who failed to catch hold of the overturned canoe, it is stated, did not return to the surface, one hand being the only part of him seen by persons on shore.

It was not until the young men were overboard that they were seen by Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson and they were unable to tell just how it happened. Occupants of another canoe declared that Barron and Cross were changing positions in the boat when the accident happened.

Scores of canoeists and a number of anglers were on the river within a short distance of the scene of the accident. It was impossible for any of them to be of any assistance to the victims of the accident, however, and all they could do was to take charge of the canoe and pick up the floating cushions, paddles and other paraphernalia. It was by means of the recovered property that relatives of the drowned men were able to make certain the identity of the victims.

Both College Graduates

Barron was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Barron. The father is a member of the firm of Barron Bros., grocers, at 4275 M street. Cross was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel W. Cross, the father being employed as proofreader in the government printing office. Barron graduated from Georgetown University this year, it is stated, and had booked for a post-graduate course. Cross was a graduate of Gonzaga College.

It was shortly after 3 o'clock in the afternoon that the Smoot boy was drowned. Patrick Hurley, Harold Harrison and George Keiser, companions of Smoot went with him, and Mr. Smoot went along to look after them. The boys were on the east side of the stream, wading, and young Smoot waded beyond his depth and disappeared.

Mr. Smoot, who was seated on the shore, hurried into the water and made every effort to find his boy. He was unable to find him, however, and was forced to return home at night and tell his wife of the accident.

Lieut. Russell Dean, in charge of the harbor police, sent two squads of men out yesterday to drag for the bodies, and it was late last night when the work was suspended until today. This morning James McCann and Charles W. Little were taken to the vicinity of Devil's Elbow and left ther in a bateau to drag for Smoot's body, a number of others assisting in the search.

Policemen V.A. Osterman and F.J. Brunner and Engineer Passeno were sent to the upper river to search for the bodies of Cross and Barron. The water is deep and the bottom of the river rocky where the two men were drowned, and it is stated it is almost impossible to make any headway with the drags.

Funerals Yesterday

A large concourse of friends including officers of both the Army and Navy attended the funeral of James Smoot, U.S. Navy from his late residence.
Midshipman December 1, 1809; Lieutenant April 27, 1816; commander March 3, 1835; Captain September 8, 1841. Was assigned as Midshipman on U.S.S. Hornet, September 1, 1811, and served thereon throughout the War of 1812, the Hornet capturing a number of valuable prizes. On February 24, 1813, she engaged the H.B.M.S. Peacock and took her into New York. Later was blockaded in New London, Conn., by a British squadron; succeeded in getting out on November 13, 1814. On March 23, 1815, captured H.R.M.S. Penguin after an engagement of twenty-two minutes. The Commander, officers and crew were commended by Congress in a Resolution of February 22, 1816, and the commander was presented with a gold medal and the other officers with silver medals. Served on the U.S.S. Hornet, Nonsuch, Despatch, Macedonian, United States, Grampus, Erie, Levant, and other vessels.

Captain Joseph Smoot
Joseph Edward Smoot, son of John and Elizabeth (Parker) Smoot, was born 1792 in Dorchester County. From Maryland he was appointed a midshipman in the United States Navy on December 1, 1809, and rose successively to the rank of captain.

As midshipman he served on the U.S.S. Hornet with Captain James Lawrence and participated in the engagement with the H.B.M.S. Peacock and her capture on February 14, 1813. Other vessels on which he saw sea service were Nonsuch, Macedonian, Peacock, Grampus, Erie and Levant, and had duty at the following Navy Yards -- Norfolk, Washington, and Portsmouth. His last command was at the late station from 1852 to October 1, 1855, from thence he retired to his residence on K Street in the National Capital.

He was one of the three Marylanders who received by an act of the Maryland Legislature a sword at the conclusion of the War of 1812 "for the gallant and good conduct of Joseph Smoot a native of this State and now a lieutenant in the Navy of the United States in the actions between the Hornet and Peacock and Hornet and Penguin."

Resolution number one of the Acts of 1858 relates that the late Captain Smoot felt himself aggrieved by the action of the Government of the United States under the act entitled "an act to promote the efficiency of the Navy" and that while suffering under what he conceived to be the wrong and injustice done to him, he departed his life in sorrow and sadness, and Mrs. Anne E. Smoot, his widow, feeling on her part that it would not be proper to retain the sword, returned it to the State of Maryland.

The Governor of Maryland presented the sword which had thus been returned to the State to Algernon Sydney Smoot, son of the late Captain Joseph Smoot, with the charge that he shall cherish it as a testimonial of high appreciation of the State of Maryland for the distinguished service of his late father and that it shall never be drawn from its scabbard for use except in defense of his country, her rights, or her sacred honor.

Joseph Smoot married first Margaret ___, born 1813. She died January 15, 1838, and was interred in Congressional Cemetery, Washington, D.C.

The only child, Virginia, was born 1826 and died 1851. On March 14, 1844, according to license issued in Montgomery County, Maryland, he married Anne, daughter of William and Elizabeth (Gassaway) Darne.

Captain Joseph Smoot died on March 13, 1857, and was interred in Congressional Cemetery, Washington. His will, dated September 25, 1851 was probated in the District of Columbia on April 10, 1857. He bequeathed his entire estate to his widow for the support of his "only child Sydney". His widow survived until the year 1887.

Harry Wright Newman, The Smoots of Maryland and Virginia, Washington, D.C., 1936, p. 34
During the Civil War residence in Washington was not safe for Confederate sympathizers, consequently Mrs. Smoot leased her residence and retired to her mother's plantation in Prince Georges County, Maryland. The lease sub-let to the Federal Government which housed from time to time in the 21-room mansion thousands of ex-slaves. And true to the race they destroyed entirely the hand-carved wood work, the frescoing, and other interior features for which the house was noted. Mrs. Smoot lived to celebrate her eightieth birthday and departed on July 8, 1901

Smoot, Margaret
D. 14 Jan 1838
Smoot. Suddenly, on the morning of the 12th instant, Mrs. Margaret A. Smoot, consort of Captain Joseph Smoot, of the U.S. Navy, aged 25 years. This truly amiable and interesting lady was in health and happiness, in the midst of her family and friends, (who knew well how to appreciate her excellence and will long and sincerely lament her loss,) but a few hours before her death, by which her husband and family have been deprived of one of the best of wives and mothers, and society of one of its brightest ornaments. The friends of the family are requested to attend the funeral, without further notice, from her residence in the Navy Yard, on Sunday, the 14th, at 1 o'clock p.m.

Smoot, Rachel A.
B. 1853 - d. 15 Jan 1904
Smoot. At 12 o'clock noon, January 15, 1904 of pneumonia, Rachel A. wife of Samuel C. Smoot. Funeral from residence, 1616 Rhode Island ave. at 11 o'clock a.m., Monday, January 18. Interment private.

The Evening Star, January 18, 1905
Funeral of Rachel Belt Smoot
The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Rachel Belt Smoot, the wife of Mr. Samuel C. Smoot, whose death from pneumonia occurred at noon Friday, were held at the family residence, No. 1616 Rhode Island avenue, at 11 o'clock this morning. The services were conducted by Rev. Forrest J. Prettyman of Mount Vernon Place M.E. Church, of which Mrs. Smoot was a member, assisted by Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Greene.

The loss of Mrs. Smoot will be felt most keenly by her numerous friends. Although of rather frail constitution, and at times quite a sufferer, she was exceedingly happy in manner and disposition, and greatly delighted to have her friends about her. As a hostess she was cordial, gentle and most pleasing; as a friend sincere, sympathetic, considerate, kind. By those who best knew her, of her tender sympathies, kindly deeds and the surpassing sweetness of her domestic life, she was most beloved.

Mrs. Smoot was a daughter of the late Osborne Belt of Baltimore county, Md., and had resided in Washington since girlhood. Her surviving brothers and sisters are Rev. Osborne Belt, Dr. Samuel J. Belt, Mr. Philip C. Belt, Miss Jane Belt and Mrs. E.P. Haviland of Baltimore and Mr. Robert V. Belt of Washington.

Samuel Smoot, son of Edward and Rosannah (Hodson) Smoot, was born July 31, 1770, in Dorchester County, Maryland. On September 24, 1795, his grandfather, Thomas Hodson, Sr., of Dorchece County, deeded him for the consideration of natural love and affection, describing him as a son of the late Edward Smoot, a negro called Tom aged 11 years. On December 12, 1793 her purchased from David Haroper, of Kent County Delaware, 3 acres of land on the southwest side of the northwest fork of the Nanticoke River.

Samuel Smoot married first Elizabeth, born February 13, 1781, the daughter of Captain Ezekiel Reed and his wife Nancy Smith. License was issued in Dorchester County on April 7, 1801.

9. Luther Rice Smoot, married twice.

During the War of 1812, Samuel Smoot served in the First District of Columbia Regiment of Field Artillery commanded by Major George Peter, of Georgetown.

About this time or shortly before, Samuel Smoot had moved to the Federal District and settled in the city of Washington. His first acquisition of realty in the District was on October 12, 1814, when he purchased from John Murdock, of Georgetown, land in Georgetown "south of Causeway Street" bordering the Potomac River, which had formerly been owned by William H. Dorsey. He began the manufacture of bricks which became the foundation for the affluence of this branch of the Smoot family.

On April 26, 1816, he bought of George Peter land in Washington City described as "lot numbered 7 in square numbered 1". Agnes Peter, wife of George, waived her dower rights. The first published directory for Washington, that is 1822, lists Samuel Smoot as residing on the "north side of K Street north near Georgetown lower bridge." The 1850 directory shows "Smoot's lime kiln, west side 27 between K and L north". He died on July 8, 1854, and was interred in Congressional Cemetery, Washington.

The Funeral of Dr. Soot
The funeral of the late Dr. S.S. Smoot took place from the Calvary Baptist Church this afternoon, and was attended by a large number of his friends and relatives. The corpse was encased in a handsome mahogany corrin, furnished by Jos. Gawler, undertaker. It was covered with black cloth, on which there was a plate with the name and age of the deceased. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Howlett, pastor of the church, who delivered an impressive discourse. He was assisted by Rev. Dr. Gray, of the E street Church. The pall-bearers were Drs. Hagner and J.C. Riley, Capt. Fillbrown, and Messrs. D.G. Ridgeley, Frank Stickney and William Norton. After the service, the cortege which was one of the largest ever seen in this city, nearly all the members of the medical profession being in attendance, proceeded to the Congressional Cemetery, where the remains were interred.

Samuel Clement Smoot, U.S.N. (1818-1867)
Samuel Clement Smoot, son of Samuel and Elizabeth (Kennedy) Smoot, was born February 3, 1818, in the District of Columbia. There on April 29, 1846, he secured license to marry Emma, daughter of Thomas and Dorothy Smallwood. He was a doctor of medicine and was at one time connected with the faculty of the Medical College of George Washington University. Unlike most of his family who were actively engaged in the cause of the Confederacy, he was of Northern sympathy, and on October 5, 1861, he was commissioned an Assistant Surgeon in the United States Navy. He resigned, however, on January 27, 1862, owing to ill-health, and died during the year 1867.

William Henry Smoot, C.S.A. (1845-1885)
William Henry Smoot, son of Joseph and Julia Anne (Dement) Smoot, was born April 11, 1845, in Washington, D.C. At the outbreak of the Civil War he was in school at Blacksburg, Virginia, and at the early age of 16 years he, with his entire class at school enlisted in the Confederate Army. He served faithfully throughout the War between the States and was furloughed near Richmond. He made his way to Washington mostly on foot only to find his mother's residence invested with hordes of negro refugees. He then traveled to his grandmother's home in Maryland. And as he was coming up the path to the house, his mother, who was on the porch saw an unkempt, emaciated man with several weeks' growth of beard and bare-footed. She became alarmed and started to return to the house when he cried, "Mother, don't you know me?" Her first remark was "But where are your boots?" "I ate them before I left Richmond."

In 1869 he married Lavania, the daughter of Matthew and Hannah (Harrison) O'Brien, of Avandale, Fairfax County, Virginia. The license was issued in Fairfax County and stated that the prospective bride was aged 22 and was born in Baltimore, Maryland. William Henry Smoot died about December 1, 1885.

Three Boys Drown In Nearby Waters
Capsizing of Canoe Brings Death to Joel Cross and William W.F. Barron
Henry Smoot Loses Life While Wading
Father, Sitting on River Bank, Unable to Save Son -- Bodies Not Yet Recovered

Three boys were drowned yesterday afternoon within a short distance of this city. Joel Cross, 1423 34th street, and William W.F. Barron, 3506 M street, each nineteen years old, were drowned near Fletcher's as a result of the capsizing of a canoe, while Henry Smoot, sixteen years old, 209 11th street northeast, was drowned in Eastern Branch near Devil's Elbow, where he and two companions were wading. Daniel Smoot, his father, was seated on the shore watching the boys when the accident happened.

The three victims were prominently identified in church work. Young Smoot was crucifer and a member of the choir at the Episcopal Chapel of the Nativity, 14th and A streets northeast, while Barron and Cross were members of the Holy Name Society of Holy Trinity Church, 36th and O streets, Barron also was assistant master of ceremonies at the church.

Barron recently purchased a canoe, his friends stated, and yesterday afternoon he and Cross went up the river to enjoy a few hours away from the city.

The young men fastened their canoe to a rock opposite Fletcher's boathouse and strolled about the shore for several minutes. Seated on the rocks nearby were Mr. and Mrs. William S. Culbertson and their small child, 212 Maryland avenue northeast. The Culbertsons heard one of the canoeists ask his companion the time, and the other remarked that they had just forty minutes in which to return to the city. Entering the canoe, the boys paddled from shore and were in the deep water when their craft suddenly capsized and they were thrown overboard.

Thought Boys Were Swimming
William T. Finn, 528 23d street northwest, and the Culbertsons saw the young men struggling in the water. Their first thought was that the canoeists had gone overboard purposely and that they were frolicking in the water, but they soon realized that such was not the case. One of them held to the overturned canoe for a few seconds and when the swift current broke his hold he shouted for assistance.
Mr. Culbertson and others hurried in boats to the scene of the accident. Cross and Barron were beneath the surface of the water at that time and did not reappear. The one who failed to catch hold of the overturned canoe, it is stated, did not return to the surface, one hand being the only part of him seen by persons on shore.

It was not until the young men were overboard that they were seen by Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson and they were unable to tell just how it happened. Occupants of another canoe declared that Barron and Cross were changing positions in the boat when the accident happened.

Scores of canoeists and a number of anglers were on the river within a short distance of the scene of the accident. It was impossible for any of them to be of any assistance to the victims of the accident, however, and all they could do was to take charge of the canoe and pick up the floating cushions, paddles and other paraphernalia. It was by means of the recovered property that relatives of the drowned men were able to make certain the identity of the victims.

Both College Graduates
Barron was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Barron. The father is a member of the firm of Barron Bros., grocers, at 4275 M street. Cross was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel W. Cross, the father being employed as proofreader in the government printing office. Barron graduated from Georgetown University this year, it is stated, and had booked for a post-graduate course. Cross was a graduate of Gonzaga College.

It was shortly after 3 o'clock in the afternoon that the Smoot boy was drowned. Patrick Hurley, Harold Harrison and George Keiser, companions of Smoot went with him, and Mr. Smoot went along to look after them. The boys were on the east side of the stream, wading, and young Smoot waded beyond his depth and disappeared.

Mr. Smoot, who was seated on the shore, hurried into the water and made every effort to find his boy. He was unable to find him, however, and was forced to return home at night and tell his wife of the accident.

Lieut. Russell Dean, in charge of the harbor police, sent two squads of men out yesterday to drag for the bodies, and it was late last night when the work was suspended until today. This morning James McCann and Charles W. Little were taken to the vicinity of Devil's Elbow and left ther in a bateau to drag for Smoot's body, a number of others assisting in the search.

Policemen V.A. Osterman and F.J. Brunner and Engineer Passeno were sent to the upper river to search for the bodies of Cross and Barron. The water is deep and the bottom of the river rocky where the two men were drowned, and it is stated it is almost impossible to make any headway with the drags.

The Evening Star, March 16, 1857.
Funerals Yesterday
A large concourse of friends including officers of both the Army and Navy attended the funeral of James Smoot, U.S. Navy from his late residence.
Midshipman December 1, 1809; Lieutenant April 27, 1816; commander March 3, 1835; Captain September 8, 1841. Was assigned as Midshipman on U.S.S. Hornet, September 1, 1811, and served thereon throughout the War of 1812, the Hornet capturing a number of valuable prizes. On February 24, 1813, she engaged the H.B.M.S. Peacock and took her into New York. Later was blockaded in New London, Conn., by a British squadron; succeeded in getting out on November 13, 1814. On March 23, 1815, captured H.R.M.S. Penguin after an engagement of twenty-two minutes. The Commander, officers and crew were commended by Congress in a Resolution of February 22, 1816, and the commander was presented with a gold medal and the other officers with silver medals. Served on the U.S.S. Hornet, Nonsuch, Despatch, Macedonian, United States, Grampus, Erie, Levant, and other vessels.

Captain Joseph Smoot (1792-1857)
Joseph Edward Smoot, son of John and Elizabeth (Parker) Smoot, was born 1792 in Dorchester County. From Maryland he was appointed a midshipman in the United States Navy on December 1, 1809, and rose successively to the rank of captain.

As midshipman he served on the U.S.S. Hornet with Captain James Lawrence and participated in the engagement with the H.B.M.S. Peacock and her capture on February 14, 1813. Other vessels on which he saw sea service were Nonsuch, Macedonian, Peacock, Grampus, Erie and Levant, and had duty at the following Navy Yards -- Norfolk, Washington, and Portsmouth. His last command was at the latte station from 1852 to October 1, 1855, from thence he retired to his residence on K Street in the National Capital.

He was one of the three Marylanders who received by an act of the Maryland Legislature a sword at the conclusion of the War of 1812 "for the gallant and good conduct of Joseph Smoot a native of this State and now a lieutenant in the Navy of the United States in the actions between the Hornet and Peacock and Hornet and Penguin."

Resolution number one of the Acts of 1858 relates that the late Captain Smoot felt himself aggrieved by the action of the Government of the United States under the act entitled "an act to promote the efficiency of the Navy" and that while suffering under what he conceived to be the wrong and injustice done to him, he departed his life in sorrow and sadness, and Mrs. Anne E. Smoot, his widow, feeling on her part that it would not be proper to retain the sword, returned it to the State of Maryland.

The Governor of Maryland presented the sword which had thus been returned to the State to Algernon Sydney Smoot, son of the late Captain Joseph Smoot, with the charge that he shall cherish it as a testimonial of high appreciation of the State of Maryland for the distinguished service of his late father and that it shall never be drawn from its scabbard for use except in defense of his country, her rights, or her sacred honor.

Joseph Smoot married first Margaret ___, born 1813. She died January 15, 1838, and was interred in Congressional Cemetery, Washington, D.C.

The only child, Virginia, was born 1826 and died 1851. On March 14, 1844, according to license issued in Montgomery County, Maryland, he married Anne, daughter of William and Elizabeth (Gassaway) Darne.

Captain Joseph Smoot died on March 13, 1857, and was interred in Congressional Cemetery, Washington. His will, dated September 25, 1851 was probated in the Distict of Columbia on April 10, 1857. He bequeathed his entire estate to his widow for the support of his "only child Sydney". His widow survived until the year 1887.

During the Civil War residence in Washington was not safe for Confederate sympathizers, consequently Mrs. Smoot leased her residence and retired to her mother's plantation in Prince Georges County, Maryland. The lease sub-let to the Federal Government which housed from time to time in the 21-room mansion thousands of ex-slaves. And true to the race they destroyed entirely the hand-carved wood work, the frescoing, and other interior features for which the house was noted. Mrs. Smoot lived to celebrate her eightieth birthday and departed on July 8, 1901

The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Rachel Belt Smoot, the wife of Mr. Samuel C. Smoot, whose death from pneumonia occurred at noon Friday, were held at the family residence, No. 1616 Rhode Island avenue, at 11 o'clock this morning. The services were conducted by Rev. Forrest J. Prettyman of Mount Vernon Place M.E. Church, of which Mrs. Smoot was a member, assisted by Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Greene.

The loss of Mrs. Smoot will be felt most keenly by her numerous friends. Although of rather frail constitution, and at times quite a sufferer, she was exceedingly happy in manner and disposition, and greatly delighted to have her friends about her. As a hostess she was cordial, gentle and most pleasing; as a friend sincere, sympathetic, considerate, kind. By those who best knew her, of her tender sympathies, kindly deeds and the surpassing sweetness of her domestic life, she was most beloved.

Mrs. Smoot was a daughter of the late Osborne Belt of Baltimore county, Md., and had resided in Washington since girlhood. Her surviving brothers and sisters are Rev. Osborne Belt, Dr. Samuel J. Belt, Mr. Philip C. Belt, Miss Jane Belt and Mrs. E.P. Haviland of Baltimore and Mr. Robert V. Belt of Washington.

Samuel Smoot

(1770-1854)

Samuel Smoot, son of Edward and Rosannah (Hodson) Smoot, was born July 31, 1770, in Dorchester County, Maryland. On September 24, 1795, his grandfather, Thomas Hodson, Sr., of Dorchester County, deeded him for the consideration of natural love and affection, describing him as a son of the late Edward Smoot, a negro called Tom aged 11 years. On December 12, 1793 her purchased from David Haroper, of Kent County Delaware, 3 acres of land on the southwest side of the northwest fork of the Nanticoke River.

Samuel Smoot married first Elizabeth, born February 13, 1781, the daughter of Captain Ezekiel Reed and his wife Nancy Smith. License was issued in Dorchester County on April 7, 1801.

Children of Samuel and Elizabeth (Reed) Smoot
1. Anna Maria, died young
2. Avery Smoot married Emily Hunter Terrett.

His first wife died on December 26, 1807. He married on May 5, 1808, his cousin Elizabeth, daughter of Clement Kennedy and his wife Lydia Smoot. Clement Kennedy in his will proved in Charles County on January 8, 1811, named his daughter Elizabeth Smoot.

4. Clement Smoot, born Sept. 20, 1811
5. Lydia Kennedy Smoot, born Aug. 4, 1815, died 1884, married Sept. 28, 1837, John Henry Waggaman, born 1807, died 1888, son of Thomas Ennalls and Martha (Tyler) Waggaman. Issues: Thomas Ennalls, born 1839; Elizabeth, born and died 1842; Samuel, born Oct. 23, 1843; Henry Pierpont, born Jan. 21, 1845; Mary Tyler, born Dec. 10, 1850; John Floyd, born 1852; Emilie; and George, born and died 1864.
9. Luther Rice Smoot, married twice.

During the War of 1812, Samuel Smoot served in the First District of Columbia Regiment of Field Artillery commanded by Major George Peter, of Georgetown.

About this time or shortly before, Samuel Smoot had moved to the Federal District and settled in the city of Washington. His fist acquisition of realty in the District was on October 12, 1814, when he purchased from John Murdock, of Georgetown, land in Georgetown "south of Causeway Street" bordering the Potomac River, which had formerly been owned by William H. Dorsey. He began the manufacture of bricks which became the foundation for the affluence of this branch of the Smoot family.

On April 26, 1816, he bought of George Peter land in Washington City described as "lot numbered 7 in square numbered 1". Agnes Peter, wife of George, waived her dower rights. The first published directory for Washington, that is 1822, lists Samuel Smoot as residing on the "north side of K Street north near Georgetown lower bridge." The 1850 directory shows "Smoot's lime kiln, west side 27 between K and L north". He died on July 8, 1854, and was interred in Congressional Cemetery, Washington.

Death of Old Citizens
Dr. S.C. Smoot the well-known physician died at his residence near 20th in the 1st Ward on Friday night after an illness of several weeks, his disease being dropsy on the chest.

The Evening Star, October 2, 1866
The Funeral of Dr. Smoot
The funeral of the late Dr. S.S. Smoot took place from the Calvary Baptist Church this afternoon, and was attended by a large number of his friends and relatives. The corpse was encased in a handsome mahogany corrin, furnished by Jos. Gawler, undertaker. It was covered with black cloth, on which there was a plate with the name and age of the deceased. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Howlett, pastor of the church, who delivered an impressive discourse. He was assisted by Rev. Dr. Gray, of the E street Church. The pall-bearers were Drs. Hagner and J.C. Riley, Capt. Fillebrown, and Messrs. D.G. Ridgeley, Frank Stickney and William Norton. After the service, the cortege which was one of the largest ever seen in this city, nearly all the members of the medical profession being in attendance, proceeded to the Congressional Cemetery, where the remains were interred.

Samuel Clement Smoot, U.S.N. (1818-1867)
Samuel Clement Smoot, son of Samuel and Elizabeth (Kennedy) Smoot, was born February 3, 1818, in the District of Columbia. There on April 29, 1846, he secured license to marry Emma, daughter of Thomas and Dorothy Smallwood. He was a doctor of medicine and was at one time connected with the faculty of the Medical College of George Washington University. Unlike most of his family who were actively engaged in the cause of the Confederacy, he was of Northern sympathy, and on October 5, 1861, he was commissioned an Assistant Surgeon in the United States Navy. He resigned, however, on January 27, 1862, owing to ill-health, and died during the year 1867.

Smoot. On Tuesday, December 1, 1885, William H. Smoot, in the 36th year of his age. Funeral from the residence of his mother, Mrs. Juliana Smoot, 68 K street Thursday, December 3 at 2 p.m.

William Henry Smoot, C.S.A.

William Henry Smoot, son of Joseph and Julia Anne (Dement) Smoot, was born April 11, 1845, in Washington, D.C. At the outbreak of the Civil War he was in school at Blackburg, Virginia, and at the early age of 16 years he, with his entire class at school enlisted in the Confederate Army. He served faithfully
throughout the War between the States and was furloughed near Richmond. He made his way to Washington mostly on foot only to find his mother's residence invested with hordes of negro refugees. He then traveled to his grandmother's home in Maryland. And as he was coming up the path to the house, his mother, who was on the porch saw an unkempt, emaciated man with several weeks' growth of beard and bare-footed. She became alarmed and started to return to the house when he cried, "Mother, don't you know me?" Her first remark was "But where are your boots?" "I ate them before I left Richmond."

In 1869 he married Lavania, the daughter of Matthew and Hannah (Harrison) O'Brien, of Avandale, Fairfax County, Virginia. The license was issued in Fairfax County and stated that the prospective bride was aged 22 and was born in Baltimore, Maryland. William Henry Smoot died about December 1, 1885.

The National Intelligencer, April 19, 1830
It is our unpleasant duty to announce the death of General Alexander Smith, a Representative in Congress from the State of Virginia. He breathed his last at his lodgings in this City, at one o'clock on Saturday, after an illness of but a few days' duration. It is scarcely two weeks since he delivered a speech of considerable length in the House of Representatives; and it seems to us to be less than a week since we saw him in apparent health.

Of the life of Gen. Smyth, an account may be expected from the pen of some one of his friends. As a public man, from whom we often differed very widely, we have always regarded him as upright and conscientious. His manners were urbane and courteous, and his private life retiring and unobtrusive. His age we presume to have been about sixty-five.

The funeral of Gen. Smyth is to take place, with public honors, this day. The procession will move from the Capitol at 12 o'clock.

The National Intelligencer, Tuesday, April 20, 1830
The funeral of the late General Alexander Smyth took place yesterday, with all the customary ceremonies and marks of respect. Pursuant to the order taken by each House of Congress, the members and officers of both Houses attended the funeral. It was also attended by the President of the United States (Jackson), and the other officers of the Executive branch of the Government, the Foreign Ministers, etc. The body being brought from the late lodgings of the deceased, to the Hall of the House of Representatives, the usual religious services were performed by the Rev. Mr. Post, Chaplain of the House -- those at the grave by the Rev. Mr. Johns, Chaplain of the Senate. The following gentlemen acted as Pall Bearers:

Mr. Mitchell, of Md.  Mr. Thompson, of Georgia
Mr. Drayton, of S.C.  Mr. Desha, of Tenn.
Mr. McIntire, of Me.  Mr. Vance, of Ohio.

Sudden Death

Mrs. Harriet Snedecker, seventy-two years old, died suddenly about 5 o'clock this morning at her home, 109 Harrison street, Anacostia. When she became ill Dr. R.A. Pyles was summoned, but death occurred before he reached the house. Her death resulted from natural causes and the necessary certificate was given.

Anacostia and Vicinity

Sudden death yesterday morning removed one of an aged couple, who, abiding alone in their declining years, were noted in this place for the peaceful quietude of their lives and their philosophical acceptance of good or ill as either befell them. Mrs. Harriet Snedecker was the victim, her death resulting from valvular disease of the heart. She was seventy-two years of age. Samuel Snedecker, her husband, is the proprietor of a little shoemaker shop, where the couple resided.

Anacostia and Vicinity

Samuel M. Snedecker died yesterday afternoon at the Washington Asylum Hospital, where he had been under treatment for a number of weeks. The deceased had been a citizen of this place for ten years past and had occupied a small house on Harrison street, where he conducted a little shoe shop. It was his custom to enjoy his pipe in the doorway and discuss with much quaintness topics of the day, as he had traveled extensively and had kept posted on current affairs. Mr. Snedecker was more than eighty years old. He often described his adventures in passing between the two hostile armies during the civil war, but it is not understood he was in the service of either. He was a resident of Virginia before coming to Anacostia. After the death of his wife Mr. Snedecker began to fail in health and he was finally sent to the hospital. He was a member of the Anacostia Methodist Episcopal Church and notice of his death was sent to Rev. Charles O. Isaac, the pastor, at Ocean Grove, N.J. Unless some one comes forward and renders assistance, it is stated, it is not certain that the body of the old citizen will be buried by that of his wife in a local cemetery. For this reason Rev. Mr. Isaac was notified. The old man was such a familiar figure and had become so well known that it is believed the necessary assistance will be found.

The Evening Star, August 28, 1906, p. 8

Anacostia and Vicinity

The remains of Samuel M. Snedecker, whose death at the age of eighty occurred Sunday at the Washington Asylum Hospital, were this afternoon given burial beside those of his wife in the Congressional cemetery. An appeal was made to Rev. Charles O. Isaac, pastor of the Anacostia Methodist Episcopal Church, of which congregation the deceased was a member, to prevent the body from being interred in a pauper's grave, and the minister decided that the body of the aged man should repose beside that of his wife. The expense was borne by the Methodist Church. The grave of the wife was reopened and his body was there interred. Rev. H.M. Spencer, the pastor of the Congress Heights Methodist Episcopal Church, conducted a brief service at the grave.
Snell, Carleton E.  d. 22 Jun 1895  R76/365

The Evening Star, June 24, 1895
Promising Life Ended
Drowning of Young Carleton E. Snell Saturday

Mr. Carleton E. Snell, a rising young patent lawyer of Washington, and one of the leaders of the young people in every movement relative to church matters in Anacostia, lost his life Saturday evening by drowning at the bathing beach in South Washington. His body was recovered about an hour after the sad accident, and taken to the home of his parents, with whom he resided, 551 Harrison street, Anacostia, after being prepared for burial by Undertaker Thomas F. Murray of Anacostia. The funeral takes place this afternoon at 4 o'clock from Garden Memorial Church, on Minnesota avenue. The services will be conducted by Rev. Joseph B. North, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev., Dr. George B. Patch, pastor of Gunton Memorial Temple, Washington. The pallbearers are two members of Garden Memorial, two from Gunton and two of Mr. Shell's late college mates.

The untimely end of Mr. Snell has cast a deep gloom over the entire town of Anacostia, and the unfortunate affair was the subject of universal reference among those who assembled at the various churches yesterday.

Carleton E. Snell was not only a young man of charming character, but was very prepossessing in every gift that goes to make up a man. He was a ripe scholar, and had strong convictions, accompanied with deep piety. In his own church he was looked upon as a leading light, and he faithfully performed every duty that devolved upon him, no matter how arduous the performance of that duty might be.

He was president of the Christian Endeavor Society of Garden Memorial, and as his term of office was about to expire, and under the constitution he could not be re-elected, he had been selected as chairman of the look-out committee of the same society for the ensuing term. He was also a deacon in the church, and treasurer of the board of deacons; a leading member of the Anti-Saloon League, and one of the secretaries of the Anacostia Citizens' Association; a member of the Young Men's Christian Association of Washington, and was well known in many of the prominent debating societies, in whose discussions he often took a leading part, not long since winning the Demorest medal for superiority shown in debate. He had also frequently written poetry, which has from time to time appeared in the Washington papers.

As Mr. Snell was a good swimmer, the only reason that he should have lost his life while in the water is that he was seized with cramps, as the deceased had been a regular visitor to the beach since Superintendent Stevens taught him how to swim. Saturday afternoon the young man went to the beach from his office in the Washington Loan and Trust Company's building, and had been in swimming some time before he was drowned. He was last seen by a man named Jones, who heard him make a sound which indicated that he was in danger of going down. In an instant the swimmer disappeared beneath the surface and did not reappear. An effort was made to rescue him, but without success. The police boat Joe Blackburn was sent for, and the body was soon recovered. The body was taken ashore and when Deputy Coroner Glazebrook had given a certificate of accidental death an undertaker took charge of the remains and removed them to the late home of deceased.

Touching Services
Carleton Snell Laid Away to His Last Rest

Garden Memorial Church, Anacostia, although capable of easily accommodating 400 people, was entirely inadequate to hold the multitude of mourning friends who assembled there yesterday afternoon to pay the last sad tributes of respect to the memory of the lamented Carleton E. Snell, the particulars of whose untimely death were recorded in yesterday's Star.

The audience was composed of the entire adult population of the town who could leave their places of business, many persons from Washington and a considerable number who had come from a much greater distance. Among the prominent men present were Rev. James McLaren, pastor of the Anacostia M.E. Church; Rev. Hugh T. Stevenson of the Anacostia Baptist Church, Rev. Geo. E. Stevenson of East Washington Heights Baptist Church, Rev. Mr. Bowman and Rev. Mr. Bradford of the Indian bureau, Washington.

After a beautiful and pathetic invocation had been offered by Mr. Bradford, Dr. Patch read the Scripture lessons appropriate to the solemn occasion, and then Miss Cora McLean of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Anacostia, in a most touching and effective manner sang as a solo "Nearer My God, to Thee," which was a great favorite with Mr. Snell. The sermon was brief and was preached by Mr. North. At the close of the sermon Miss McLean sang another favorite hymn of Mr. Snell's, "Asleep in Jesus, Blessed Sleep, From Which None Ever Wake to Weep."
At the conclusion of the services the remains were conveyed to the Congressional cemetry and placed in a vault, where they remained until this afternoon, when, after an appropriate service by Mr. North, they were consigned to their final resting place.

The floral tributes filled a hack and among many others, all of them of a most exquisite character were comprised an open Bible, thirty inches square, composed entirely of white roses, with a book mark of purple flowers, sent by the Webster family; a piece made of white and Mermot roses, the gift of the Christian Endeavor Society, of which the deceased was at the time of his death president; wreath of rare flowers, sent by the Union society of the Epworth League of the Anacostia M.E. Church; handsome bunch of white lilies from Mr. H.A. Linger, sr.; wreath from Miss Carrie Golden; pillow, inscribed "Eternal Rest," Mrs. S.E. Poates; bunch of carnations and medias, Mrs. A.B. Garden; floral piece, composed of LaFrance roses, from Mr. D.E. Freeman, and many others.

Funeral of Rev. Snell
Services in Congressional Cemetery Chapel Sunday Afternoon
Funeral services for Rev. M. Porter Snell will be held Sunday at 2:30 o’clock in the chapel of Congressional cemetery. The officiating clergymen will be Rev. George M. Cummings, Rev. Wallace Radcliffe, D.D., and Rev. J.B. North of Snow Hill, Md.

Rev. M. Porter Snell was born in 1839. He was a direct descendant of John Alden and a great-great-grandson of Jonathan Edwards. His father was Thomas Snell of North Brookfield, Mass., a first cousin of William Cullen Bryant and brother of Ebenezer Strong Snell, the Amherst mathematician.

Mr. Snell was a graduate of Amherst College (1861) and of Hartford Theological Seminary.

Serving through the war in the Union army, Mr. Snell won a commission as lieutenant, and was brevetted captain for gallantry in the Wilderness campaign and before Petersburg, acting a part of the time as aid de camp on the staffs of Gen.s. Crawford and Duncan.

For thirty years Mr. Snell rendered service in departmental offices in Washington, but during this period, as all through his life, his religious interests lay close to his heart. His week ends were occupied in pastoral work and preaching, and for many years he served as an agent of the Washington City Bible Society.

Mr. Snell is survived by his wife, Mary C. Snell, daughter of Gerard Hallock, erstwhile editor of the New York Journal of Commerce; two daughters, Mrs. J.M. Long and Miss Coral L. Snell of this city, and five sons, Merwin P. and Theodore T. Snell of New York city, and Charles L. William Arthur and Clarence Edwards Snell of Washington, D.C.

Victim of Paralysis
Rev. M. Porter Snell Stricken While Occupying the Pulpit
Rev. M. Porter Snell, well known in Anacostia, where he has resided for many years, was stricken with paralysis while occupying the pulpit of the Garden Memorial Presbyterian Church on Minnesota avenue, in that suburb, at the 11 o'clock service yesterday morning. Mr. Snell, who has had no regular charge for several years, was relieving Rev. Dr. Gay, the pastor of Garden Church and had practically concluded his sermon when he was stricken. The people in the audience observed that the speaker's words became somewhat incoherent, and in the prayer that was then begun by Mr. Snell the attack developed, rendering him speechless. Friends went to his assistance, and he was at once removed to his home, 551 Harrison street, Anacostia, and physicians were summoned. Drs. T.D. Mudd and R.A. Pyles soon reached the clergyman's bedside, where an examination was made and everything possible done to relieve the sufferer. He continued to be without the power of speech, however, which had not returned up to a late hour.

The physicians, while pronouncing the case to be serious, were of the opinion that no immediate fatal termination is to be feared. Mr. Snell, who has for some years been a worker in the departments, is over fifty years of age, and his family comprises a wife and several grown children. The news of his sudden attack was received with general regret. It was explained that the stroke was only a partial one, which affected the right side.

Mr. Snell has recently been a sufferer from rheumatic trouble, it is stated. He was a man of strong physique and apparently of good constitution.

Snyder, Susanna
On Friday morning, November 8, 1912, at 6:15 o'clock, at her residence, 1352 Brentwood road northeast, Susan Snyder, the beloved wife of William H. Snyder, in her sixty-ninth year. Funeral Monday, November 11, at 10 o'clock, from her late residence.

Snyder, Wilhelmina
An inquest held at police headquarters yesterday afternoon in the case of Miss Wilhelmina Snyder, fifty years old, who died in dental establishment resulted in a verdict of death from heart disease.

Mrs. A.M. McFarland, a niece of Miss Snyder, was with her aunt in the dentist's office yesterday. It was testified that Miss Snyder asked that all her teeth, about fifteen, be extracted, but the dentist would only extract five of them yesterday. He administered a small quantity of a weak solution of cocaine, he stated, but it was not enough to affect Miss Snyder.

It was not until after the teeth had been extracted that Miss Snyder complained of being sick. She died a few minutes after a physician reached her. The autopsy, it was testified, showed that Miss Snyder had heart disease.

Snyder, William N.
On Friday, September 13, 1907 at his residence, 1110 6th street northeast, William N. Snyder, the beloved husband of Adelaide C. Snyder and only son of William and Susanna Snyder.
"Rest In Peace"

Soo, Charles Lee
On Saturday, December 3, 1938 at Sibley Memorial Hospital, Charles L. Soo, beloved husband of Nora C. Soo, father of Raymond C., Bernard C., Charles W., and Edward Soo and Mrs. Margaret Mack. Remains resting at 607 H street northwest until Wednesday December 7 at 11 a.m. Funeral services at Calvary Baptist Church 8th and H street northwest at 2 p.m. Relatives and friends invited. Interment Congressional Cemetery.

The Evening Star, December 4, 1938, p. B1
On Leong Tong Head, Charles L. Soo, Dies
Charles Lee Soo, 69, president of the local On Leong Tong Chinese merchants organization, and president of the corporation which runs the Guysum Restaurant at 610 H street N.W., died yesterday in Sibley Hospital after an illness of about a month.

A native of China, Mr. Soo had been a resident of this city for many years and was widely known. He was a member of the Lee Company, a Chinese club, all of whose members are said to be related - some through distant ancestors.

The body was scheduled to be taken today to lie in state in a building at 607 H street N.W., where it may be viewed by Mr. Soo’s many friends. The body is to remain there until shortly before the funeral, scheduled for 2 p.m. Wednesday in Calvary Baptist Church. The Rev. Dr. William S. Abernethy, pastor, and the Rev. Dr. C.C. Hung, pastor of the Chinese Community Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery. Although not a member of Calvary Church, Dr. Soo was a Christian.

Mr. Soo lived at 400 B street N.W. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nora C. Soo; fours sons, Raymond C., Bernard C., Charles W. and Edward Soo, and a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Mack, all of this city. He also leaves seven grandchildren.

The Evening Star, December 6, 1938, p. A4
On Leong Tong Members To Attend Soo Rites
Fellow Chinese, including many members of the On Leon Tong, tomorrow will pay tribute to Charles Lee Soo, 69, president of the local On Leong Tong, Chinese merchant organization, who died Saturday in Sibley Hospital.

Funeral services for Mr. Soo will be held a 2 p.m., tomorrow in Calvary Baptist Church, with the Rev. Dr. William S. Abernethy, pastor, and the Rev. Dr. C.C. Hung, pastor of the Chinese Community Church officiating. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery. In the funeral procession from the church to the cemetery will be several bands, some playing Chinese and others American music. Members of the On Leong Tong from other cities are expected to march in the funeral procession.

Mr. Soo’s body is lying in state in a building at 607 H street N.W, where it is to remain until shortly before the funeral.

Mr. Soo was known as the original mayor of Washington’s Chinatown. He was head of the corporation which runs the Guysum Restaurant at 610 H street N.W. and his home was at 400 B street N.E. He had been a resident of this city for many years. Although he was not a member of the Calvary Church, he was a Christian.

The Evening Star, Thursday, December 8, 1938, p. 3
Impressive Rites Attend Funeral of Charles Lee Soo
Four Bands Play During Solemn March to Burial Service
Charles Lee Soo, 69-year-old original “Mayor” of Washington's Chinatown, was buried in Congressional Cemetery yesterday following an impressive funeral procession from the Calvary Baptist Church, where services were conducted by the Rev. William S. Abernathy, pastor, assisted by the Rev. C.C. Hung, pastor of the Chinese Community Church.

The Chinese merchant, who was president of the On Leong Tong, died Saturday in Sibley Hospital.

More than 100 automobiles were in the funeral procession, which was headed by a band. Hundreds of mourners on foot followed an open car loaded with wreaths and a number of young Chinese carried wreaths and banners inscribed with Chinese characters. Traffic in the heart of Chinatown was blocked for nearly an hour while the procession passed.
A group of local tong members, carrying tall shafts decorated with flowers, preceded the hearse and members of On Leong Tong from other cities were in the procession. Two Chinese and two American bands played Chinese and American music at the funeral.
Mr. Soo was head of the corporation operating the Guysum Restaurant at 610 H street N.W.

We shall hear his voice, oh never,
Never more on earth again.

Home is sad, oh God, how dreary!
Lonesome, lonesome, every spot;
Listening for his voice till weary,
Weary, for we hear him not.

God of love, send us some token
From he spirit world above, that these hearts, all crushed and broken,
May be healed by heavenly love.

|                   | Sorrell. On October 28th, 1886, at quarter to eleven, Charles Clifton Sorrell, aged 19 years, 7 months and 28 days, beloved son of Charles and Mary E. Sorrell.

Home is said, oh God! how dreary,
Lonely, lonesome every spot,
Listening for his voice till weary,
Weary, for we hear it not.

Bright be the peace of thy soul;
No lovelier spirit than thine
E'er burst from its moral control
In the orbs of the blessed to shine.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved so well;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
May he rest in peace.
Funeral will take place Monday, November 1st, at half-past nine o'clock a.m., from St. Dominic's church. Requiem mass. Relatives and friends respectfully invited to attend. |

The spirit of our Clara
Has taken its serial flight,
And gone to rest with angels
In the haven so pure, so bright.

Touched by autumn's hand
To dwell in blissful happiness
In that pure and holy land.

An angel came to gather flowers
To deck the Throne of Heaven;
He took the purest and the best
That God to earth had given.

We lay her away to rest,
Beneath the silent sod;
Her victory's won, she's crowned at last,
At home with friends and God.

The Evening Star, December 6, 1925, p. 15
R.H. Sorrell, Veteran of Civil War, Is Dead
Prominent Contractor Served in Confederate Army and Was Active Fraternity Man

Richard H. Sorrell, for many years a prominent contractor and builder here died yesterday afternoon at his residence, 329 N street southwest, after a long illness. He was 85 years old.

Mr. Sorrell was a veteran of the Civil War, having served with the Confederate forces. He came to Washington shortly after the close of the war and established himself in the contracting and building business, in which he remained until a few years ago, when he retired.

Mr. Sorrell had a wide acquaintance in Washington through his business and fraternal activities. He was a thirty-second degree Mason and was past grand master and past grand patriarch of the Odd Fellows here.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Annie E. Grigsby and Mrs. Emma J.S. Murray, both of this city. The funeral will be conducted under Masonic and Odd Fellow auspices, but arrangements have not been completed.

R.H. Sorrell Dies; Was Active Mason
Contractor Succumbs After Protracted Illness—Fought in Civil War

Richard H. Sorrell, fraternal leader and long a prominent contractor and builder here, died at his residence, 329 N street southwest, Saturday afternoon after a protracted illness. He was a veteran of the Confederate Army and had lived in Washington since shortly after the Civil War.

Mr. Sorrell was born in Caroline County, Va, January 23, 1842, and was the son of the late William Sorrell and the late Mrs. Mary Miffleton Sorrell. He married Miss Mary Elizabeth Pullen of Prince William County, Va., November 9, 1865. Two children were born to them, now Mrs. Annie E. Grigsby and Mrs. J.S. Murray, both of whom survive. His wife died in November 1913.

Fought in Civil War
He served with Company B of the 30th Regiment, Confederate Army, throughout the war and took part in many of the major engagements.

Mr. Sorrell moved to the District about 1870 and resided always in the Southwest section until within a few weeks of his death he carried on his business.
Mr. Sorrell was active in fraternal affairs. He was a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of Lafayette Lodge, the Knights Templar, the Mystic Shrine, and other branches of Masonry.

He was a member of Amity Lodge No 27, of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, a past grand master of that lodge and served in every official position in that lodge.

He was also a member of Columbia Encampment No. 1, and served in the various chairs of that encampment until he became its chief patriarch and afterward became past chief patriarch and was admitted to the Grand Encampment January 19, 1886.

His activities in the encampment branch won him added recognition and reputation in the various other branches, and following his admission to the Grand Lodge, after having become past grand of Amity Lodge, No. 27, he was appointed grand herald of the Grand Lodge line, and after serving in the line for many years became grand master of the jurisdiction in 1895, serving as such until the following session of the Grand Lodge in 1896.

Leaves Grandchildren
He was a member of the Grand Canton prior to its being consolidated to the patriarch militat, and when Canton Washington No. 1, was started he became active in its ranks, serving as a member until his death.

He was a member of Miriam Rebekah Lodge, No. 6, I.O.O.F., and was actively engaged in the work of the sister branch of the Odd Fellows.

Besides his two daughters, he leaves four grandchildren -- Mrs E. Peale Windsor, wife of Lemuel H. Windsor, of this city; Mrs. Geyer, wife of E.B. Geyer, of West Point, Va.; Mrs. Emma Rhodes, wife of Rev. Beecher L. Rhodes, of Norfolk, and Miss Mary Murray of this city -- and two great grandchildren -- Henry Grigsby Windsor and Jo Ann Geyer.

Funeral services will be held at the Fifth Baptist Church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Dr. John E. Briggs, pastor of the church, will officiate. Odd Fellow and Masonic services will be conducted at the grave in Congressional Cemetery.

The active pallbearers, all of whom are nephews or grandsons-in-law of Mr. Sorell, will be Lemuel H. Windsor, Beech L. Rhodes, Temple B. Greenstreet, Charles O. Greenstreet, Clarence H. Sorrell and Elward Mason.

Death of William Sorrell
Inhaled Illuminating Gas While Reading Yesterday Afternoon
William Sorrell, twenty years old, died at the Emergency Hospital this morning about 8 o'clock, due to the inhalation of gas yesterday while he was in his room at the house of his sister, 426 7th street southwest.
Sorrell was alone in the house yesterday afternoon. His sister returned about 11 o’clock last night, and found him seated near the window, a book he had been reading having fallen to the floor. He was unconscious from having inhaled gas that had escaped from an open fixture in the adjoining room.

When the patient reached the hospital the physicians found his condition was extremely critical. He did not regain consciousness. Coroner Nevitt made an investigation and gave a certificate of accidental death.

The Evening Star, February 1, 1910, p. 13
To Probe Charges
W.T. Sorrell's Grave Opened and Body Removed Action Taken By Coroner
Assertions That Young Man Came to His Death From Malice to be Investigated

The grave of William T. Sorrell, in Congressional cemetery, who was thought to have died from the accidental inhalation of illuminating gas the 17th of last month, was opened today and the body disinterred, at the direction of Coroner Nevitt, in order that an autopsy might be made, for the purpose of more accurately determining the cause of death, charges having been made that it was due to violence from and oath-bound band of thieves.

The grave was opened after some difficulty, due to the caving in of the earth. The coffin was opened, but the superintendent of the cemetery objected and it was closed again immediately. The body appeared to be in a good state of preservation. A cut was plainly visible on the right side of the face.

Mrs. Sorrell, mother of the deceased; Mrs. Francis White, his sister, and Raymond White, his brother-in-law, joined in a request for the investigation.

Coroner Nevitt this morning received a telephone message from a friend of Mrs. Sorrell, saying the latter wanted nothing further done in the matter of arranging for the disinterment of the body, but the coroner said there was nothing for him to do other than finish the investigation, and the grave was accordingly opened.

When seen by a Star reporter, Mrs. Sorrell said she would not further discuss the matter.

"There has already been too much said about the sad affair," the mother said, "and I've been annoyed almost to death. I do not intend to say any more about it. The matter is in the hands of the coroner and it is for him to decide."

Sorrell Found Unconscious
At the time young Sorrell was found in an unconscious condition in his room at 426 7th street southwest it was thought he was suffering from gas poisoning. He was removed to the Emergency Hospital where he died shortly afterward.

In conversation with Coroner Nevitt yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Sorrell said she knew of an assault alleged to have been made upon her son, but she did not think to mention it when she went to the hospital to see him. She is anxious that the responsibility for her son's death be placed on the proper persons, she said, should the autopsy show that his death was due to violence.

Relatives of young Sorrell, who was twenty years old, are of the opinion that the leaky pipe in his room did not emit gas enough to affect him. He had slept in that room night after night, they say, and had shown no signs of having been affected by the gas.

Friends of Sorrell said he participated in two rows and was assaulted. It was related that Sorrell and others were in a saloon the night before he was found unconscious. It was further asserted that Sorrell was considerably under the influence of liquor when he went home, although it was not claimed that he had to be assisted home.

It was asserted by some young men questioned by the police that the trouble between Sorrell and one of his associates resulted from a dispute about a game of pool.

Flags at Half-Staff

Tribute by Fire Department to William T. Sorrell, Deceased

Flags were placed at half-staff on all the District's fire department houses today out of respect to the memory of William T. Sorrell, former assistant chief engineer of the department, who died yesterday at his home, 340 McLean place, southwest. By order of Chief Wagner the flags will remain at half-staff until after the funeral, which will be attended by a delegation of firemen.

Mr. Sorrell was seventy-nine years old. He entered the District's volunteer fire department in 1864 and in 1870 was appointed a member of the paid department. Four years later he was promoted to a captaincy, and in 1902 became assistant to the chief engineer.

As a result of disabilities, incurred in the line of duty, he was retired on a pension, April 1, 1903. He leaves a wife and daughter.

Tributes To Mr. Sorrell

His Death Is Announced to Veteran Volunteer Firemen

At the February meeting of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association, at the old Union Engine House 19th and streets northwest last night, Julius Strobel presided, with H.C Thorne, secretary. The president announced the death of William F. Sorrell January 18, and paid a tribute to the memory of Mr. Sorrell, relating that he had been a member of the old Perseverance company, during which time he had proven an efficient volunteer fireman. During the civil war Mr. Sorrell was attached to the arsenal, where his duties were about the magazines and on the tugboat Robert Leslie, which was engaged in the removal of powder to and from the fortifications on the Potomac. He was always regarded, said President Strobel, as a conscientious employe and his career in the District fire department was without blemish.

Dr. W. Summey spoke of Mr. Sorrell as a quiet, unostentatious citizen, always ready to perform his full duty, and other members of the association also related incidents of the life of Mr. Sorrell.

The ladies' auxiliary held its meeting in the upper hall the meeting being of a social nature.

A Parade Next Week

Chief Parris and His Brigade to Turn Out Next Thursday

Men Who Fight Flames

... William J. Sorell is the foreman of No. 4 Engine Company and guards the interests of South Washington with a care. Mr. Sorrell was born in Spottsylvania county, Va., June 5, 1835, and received his appointment as a member of the fire department of Washington on the organization of No. 4 Engine Company, January 19, 1870. It was not long before he was made assistant foreman, and on July 16, 1874, he was made foreman of the company. He may well be called the father of No. 4, for he has been in almost continuous service in that company since his appointment. During the old volunteer days he was a member of Perseverance Company and served under John Peabody, the first chief of the fire department. He has been a fireman for thirty-six years and has attended all of the large fires that have taken place in Washington since 1854.

Sousa, Annie Frances

Birth/Death: b. 1863 – d. 27 Jun 1865
Age:
Range/Site: R85/82

Annie Frances, the seventh child was born sometime during the first half of 1863. She died on June 27, 1865, and was the fourth and last of the Sousa children to die in infancy. She is buried in the Antonio Sousa plot in Congressional Cemetery. (This birth date was computed from the death record at Christ Church. There is no record of her death at the District of Columbia Public Health Department because their records for the Civil War years are incomplete. Were it not for the record at Christ Church, there would be no knowledge of the existence of a tenth child in the family, except for John Philip's occasional statements that he came from a family of ten.)

Sousa, Antonio Augustus

Birth/Death: b. 1868 – d. 8 May 1918
Age: 50 yrs.
Range/Site: R85/83

Tony, the ninth child, was born on March 25, 1868, in Washington, and is also listed in various references as Anthony and Antony. He was active in several fields. At one time he was a letter carrier and post office clerk. A talented writer, he contributed to the sports columns of Washington papers, wrote verse, and collaborated with Edward Lewelly on an opera. He was an avid sportsman and was particularly fond of wrestling, baseball, and cricket. While working for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, he contracted tuberculosis and was sent to Colorado to recuperate. But on May 8, 1918, he died there, at Rocky Ford. His body was returned to Washington for burial in the Antonio Sousa plot in Congressional Cemetery.

Miss Jane Sousa, Daughter of Famous Bandmaster

Miss Jane Priscilla Sousa, 77, daughter of America's most famous bandmaster, died today in a New York hospital. She was born in Washington and lived with her family for many years at 318 B Street S.E. (now Independence Avenue). Miss Sousa had lived at the estate of her father, John Phillip Sousa, at Sands Point, Long Island, since just before World War I.

A philanthropist and active worker in civic organizations, she was a graduate of Vassar College. In World War II, she volunteered as an air raid warden in her community and was identified with many patriotic organizations.

Such an association was natural. Her father, born in Southeast Washington, became the country's leading bandmaster, before the turn of the century, and composed some of the Nation's most famous patriotic marches.

His works included: "The Stars and Stripes Forever," "Semper Fidelis" and "El Capitan" He was leader of the United States Marine Band, and formed his own band in 1892. He died in 1932.

Miss Sousa leaves a sister, Mrs. Helen Sousa Abert in New York City. A cousin of Miss Sousa, Lt. Col. Osmund A. Varela, USA (retired) of 4112 Glenrose Street, Kensington, Md., said funeral services would be at Christ Episcopal Church, 620 G Street, S.E., with burial in Congressional Cemetery. Arrangements are not yet complete.

Jane Priscilla, the second of John Philip's three children, was born at 420 Eighth Street, S.E., Washington, D.C. on August 7, 1882. She was educated in Washington, New York City (and possibly Red Bank, New Jersey) schools and graduated from Vassar in 1903. She never married and resided with her parents until their deaths. She then spent the rest of her life at the Sands Point home on Long Island. Although not a serious music student, she played the piano and composed at least one song ("Me and Ma' Old Banjo," published by Sol Blom in 1904). She was active in society. In ill health after an automobile accident in 1954, she died in New York City on October 28, 1958, and is buried in the John Philip Sousa plot in Congressional Cemetery.

Mrs. John P. Sousa, March King's Widow, Dies in New York at 81
Mrs. John Phillip Sousa, 81, widow of the March King, died Saturday in her New York City apartment after a brief illness, it was learned here today.

Funeral services will be held here at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday at Christ Episcopal Church, 620 G Street S.E., of which Mr. Sousa was a lifelong member. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery by the side of her husband.

Mrs. Sousa, the former Jane Van M. Bellis of Philadelphia, met Mr. Sousa in that city in 1879. She was an amateur singer appearing with a company of which he was director. He said, "She was quite the loveliest little girl I had ever seen." They were married the next year, when she was 17.

For many years they lived in Washington, where Mr. Sousa was born and where he directed the Marine Band. He died on March 6, 1932 after gaining wide fame for his compositions and as director of the Marine Band.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Hamilton Abert and Miss Jane P. Sousa, both of New York. A nephew, Osmond L. Varela, lives here.

Sousa Biography, p. 245

Jane van Middlesworth Bellis was born in Philadelphia on February ? 1862 or 1863, the daughter of Henry Bellis and Louise Hyle Cornish. Henry Bellis was a carpenter (stair builder) and later the proprietor of a photographic studio on the Boardwalk at Atlantic City, New Jersey. Jane resided in Philadelphia until her marriage on December 30, 1879.

Jane, or Jennie was an amateur vocalist but apparently did not perform in public after her marriage. She was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution but few other organizations. She was an excellent horsewoman and her other athletic interests were tennis, sailing and trapshooting. Gardening was another of her pastimes, and John Philip often mused that the vegetables she grew received such lavish care that they cost several dollars each. She nearly always declined interviews, remaining in the background, and was content with her life as a housewife. Seldom did she accompany John Philip on his tours except for those overseas.

Another of her interests was writing, and a few of her efforts were published. Among these were "By a Lady," a verse satirizing Sousa's song, "Love Me Little, Love Me Long," published in Town Topics (New York), March 15, 1893; "A Chat from Australia," an article in the Musical Courier, September 13, 1893; "His Lost Love," a poem in Harper's Weekly, August 10, 1912; and " ??? for Peace," a poem in Munsey's Magazine, March, 1913.

After the death of John Philip, Jane lived the rest of her life at the Sands Point home near Port Washington, Long Island, except for some of the winters, when she resided in New York City apartments. She died in her Manhattan apartment at 30 Sutton Place on March 11, 1944, and is buried in the John Philip Sousa plot in Congressional Cemetery.

Sousa. On April 27, 1892 at 2 p.m., Antonio Sousa beloved husband of Elizabeth Sousa after a long illness, aged 68 years. Funeral from Christ Church, Navy Yard, Friday, April 29 at 3 p.m. Friends and relatives invited.

The Evening Star, April 28, 1892

Death of Antonio Sousa

After prolonged suffering Mr. Antonio Sousa died at his residence in this city yesterday of a complication of diseases. He was born in Seville, Spain, September 24, 1824, and came to this country in 1854 and became a member of the Marine Band, from which he was retired in 1879 with the rank of first class. He was a member of Naval Lodge, No. 4, F.A.A.M., and George Meade Post, G.A.R. He leaves a widow and seven children. The funeral will occur Friday at 3 p.m. from Christ Church, Navy Yard and the remains will be temporarily placed in a vault. Mr. Sousa was the father of Mr. John Philip Sousa, leader of the Marine Band, who is now making a tour of the west with his band.

Sousa Biography, p. 241

In various documents the name Sousa appears as Soussa, Sioussa, Sioucca, Soucea, Souca, Souza, Sausa, and Saucca. Actually, the name is Sousa and is of Portuguese origin. Among the distinguished Portuguese ancestors of John Antonio Sousa are Thomas de Sousa, the first Captain General of Brazil; Alfonse de Sousa,
John Antonio Sousa was named after his father, and his mother's name was Josephine de Blanco. During the Peninsular War, probably in 1822, John Antonio's parents fled Portugal for political reasons and settled in Seville, Spain. There John Antonio was born on September 22, 1824. He evidently received an excellent education and could speak several languages by his early teens, at which time he left home. (According to a family story, he was interested in the stage and would slip out at night to attend performances. One night the home was burglarized when he left it unguarded, and he fled home to escape punishment.) He went to Italy and then became an interpreter aboard a British warship. It is possible that he spent some time in Britain. Little is known of his activities during the next few years, but he received a bullet wound in the arm, presumably during his service with the British Navy in the Amazon. After his duty with the British Navy he joined the United States Navy. He is believed to have served during the latter part of the Mexican War in 1847 or 1848. During this period he acquired the classification of musician, but it is not known what instrument or instruments he played.

He was stationed in Brooklyn, New York, as a musician at the Navy Yard about 1848. While there he met his future wife, Marie Elisabeth Trinkaus. The Sousas moved to Washington, D.C., early in 1854, and John Antonio enlisted in the U.S. Marine Band on March 23, 1854.

Antonio was of the Catholic faith until late 1854 or early 1855, at which time he turned Protestant. (There are two family stories about how Antonio came to change his religion. According to one, he was upset about a priest's unwillingness to come to his home in the rain when his child, Josephine, died. Another story holds that he was attended by friendly Masons once when he was ill, later joined the order, and then met with the disfavor of his church.) At first he attended the Concordia German Evangelical Church (Lutheran) and later Christ Episcopal Church. As a Catholic he had attended St. Peter's Church in Washington and had sung bass in the choir there.

During the Civil War period he served with the Marine Band, playing trombone and fife, and he probably saw actual combat too. He continued his service with the Marine Band as a trombonist and served almost twenty-five years. He retired on March 1, 1879, and spent the rest of his life in Washington working as a cabinetmaker and upholsterer. He was a Mason, being a member of Naval Lodge No. 4 in Washington, and he also belonged to the George Meade Post, Grand Army of the Republic. He died on April 27, 1892, and is buried in Congressional Cemetery. (The Antonio Sousa plot consists of three adjoining burial lots. Three people would normally be buried in this space, but the graves are deep and the caskets are stacked. The bodies of eleven people are buried in this plot. They are: John Antonio and Marie Elisabeth Sousa; their children Josephine, Ferdinand, Rosina, Annie Frances, and Antonio A.; and four others not identified. Some time after Antonio's death, John Philip had the present monument erected.

Sousa was born at 636 G Street, S.E., in 1854. He was baptized at Christ Episcopal Church and lived on Capitol Hill for most of his life. One of his former homes was 318 Independence Avenue.

The Evening Star, March 7, 1932
The body of John Philip Sousa, America's ‘March King’ was brought last night to Washington, the city of his birth and early fame to await burial next Thursday in Congressional Cemetery.

In the absence of directions from the bandmaster's family there was no ceremony on the body's arrival. Navy officials were ready to extend to him any courtesy in the way of escorts, the Marine Band or any other provisions that might be desired. In review of his reserve status, however, this could not be done without instructions from his family.

The body of the band leader, who once led the famous Marine Band and whose marches have stirred the patriotism of millions of Americans was brought to Washington from Reading, Pa., where Sousa died early yesterday morning. It was accompanied by Hamilton Abert, son-in-law, and an escort of the 213th Coast Artillery. They were Majs. Joseph D. Eisenbrown and William J. Smith, and Capts. Ralph M. Altenderfer and I.B. Rittgers.

Mr. Abert left at once for New York to return here later today with Mrs. Sousa and two daughters. Sousa's son, John Philip Sousa, Jr. left La Jolla, Calif. by train yesterday for the East.
The hour of the burial has not been set early today, pending the arrival of the family. Navy and Marine Corps officials are expecting to participate in the plans.

A military escort of the Marine Band, a naval firing squad, a company of blue jackets and a company of Marines will be provided for the funeral, the Navy Dept. announced. Bluejackets will act as body bearers.

The celebrated bandmaster, 77 years old, was stricken a few hours after directing a rehearsal of a local band in Reading. He attended a banquet in his honor, retired to his room and was found shortly after stricken by a heart attack which had snuffed out his life.

Sousa was born in Washington, and it was his family’s wish that he eventually be buried at home. His father obtained a place for him in the Marine Band when he was 13 years old.

Most popular of his compositions, Sousa always believed was ‘The Stars & Stripes Forever’. His last was the ‘George Washington Bicentennial March.’ His final appearance here was to conduct the massed Army, Navy and Marine Corps Bands in playing that composition on the Capital Plaza on Washington’s Birthday, just 2 weeks ago.

Sousa became a member of the U.S. Marine Band when only 13 years old through a plan of his father, a member of the band, to thwart the boy’s plans to run away with a circus band. Later young Sousa conducted theatrical and other orchestras and gave violin lessons. In 1877 he joined the orchestra of Jacques Offenbach, composer of ‘The Tales of Hoffman,’ as first violinist. About the time of his 25th birthday he returned to the Marine Band.

Son to Rest Beside March King, Sousa
John Philip Sousa, Jr., 56, son of the march king and composer, will be buried here Monday in Congressional Cemetery, where his famous father is buried. The body is en route from San Diego, Calif., according to the Associated Press. Mr. Sousa, retired automobile parts manufacturer and noted Southern California sportsman, died Tuesday in LaJolla, Calif.

Sousa Biography, p. 246
John Philip Jr., the first of the three children was born at 420 Eighth Street, S.E., Washington, D.C., on April 1, 1881. He was educated in Washington and New York City schools and graduated from Princeton University in 1904. In 1905 he married Eileen Adams of New York. He was active in several businesses, primarily in the manufacturing field. A lover of sports, he played on the Princeton baseball team and was also very much interested in hunting, fishing and tennis. He died in LaJolla, California, on May 18, 1837, and is buried in the John Philip Sousa plot in Congressional Cemetery.

Sousa, Josephine

d. 1854 3 yrs.  R85/83

Sousa Biography, p. 243
The second of ten Sousa children, Josephine, was born in Brooklyn sometime between 1851 and early 1854. She died in Washington about the time of John Philip’s birth. Therefore, she could have been no more than three years old when she died. She is buried in the Antonio Sousa plot in Congressional Cemetery.

The Evening Star, Monday, August 24, 1908
Mrs. Elizabeth Sousa Dies
Mother of John Philip Sousa, Famous Bandmaster
Was Eighty-Two Years Old and Had Lived Here Since 1854 -- Six Children Survive Her

Mrs. Elizabeth Sousa, widow of Antonio Sousa and mother of John Philip Sousa, the noted bandmaster and composer, died at the family residence 502 7th street southeast, yesterday afternoon at 5:35 o'clock. Her death was due to general debility.

Mrs. Sousa was eighty-two years of age and had been a resident of this city since 1854. Up to about three months ago she was more than ordinarily active for her age and was accustomed to a daily walk; but about that time she began to fall, and gradually grew weaker until her death.

Was a Native of Germany

Mrs. Sousa was a native of Germany, having been born in Hesse Darmstadt in May, 1826. She came to this country with her parents in 1846, and resided in Brooklyn, N.Y., until her marriage to Mr. Sousa. They afterward moved to Washington. Mr. Sousa died sixteen years ago.

Mrs. Sousa is survived by four sons and two daughters, John Philip Sousa, former leader of the United States Marine Band, and now of Sousa's Concert Band; George W. Sousa, a retired musician, living at Newport News, Va.; Antonio A. Sousa of 617 G street southeast, an employee of the city post office; Louis M. Sousa of 631 E street southeast; Mrs. A.C. Varela of 536 6th street southeast, and Mrs. Bower, wife of Lieut. J. McK. Bower, a retired naval officer, who lives in Chicago.

Mrs. Sousa was a member of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church, on G street southeast, and has always been forward in the charitable work of that parish. She visited the sick and needy constantly and did much to help them.

Proud of Son's Success

Mrs. Sousa was especially proud of her son, John Philip, the famous bandmaster. Their last meeting was about two weeks ago. He has been notified of his mother's death and will arrive here in time for the funeral services Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the chapel at Congressional cemetery. Rev. Arthur S. Johns of Christ P.E. Church, Navy Yard, officiating.

The Evening Star, January 29, 1908, p. 8

Suit for Mandamus

Mrs. Elizabeth Sousa seeks to collect money due late husband. A petition for a mandamus has been filed in the District Supreme Court by Mrs. Elizabeth Sousa, mother of John Philip Sousa, against Vespasian Warner, commissioner of pensions. Mrs. Sousa seeks to be paid money which, she alleges, is due her as the widow of Antonio Sousa, for many years an enlisted musician in the Marine Band, of which his son later became conductor.

Mrs. Sousa says her husband, in April, 1879, applied to the Secretary of the Navy for the benefits of section 4756 of the Revised Statutes, and he Secretary issued him a certificate certifying that under this section he was entitled to $19.50 a month as retired pay for the remainder of his life, instead of a home in the Naval Asylum in Philadelphia.

From April, 1879, until March 4, 1886, this amount month was paid to Sousa by the commissioner of pensions, and about the latter date he was granted a pension of $24 a month. When the pension was granted the commissioner canceled the payment of $19.50 a month, on the ground that, under the law, no person could received two pensions at the same time. Accordingly, Sousa was paid his pension of $24, and the payment of $19.50 on the certificate issued by he Secretary of the Navy was discontinued. Mrs. Sousa states the Commissioner of Pensions has taken adverse action on her application for the amount that accrued to her husband from the time the $19.50 monthly was stopped until the time of his death.

Attorneys Fugitt and DePutron represent Mrs. Sousa.

Sousa Biography, p. 242

Marie Elisabeth Trinkaus was born in Frankish Grumbach Thuringen, Bavaria, on May 20, 1826. Her father, Peter Trinkaus, was the mayor (burgomeister) of a small town, and her mother was Catherine Schafers. Marie Elisabeth came to the United States about 1846 and resided with relatives in Brooklyn. There she met and married John Antonio Sousa. After moving to Washington in 1854, she remained there until her death in 1908.

She was a deeply religious person, and in her early life she was known as "Cloister Elise" because of her saintly disposition. She was originally Lutheran, but after changing her membership from the Concordia
German Evangelical Church to Christ Episcopal Church, she was active in that church's work for approximately fifty years. She had a remarkable influence on John Philip, and he was guided by her principles throughout his life. When she died on August 25, 1908, he sent the following telegram to his brother Antonio: "HEAVEN HAS ADDED ONE MORE ANGEL TO ITS LEGION. LET US BOW TO THE WILL OF GOD." (Washington Post, August 25, 1908).

She is buried in the Antonio Sousa plot in Congressional Cemetery.

Washington Evening Star, Saturday, July 20, 1907

Walter F. Sousa and Harry A. Candee were killed Saturday evening by a live wire, which Sousa, an electrician for the Potomac Electric Co. was fixing in the drug store of Lewis Flemer, 701 Maryland Ave., N.E., where Candee was employed as head clerk. The wire which killed the two men is said to have been connected with a ground wire in the manhole conduit near the store. In this conduit there was a 2400-volt alternating current, but Sousa did not know when he went to fix the lights in the drug store that there was any trouble with outside wires. Harry Candee lived at 715 Massachusetts Ave., N.E. The funeral of Mr. Sousa will take place from his home, 1007 G Street, S.E., tomorrow at 10 o'clock. The interment will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Inquest:

An inquest found Sousa guilty of negligence. Claude Berger, Mr. Sousa's brother-in-law was present at the accident and testified along with a number of store clerks. Mr. Candee had warned Mr. Sousa to put on his rubber gloves since another man had received a shock from the wire the day before. There was no flash. Sousa moaned slightly, and his back appeared to give way as he fell. Candee grabbed for the wire as though to pull it down, placing one hand on the wire and the other on Sousa's wrist, then fell backward. Rev. Dr. Arthur F. Johns, rector of Christ Church read the service. The pallbearers were selected from members of the Protective Union of Electrical Workers. Mr. Sousa was survived by his bride of a few months, his mother Mrs. Annie Spry Sousa and his grandmother Mrs. Elizabeth Sousa, both of Maryland.

Last Rites Over Dead

Funeral of Harry A. Candee and Walter F. Sousa Yesterday Afternoon

The bodies of Harry A. Candee, head clerk in Flemer's drug store, at Maryland Avenue and 7th Street Northeast, and Walter F. Sousa, electrician in the employ of the United States Electric Lighting Company who were killed by coming in contact with a live electric wire in the drug store, Saturday night, were buried yesterday afternoon.

Services over Mr. Candee's remains were conducted at his late home, 715 Massachusetts Avenue Northeast at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. Ira Abbott, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, officiating. Those who acted as pallbearers were Lewis Flemer, Mr. Candee's employer the past nine years, and five members of Myron M. Parker Lodge, F.A.A.M -- Dr. S.A. Helton, Dr. C.F. Whitney, A.E. Wilson, Dr. Leon Leech and P.J. Gallagher. The body was interred in Glenwood Cemetery.

Samuel Sowerbutts Succumbs In Hospital
Was Resident of National Capital for Thirty-Five Years
Samuel Sowerbutts, thirty-five years a resident of this city, died yesterday afternoon at Casualty Hospital, where he underwent an operation Saturday.  He had been ill more than a year, but had been able to attend to his business most of the time.  Saturday morning his condition became so critical that it was decided to take him to the hospital and have an operation performed as a last resort.  Mrs. Sowerbutts and other members of the family were at the bedside when death came.

The deceased was born in Preston, England, sixty-two years ago.  He came to this country thirty-six years ago, and remained in Massachusetts several months before coming to this city.

Until about six years ago Mr. Sowerbutts was engaged in the insurance business.  Lately he was interested in several realty companies.  He was a member of Iris Lodge, Shield of Honor, and was connected with the Iris Realty Company and the City and County Improvement Association.  Mr. Sowerbutts had been one of the most active members of the Northeast Washington Citizens' Association, and had served as its secretary a number of years.

He is survived by his wife and five children, Robert P., Richard C., Samuel W., Miss Laura G. and Miss Margaret E. Sowerbutts.

The body was taken to the family home at 1849 Good Hope road, Anacostia, last night.  Funeral services will be conducted at the family home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.  Interment will be at Congressional cemetery.

One Heaven sent blessing has gone back
To vast eternity.
Pain never more will shade his brown,
Nor tears his sweet black eyes,
Nor grief the pure and loving lips

Succumbs to Illness While Visiting Friends in Lovettsville, Va.

Mrs. Luther F. Speer of 722 North Carolina avenue southeast, who had recently gone with her children for a vacation to Lovettsville, Va., died suddenly at that place Tuesday morning, July 16.  Mr. Speer had accompanied his family to Lovettsville, afterward leaving them to visit Bangor and other points in Pennsylvania, and consequently was not with his wife at the time of her death.

Mrs. Speer was Miss Myrta Raub, daughter of Dr. Jacob Raub, a surgeon in the civil war, and late of the pension office, where, it will be recalled, he died suddenly about a year ago while sitting at his desk.  Mrs. Speer was born in Bethlehem, Pa.  She was a member of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church, and was identified with its many organizations, besides being connected with various social clubs.

She is survived by two children, Franklin and Sarah, aged about ten and eight years, respectively.  Her mother, Mrs. Raub, lives at the family home.  Mr. Speer is employed in the bureau of internal revenue of the Treasury Department, and is well known in Masonic circles, in Sunday school work and that of the local Young Men's Christian Association.

The funeral of Mrs. Speer will take place from the family residence, 722 North Carolina avenue southeast, at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, July 18.

Edgar Speiden Dead

Edgar Speiden died yesterday at the residence of his son, Edgar Speiden, jr. Mr. Speiden, who at the time of his death was sixty-eight years of age, was for twenty-five years in the record and pension division of the War Department. He is survived by his widow and seven children, five sons and two daughters. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the First Baptist Church. The services will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Charles F. Wingibler. The interment will be made at the Congressional cemetery.

The Evening Star, April 28, 1898

In Memoriam

Speiden. In memory of Mrs. Sarah Ann Speiden, wife of William E. Speiden, who closed her quiet and useful life one week ago yesterday, in the midst of the community where she had always lived, and the estimate in which she was held was testified by the many friends who knew and loved her. She leaves in her husband, children and grandchildren who survive her the legacy of a pious life and spotless name. Her last words before her spirit took flight were, "All is well with me." Though she has passed away, it is inspiring to think of the legacy she has left her family and the inheritance she has gained on high.

George Spiegel Dies at 78;
Partner in D.C. Law Firm

George Spiegel, 78, a lawyer who was a specialist in public utility law and a founding partner of the Washington firm Spiegel & McDiarmid, died Oct. 23 of a stroke at his home in Silver Spring.

Since the 1960s, Mr. Spiegel represented a number of municipalities in the electric power and gas business in cases against for-profit utilities before federal agencies, the U.S. Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court.

His interest in utility law began when he successfully challenged bus fare increases proposed by the Capital Transit Co., which later became the D.C. Transit System, on behalf of several citizens associations.

From 1960 to 1967, he was a member of the law firm Goldberg & Spiegel. In 1967, he formed his own law firm, now Spiegel & McDiarmid, where he remained an active partner until his death.

In 1971, he won a case before the Supreme Court that involved a large public utility's attempts to collect payments from a smaller municipal power for backup service. The court ruled in Mr. Spiegel's favor, saying that the Federal Power Commission legally ordered Florida Power & Light Co. to provide the backup service without requiring annual payments for the service.

Mr. Spiegel was born in Salem, Mass. He graduated from Amherst College in 1941 and then served with the Navy in the South Pacific during World War II. He received a law degree from Harvard University. After working with the Office of the General Counsel of the Navy Department, he became a legal member of the Navy Contract Adjustment Board until 1960.

He was a longtime proponent of conservation efforts. In 1995, he donated more than 700 acres of lakefront land in Vermont to the Vermont Land Trust and the Nature Conservancy of Vermont and New York. Another donation of nearly 500 acres, completed a 20-mile black bear migration corridor in Central Vermont.

He also was active in Parents & Friends of Lesbians and Gays of Metro D.C., serving as a spokesman for the last 15 years.

Survivors include his wife, Ruth Spiegel of Silver Spring; three sons, John Spiegel of Silver Spring, Ladd Spiegel of New York and Charles Spiegel of San Francisco; a sister; two brothers; and five grandchildren.

Services at McKendree Church, With Masonic Rites at the Grave

Funeral services for Francis Asbury Springer, well known as an educator in Washington, who died at the age of seventy-two years yesterday evening shortly before 7 o'clock at Garfield Hospital, after an illness of one day, of abdominal trouble, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at McKendree M.E. Church with Re. Edgar Cordell Powers, pastor of Brookland M.E. Church, of which Mr. Springer was a member, officiating Rev. John Reid Shannon, pastor of the Metropolitan M.E. Church; Rev. E.T. Mowbray, pastor of McKendree M.E. Church; Rev. W.A. Hagerty, pastor of Petworth M.E. Church, and Rev. A.H. Thompson of Waugh M.E. Church, will assist.

Masonic rites will be performed at the grave in Congressional cemetery.

Native of Maine

Mr. Springer was born in Portland, Me., November 3, 1839. He prepared for college at Hallowell Academy, Hallowell, Me., and at Maine Wesleyan Seminary, Kent's Hill, Me. He entered Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., and after a year there transferred his connection to the Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., of which institution he was graduated with a degree of A.M. He was a member of the faculty of Rock River Seminary, Mount Morris, Ill., for some time as professor of Latin and Greek. He came to Washington in 1861, and became principal of the West End English, Classical and Mathematical Academy, and later supervising principal of one of the divisions of the Washington public schools and principal of the night high school. He was a member of the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity.

Prof. Springer was particularly well known for his work as private tutor, preparing candidates for college and for the Naval and Military academies. He was a recognized authority on the Spanish language and also conversed in many others.

Had Many Affiliations

Mr. Springer was for many years associated with the Y.M.C.A., and he was an honorary member of the Washington District Preachers Meeting, being the only local minister not actively engaged in pastoral duties accorded this honor. At the time of his death he was dean of the Intercontinental Correspondence University. He also was a member of the Brookland M.E. Church quarterly conference and was past master of Acacia Lodge, No. 18, F.A.A.M.
In 1865 Mr. Springer married Miss Anna Virginia Bates, daughter of the late Robert W. Bates of this city. He numbered Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Johnson among his personal friends.

Prof. Springer, as he was known, is survived by one daughter, Mrs. J. Martin Proctor, and four sons, Charles A. William E., Edward L. and Francis A. Springer. Mr. Springer had made his home with his sons at 3026 18th street northwest since the death of his wife five years ago.

Held An Autopsy

Studying the Cause of Young Springmann's Death

Brain Effects of Hydrophobia

Dr. Glazebrook Objects to the Presence of Reporters

The Funeral Services

For the first time in the medical history of Washington an autopsy was performed today on the body of a person who had died with a genuine, well-developed case of hydrophobia. The subject was the body of Charles E. Springmann, the young boy who died Wednesday night as the result of the bite of a stray dog received some time ago, as reported in Wednesday's Star, and the medical profession of the city are much gratified at being able to point to an operation of this character.

When it was first known that the attending physician, Dr. Millard F. Thompson, wished to make an autopsy, both Mr. Frederick Springmann, the boy's father, and Mrs. Springmann strenuously objected, on the ground that they did not want the remains of their beloved boy disturbed in any way. After hours of argument Mrs. Springmann gave in when the plea was put forth that it was not only for science but for the benefit of other mothers who might have children afflicted with the same dread disease. Then it was that she succumbed to the inevitable, and Mr. Springmann followed her opinion.

The autopsy was set for 11 o'clock this morning, but it was nearly 12 when the physicians who were to engage in it arrived. The operation was performed under the directions of Dr. Glazebrook, the acting coroner of the District, and he was assisted by Dr. Millard F. Thompson, the family physician of the Springmanns; Dr. H.H. Barker, Dr. W.C. Woodward, the health officer of the District; Dr. J.T. Winter and Prof. V.A. Norgaard of the Agricultural Department.

The body of the boy was taken from the casket where it had reposed and was placed on the operating table. The top of the skull was then removed and the brain exposed. This was found to be highly congested, even in as far as an eighth of an inch. The medulla oblongata was then removed. This part of the brain is the seat of the dread disease and will be subjected to tests, in order to find out the peculiar nature of the germs existing therein. It will be tested on various animals and in other ways and the results will be made known through the health office. When the autopsy was concluded and the remains placed in the casket again not the slightest evidence of the operation remained, so nicely had the operators done their work.
The First Case,
Dr. Thompson stated after the operation that within his recollection it was the only genuine case of hydrophobia that had offered the means to make an autopsy in the history of the city. He stated, however, that as the autopsy had been done after the body had been embalmed the fluids used in the latter operation might act negatively on the results by counteracting the effects of the poison that existed in the body of the subject. He could not tell whether this was the case at this time, but it might turn out so in the tests. Of course, no practical results could be obtained now, and nothing could be learned of the terms, their power or peculiarities, until after the proposed tests had been made.

Dr. Thompson further stated that young Springmann developed the evidences of having what is called hydopnemaphobia, which means afraid of both wind and water, and that these were symptoms shown by young Springman during the awful agony preceding his death. He was as much afraid of air as he was of water, and this is about the only case on record in which such symptoms have been developed. He did not show any of the primary of the primary stages of the diseases, but gave evidence immediately of well-developed symptoms.

One thing to be commented upon during the course of the autopsy was the fact that the reporters were kept out of the room in which it was performed, Dr. Glazebrook giving orders for their being shut out. This was done, notwithstanding Mr. Springmann's desire to have them admitted and his strong argument to that effect. Mr. Springmann insisted that, as he had given over the body for the cause of science, that the autopsy should receive sufficient notice to insure its being heard of, but the doctors in charge did not see it that way, and the reporters had to go.

Mr. Springmann has been in receipt for several days past of a number of communications, all bearing upon the subject of hydrophobia, but they do not seem to contain any feasible means of stopping the progress of the disease, and if they had, as one of Mr. Springmann's sons remarked, "they all came too late."

Funeral Services
The funeral was held almost immediately after the autopsy, at 2 o'clock. A large number of the friends and acquaintances of the family--and they are legion--were present. Father O'Brien of St. Peter's Church conducted the services, after which the remains were immediately conveyed to Congressional cemetery for interment, without stopping at St. Peter's Church, as was at first proposed. The pallbearers were chums of the deceased. They were Louis Diggins, James J. Grace, Arthur Specht, Richard Quinn, Le Roy Paine and Walter Robinson. Of these, Le Roy Paine and Walter Robinson and Arthur Specht were with Springmann when he had the encounter with the dog. Le Roy Paine, it will be remembered, was also bitten, and he will go tomorrow to Baltimore for treatment.

The parlor was completely filled with the floral offerings, which were exceptionally handsome, and which completely hid the newly made grave at Congressional cemetery from sight.

Father O'Brien conducted the usual Catholic services at the house, and made some touching allusions to the life and character of the dead boy.

The Evening Star, July 23, 1897
Dying of Rabies
Charles E. Springmann of This City Develops the Dread Disease
His Physicians Abandon Hope
The Patient is Unconscious of His True Condition
Bitten Six Weeks Ago
Charles E. Springmann, nineteen years of age, son of Frederick Springmann, in the express business at 935 D street northwest, has a well developed case of hydrophobia, resulting from the bite of a stray dog, received about six weeks ago. The symptoms of the disease are all present, though the young man was not taken ill until Sunday. Dr. Millard B. Thompson, the family physician, who is attending him and who called in Dr. J. Taber Johnson for consultation, has told the family that there is little or no chance of the patient's recovery.

Young Springman is at the residence of his father, No. 401 South Capitol street, where all possible attention is being given him by his relatives, who are almost heartbroken over the terrible affliction. The patient, who until a few hours ago was perfectly conscious, does not realize his condition which is pitiable in the extreme, as the physicians have been able to mitigate his sufferings but little.

Unaware of His Danger
The young man's throat is swollen, which led him to believe that he had simply contracted a heavy cold, no idea having entered his mind that he is afflicted with that most dreaded disease, and which causes the patient untold suffering. It is with difficulty he can relax his jaws, showing the insidious progress of the disease.
The sight of liquid in any form drives him frantic and the fatal convulsions which mark the end of the disease have already set in. Young Springmann is terribly restless, starting at the slightest noise. He is not confined to his bed at present, having so far shown no violence rendering this necessary, but he is allowed the liberty of the room. His restlessness is most marked. He reclines on the bed a moment, springs to his feet, sits on the edge, and suddenly throws his head back in a convulsion, gasping for breath, while distressing moans come from between his partly clenched teeth. For a day or so he has been unable to talk with members of the family, and has carried on conversation with them by writing on slips of paper. On Saturday last, Mr. Charles E. Springman, of Springman's express, met with a serious accident while directing a force of men engaged in putting machinery in the brick works of Isaac Childs & Son in Northeast Washington. While a heavy piece of machinery was being hoisted in rope gave way. The piece of machinery falling caught Mr. Springman between it and the building in such a way as to pinion him against the building. As the weight was too great to be lifted a portion of the brick wall had to be demolished before Mr. Springman could be extricated. In the meantime he fainted from pain. He was taken to his residence, 612 Maryland avenue southwest. It was found that no bones were broken, but that he was very seriously injured internally.

Funeral Services to Be Held Saturday

James W. Springmann, for nearly twenty-six years deputy marshal of the District of Columbia, died from Bright's disease of 10:30 o'clock this morning at his home, 497 Maryland avenue southwest.

The funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at his late home. Rev. Samuel H. Greene, pastor of the Cavalry Baptist Church will officiate. Interment will be made in Congressional cemetery. The pallbearers have not yet been selected.

Native of Washington

Mr. Springmann was born in Washington nearly sixty-nine years ago, and had always lived in Southwest Washington. He had been in failing health for some time, and had been confined to his bed for the past twelve weeks. Prior to his appointment to deputy marshal, he was connected with the District fire department.

His wife, Mrs. Bernetta H. Springmann, a daughter, Mrs. H.C. Glading of Philadelphia, and two sons, Frank E. and James A. Springmann, survive him.

Efficient and Popular

Chief Deputy Marshal Robinson, in speaking of the death of Mr. Springmann, said: "He was a most faithful and efficient officer during all the time he had charge of the prisoners at the courthouse and in transit from the jail. At no time, to my knowledge, was there even an attempt made by a prisoner to get away after being laced in Mr. Springmann's custody. By a peculiar knack he made the prisoner understand he was his friend and by many acts of kindness to the unfortunates under his care won their confidence.

"Mr. Springmann was one of the most popular of the marshal's force about the city hall with judges, officials, lawyers and fellow-employees alike."

By the newspaper men assigned to the city hall the death of Mr. Springmann was viewed as a personal loss. Nothing that had the earmarks of a "story" in connection with the criminals under his charge ever escaped him, and he readily gave his information to the reporters.

Word of Advice For All

Crook Who Forsook His Ways

Happy Marriage and Respectable Life Follow Career in Sin --

One Man's Influence

Among the friends and acquaintances who yesterday attended the funeral of the late Deputy United States Marshal James W. Springman were some who by his advice and aid had been led to forsake the criminal ranks, and were engaged in honest work and occupying respectable positions in the community. For many years he had been in charge of the prisoners in the Criminal Court, and was responsible for them from the time they left the jail until their return, and no matter how deep they were in crime they feared and respected him and regarded him as a friend. Through his efforts numbers of them turned over a new leaf.

There is living today in New York a reformed professional crook with a wife who was once in a gilded palace of sin. They have a bright and promising son and are respected in the community, the husband holding a responsible position in the business world. In a great measure it was through Mr. Springman, whose acquaintance with the man was formed when the latter was in the prison van, that both he and his girl reformed, married and have lived uprightly for years.

Some years ago there operated in and around Washington a band of all-around thieves, which engaged specially in watch lifting, and in a crowd leaving the depot a hotel keeper fell a victim. He notified the police, and in the course of a few weeks the watch was recovered at a Philadelphia pawnshop. The arrest of three men followed, and their trial here resulted in heavy penitentiary sentences. When they were led into the cage in the basement of the courthouse, a pretty woman, attired in black, followed and held an interview through the bars with one of the men who was her lover.

Springman a Witness

Mr. Springman, who was in charge, was a witness to the devotion of the woman, and the predicament of so gentlemanly appearing and intelligent looking prisoner appealed to him. The girl broke into sobs and asked
Mr. Springman how he could be saved from the penitentiary. Mr. Springman said he need not go there a once if the case were appealed, and she hurried away.

In a little time thereafter she had pawned her jewelry, engaged a lawyer, who noted an appeal, and she rejoiced that he was saved from going with his comrades to the pen. He remained in jail in Washington for over a year, and when brought up again in court his lawyer urged, in view of his long confinement, that he be released on the payment of a fine. The court thereupon changed the sentence to six months additional in jail and a fine of $250.

The man served the jail sentence and upon being brought into court at the expiration of the term the girl met him at the van and paid the money in court. He walked away a free man, but was out for a little time only, for a detective took him into custody for the larceny of a watch in Montgomery county. The man was taken to the jail at Rockville and shortly thereafter was convicted and sent to the Maryland House of Correction at Jessups.

During a year of imprisonment there the girl boarded near and made his time pass more cheerfully by frequent visits.

While at Jessups the two talked over their future prospects, and when he was released he went north, the woman returning to her home in Washington's red light district.

Begs a Chance

It was when the preliminary plans for an inauguration occasion that the man returned to Washington and going to the chief of police, Maj. Moore, asked for a chance to make an honest living. The major failed to recognize him and was told his name and informed that he had served his time, but had determined to lead an honest life. He had taken leave of his old pals, he said, for all time. Now he desired the police to give him a chance to live honestly.

The major questioned him closely, and, resolving to give him the opportunity sought, called the chief of detectives. That officer at once recognized the visitor, and asked if he should lock him up.

"No, sir," replied Maj. Moore, "the man says he has reforme d and wants a chance to make an honest living which I have promised him. You can tell the officers to keep hands off. I'll not put an obstacle in his way."

Going to his girl, he informed her of what had passed and of his determination to reform.

"If you can reform, why can't I; we can reform together in married life," said the girl.

"No," he responded, "let me get something to live on first, then we will get married and start together."

He called on "Jim" Springman and made him glad by telling him of his determination, and then set out to look for work. First he secured a few days at laboring work at he inauguration stands, and afterward accepted a menial position in an office at $5 per week.

Marriage Takes Place

The man and his girl concluded that others had started with no better prospects than they had, so they arranged to get married. Mr. Springman promised to help them, as did a reporter, and having procured the license and engaged the minister -- the late Dr. Sunderland, who was given a brief statement of the history of the couple, they were married. It was a most impressive scene in Dr. Sunderland's parlor, though the company was small.

After the few simple words which made them one the minister briefly addressed them, saying he had been informed of their past life, but the Savior of men had said that "he that was without sin" might "cast the first stone." Dr. Sunderland urged that they try to forget that portion of their lives between innocent childhood and their marriage, and remarking that all religious denominations are pointing heavenward, he urged them to attend some church and to read their Bibles.

Leaving the parsonage a room was secured for a home and there they lived until officious people told the landlady who they were. Another place was secured in the house with a private family, and just at the right time, for the mother of he family became ill and the reformed girl-wife took charge and attended the sick woman and children, besides doing the housework for several months.

Confident the reformation was complete Mr. Springman asked the management of a local railway to give a "reformed thief a job," and he was given a position as conductor. He became in time one of the most popular of men and filled one of the offices of the railwaymen's association.
Shortly after he became a conductor the woman surprised her family, who had long thought her dead, by visiting them, and they became fully reconciled.

For several years the couple resided in the western part of the city, and by their industry and quiet demeanor won the respect of the neighbors, and the police officers did nothing to interrupt their endeavor to fill a respectable place in the community.

Given Better Position

In course of time Maj. Moore was asked to recommend a man for confidential work in a northern city, and, sending for the reformed man, he informed him of the opportunity, and he result was he was put to work, being so employed for a year or more --- in fact, until the business was completed. His employers were so well pleased with him that they at once recommended him to one of his largest firms in New York, and today he occupies a responsible position, commanding a high salary, under the name he bore before he became known as an accomplished crook.

His criminal life was begun with embezzlement from his employer. The money was gambled away, and after enlisting in the army and deserting in a few months, he joined two professional bank thieves, with whom he made a tour of Europe, which yielded $40,000 besides the amount they blew in. On heir return with others they formed an all-round gang, which operated through the south and west, and he and some others coming to grief and getting penitentiary sentences, as stated. In a quarrel over swag between himself and a pal he received a shot, the scar from which he yet carries. When he reached this city with the gang he was wanted by the authorities of over twenty states.

This is but one of the many cases where "Jim" Springman by his influence checked a career of crime, and there is little doubt that those who have reformed, as well as others who have been recipients of his encouraging words, deeply mourn his death.

<td>It is with deep regret that the citizens of Washington have learned of the death of Mr. John Martin Springmann, one of the oldest and most respected gentlemen in this section of country. The sad event took place this morning, at his farm in Fairfax County, Virginia, to which he had moved from this city about twelve years ago. Mr. Springmann was born in Germany, and came to this country when about twenty years old. He settled in this city, where his indomitable energy and strict integrity of character soon made him prominent and universally respected. He served with gallantry all through the Mexican war. Mr. Springmann for years was the only drover in this section of country, and supplied the District with all its live stock for market purposes before railroads were introduced. He had accumulated a competency, and, what was better, the esteem and good will of all who knew him. His death was due simply to old age, the functions of the body gradually ceasing, and his dissolution was painless. He leaves a family of seven boys and one girl, all of whom are grown and living, two of whom are Frederick and C.E. Springmann, the well-known express men. His wife died four years ago. Notice of funeral will be given hereafter.</td>

Employee Charged with Murder of Springmann
Former Expressman Dies From Injuries Received in Dispute on Farm.
Frederick Springmann, a former expressman in this city, died at his home on the Sheriff road, Prince Georges county, Md., about one mile from Chesapeake Junction, this morning as a result of an injury he received while engaged in an altercation on his farm.
Harry W. Philbrook, about twenty-one years old, who was employed on the farm, was arrested and held on a charge of murder. He is said to have admitted that he struck his employer with a club, claiming he delivered the blow in self-defense.

M. Hampton Magruder, state’s attorney, was notified of the homicide, and he arranged to present at an inquest to be held this afternoon at 5 o’clock.

The deceased was struck over his eye and marks on his throat indicated that he had been choked. Dr. R. A. Schoonover of Benning was summoned to attend Springmann, but life was extinct when he arrived.

Arrest of Philbrook.
As autopsy will be performed to determine just which injury caused death. Shortly after the deed was committed Francis S. Carmody went with Constable Sanderson and Magistrate Weast to the Springmann farm and placed Philbrook under arrest.

It is stated that the farmer and his employee engaged in a dispute yesterday, and the officers were told that Philbrook used threatening language toward his employer.

Mr. Springmann was about seventy years old. He was an uncle of Detective James Springmann of police headquarters.

Four Brothers Living Here.
Frederick Springmann was one of a family of seven children, and four of his surviving brothers are residents of Washington. They are John T. Springmann, senior member of the firm of J. T. Springmann & Sons, wagon builders, of 901 7th street southwest, and Charles, Samuel and George Springmann, all of whom are retired business men. Joseph Springmann, another brother, is a farmer of Lawtons Station, Va. Another brother, James Springmann, former deputy United States marshal, died about a year ago.

Grand Jury Indicts
Holds Philbrooks for Murder of Frederick Springmann.
Inquest at His Home
Physicians Tell of Marks on Throat of Dead Man.
Philbrook Admits Fighting
But Declares He Was Forced to Choke Employer, Who Had Attached Him.
The grand jury of Upper Marlboro late this afternoon indicted Harry W. Philbrooks for the murder of Frederick Springmann. Philbrooks will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

It is the contention of the state that Springmann was choked to death. There was no autopsy, but the physicians at the inquest yesterday afternoon told of marks on his throat and of his tongue having protruded. Philbrooks contends that he merely grabbed his employer by the throat to break the latter’s hold upon him.

“I think the struggle must have been too much for him,” Philbrooks told a Star reporter. “and that excitement affected his heart.”

Mrs. Mary A. Springmann and Miss Frances Springmann, wife and daughter of the deceased, were the most important witnesses of the inquest. Nobody witnessed the fatal meeting, and only the version of the prisoner was heard by county officers as to just what occurred in the barn, but the widow and daughter repeated to the jury a statement they said Philbrooks made when he came to the house.
“I have killed Mr. Springmann; I choked him to death,” was what they told the jury the defendant said in telling of the death of his employer.

_Said He Could Kill Him, Is Report._

Tuesday, during an argument between employer and employee, the jurors were told Philbrooks made the remark: “I could kill you.”

The dispute between them Tuesday started when the hired man was given direction about marking sacks of pears. Mr. Springmann wanting the hand-picked fruit separated from the pears that fell from the trees.

“How am I going to mark them?” Philbrooks says he asked his employer, the latter responding: “There’s one of your foolish questions.”

Philbrooks yesterday morning objected to throwing down hay for the stack, saying he had not done such work before, and later Springmann was heard to warn him about smoking in the barn. It was shortly after the warning was given that employer and employee engaged in the conflict in the barn which ended in the death of the former and the arrest of the latter.

Philbrooks says his employer picked up a long stick and raised it as if he were going to strike him. He paid but little attention to him, he stated, not thinking the stick would be used, but when he turned his head the stick struck him on his shoulder. Then it was, he stated, that they clinched and he found it necessary to strike Springmann with his first, accounting for the injury over his eye.

Shortly afterward, he said, he found it necessary to grab his employer by the throat to make him release the hold he had upon him. After letting go his throat, he said, words passed between them. Mr. Springmann asking him if he was going to be a good boy. He responded that he was not a bad boy, and a few seconds after that Mr. Springmann fell dead.

_Daughter Summons Physicians._

“I thought Mr. Springmann had only fainted,” said Philbrooks, “so I got some water and put on his face and cut his shirts open. I didn’t know whether to go for Mr. Magruder, a neighbor, or to tell Mrs. Springmann so she could get a doctor. I finally concluded to go to the house and tell the family.”

Miss Frances Springmann drove to Benning for Dr. R. A. Schoonover, but life was extinct when the physician reached the Springmann farm. Later Dr. John E. Hansbury was summoned from Forestville, and both physicians were at the inquest. The prisoner, who had been in the lock-up at the District line during the day, was taken to Upper Marlboro by Sheriff Samuel E. Sweeney. He was not at the inquest.

M. Hampton Magruder, state’s attorney, conducted the inquest before Magistrate John E. Weast and a jury. Benjamin W. Sanderson, the constable who made the arrest, was among the witnesses examined. George W. Springmann, brother of the deceased, told of the trouble Monday. Dr. Schoonover, who had been the Springmann family physician for several years, told the jury it would have been an easy matter to have choked Mr. Springmann to death.

Mr. Springmann, the physician stated, suffered from chronic bronchitis, and he was by no means a strong man. It would have required very little effort, he said, to have killed him. The inquest was conducted in the parlor of the Springmann home, the witnesses being seated directly at the foot of the corpse.

_Grand Jury Probe Today._

It was about dark when the jurors reached a conclusion. Deputy Sheriff Suit summoned the witnesses to appear at Upper Marlboro this morning to tell the grand jury of the affair. Mrs. Springmann was not asked to go to court. Miss Frances Springmann volunteering to go and tell of the trouble and of the statement made by the farm hand after the death of her father.

Philbrooks told the county officers that he asked his employer for a settlement Monday night. He was willing to leave at that time, he said, but he could not well go away without his money. He declared Mr. Springmann had not spoken a kind word to him during the time he had worked for him, which was since September 27.

The prisoner says that he is from Newport, Me., and that his brothers and sisters reside there and at Bangor. He says he was a sailor on merchant vessels running between Maine ports and New York, and that later he was on the Lzamp and Holt line, running between Liverpool and Buenos Aires. He afterward went to the vicinity of Richmond, Va., where he worked for the Manchester Milling Company, Richmond Cedar Works, the Forbes Packing Company and several dairymen.
Philbrooks said his employer had questioned his ability to milk cows, and he did not receive his suggestion kindly.

“I milked cows for some good dairymen about Richmond,” he stated, “and none of them every questioned my ability in that line.”

Was Civil War Veteran.

Mr. Springmann was a native of the city, and was sixty-eight years old. While a youth he resided in Pittsburgh a short time. He served in the 1st Virginia Calvary throughout the war. Later he was a prosperous mail contractor, and, it is stated, he used the first screened wagon that was in the mail service.

Mrs. Springmann and seven children survive him. The children are Edwin L. Springmann, in the Treasury Department; Harry M. Springmann, in the quartermaster’s department of the War Department; Ernest F. Springmann, employed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company at Big Spring, Tex.; Frederick A. Springmann, a circus man of New York; Mrs. Elizabeth O’Brien of Jersey City, N. J.; Mrs. May Gregory of Seat Pleasant, Md., and Miss Frances Springmann, who resided with her parents. Several years ago Mr. Springmann purchased the farm in Prince George’s county. The tracks of the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis line are laid through a portion of it.

The body will be brought to Lee’s undertaking establishment, 332 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, tomorrow afternoon. Funeral services will be held in the chapel there at 2:30 o’clock Saturday afternoon. The interment will be in Congressional cemetery.

Why should our tears in sorrow flow,
When God recalls his own.
And bids them leave a world of woe,
For an immortal crown.

Then, let our sorrows cease to flow,
God has recalled his own;
But let our hearts, in every woe,
Still say, "Thy will be done."

Sudden Death of Mr. John Stahl

Yesterday morning Mr. John Stahl died of apoplexy suddenly, at his son's residence, 1352 C street southwest. Mr. Stahl was born in Baltimore, Md., in the year 1811 and in early life was apprenticed to a Mr. Earie, a surgical instrument maker. Afterwards he went to Harper's Ferry, W. Va., where he was engaged in the U.S. Armory until the breaking out of the late war, when he came to Washington, and was immediately employed at the U.S. Arsenal in the position of master armorer, where he served until the closing of work at the Arsenal. He was then given the position of inspector at the Springfield Armory, which he held about one year, when, preferring Washington as a place of residence, he resigned and returned here. In very early life he connected himself with the M.E. Church, in which he held an official position for many years, and at the time of his death he was one of the trustees of Ryland Church. In the year 1833 he, with a few others, went to Baltimore and became members of the order of Odd Fellows, and obtaining a charter, they organized Virginia Lodge, No. 1, at Harper's Ferry, and he held his membership in that lodge to the time of his death--upwards of 46 years. Eastern Lodge, No. 7, of this city, will bury him with the rites of the order at 2 1/2 o'clock tomorrow. He leaves two sons and a daughter.

The first victim of the sun yesterday was John W. Stahl, a machinist in the ordnance bureau at the Navy Yard, who was overcome shortly after the lunch hour and died two hours later, at his home, No. 1352 C street southwest where he was removed when prostrated.

The Evening Star, August 12, 1896
The Late John W. Stahl

John W. Stahl, whose death from the effects of the heat, together with heart failure, was announced yesterday, had been a residence of South Washington since 1861. He came here from Harper's Ferry, where he was born, and where he had worked in the rifle factory for several years. In June, 1861, he was employed at the United States arsenal as a machinist under Mr. George Wright, while General Ramsey was in charge of the arsenal. He was also engineer at the Agricultural Department for some years. For the past ten years he had been employed as a machinist in the ordnance department of the Washington navy yard, where he commanded the respect of those in authority by reason of his skill and workmanship. Deceased was a member of Ryland M.E. Church, where for several years he had held official positions. He was also a member of Union Lodge, I.O.O.F., and of Magenenu Encampment. He leaves a widow, two sons and three daughters and a brother, T.B. Stahl of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Mary E. Wilson of Hartford, Conn. His funeral took place from Ryland Chapel this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Stahl, Mrs. Lucinda

On the evening of the 7th inst., at 306 13th street southwest, Lucinda Stahl, wife of John Stahl, formerly of Harper's Ferry, aged 56. In her last conversation there was no hesitancy in expressions of the glorious hope enjoyed in her heart. The simple truth, precious Savior, was that upon which she relied, and when on the very verge of the grave she seemed confident of a happy immortality. Oh! the high, the sublime privilege of the follower of Jesus! Who carefully portray it? What language can tell of that power, not attainable from human philosophy, which gives strength to a feeble female, surpassing that which marks the so-called hero on fields of blood? What is it that enables her to say. "All is well," as she bids farewell to husband and children, exhorting them to meet her where disease shall never afflict? Nothing but the faith of the Gospel. Our mother has left a husband and three children to mourn a loss which is her gain. They are all in the enjoyment of the same religion which caused the mother's triumph, and thus the whole family will be made a reunited and happy circle in the kingdom of glory?

T.B.S.

The funeral will take place at Ryland Chapel on Sunday at 3 p.m. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend (Charlestown Free Press and Baltimore Sun copy).

Thomas B. Stallings Dies

Brother of Former Alabama Representative Expires at Home Here

Thomas Broughton Stallings, former clerk to Senator Johnston of Alabama, and brother to former Representative J.T. Stallings of Alabama, died yesterday at his home, 640 Rock Creek Church road. Funeral arrangements are not to be made until the arrival here of former Representative Stallings, who is expected tomorrow morning.

In addition to his brother, his mother, and a sister, Mrs. A. Armstrong, survive Mr. Stallings. He was born in Greenville, Ala., in 1871, and was educated in private schools in that state.

He held a position in the navy yard here, following which he was made a clerk in the bureau of navigation. Later he became clerk to the Senate committee on military affairs.

<td>A Representative from North Carolina; born near Vienna, Maryland March 2, 1767; completed preparatory studies, moved to Hawfields, N. Interment in the Congressional Cemetery. Grandfather of William Robert Webb a Senator from Tennessee. The National Intelligencer, April 10, 1816 Died. At his lodgings in Georgetown, yesterday, the Hon. Richard Stanford, a Representative in Congress from the state of North Carolina, aged about 47 years. His complaint was the Erysipelas, originating it is believed, in the common cold. Mr. Stanford had been a Member of the House of Representatives for near twenty years, and was at the time of his death, the oldest Member of the House. In private life, he was esteemed and respected, as an upright man and useful member of society. His funeral will take place this day with the usual and appropriate ceremonies, at 12 o'clock. The National Intelligencer, Thursday, April 11, 1816 Mr. Stanford This lamented gentleman was elected to Congress in the year 1796, and has continued to represent the same district ever since. The tribute thus paid to his worth by his constituents, was most eminently merited. All the virtues that made his private character amiable and exemplary, shone throughout his public life. He was honest, sincere, consistent and independent alike in every situation; allowing no motive for any part of his conduct but the single one of serving his gracious Master and Redeemer, to whom he had long devoted himself, whose name he had loved to acknowledge, and whose doctrine he adorned. The loss of a Christian public man, thus blessed with right principles, is a national affliction. His bereaved family and friends have the best of all consolations in knowing that their loss is his gain; that he was among the faithful here, and is among the blessed forever.</td>

last. He was a native of Salisbury, Somerset county, Md., and came here when a boy of eleven years of age, directly after the war of 1812 and had resided here continuously since. After a few years spent as an errand boy, he learned the business of tailoring with the late Samuel Handy, and worked with his brother-in-law, P.W. Browning, for about a quarter of a century. In 1850 he went into business for himself on Pennsylvania avenue, near 4 1/2 street, and with short intervals continued the business till a few years ago. He reared a family of seven children—four sons and three daughters. He was a member of the old volunteer fire department for many years, holding his membership in the Columbia Engine company until the establishment of the paid department. Mr. Stanford was a charter member of Columbia Lodge, No. 10, I.O.O.F., being initiated into that lodge July 16, 1840. He was also a member of Mount Nebo Encampment, No. 6. These bodies will meet this evening to arrange for the funeral. The remains will be buried in the Congressional cemetery, Monday at 2 o’clock p.m.

Charles Frederick Stansbury, pp. 356-357
Grand Master, 1862 and 1871-74
Born in New York City, October 13, 1821, he spent his boyhood and early youth in Washington at the old family mansion on Seventh Street, N.W., opposite the General Post Office.

Bro. Stansbury was educated at Princeton College, N.J., and graduated therefrom when nineteen years old. He subsequently studied medicine, but not having a taste for the practice abandoned it for the law, which was more congenial, making a specialty of patent law.

He was a finished scholar, a zealous student, a forcible and vigorous writer, a pleasing speaker, and as a husband, parent, brother, and friend, few men were more loved and revered.

He was appointed by President Pierce as Commissioner of the great English Exposition and World’s Fair in 1854, and remained there several years, frequently visiting Continental Europe during the period.

In his earlier years he was associated with his brother, Col. Howard M. Stansbury, of the U.S. Topographical Engineers, in making surveys in the Western Territories.

In Masonry, Grand Master Stansbury was a star of the first magnitude not only locally but nationally, and his active participation in all its affairs of the highest and most lasting value.

On the occasion of the great calamity which befell Chicago in 1871, he proceeded personally with several brethren to carry to the distressed brethren of that city the offering of the District, and so tactfully was this mission performed that later he was again called to Chicago as one of a commission to examine the record of the Relief Committee.

Prominent among his good works were his untiring efforts on behalf of the long-neglected Washington Monument Society, and to his active and efficient labors as a member of the Monument Society is the country especially indebted for the renewed interest and work on that structure.

Bro. Stansbury was initiated in St. John’s Lodge, No. 11, February 7, 1857; passed March 13, 1857, and raised May 13, 1857; withdrew July 14, 1865, and affiliated January 1882; was Secretary in 1859, Senior Warden, 1860, and Master 1861 and 1863. He also held honorary membership in Hiram Lodge, No. 10, being elected thereto in 1873.

He received the Capitular degrees in Washington R.A. Chapter, No. 2, in the spring of 1857.

His death occurred January 31, 1882, and the following extract from the tribute of the special committee of the Grand Lodge reflects perhaps the estimation in which this good man was held by his contemporaries:

“... A great leader has passed away, his voice is hushed in death; ‘but tho dead, he yet speaketh.’ He has left us an example of intelligence and refinement worthy of any age. The home circle has lost a kind husband and father. The community an exemplary and honored citizen. The Masonic Fraternity a tried and trusted leader, an eminent expounder of its principles, a zealous worker, an enthusiastic supporter, a true member. His many valuable contributions to Masonic literature and jurisprudence, his exalted rank and cultivated intellect, his devotion to duty and noble efforts for the good of a beloved Order, make his loss most sensibly felt and lamented, not only as a loyal and popular brother Mason, but as one of its most cultivated, gifted, and refined exemplars, besides a most conscientious and unselfish friend and advisor."

The Evening Star, June 6, 1927
W.R. Stansbury, Court Clerk Dies
Widely Recognized as an Authority on Appellate Practice
William Riley Stansbury, 71 years old, chief clerk of the United States Supreme Court, died in Garfield
Memorial Hospital yesterday after an illness of about 10 weeks.

Born in this city, Mr. Stansbury always resided here except for several years spent in the Signal Corps of the United States Army. He attended Young's private school.

Beginning as the lowest assistant clerk in the United States Supreme Court 45 years ago, he worked his way up until promoted to chief clerk in October 1921. Mr. Stansbury was a widely recognized authority on appellate practice and was known to nearly every lawyer practicing before the Supreme Court, many of whom depended upon him for information in appellate matters.

The body was taken to the home of his nephew, Frederick S. Tyler, 1529 O street, pending funeral services tomorrow. The services will be held in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in the morning at 10:30 o'clock. Rev.
J.J. Dimon, rector, will officiate. Interment will be in Congressional Cemetery.

Chief Justice Taft and the associate justices of the Supreme Court will be honorary pallbearers. The active pallbearers will be Deputy Clerk C. Ellmore Cropley, Assistant Clerks Reginald C. Dilli, Horatio Stonier, Reynolds Robertson, Harold Willey, Rodolph Wagaman, the Clerk of the District Court of Appeals, Henry W. Hodges and William M. Dove.

Mr. Stansbury had resided with his sisters until the time of their death. The last sister, Miss Lucy C.
Stansbury, died shortly before the beginning of his recent illness.

He is survived by his nephew, Mr. Tyler; a brother, Phil R. Stansbury of Rockville, and a niece, Mrs. William H. Haydon of Maryland. He never married.

The Evening Star, June 7, 1927
Justices Attend Stansbury Rites
Taft Pays Tribute to Long Service and Efficiency as Court Clerk
Funeral services for William Riley Stansbury, 71 years old, chief clerk of the United States Supreme Court, who died in Garfield Memorial Hospital Sunday, were conducted in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church today at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. J.J. Dimon, rector, officiated. Interment was in Congressional Cemetery.

Chief Justice Taft and the associate justices of the Supreme Court were honorary pall bearers. Active pall bearers were the newly appointed chief clerk, C. Elmore Cropley; Assistant Clerks Reginald C. Dilli, Horatio Stonier, Reynolds Robertson, Harold Willey, Rodolph Waggerman, the Clerk of the District Court of Appeals, Henry W. Hodges, and William M. Dove.

At the final session of the court yesterday, prior to its three months' recess, Chief Justice Taft delivered a eulogy of Mr. Stansbury, in which he recounted the latter's long service at the court, praised his efficiency, and expressed deep regret over his passing. He said:

"The court announces with deep personal sorrow the death of William Riley Stansbury, its clerk, at 5 o'clock on yesterday (Sunday) morning, June 5." Then, recalling Mr. Stansbury's 45 years of service in the court and his succeeding James D. Maher, as chief clerk in October, 1921, the Chief Justice added:

"He was an accurate, faithful, earnest and efficient public servant. He was saturated with the traditions of the office and familiar to the last detail with all the duties to be discharged in that important place. He endeared himself in every relation to the members of the court. He was genial and accommodating, and interested for every member of the public, and especially every one of the bar who had to transact business with the court. He was a man of the utmost probity and of highest character in every respect."

Shocking Case of Hydrophobia
Results of the Bite of a Rabid Dog Three Months Ago
Mr. Richard Staples, who resides on 9th street, near G southeast, was taken with a strange malady a few days since, which has developed into a well-defined case of hydrophobia. Some days since he was taken with spasms, which continued to recur from time to time, each one growing more violent, and Drs. McKim and Walsh were called in to see him. After a careful examination they report that it is a bad case of hydrophobia. Yesterday the ravings of the afflicted man became so violent that nothing could be done with him, and his relatives sent to the marine barracks and got leg irons and hand cuffs, which were put on him to prevent danger to the household. During the fits he becomes perfectly frantic and snaps and bites at every one who approaches him, and when the fit wears off he is nearly exhausted. Yesterday during one of his lucid intervals he stated that he knew what the matter was, that it was hydrophobia caused by the bite of a dog some three months ago in one of the streets in Cincinnati, Ohio, where he was stopping at the time. The circumstance is quite clear to him, and he says he was fearful at the time and since of the results. The doctors think the case will result fatally, as every time water is brought in his presence he is at once seized with one of these dreadful spasms, and anything suggestive of water, such as the appearance of a looking glass, causes him the most intense distress, nausea and frothing at the mouth following. |

The National Intelligencer, April 8, 1846
Death -- In this city, on the 6th instant, of erysipelas, in the 45th year of his age, Ezekiel Starr, of the Cherokee Nation.

   The deceased was a man of extraordinary firmness, moral and physical courage, resignation, and patient endurance, displayed through the many trials which, in the course of an eventful life, he had to encounter. He always enjoyed a deep place in the affections of his family and numerous relatives, and he merited and shared the full confidence of his countrymen. In 1834, the deceased, being among those who clearly foresaw that the Eastern Cherokees could not be relieved from the thraldom which surrounded them in the States, removed with his family, and joined the Western Cherokees in their new homes. Amidst all the trying ordeals through which the unhappy Cherokees have had to pass, the cool judgment of Ezekiel Starr was ever found useful and valuable. In the winter of 1843-44 he came to Washington as one of the delegates to plead the cause of the Treaty party before the Government of the United States. In the winter of 1844-45 he again came as a representative of this much-injured party, under the encouragement of the Government. He returned to his home last summer, and accompanied an exploring party of his countrymen to Northwest Texas. Returning from a long and fatiguing journey in January last, he found his large family circle driven from their homes in the Nation to the State of Arkansas, and his valuable brother, James Starr, a signer of the treaty of 1835, and an infant son, ruthlessly murdered, and their murderers stalking abroad unpunished. Yet, amidst all these provocations, Ezekiel Starr was never to make a spiteful or revengeful remark. By the unanimous appointment of his partisans, and at the invitation of the President, Mr. Starr, although afflicted, repaired to Washington as one of the Delegation to adjust with the United States the many difficulties of his comrades. Arriving here four weeks since, he was immediately attacked with the worst form of erysipelas, which the most skilful medical aid could not resist. Nothing but the most powerful constitution could have endured so long. Mr. Starr bore his affliction with Christian fortitude, and expired surrounded by condoling friends, who feel that their loss is irreparable.

   The friends of Ezekiel Starr, deceased, are invited to attend his funeral, without further notice, from Mrs. Hamilton's, at 4 o'clock this day.

Accidental Drowning
George Starr Loses His Life in the River
George Starr, a newsboy, eighteen years old, was drowned in the river near the Knickerbocker Ice Company's wharf, at the foot of 3d street southeast, yesterday afternoon. His body was recovered by Policeman Frank Hughes, and efforts were made to resuscitate him, but without success. Starr lived at No. 15 K street southeast, and the money he earned selling papers went to the family treasury.

   After disposing of papers yesterday he went to the river to enjoy a cool bath. With a number of others he went into the water where the high fence of the ice company shielded the bathers from view of pedestrians. When Starr was seen struggling in the water, and it was evident he was drowning, an outcry was made, and some of his companions tried to save him.

   Policeman Hughes was some distance from the river when he heard of the drowning. He hurried to Providence Hospital, but, as already stated, the doctors were unable to effect resuscitation. The body was then removed to his late home, and Coroner Carr gave a certificate of accidental drowning.

   The young man was popular, industrious and of good reputation.

Last Updated: 2/13/2015
Funeral services over the remains of William S. St. Clair, the actor, who died in New York Monday, were held in the chapel of Congressional cemetery at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. C.L. Pate, pastor of the Dumbarton Avenue M.E. Church, conducted the services.

The deceased was in his fifty-first year. He was born here and was a son of the late James W. and Mary E. St. Clair. The old St. Clair home was on 14th street, opposite the Willard Hotel.

When young Mr. St. Clair went to France, where he received his early stage training. He first appeared with Lotta in London and later he played in "Master and Man," "A Fair Rebel," "Faust" and "The Christian," and starred with Lillian Lewis in "As In a Looking Glass."

He made his last appearance in Washington several years ago, playing the role of the count in "The Education of Mr. Pipp." During the past two years he has been in vaudeville with Wright Huntington.

Mr. St. Clair was a member of the Actors' Society, the Green Room Club and other organizations in New York.

Rev. Mr. Steele Dead
Death of the Well-Known Rector of St. Mark's at His Home on Capitol Hill
The Protestant Episcopal Church of this city has lost one of its best known and most popular rectors in the death this morning of Rev. A. Floridus Steele, rector of St. Mark's Church, corner 3d and A streets southeast.

Mr. Steele had been connected with St. Mark's Church for about 23 years past and had always taken an active part in all religious movements. The news of his death will come as a great shock to the members of his congregation and to the clergy of the city generally. He had been sick for about 10 days of typhoid-malaria and for several days it was realized that his condition was critical. It was hoped, however, that he might pull through, but this morning at 10:15 o'clock the end came. He leaves a widow and two sons.

Rev. Mr. Steele was the son of the late Rev. Ashbel Steele, who was for many years prominently identified with District affairs. He was born in Pensacola, Fla., 57 years ago, but received his education at Columbian University and at the Theological Seminary at Alexandria. He was a member of the Alumni Association of the Columbian University and for 16 years had been the chaplain of St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Mr. Steele was a prominent 32d degree Mason, a member of Acacia Lodge and was also a Knight Templar of No. 2 Commandery. Representatives from these bodies will participate in the funeral exercises the date and arrangements for which have not yet been decided upon. Mr. Steele died at his late residence, 600 A street northeast.

A Clergyman's Funeral
Impressive Services Over the Remains of the Rev. Floridus Steele
The funeral services over the remains of Rev. A. Floridus Steele took place this morning from the church where he was pastor for many years. Funeral services are always impressive, but the one this morning was doubly so. The church was crowded and there was not a dry eye. In the middle aisle stood an immense cross of white rosebuds and water lilies, while the altar was similarly decorated.
There were ceremonies at the house and the funeral cortege did not reach the church until after 11 o'clock. Bishop Paret conducted the services, both at the house and the church. He was attended by Rev. Dr. Addison of Trinity Church and Archdeacon Williams. The body was met at the church by Columbia Commandery, No. 2.

When the hearse drove up the psaln bearers, consisting of Revs. Neilson Falls of St. Alban's Church; I.L. Townsend, Church of the Incarnation; J.M. McKee, St. John's; Alfred Harding, St. Paul's; Assistant Rectors Gibson of St. Paul's, Cole of Epiphany and Johns of Rockville, took charge of the coffin, which was a handsome affair. It was made of antique oak, highly polished with silver ornaments. A massive silver plate bearing the name, date of birth and death of the deceased was barely visible for the mass of flowers which covered the coffin. The chorister boys followed representatives of Mt. Vernon Chapter, No. 3, Acacia Lodge, No. 1, and the Scottish Rite of which the deceased was a member. The ceremonies in the church were according to the ritual of the Protestant Episcopal Church. After they were over the remains were turned over to the Masons, who conducted services at the grave.

The Late Rev. A. Floridus Steele
The late Rev. A. Floridus Steele, rector of St. Mark's P.E. parish, whose funeral took place Thursday, was for a time assistant to the rector of St. John's Church in Waterbury, Conn. Mr. Steele's father, the Rev. Ashbel Steele, was a native of Waterbury, and is buried at Riverside. The mother was a descendant of Elder Brewster of the Mayflower. She also is buried at Riverside. Rev. A. Floridus Steele was born in Florida, from which fact he received his name. The Waterbury American in speaking of his death says: "He was a man of great gentleness and purity of character, of attractive manner, and diffused about him an atmosphere of sincerity and goodness, which was a sermon in itself."

Locals
A special service was held at St. Mark's P.E. church, Capitol Hill, yesterday to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the ordination of the rector, Rev. A. Floridus Steel, to the priesthood.

The Evening Star, August 29, 1881
(On the imminent death of Pres. Garfield)
Rev. A. Floradus Steele, of St. Mark's P.E. church, in his sermon yesterday morning said: "All sympathize with that loving and brave wife who sits by the bedside of the sick President. All share in a less or greater measure her emotions; she is not alone. Methinks as I call before me the image of that woman that she represents the whole nation, and this is my justification for making mention of her in this public manner. She, with her intense personal feeling, embodies the best and truest and most tender sentiments of the whole people. I would that we were all as noble and as devout as she. I would that we all had such faith. She believes, even in this extremity, that God will hear her prayer and answer it according to her hope. And yet I cannot doubt there is mingled with her prayers the refrain, or at least the spirit that says, "Not my will, but Thine be done."

Boy Loses His Life
Emory Steele Falls Overboard From Small Boat and Drowns
Emory Steele, eight years old, was drowned in the Eastern branch near the foot of 13th street southeast about 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in sight of a number of people who were unable to assist him. Two of his companions, Henry Glascoe, aged ten years, and John Lynch, eleven years old, were rescued by a colored man named Charles W. Smith. The little boys left their homes on K street southeast and 13th street shortly before 3 o'clock, and went to the river front to play. Shortly after reaching the water's edge they entered a small craft and started to cross the stream to Anacostia. When the boat reached the channel two of the boys were standing, doing their best to get the craft to the shoal water on the Anacostia side. It was leaking, and the boys were making an effort to keep their feet dry, when the small craft suddenly overturned and the three boys were thrown overboard into the cold water.

Screams uttered by the boys were heard by those on the shore, and a colored man named Smith, whose wife assisted him, launched a rowboat and paddled out to the boys. Lynch was able to swim, and he assisted Glascoe in keeping from under the surface of the water. Steele was unable to swim, and he failed to get hold of the boat and went down before Smith could reach the scene of the accident.

Glascoe and Lynch were pulled into the boat. The former grabbed his rescuer by the throat and only released his hold when he fell to the bottom of the boat numb and almost unconscious. Smith's wife ran across the bridge in search of physicians to be prepared in case their services should be necessary. Drs. Pyles and Watson responded, and they reached the shore about the time the colored man arrived with the boys in the boat.

The medical men found the boys in a serious condition, but they were soon partially restored and were sent to their homes, Lynch to 1358 and Glasco to 1359 K street. An effort was made by Smith to find the body of Steele, but without success.

In a short time the banks of the river were lined with men, women and children, who were watching the searchers for the body of Steele. A number of people participated in the search, among them Elmer E. Howard, an uncle of the victim, who lives at 1334 11th street southeast. Shortly after dark his efforts were rewarded, and the body of the lad was taken ashore. The dead wagon was sent for, and when the superintendent of the morgue arrived he heard the statements of witnesses and removed the body to the home of the boy's parents. Coroner Nevitt investigated the case this morning and gave a certificate of accidental death.

Funeral of Mrs. Steele
Widow of the Former Rector of St. Mark's Church
The funeral of the late Mrs. Susan Alexander Steele, widow of the late Rev. A. Floridus Steele, who was rector of St. Mark's parish at the time of his death, took place this morning at 11 o'clock from the Pro-Cathedral, formerly St. Mark's, 3rd and A streets southeast. There was a large attendance of those who had known and loved Mrs. Steele in life.

She was a native of Massachusetts, but met her husband at Lancaster, Pa., where he was assistant minister. Mr. Steele was thence transferred to Waterbury, Conn. where he and his wife endeared themselves to the people of the community, he by his earnest, simple, self-sacrificing life, she by her wifely support of him and her brilliant accomplishments as a musician and an artist, and her interest in school and church work.

Mr. Steele was called from there to Albany and from there to Washington, where he became rector of St. Mark's, then a small, struggling parish, whose affairs he administered with such ability that they were soon able to build a new church, and when Washington was made a diocese, Bishop Satterlee selected St. Mark's as his church. In all his church work Mrs. Steele was a most efficient helper.

Since his death, about seven years since, she has supported herself largely by her artistic work, and had won for herself a high reputation as a painter of miniatures on ivory of a very artistic type. She leaves two sons, both born in Waterbury, and both living in Washington.

Must Face a Jury
William Pruitt Held by Coroner's Jury
Held Responsible for Death of William Steele--
Result of Investigation

Coroner Nevitt conducted an investigation this morning at 11 o'clock into the circumstances attending the shooting of William Steele, who died yesterday afternoon of wounds inflicted by William Pruitt at Twining City last Sunday afternoon.

The prisoner arrived at the morgue handcuffed to Officer McCormick. To a reporter of The Star Pruitt said he had no fear of the outcome of the trial. It was a case of self-defense. Steele, he said, came into his house and attacked him. He exhibited a cut over the left eye, and said he was badly hurt about the head.

Officer Raeedy testified to finding Steele in a pool of blood at the old Naylor mansion. He asked him who had shot him and he said Pruitt. Asked why he did it Steele replied, "He done it for nothing." That was all he said except to urge me to hurry him to the hospital.

Officer McCormick, who with Officer Dyer caught the fugitive, was the next witness. He was off duty Sunday, and the lieutenant sent for him. He immediately started a search, and with Officers Dyer and Weber found Pruitt hiding in some bushes feigning sleep. He was promptly placed under arrest.

At the station, defendant referred to a statement made by him, in which he said:

"About 11 or 12 o'clock Sunday morning I was going over to my son's house to get a music box and on my way over I met my son Will, accompanied by William Steele, Charles Cheseldine and Robert Brown. They had a quart of whisky and asked me to have a drink. Then I told them I had a keg of beer at my house and to come and have some; so we all went to my house. We had been drinking for a while when Cheseldine said he was hungry, so I gave him something to eat. While he was eating Steele came in the door and started to fight me. I don't know whether he hit me with something or not. Then I ran up stairs into my room and got my gun and came down and shot him. He then ran out of the house and I put the gun away and went out into the woods where they found me."

He Was Very Drunk
Charles Cheseldine stated he went to the home of Pruitt very drunk and knew nothing of the affair. "When I get drunk," said the witness, "I go right to sleep and hear nothing." The sound of the gun roused him.

Mrs. Pruitt, wife of the defendant, gave some of the details of the affair. She testified to the visit of the men, one of whom was drunk and asleep in the wagon. She saw it was a hard crowd. Her son volunteered to get them away. They took Cheseldine out of the wagon and laid him under the tree. Steele objected to the playing of the music box, and said he was going to stop it. He called to her husband and said he was going to beat him. Her husband, hearing her remonstrate with Steele, came down stairs and told him he had better go away from there or he would make him. Steele then ran away. She thought the trouble was all over. He came back in a little while and burst open the door and attacked her husband, hitting him on the side of the head. He had something in his hand, Cheseldine joined the fracas, and during the scrimmage she saw the gun, but did not know where it came from or who fired it. She admitted having had a glass of beer herself, but was not drunk. The only trouble she ever heard of her husband and Steele ever having took place some months previous, when her husband ordered Steele off some property he was hunting over.

Had Been Drinking
In answer to a question from Assistant District Attorney Bingham, the witness stated Steele had been drinking, but was sober enough to know what he was doing. She rehearsed the scene in the house, how Steele burst open the door and made for her husband, and was beating him when she intervened and tried to separate them.

Robert Brown of 1401 K street northeast testified he was with Steele on the day of the shooting. They were on the way to Washington when Pruitt stopped them. They picked up Cheseldine

Removal to Hospital
Sergeant Anderson of Anacostia testified to the finding of Steele and his removal to the hospital. He also told of the finding of Pruitt. He said Mrs. Pruitt was in an intoxicated condition and could not give intelligent answers to any of his questions. Pruitt when interrogated said Steele came into his house and made a disturbance and he shot him. He would shoot any man under similar circumstances, he said. He would come out of heaven to do it and would take his chances with any twelve men on earth, he said.

Dr. David C. Coleman of the Washington Asylum Hospital testified to the treatment of Steele at the hospital last Sunday. He sent for the senior surgeon, who responded, and after operating upon the wrist which he removed the surgeon made an incision through the abdomen and carefully searched for a perforation of the stomach or intestines. He found none and the wound was closed.

Deputy Coroner Glazebrook testified to performing the autopsy. Upon opening the abdomen he found two felt wads, a piece of cloth, a number of shot and a mass of debris near the entrance of the wound near the liver. There were between three and half and four quarts of coagulated blood. He saw evidence of an operation having been performed. The man died from gunshot wound of the abdomen and hemorrhage.

Coroner Nevitt invited the accused to make a statement, but his counsel, Joseph A. Burkart, declined. The jury then retired and after a short discussion held the defendant for the action of the grand jury.

Steiger, Mrs. Ann Maria

Birth/Death: d. 4 Jun 1848
Age: 44 yrs.
Range/Site: Causten Vault

In this city, on Sunday morning, the 4th instant, at 2 o'clock, Ann Maria S., consort of William Tell Steiger, Esq. of the General Land Office, and daughter of the late Andrew Shriver, Esq. of Carroll county, Maryland, at the age of about 44 years. Her remains were yesterday interred in the Congressional burial grounds, attended by a large number of mourning relatives and friends.

Her malady was of such a nature as to render medical treatment of no avail. Of the existence of her disease, no decided symptoms had manifested themselves until several months previous to her death. Although confined during that period, she experienced but little acute pain, and died calmly, in the full possession of her mental faculties.

There were many traits in the character of the deceased, and many points in her history which will be embalmed in the recollection of her numerous relatives and friends, and which it will always be a melancholy pleasure to them to recur to. Few persons ever possessed in a more eminent degree all those qualities which impart a charm and an attraction to the domestic circle, or who in social intercourse generally, contributed more to the pleasure and enjoyment of their associates and acquaintances. In all the relations of life her deportment was most exemplary, and her kindness of heart and many other virtues made her an object of the strongest affection and regard with all those who knew her. The duties also of the head of a family she performed in the most affectionate and tender manner, and her departure has left a void in the affections of those most nearly allied to her which time can never fill up.

One of the brightest spots in her career, however, is that connected with her religious opinions and feelings, and her state of mind previous to and at the moment of her decease which were such as leave no doubt that she found in the Christian faith all the consolation she anticipated.

Former hotelier Pontius Stelle, who had fallen on hard times, agonized to an acquaintance, "I know not where to take my little helpless family."

p. 53: Pontius Delare Stelle, born in Trenton, February 15, 1763, the fourth generation of Stelles in this country.

p. 54: All reminiscences of Pontius D. Stelle's childhood seem to be lost, although it was during the exciting and critical time of the Revolutionary War, but we know that he resided in Trenton in the house (still standing) at the corner of Perry and Warren streets, which in December, 1776, was taken as headquarter guard house of the Anglo-Hessian troops in Trentol under Col. Johann Gottlieb Rall. It was in front of this house that the six guns of the Hessian artillery were parked on the day of the famous battle of Trenton, December 25, 1776.

The next definite record we have of Pontius D. Stelle is in 1788, when he became a member of Trenton Lodge No. 5 of the Masonic order.

About this time and onward he is said in Raum's "History of Trenton" to have been one of the most prominent residents and was the first treasurer of the city of Trenton, being one of the officers named under the charter granted by the Legislature to the State of New Jersey, November 21, 1792. He was an active official and had large business interests in and around Trenton, of the nature of which I am entirely ignorant.

In 1793, while the city treasurer and a warm personal friend of Richard Howell, the first governor of New Jersey, Pontius D. Stelle met and afterwards married Mr. Beulah Burr Wharton, a young widow, who for some years past had assumed the social responsibilities of the governor's mansion, as her sister, Mrs. Howell, was somewhat of an invalid.

As were his father, grandfather and great-grandfather before him, so Pontius D. Stelle was also an Episcopalian (as the family has continued ever since), and the records of the meetings of the vestry of St. Michael's Church in Trenton show his election as vestryman for the years 1794 to 1799 inclusive, after which time he left for Washington, attracted no doubt by the speculative features outlined in the glowing prospectus of the new capital city which was so extensively circulated at the time in all large cities in this country and abroad too, I believe.

As I said before, Pontius D. Stelle was in no sense an official character.

<td>John Gould Stephenson served as Librarian of Congress from May 21, 1861, until his resignation, effective December 31, 1864. A political appointee of President Abraham Lincoln, Stephenson was a physician and Republican partisan from Terre Haute, Indiana, who, as Librarian of Congress, apparently spent as much time serving the Union Army as he did supervising the Library. Shortly after assuming office, Stephenson hired Ainsworth Rand Spofford (q.f), a Cincinnati bookseller and journalist, as assistant librarian; for all practical purposes the eager assistant librarian--with Stephenson's consent and knowledge--was in charge of the Library during the rest of Stephenson's term of office. On December 31, 1864, Spofford was appointed Librarian and held the post for the next 32 years. The consensus among historians of the Library of Congress seems to be that John G. Stephenson &quot;did the Library of Congress neither harm nor good during his administration.&quot;</td>

<td>John Gould Stephenson was born in Lancaster, New Hampshire, on March 1, 1828, the sixth child of Reuben and Mary King Stephenson. Reuben Stephenson was a prominent Lancaster citizen and one of the incorporators of the Lancaster Academy, where John attended school. From the Academy, Stephenson went to the New Hampshire Medical Institution and then to Castleton Medical College, where he received a doctorate in medicine on November 23, 1849. Haute and, a few years later, he became active in the newly formed Republican Party. He was one of Lincoln's earliest supporters for the presidential nomination, and after Lincoln's nomination and election. Stephenson launched a determined campaign to become Librarian of Congress. His reasons for pursing this particular post, rather than an appointment to another agency, remain obscure.

The Lincoln papers at the Library of Congress contain numerous letters from Indiana citizens and officials urging Stephenson's appointment as Librarian, including endorsements from Senator Henry S. Lane and the soon-to-be secretary of the interior, Caleb B. Smith. On May 7, 1861, the candidate himself was in Washington and wrote to Lincoln, informing the President that he had been "an earnest and continuous laborer in the Cause that triumphed in your election." After listing his political endorsements, Stephenson noted that his "pecuniary condition" would be "greatly relieved by you granting the application." Lincoln complied and, on May 24, 1861, appointed John G. Stephenson to be the fifth Librarian of Congress. His predecessor, John Silva Meehan (q.v.), who had served as Librarian since 1829, accepted the change gracefully and even nonchalantly, simply informing the chairman of the congressional Joint Library Committee (in a letter dated May 28, 1861) that "Mr. John G. Stephenson of Indiana will begin duties on first day of June next."

Less than four months later, Stephenson acquired the services of Spofford, an experienced bookman, as assistant librarian. Describing Stephenson to a friend in May 1862, Spofford characterized the Librarian as "a thorough good fellow, liberal, high-minded, and active, but with no special knowledge of books." By September of 1862, however, relations between Stephenson and Spofford were less congenial. Upset by the Librarian's dismissal of another assistant, Spofford threatened to quit unless he received a promise of full support from Stephenson in the future. As Spofford described the situation to his friend Henry B. Blackwell: "I have made it a condition of retaining my post that I am to be subjected to no hasty deprivation of support—that no appointments or removals shall be made without my approval. While I conceive that Stephenson has in this instance disappointed the confidence I had always reposed, still his uniformly generous treatment of me and his readiness to repair the past by doing whatever I should advise, leave me willing to continue association with him."

The headstrong assistant librarian clearly was responsible for the major accomplishments of the Library of Congress during Stephenson's term of office: the compilation of two length manuscript reports critical of the Library's condition and urging Congress to authorize improvements; successful lobbying for a $160,000 appropriation to expand the Library's rooms; the inauguration of more comprehensive and efficient book-buying procedures; and, in September 1864, publication of the 1,200-page Alphabetic Catalogue of the Library of Congress: Authors, the first complete author catalog in the Library's history. Nevertheless, Stephenson undoubtedly lent his support and approval to Spofford's efforts.

Probably less is known about John G. Stephenson than about any other Librarian of Congress. In the summer of 1861, he served as a volunteer surgeon for members of the 19th Indiana Regiment, who were in a temporary hospital set up in the Patent Office building. For the rest of his career, however, the jobs he held were more political than medical in their nature. According to his own account, in 1863 he served with the Army of the Potomac, not as a surgeon but as "a volunteer aide de camp with my militia rank of Colonel, participating in the battles of Fitzhugh Crossing, Chancellorsville, and Gettysburg." He received a commendation for his performance at Gettysburg. William Dawson Johnston, in his History of the Library of Congress 1800-1864 (Government Printing Office, 1904) states that Stephenson was "interested in speculations created by the war," citing as evidence a June 8, 1872, resolution paying the Library's London book agent $1,480, "of which sum he was unjustly defrauded by the conduct of the Librarian in 1863."

Despite the harsh wording of the resolution, it is not clear whether war speculations or technical problems involving methods of payment prompted the congressional action.

Following his resignation as Librarian of Congress (in 1864), Stephenson kept his legal residence in Washington and apparently held several political jobs, even though is record of employment is unclear. On November 16, 1881, nearly seventeen years after he left the Library, he was appointed as a medical reviewer at the Pension Office. John G. Stephenson died on November 11, 1883, and is buried in an unmarked grave in the Congressional Cemetery in Washington D.C.
letterbooks while Librarian of Congress, as well as the two unpublished annual reports prepared during his administration, are in the Library of Congress Archives. Spofford's correspondence concerning Stephenson is in the National Woman Suffrage Association Archives, Library of Congress. There is a personnel file for Stephenson in Record Group 84, Office of the Secretary of the Interior, National Archives and Records

Before going he asked his wife's advice, and as he had been sick she thought the trip would do him good, and advised him to go. He kissed his wife and little ones goodbye, and after promising to bring home some crabs to one of the little children he started. The party reached Quantico in safety and secured a boat in which they spent the day fishing, intending to return home at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. When the party was ready to start Stepper did not have the crabs for his child. The boat was not the best in the world, and only two of them, Stepper and one of the others, ventured in it. There was a high wind at the time and every appearance of a storm. This made the boatmen more anxious to reach the shore in a hurry, and in making the effort the boat upset and the occupants went in the water. The other man was rescued by some one on the river and Stepper started to swim ashore. He had made a good effort, but the wind was so strong that he was blown into the channel and nothing more was seen of him.</td>

<td>Yesterday evening, between six and seven o'clock, as the German Benevolent Association were returning from attendance at the funeral of a deceased member, accompanied by a band of music, an accident happened on the Avenue. A horse ridden by a negro, took fright at the sound, and becoming unmanageable, reared up and struck the little daughter of Mr. Flynn, a child about 7 years old, who was standing on the side walk, between 11th and 12th streets, on the back of the head, by which the child was somewhat injured, but not dangerously. She was taken home to her father's residence on D street, and was, we were informed this morning, not in any serious danger. The blame, if any, is attributable to the negro, who instead of keeping the horse away from the music as it passed, persevered in urging the animal towards it, which at last resisted, causing this unfortunate accident. The negro was arrested by police officer Boss, and taken before Captain Birch. He was committed to jail to stand his trial.</td>

Death of an Old and Respected Citizen

Mr. Samuel Stettinius, one of the oldest citizens of the District of Columbia, died yesterday at his residence on Louisiana avenue, in the 74th year of his age. Mr. Stettinius was born and raised in this city, his father having been one of the early settlers of the city, who, when Washington was a mere village, conducted a large grocery store on the site of the present St. Mare hotel, and the deceased was brought up at this business. For many years he was one of our magistrates, and was then noted for his efficiency and intelligence. Subsequently, for a long term of years, he was the agent of the B. & O.R.R. here, and afterwards a clerk in the office of the Auditor for the Post Office department, and he held that position at the time of his death. Many years ago he was a prominent Odd Fellow, holding his membership in Columbia Lodge and a past grand master. From early life he has been attached to Wesley M.E. chapel as a member, and may be said to be one of the originators of the Sunday school system of the city, and he held the office of steward of the church at the time of his death. Mr. S. was one of the soldiers of the War of 1812, and a member of the Oldest Inhabitants' Association. His funeral will take place tomorrow.

The Funeral of Samuel Stettinius took place yesterday afternoon at his late residence on Louisiana avenue, near the City Hall, and was attended by a large concourse of citizens, including many of our oldest residents, among them the Oldest Inhabitants' Association, the Survivors of the War of 1812, and members of Wesley chapel and the Sunday school. The remains were in a walnut coffin, covered with black cloth with silver moldings and handles, and lined with white satin. The services were conducted by Rev. Joseph R. Wheeler, of Wesley chapel, who in his remarks spoke of the long career of the deceased as a useful Christian and citizen. At the conclusion of the services the pall bearers--S. Masi, W.N. Rowe, James Lawrenson, Mathew Cook, W.H. Thumbert, and W.A. Farlee--removed the remains to the hearse, and under the supervision of Lee's Sons, undertakers, they were placed in the family vault at the Congressional Cemetery.

The Evening Star, October 21, 1956
W.M. Steuart, 95, Dies; Retired Census Director
William Mott Steuart, 95, former Director of the Census who during his many years with the bureau helped it grow from a national nose-count to a giant profile of the citizens of the United States died Friday at his home at 3725 Morrison street N.W.

Commerce Department officials declared he had made his bureau a model organization when he retired on March 31, 1933, after 12 years service as director.

Mr. Steuart had been associated with the bureau from 1880, when he got his first job there as a messenger to help finance his law degree. According to a popular story, his first duty was to stand over an official and blot his signature as he signed his daily letters.

Mr. Steuart became head of the census of manufactures in 1890, a post he held for about ten years, after an interval of law practice. From 1902 to 1917 he served as chief statistician for manufactures. He was appointed assistant director in 1919 and director in 1921.

Mr. Steuart was away from the bureau for a two-year period from 1917 to 1919 while serving as secretary and statistician of the United States Tariff Commission.

Whisked Through Blockade
Born in Corpus Christi, Tex., in 1861, he was brought to Washington by his mother in a sailing vessel through a war blockade. He graduated from Columbian College, now George Washington University, with an L.L.B. degree in 1884, and an L.L.M. in 1885. He practiced law in Washington, Maryland and Michigan.

It was estimated that it would now take 20 or 30 years to complete the census tabulation if it were done by the staff and machinery used when Mr. Steuart went to work at the bureau in 1880.

A man who consistently turned interviewers questions about himself into questions about his job, he used new machines and developed new methods for handling the ever-growing census job. Special electrically driven tabulating machines were invented and used by the bureau.

In 1930, he announced that the preliminary United States population total had been completed in half the time it had taken ten years before. There were 150,000 workers under his supervision at that time.

Retired Without Fanfare
The director retired as quietly as he had worked through the years, shaking hands one afternoon with several hundred clerks who filed through his office to say goodbye.

An ardent camper at one time he also was interested in gardening, and in the winter ran a bird-feeding station on both sides of his house.

“I don’t hunt any more,” he once said. “As a man grows older he loses his fondness for killing.”

Mr. Steuart represented the United States at the International Conference of Statisticians in Athens, Greece, in 1936, and was decorated by the government of Egypt.

In 1939, he was appointed a jury commissioner for a three-year term by Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat of District Court.

Mr. Steuart had been a member of the Cosmos Club since 1903, and was a vestryman of All Saints Episcopal Church of Chevy Chase. He belonged to the American Statistical Association, the International Institute of Statistics, and the American Economics Association.

A Mason, he was a member of Temple Noyes Lodge No. 32, and Mount Vernon Chapter No. 3 of the Royal Arch Masons. He was listed in Who’s Who in America.

His wife, the former Florence Heiberger, died in 1940. He is survived by two half sisters, Miss Edith Meloy and Miss Isabelle Meloy of Hendersonville, N.C., and three half brothers, Guy S. Meloy of Lanham, Md.; Frank E. Meloy, 3622 Raymond street, Chevy Chase, Md., and Hugh B. Meloy, 3601 Rittenhouse street N.W. Five nieces, including Miss Emily Steuart of 3058 R street N.W., also survive.

Friends may call at the residence today. Services will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at All Saints Church. Burial will be in Congressional Cemetery.

The family requests that expressions of sympathy be sent to the Heart Fund.

Our old merchants are going fast, as within the past week, two well-known here for many years have passed away, Messrs. C.W. Boteler and Mr. M.H. Stevens. Mr. S. died at his residence on Missouri avenue yesterday of rheumatic gout. He was 54 years of age and came to this city from Connecticut nearly 30 years ago. For years he was engaged in business as a hatter under the Metropolitan Hotel, from which he retired about a year since on account of ill health. By his industry and attention to business he had accumulated a competency for his family. He was domestic in his habits, kind and indulgent as a father and husband. His bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community.

_The Evening Star, February 28, 1870_

_Funerals_

The funeral of the late M.H. Stevens took place from his residence on Missouri avenue yesterday afternoon and was very largely attended. Rev. Dr. Keeling, late rector of Trinity Church officiated and after the services the remains were taken to the Congressional Cemetery where the services of the Odd Fellows were performed by Rev. P. Hall Sweet, Bacon Lodge No. 15 and the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows were out in carriages and a very large number of merchants followed the remains to the cemetery.

_Obituary_

After a period of lingering sickness and much physical suffering, Matthew H. Stevens, the subject of this brief notice, passed calmly away to that "bourne from whence no traveler returns." He died on the afternoon of the 25th ultimo. At the time of his decease he was 54 years of age, having come to this city 28 years ago, from Kensington, Connecticut. For a number of years he was engaged in a very successful mercantile business under the Metropolitan Hotel.

Of the departed it can be safely said that but few men who have been so thoroughly immersed in the business pursuits of life have passed through with more circumspection and with fewer enemies. He was an honest man -- the noblest work of God. His character for morality and integrity was above reproach.

In his last days, although laboring under much bodily infirmity and suffering, he preserved that warmth of friendship and genial cheerfulness of disposition which so peculiarly characterized his whole life. He always met you with a smile and passed a pleasant word. He was a good neighbor.

For many years he has attend the sanctuary and listened with marked attention to the work of life.

But his sufferings are now all over. Sweet and quiet is his sleep! While others have lost much we trust he has gained much. A dutiful and vigilant wife mourns an affectionate husband; children lose the care and kindness of an indulgent father. He has gone where the sound of "sad adieus and farewells" never fall upon the ear.

Let us, then, in the true Christian spirit of that beautiful charity which "hopeth all things," indulge the belief that he enjoys a appy and peaceful rest beyond the river of death.

"Sweet is the home to pilgrims weary,
Light to newly opened eyes;
Flowing springs in deserts dreary,
Is the rest the cross supplies;
All who taste it shall to life immortal rise.

Death of Mrs. W.X. Stevens

Mr. W.X. Stevens, superintendent of the Sunday school of All Souls' Church better known as superintendent of the bathing beach, has met with the loss of his wife, Sarah Elisabeth Stevens. She was as well as usual up to about three weeks ago, when one morning on her way to market she caught a severe cold. Erysipelas set in to complicate the malady and her lungs were soon affected. Pneumonia developed a few days ago and Mrs. Stevens rapidly succumbed, dying this morning. She was, like her husband, a public-spirited, kind-hearted citizen, whose loss will be keenly felt.

Honoring Mrs. Stevens' Memory

Last night there were present at Officer Cotter's house nearly fifty years, frequenters of the bathing beach, who gathered there for the purpose of developing resolutions expressive of their deep regret at the death of Mrs. Stevens, wife of the superintendent of the beach, Mr. W.X. Stevens. Deceased was a regular visitor at the big free swimming pool and was always devising means for the betterment of the boys' pleasure.

Funeral of Mrs. Stevens

The funeral of Mrs. W.X. Stevens took place from the residence of her husband, 1202 11th street southwest, yesterday, at 2 p.m. The casket was piled with flowers among which were an elegant wreath presented by the Sunday school of All Souls' Church, of which Mr. Stevens is superintendent; a bouquet from the eighth grade of the Bradley school, of which Miss Nellouise Stevens, the only daughter of the deceased, is a pupil, and a bouquet from Mrs. I.S. Lyon of Capitol Hill. At the head of the casket stood the design "gates ajar," profusely wrought in flowers, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dodd. Messrs. Bernard R. Green, E.W. Byrn and Charles R. Wright and Mr. Frazer of N. Peter's Company served as pallbearers. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Rush R. Shippen. The burial was in Congressional cemetery, beside the mother and brother of the deceased.

Death of Mrs. Stevens

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Susan B.J. Stevens, widow of M.H. Stevens, who, in the period prior to and during the civil war was one of the foremost citizens of Washington, will be held tomorrow at 11 a.m. at the late residence. 1706 P street. The interment in the family lot at Congressional cemetery will be private.

Mrs. Stevens died Saturday evening at the age of seventy-eight years after a long illness. She was one of the few survivors among the old Washingtonians who have flourished here for three quarters of a century. She was born in the District, the daughter of Mathias and Mary Ann Jeffers, in a house that is still standing on Missouri avenue, and was the last of eight children. Her father was an influential man in his day and contributed materially to the building up of Washington in the era immediately following the establishment of the national capitol here. Hardly a stone's throw from the old Jeffers' mansion, on Missouri avenue, where she passed the most of her life till her marriage, in 1848 is the family lot in Congressional cemetery.

Two children, Dr. Edward Stevens and Mrs. D. Pratt Mannix, and five grandchildren, all of this city, are the survivors of the home circle over which, till recent years, when she became an invalid, Mrs. Stevens presided with all the grace and domesticity of a woman reared in the strict ideas of the old school. Accustomed to the luxuries and comforts of her time, she was nevertheless charitable, as well as sympathetic, and enjoyed the friendship of nearly all the best of her contemporaries in Washington, who appreciated substantial character and unassuming but dignified worth.

Stevens. Suddenly on Thursday morning, the 21st instant at his residence in the Navy Yard, Commodore Thomas Holdup Stevens, Commandant of the Navy Yard in this place in the 47th year of his age. The friends and acquaintances of the deceased are requested to attend his funeral on Saturday, January 23 at 11 o'clock.

National Intelligencer, Friday, January 22, 1841

Death of Commodore Stevens

The Naval Order which appears in another column will announce to our readers the decease—sudden and unanticipated as it is afflicting—of Commodore Thomas Holdup Stevens, of the Navy. In the meridian of life, and in the enjoyment of the highest health, he retired to bed on Wednesday night, and before morning the angel of death had stricken him from the number of the living. We know not when any instance of those solemn dispensations which Providence orders, as it were, as admonitions of the uncertain tenure of existence, has struck upon us more painfully. Open-hearted, frank, and generous, we knew not a man who made his way so directly to the affections of all to whom he became known as this gallant and lamented officer; and proportionately keen is the sorrow for his loss and the sympathy which is universally felt for his large and estimable family.

Commodore Stevens was a native of Charleston, South Carolina, and entered the Navy in 1808, at the early age of fifteen. Young as he was, he had distinguished himself in the War of 1812, even before Perry's brilliant victory on Lake Erie, and he commanded one of the vessels in that ever-memorable battle. As a man, he was without reproach; and, as an officer, he was regarded as one of the brightest ornaments of the Navy in peace, as he had been one of its most gallant sons in war.

National Intelligencer, Monday, January 25, 1841

Funeral of the Late Com. Stevens

The remains of the late much-respected Commandant of the Washington Navy Yard were conveyed from the latter place to Congress Burial Ground, on Saturday last, for interment. The funeral service was performed by the Rev. Mr. Ryland, chaplain to the yard, amidst a large concourse of mourners and citizens, who united in paying the last tribute of respect to a brave officer and much esteemed fellow-citizens. Besides the officers of the Navy, the Marine Corps, and the Army, who attended in full uniform, the corpse was followed to the grave by the Marine Corps, under the command of Capt. Twiggs, and the Washington Light Infantry, under the command of Capt. France, preceded by the Marine Band, playing a solemn dirge. After the funeral service, the usual military honors were paid by the Marine Corps to the departed Commodore.

The pall-bearers on the solemn occasion consisted of the Secretary of the Navy, Commodores Morris, Warrington, Wadsworth, Nicolson, General Towson, Colonel Henderson; the Mayor of Washington, General Weightman, and General Keim of Pennsylvania. The funeral was also attended by the Secretary of War and several Members of Congress, who, together with many citizens, the great body of mechanics, and others attached to the Navy, were anxious to testify their sincere and cordial respect for the memory and character of the late Commodore Stevens.

Commodore Thomas Holdup Stevens
United States Navy

Was born in Charleston, S.C., February 22, 1795. Lost parents, whose name was Holdup, in early life, and was adopted by a citizen of Charleston who procured for him a midshipman's warrant in 1809. Volunteered for service on the Lakes in the beginning of the war of 1812, and was assigned to duty under Capt. Samuel Angus on the Niagara frontier. Was one of the leaders that captured the enemy's artillery in a night attack opposite Black Rock, Morgan's Run. Was one of a scaling party that dislodged the British grenadiers by burning their barracks at Fort Erie, and although wounded in the right hand, remained after the naval force had retreated, and with two other midshipmen and five seamen spiked the enemy's guns and recrossed Niagara River at a great risk in a leaky canoe; was made lieutenant for his bravery in this action on July 24, 1813. Commanded the sloop Trippe in the battle of Lake Erie and fought against the rear of the enemy's line, passing ahead of the Tigress and Porcupine and firing at the Queen Charlotte until she struck her colors, and, with Stephen Champlin, chasing and bringing back two of the enemy's vessels when they tried to escape. For these achievements was given a silver medal by Congress, and the citizens of Charleston presented him with a sword. In 1814 was ordered to command the frigate Java on a cruise to the Mediterranean. In 1815 changed his name to Stevens, which was that of his early benefactor. In 1819-20 attached to the frigate Constellation. Performed valuable service in suppressing piracy in the West Indies. Promoted to master commandant March 3, 1825. His last command was the Ontario sloop of the Mediterranean squadron in 1830-32. Was made captain, at that time the highest rank in the service, on January 27, 1836. In command of the station and navy yard at Washington until his sudden death on January 22, 1841.

right leg of the boy, tearing the flesh off the calf of the leg in a horrible manner, and inflicting such severe and painful injuries that death ensued about three hours after the accident.

The suffering boy was taken to his home, nearby, and Drs. Willet, May, Leberman and Croghan were speedily in attendance, but their services were of no avail. It was at one time proposed to amputate the right leg, but upon administering the chloroform, the sufferer was found to be sinking so fast that the operation was considered useless, and therefore it was not performed.

The testimony of eyewitnesses as to the cause of the distressing occurrence is conflicting--some alleging that the train was started without warning, and others asserting positively that the engine bell was rung continuously.

Distressing Suicide of a Worthy and Highly Esteemed Citizen of Washington

With great pain we have to announce the death, by suicide, of Mr. Charles W. Stewart, long and widely known as the faithful and efficient doorkeeper at the central door of the House of Representatives of the United States. The following facts in the case were elicited at the coroner's inquest held upon the body last evening in "the Speaker's room," at about 8 o'clock:

Mr. Stewart was found about 6 o'clock, lying on the sofa, in the Speaker's room, at the Capitol building, perfectly dead. On his person was found $138; a blank book in which was a memorandum of debts owing to him; and a note, ending "my love to my family the last time, C.W. Stewart."

In the room was found two bottles of laudanum and a box of ratsbane, both untouched; in the spittoon was found scraps of paper which put together proved to be the wrapper of a quantity of strychnine, marked as such and endorsed, a champagne bottle, and it is supposed that he took the poison in that liquor; the glass in which it was taken was found broken. He took a cushion and laid it on the sofa, where he was found, and died in the position in which he had placed himself. The only evidence of a convulsion was a blood stain on his face, which came from his tongue which he had bitten. The verdict according to these facts.

In addition to these facts, we learn that he was seen between 1 and 2 p.m., of yesterday, by various employees in the capitol, and appeared greatly disturbed in mind, taking leave of some of them and saying that he would not see them again. He is also said to have given the keys of various rooms in the building, which he usually kept (except that belonging to the Speaker's room) to a colored employee there, directing him to open them as usual this (Monday) morning, as he, (the deceased,) would not be there to do so.

Of course various causes are stated as those inducing him to make way with himself. He had accumulated quite a handsome property, and was universally popular, being greatly beloved by his family and immediate friends. Of late, he had been indulging freely in drink. Indeed, we have, within the last month, repeatedly, to our deep regret, noticed him under its influence, when his mind always seemed to wander. We cannot, therefore, doubt that his melancholy death was occasioned by aberration of mind, resulting from too free use in drink. His worthy and distressed family enjoy the commiseration and deep sympathy of thousands in Washington among whom he grew up, all of whom knew well his many excellent qualities of heart and character.

Third Man Missing, May Have Drowned
Boat From Which Men Lost Their Lives Loaded With Pig Iron
Frederick Stewart twenty-five years old, who resided at 617 Virginia avenue southeast, is reported missing.
The police think he was drowned with Alexander Coghill and Richard Langley, whose bodies were recovered from the flats opposite the wharf at Giesboro yesterday morning.
Stewart the police learned was with Coghill and Langley about the time they hired a boat at Bailey's boathouse Wednesday night.
He has not been seen by his relatives since.

The crew of the police boat yesterday afternoon recovered the boat from which the men were drowned.

Loaded With Pig Iron

Interments in the Historic Congressional Cemetery
Last Updated: 2/13/2015
The boat was about 1,000 feet west of the channel, where there is practically no water at low tide, and not more than three feet of water at high tide. The boat contained 1,492 pounds of pig iron the weight being almost too much for it to carry.

The police allege that the iron had been taken from the Anacostia bridge, where it was used by the District for testing purposes. This morning Coroner Nevitt impaneled a jury over the bodies of Coghill and Langley at the morgue and adjourned the hearing until later. The bodies were turned over to the relatives to be prepared for burial.

In addition to the 1492 pounds of iron, the police found a bottle of whisky and a broken whisky bottle in the small bateau yesterday. Lieut. Dean of the harbor police said today he could hardly realize that three men could have occupied the boat with so much iron in it.

Found in Shallow Water
The lieutenant thinks the men in the boat made for the shoal water when the storm overtook them Wednesday night, and that they waded about on the flats after the boat filled with water. He thinks they walked over the edge of the channel and were drowned or that they became exhausted and dropped. There was scarcely water enough on the flats to cover their bodies, the lieutenant says, and had it not been that William Lewis of Alexandria was on the flats gunning yesterday the bodies would probably not have been recovered for several days.

The Evening Star, October 24, 1910, p. 18
Third Body Is Found From Boating Accident
Frederick M. Stewart Also Lost Life in Potomac With Two Companions
The body of Frederick M. Stewart, the third member of the trio whose boat was found floating in the stream this morning and recovered.

This clears up, in the opinion of the police, the mystery surrounding the fate of the three men who shoved their little craft out upon the river last Wednesday night for a trip to Alexandria, and were never seen again alive. The bodies of Richard Langley and Alexander Coghill two of the trio, were recovered Friday morning. The failure in find any trace of the third member of the party gave rise to suspicions as to the manner of death of the two. These were cleared up, the police believe, by the finding of the third body this morning. All shared a like fate, it is now believed, when their frail craft capsized.

There was scarcely water enough on the flats to cover their bodies, the lieutenant says, and had it not been that William Lewis of Alexandria was on the flats gunning yesterday the bodies would probably not have been recovered for several days.

Stewart's remains were discovered by William Burdine, jr., who was gunning for ducks on the flats opposite the plant of the Firth-Sterling Steel Company, about 300 yards from where the bodies of his companions were found. It was evident that Stewart, after being plunged into the water by the overturning of the boat, saw the lights of the railroad yards on the Virginia shore and tried to swim to them. His strength, however, was not sufficient to carry him to safety.

Stewart's body was removed to the morgue later in the morning, and this afternoon was taken away by an undertaker to be prepared for burial. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

He was twenty-three years of age, and lived at 617 Virginia avenue southeast.

The Evening Star, December 28, 1859

Melancholy Suicide

This morning, James Stewart, a young man, nineteen years of age, a son of Mrs. Stewart, who keeps a boarding house on Missouri avenue, between 4 1/2 and 8th streets, was found hanging by the neck in a shed on his mother's premises, dead, having committed suicide during the night. He was cut down by two gentlemen boarding with his mother and preparation is making for his interment. The deceased left nothing by which the act could be explained. He was associated with wild youths and sometimes they led him astray, into fits of intemperance, after which he always expressed the bitterest grief, and would promise his friends entire reformation. He had passed the holidays with moderation, did not appear to have been drinking to excess, and this, in connection with a recently expressed desire to amend, and leave the recently expressed desire to amend, and leave the city to be away from temptation, serves to increase the mystery of his death. His mother is the widow of a subordinate officer at the Capitol, whose melancholy suicide some years ago will be remembered by many citizens who knew him well. The mother and family of the deceased are deeply distressed by this afflicting affair, and receive the sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances. The circumstances of his death were so palpable that an inquest was deemed unnecessary.

The Evening Star, December 29, 1859

Inquest

It was understood that no inquest would be held upon the body of the young man, James Stewart who committed suicide, the cause of his death being deemed sufficiently apparent. Subsequently, however, at the request of a member of the family of the deceased, a jury was summoned who brought in a verdict in accordance with the facts already stated.

Death of Capt. Stillings

A Patriotic Native of Washington and Veteran Attendant at Inauguration

The announcement of the death of Samuel Vinton Stillings at Wood's Holl, Mass., Wednesday was received by a large number of Washington citizens with expressions of sorrow. Capt. Stillings was a native of East Washington, a son of John Stillings, a well-known cabinet maker, residing on L street between 7th and 8th streets southeast, who was for many years a local minister and class leader of the old Ebenezer Methodist Episcopal Church, now Trinity, and in the fifties, with the late J.M. Harvey, formed a partnership in the undertaking business on 7th street near H street northwest. He learned the engineer and machinist business at the Washington Navy Yard and was a member for many years of Capt. P.M. Dubant's company (B. Washington Light Infantry Battalion). He was a marshal in the inaugural procession of President Lincoln in 1861, and when the call for troops was made, on April 9, he was one of the first to volunteer, and was mustered in as a private of Company A, Washington Light Infantry, of which Col. Lem. Towers was the commander and Capt. James Coleman the first sergeant. When the steamboats of the mail line were seized for the government by the company, Capt. Stillings was placed in charge of the machinery of the Mt. Vernon and ran her to the Navy Yard. Receiving a detail from the company to perform engineer services on the boats he entered the navy as a volunteer engineer. During the war, after some service on the Potomac flotilla, he was for several years on the Atlantic squadron and subsequently in the Pacific, and because of physical disability incurred by long service in the tropics, in the fall of 1866 he was sent home and mustered out of service. After some months' rest and recuperation, he entered the service of a New England railroad company and located at Keene, N.H. He married a lady of that place, by whom he had two sons, one of them a promising physician. For a number of years he resided in Boston and engaged in the photograph business, but was by ill health forced to give it up after a time. A few years ago he entered the hotel business at Wood's Holl and was quite successful. He was prominent as a member of the G.A.R., the Kearsarge Association of Naval Veterans and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston. It was said by a neighbor when he was a mere youth that he became a gentleman as soon as he left off short dresses, and by his hearty, whole-souled, genial disposition he made hosts of friends and a high reputation. It was his custom whenever physically able to visit the scenes of his childhood whenever the inaugurations took place, and the many who were expecting to meet him next week were pained to learn of his death.

Negro Assailant Hunted by Police, Who Have a Good Description
Charles A. Stockett, sixty-five years old, residing at 500 B street southeast, and in business at 2010 18th street northwest was assaulted with an ax and robbed of his pocketbook containing about $50 in cash, and his gold watch this morning about 8:30 o’clock, shortly after he had opened his store. His skull was fractured and he is in a critical condition.

A colored man employed in the vicinity of the store found the unconscious form of the merchant on the floor of the store. He was attacked only a few minutes before he was found, the police believe, as a colored woman had made a small purchase soon after the store was opened.

Mr. Stockett regained consciousness and was able to tell of the attack and furnish a description of the robber. He was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he repeated the story of the attack to Detectives Pratt and Forteney.

Assailant’s Description
“He was a man about six feet tall,” said a pedestrian, who saw the assailant leave the store, “and was about thirty-five or forty years old. He had a light smooth face and wore a dark suit and light hat.”

At the hospital the opinion was expressed that the blow had been delivered with the broad side of the ax, although the scalp was cut. Surgeons deemed it necessary to perform an operation.

Called at Another Store
The police this afternoon learned that a man answering the description of the assailant has been seen in the neighborhood of 18th and U streets on several mornings recently. Frequently, it is stated, he visited the store of Mrs. Rebecca L. Wakefield, 1780 Florida avenue, and asked for articles that are not usually kept in such stores.

Mrs. Wakefield, suspecting something wrong, usually called out as if there was a man in a rear room of the store, and her ruse generally caused the colored man to leave without attempting robbery.

Should the assailant be found, it is stated, he can easily be identified. The colored man, Chandler, is positive he will be able to recognize him and several other persons also obtained a good look at him.

The story of the murderous attack recalled to the police the murder of William H. Mickle, tobacconist, near 7th and L streets northwest, two years ago, although in that case it was thought the crime was committed by a white man and the weapon used as a wrench. That mystery remains unsolved.

When Mr. Stockett reached his store, a colored man who later assaulted and robbed him, entered and asked to be shown an ax. The merchant showed him one, and the prospective customer was examining the instrument, it is stated, when a colored woman was seen walking in the direction of the store.

Leaves to Get Money
It is believed that the woman’s approach prevented the attack at that time. The man quickly remarked that he wanted to see his employer and get the 50 cents for the ax, and he left the store.

Shortly after the woman entered and purchased a small quantity of oil. There had been nothing about the conduct of the man to suggest anything wrong. It frequently happens that persons inspect goods, go away, and return for them, and when the colored man did so this morning it did not arouse the merchant’s suspicions.

Returning to the store shortly before 8:30 o’clock, an hour when many persons were passing along the street going to their places of employment, the colored man said, “I’ve come back to get the ax.” And the merchant picked it up and handed it to him.
Mr. Stockett was able to recall nothing more of what happened. The force of the blow on the right side of his head back of his ear had fractured his skull and rendered him unconscious. He remained in that condition on the floor until he was found by James A. Chandler, colored, of 2323 Champlain avenue northwest.

Chandler was working at the corner below the store, and he came in to purchase supplies. When near the door he saw the merchant’s assailant hurry out the door and start away. As soon as he entered and saw the prostrate form of the dealer on the floor he sounded an alarm. Soon a crowd of curious persons were about the place.

Several persons saw the assailant about the time he left the store, and they were able to furnish good descriptions of him.

Resident Here for Years
Mr. Stockett, who has many relatives in the vicinity of Annapolis, Md., has been a resident of this city many years. He formerly was a member of the firm of Stockett & Fiske, blank book manufacturers, stationers and printers. He is a widower and resides with his brother, George Stockett, who is employed in the navy yard.

Two other brothers of the wounded man are Edward Stockett, member of a stationery firm, and John Stockett, clerk in the War Department. A sister, Miss Mary E. Stockett is principal of the Maury Public School in Northeast Washington.

Mr. Stockett is prominent in Masonic circles. He is a member of Orient Commandery, K.T., and Naval Lodge, F.A.A.M.

During the investigation of the case the police were told that the robbery and assault probably was the work of some person who was familiar with the store and its surroundings. They were told that the hardware merchant usually carried a large sum of money in his wallet and that the wallet was carried in his inside vest pocket.

“Mr. Stockett probably had displayed his wallet while making change,” said one of his friends to the police, “and the sight of the money proved the temptation to which the colored assailant yielded.”

Thief's Blow Deadly
C.A. Stockett, Victim of Negro, Is Dying, Say Doctors
Great Dragnet is Spread
Police Make Effort to Capture Man Who Struck Down Elderly Merchant--
Two Suspects Prove Innocence--
Old Man's Skull Fractured by Ax Handle Assault Lies Unconscious in Hospital

In the far-reaching search for the negro, who yesterday morning used an ax in assaulting and robbing Charles A. Stockett, 65 years old, in his store at 2010 Eighteenth street northwest, two men were arrested late in the day by policemen of the Fifth and Ninth precincts, but both suspects finally convinced the authorities of their innocence.

Maj. Sylvester at noon had 10,000 circulars printed, containing a description of Mr. Stockett's assailant and an offer of a reward of $100 for his capture. Nearly all of the circulars were in the mail by nightfall, several hundred of them addressed to nearby points, going under special delivery. In addition, telegrams were dispatched to the police of cities in the South and East.

Struck Frightful Blow
Mr. Stockett, whose skull was fractured by a blow with the back of the ax, is expected to die within 24 hours, it was said last night in Emergency Hospital. An operation, performed at noon, revealed a depressed fracture of unusually large extent, just above the right ear. Before the operation he was able to give the police a description of his assailant. While they expect him to die, the surgeons say he has a slight chance; it depends upon his vitality.

Stockett was alone when the negro entered and asked to be shown an ax. The kind Mr. Stockett handed him did not suit, he said, and the storekeeper had turned around to get another ax when the negro struck him. A heavy felt slouch had probably prevented Mr. Stockett from being killed instantly. When they examined the hat the police found that the brim had curled up under the blow, making a double thickness of felt where the blunt ax "pole" struck.

Workman Sees Escape
As the storekeeper fell unconscious, the negro rolled him over and went through his pockets, extracting a leather wallet containing about $50, and a gold watch and chain. The negro was fumbling at the front door, evidently bent on locking it, when another negro, James A. Chandler, a cement workman, of 2321 Champlain avenue northwest, stepped up from the sidewalk, intending to make a purchase.

Realizing he would be discovered, Stockett's assailant opened the door, pushed Chandler aside, and walked away, leisurely at first, but, as he reached the corner, breaking into a run.

Stockett, Chandler, and others who saw the storekeeper's assailant, said he was about 5 feet 11 inches, or 6 feet tall, weighing about 175 to 185 pounds, of a very dark color, with full, smooth face and broad shoulders. He wore a dark suit, light slouch hat, and black shoes with low heels.

Stockett Still Alive; Assailant Uncaptured

Hardware Dealer Reported to Have Slight Chance for Recovery

All Suspects Prove Alibis and Are Released--Detectives Find But Few Clues

In spite of the efforts of the police department to locate and arrest the assailant of Charles A. Stockett, hardware dealer, 2010 18th street northwest, and the offer of a reward of $100 for information, leading to the apprehension of the colored man who assaulted Stockett with an ax and then robbed him of $45 and a valuable watch, no trace of the man has been found.

It was reported at Emergency Hospital today that the condition of the injured man is extremely critical and that his chance for recovery is slight.

Half a dozen suspects, arrested yesterday and last night, were able to prove complete alibis, and the men arrested have all been released.

In the police circular offering the $100 reward Stockett's assailant is described as "a very dark, brown-skinned negro, thirty-five to forty years old, 5 feet 11 inches or 6 feet tall, weight 175 to 185 pounds, full, smooth face, broad shoulders, wore dark suit, light slouch hat, and black shoes with low heels."

Few Clues Are Found

Detectives Pfaff and Forteney, with Precinct Detective Weber of the tenth precinct, spent the greater part of yesterday and last night running down clues and looking for traces of the colored man. The detectives today declared they are completely at sea in regard to identification of the assailant of Stockett or definite clues as to the man's whereabouts.

A minute examination of the hardware store where the assault and robbery occurred failed to disclose any fingerprints or other clues which might possibly ead to the capture and identification of the colored man.

The detectives found the short-handled ax which was the weapon used by the colored man. The hands of the ax bore a bloodstain, but careful scrutiny of the ax and handle failed to disclose any fingerprints or other marks that might have been made by the hand of the man who wielded the murderous implement.

The ax, a bit of chain broken from the watch when the timepiece was torn from Mr. Stockett's pocket and the injured man's hat, bearing the imprint of the blade of the ax, were taken to police headquarters, where they are held, to be used as evidence in case the police are successful in locating and arresting the hardware merchant's assailant.

Stockett's Survival Remarkable

It was stated at Emergency Hospital today that the physical condition of Mr. Stockett makes the fact of his having survived the assault this long remarkable. The injured man, it was stated, has for years suffered from heart trouble, asthma, dropsy and partial paralysis, and this complication of diseases, the surgeons say, ordinarily would have militated against the man's survival even for a few hours.

Dr. Harry Lewis, superintendent of Emergency Hospital, operated on the injured man yesterday, and stated today that Mr. Stockett stood the operation astonishingly well. Under the influence of the anesthetic. Dr. Lewis said, Mr. Stockett's weak heart appeared to be more nearly normal in its action than it has been for several years, according to statements made after the operation by Mr. Stockett.

Several pieces of the shattered skull were removed, Dr. Lewis said, one of the fragments of bone being the size of a silver dollar. The nature of the injury, the surgeon said, also made it necessary to remove several small particles of the brain tissue itself.
This afternoon the police photographer visited the scene of the assault and took several photographs. Maj. Sylvester directed the taking of the photographs for use in court in event of the capture of the merchant's assailant.

Charles A. Stockett, the aged hardware dealer, assaulted with an ax and robbed Wednesday morning in his store at 2010 Eighteenth street northwest, sank into unconsciousness yesterday in Emergency Hospital, and his condition last night was such that the surgeons expressed no hope for his recovery.

Detective Disappointed

Detective Sergt. Charles A. Evans, one of the headquarters men who are working on the case, found in the rogues' gallery a picture of a negro, who, he thought, might be of the man who assaulted Mr. Stockett. Evans took the picture to the hospital, hoping to find the injured man conscious for at least a brief interval, but was disappointed.

Although Mr. Stockett was semiconscious most of the time Wednesday, and wholly conscious at frequent intervals, he relapsed into complete insensibility early yesterday, and the doctors do not expect him to come out of that state.

Police Are Baffled

The police seem baffled in their search for Mr. Stockett's assailant. Ten thousand circulars containing a description of the negro, have been mailed and many telegrams dispatched, so far to no avail. Detectives on the case have concluded that the man is a stranger in Washington.

The negro who fractured Stockett's skull with an ax is still at large, although the police have been bending every effort to find him. A suspect was arrested in Burlington, N.J., yesterday morning, but Inspector Boardman by long-distance telephone satisfied himself that the wrong man had been taken into custody.

Suspect a Washington Negro

Detectives working on the case have picked up two or three clews leading out of the city. Since their talk with the victim in the hospital on Sunday, however, they are convinced that it was a Washington negro who perpetrated the crime and probably a man who lived or worked in the vicinity of Stockett's store.

Services Held at Trinity M.E. Church by Masonic Order. Police Hunt Slayer

Funeral services for Charles A. Stockett, hardware merchant, victim of an unidentified negro slayer, were conducted this afternoon at Trinity M.E. church, Seward square and 5th street southeast, Rev. Henry S. France, pastor, officiating. The body was escorted from the late home of Mr. Stockett, 5th and B streets southeast, to the church by members of the three Masonic organizations with which he was affiliated.

E.P. Hazelton, eminent commander of Orient Commandery No. 5, K.T., assisted by Prelate Richard P. Evans, conducted the Masonic ceremonies at the church, members of Washington Naval Chapter, No. 6, R.A.M., J. Frank Campbell, high priest, and Naval Lodge, No. 4, F.A.A.M., being in attendance.
The pallbearers, selected from the Masonic Order, were: from Naval Lodge, John C. Bunn and Francis Hildebrand; from Washington Naval Chapter, J.C. Cross and C.F. Wood; from Orient Commandery, Elmer E. Wilkinson and B.A. Grist.

Members of the three organizations assembled at Naval Hall, Pennsylvania avenue and 4th street southeast, at 1 o'clock and attended the funeral in a body, Orient Commandery being in uniform, and members of the uniformed body acted as escort on the way to Congressional cemetery.

Frank H. Kramer, worshipful master of Naval Lodge, had charge of the ceremonies at the grave. Mr. Stockett was past commander of Orient Commandery, having served in that capacity in 1899.

While funeral services for the dead man were being conducted this afternoon members of the so-called murder squad of detectives were exerting themselves to bring about the capture of the slayer. They had several suspects under surveillance yesterday, but it was stated this afternoon that an early solution of the mystery is not expected.

Police Still Without a Tangible Clue to Identity of Negro Assailant of Hardware Dealer

Members of three Masonic lodges yesterday attended the funeral of Charles A. Stockett, the aged hardware dealer who was struck down by a negro with an ax Wednesday morning a week ago, in his store at 1010 Eighteenth street northwest. Mr. Stockett was a member of Orient Commandery, No. 5, K.T.; Washington Naval Chapter, No. 6, R.A.M., and Naval Lodge, No. 4, F.A.A.M.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Henry S. France, pastor of Trinity M.E. Church, and were held in the church, wither the body was escorted by the Masons from Mr. Stockett’s home, at Fifth and B streets southeast. The pallbearers were J.C. Bunn and Francis Hildebrand, from Naval Lodge; J.C. Ross and C.F. Wood, Naval Lodge, and E.E. Wilkinson and B.A. Grist, Orient Commandery.

The police are no nearer to finding Stockett’s slayer than they were when the assault was committed. Although a score of detectives and policemen are working on nothing but the case, not one clue to the identity of the slayer has been picked up. Many suspects have been arrested, but they were all released.

History of the Naval Lodge, No. 4, F.A.A.M.
Charles A. Stockett, Worshipful Master during the years 1886 and 1887, was born at Birdsville, Anne Arundel Co., Md., August 1, 1848; removed to Washington, D.C., in the spring of 1849, and was educated in the public schools and Spencerian Business College of this city; was initiated in Naval Lodge, No. 4, April 1, 1871; passed May 5, 1871, and raised June 7, 1871; has filled all the offices except that of Treasurer, and is now one of the Trustees of the Lodge; was chairman of the Committee which selected the site on which the present hall is located; chairman of Committee on Certificates of Indebtedness, floated to raise funds to purchase site for hall; vice-chairman of Building Committee under whose direction the building was erected; chairman of Committee on Ceremonies for Laying Cornerstone of Building, and chairman of Board of Control of Fair held by the Lodge during April 1899; was exalted in Washington Naval R.A. Chapter, No. 6, Oct. 21, 1873; filled all the offices in the Chapter except that of Treasurer, being High Priest during the year 1900, and is now one of its Trustees; was knighted in Washington Commandery, No. 1, K.T., April 12, 1876, and continued a member of that Commandery until Oct. 19, 1895, when he became a charter member of Orient Commandery, No. 5, K.T., of this jurisdiction, of which he was elected its first Senior Warden and filled all the succeeding offices, being Eminent Commander during the year 1900, and is now one of the Trustees of the Commandery; is also a member of Almas Temple, A.A.O.N.M.S.

p. 114-115: A tragic event occurred in December, 1913, which stirred the membership to the boiling point. Past Master Charles A. Stockett was murdered and the murderer was still at large. He was assaulted and robbed in his store early in the morning of November 26, 1913 by an unknown colored man. He died in Emergency Hospital on the evening of December 1, and on the afternoon of December 4, his remains were interred with Masonic honors in Congressional Cemetery. On the evening of that day the Lodge passed a resolution supplementing the one hundred dollars reward offered by the Major and Superintendent of Police by an additional one hundred dollars for the arrest and conviction of the assassin. This action was brought to the attention of the Superintendent of Police and was published in every daily paper in the District of Columbia. The reward remains unpaid today. In 1917 a communication was received from Brother Raymond W. Pullman, Major and Superintendent of Police, advising the Lodge of the arrest of -----, colored, whom they had every reason to believe was the murderer of Past Master Charles A. Stockett. The charge of murder in the first degree against ----- was ignored by the Grand Jury on August 24, 1917.

Yesterday morning, after an illness of but four days, Mrs. A.G. Stoddard, late of Gonway, Mass., wife of Mr. O.N. Stoddard, Principal of the Capitol Hill Seminary for Young Ladies in this city.

In the death of this lady, the Institution of which she was the assistant teacher, and the cause of education generally have sustained a loss not easily repaired; but to her husband and immediate friends it is irreparable.

It is but five months since Mrs. Stoddard came to this city and entered upon the duties of the Seminary; and the sincere attachment which had been formed for her by her pupils, and the reputation which the school has attained in so short a time, are evidences that her high moral and intellectual worth were rightly appreciated. Possessing strong natural endowments of mind, improved by a finished education, and impressed deeply with a sense of the responsibility of her station in training up the young "in the way they should go," she had enlisted the warmest feelings of friendship from all who, in her brief residence here, had the happiness of being acquainted with her. The funeral will take place at 4 o'clock p.m. this day, from the boarding house of Mrs. Sprigg, Capitol Hill, to which the friends of the deceased are respectfully invited.

Stranley, Elizabeth

The Evening Star, November 29, 1862
Killed by Falling From a Window

On Tuesday night last the inmates of a bawdy house on Tenth street, kept by Madam Post, got on a spree, and after enjoying themselves awhile at home, one of the girls proposed to go out and get something to eat which they all agreed upon with the exception of Elizabeth Strang, who was then up stairs in her own room. After the others had got out upon the sidewalk, she opened the window and asked them to bring her a bottle of ale; but she got out of the window too far, lost her balance, and fell, striking her head upon the pavement below, inflicting a severe gash. The matter was kept very quiet until Thursday last, when Superintendent Webb was notified that there was blood upon the steps and sidewalk in front of the house, and an investigation elicited the above facts. The unfortunate girl lingered until yesterday morning, when congestion of the brain brought on death.

Streett, James R.
Death of James F. Streett
Old Resident of Capitol Hill Passes Away
Funeral Tomorrow

The death of James R. Streett occurred at his residence, 1005 East Capitol street, Saturday afternoon at 5:20 o'clock from heart disease and complications resulting from that ailment, his illness covering a period of three months. Mr. Streett was 73 years of age, a son of the late John C. and Mary A. Streett of Baltimore, Md., where he spent his boyhood days, being a playmate of the Booth boys and the late John Sleeper Clarke. In the basement and summer house of the Streett home, in Baltimore, according to season, the Booths, Clarke and the boys in the neighborhood produced amateur plays, the companions being the spectators.

At an early age Mr. Streett's talents turned to mechanics. He entered the government service at the Washington Navy Yard in 1861, and passed through various grades until he was made master mechanic, in charge of the tool shop and other branches of the work at the naval gun factory.

A few years ago Mr. Streett accepted a position to superintend some special work for companies manufacturing arms at Boston, Mass., and New Haven, Conn. When that assignment was finished he returned to the Washington Navy Yard, Mr. Streett's wide knowledge and his close attention to all details pertaining to the intricate work that came under his supervision made his services valuable to the government, and his opinion and advice were often sought by officers stationed at the Navy Yard.

Some of Mr. Street's patents are in use by the government and are said to have resulted in great economy and efficiency in the line of work to which they applied. His uniform courtesy and willingness to assist by his knowledge and skill the men under him, as well as officials who sought his aid, endeared him to all who associated with him at the naval gun factory. He had a wide circle of friends who, with his relatives, mourn his death. Mr. Streett leaves a widow, Mrs. Margaret Streett; two brothers, Charles W. Streett and John W. Streett of Baltimore, and a sister, Mrs. J.F. Bergen of Petersburg, Ill. The funeral will occur at 3 p.m. tomorrow from the late residence, 1005 East Capitol street. Hope Lodge, No. 20, F.A.A.M. of which Mr. Streett was a member, will conduct services at Congressional Cemetery.

The days are sad and lonely,
And full of deepest woe,
And for our little darling
The sad tears often flow.

Her little crib is empty,
Her playthings laid aside,
And loving hearts are weeping
For our little pet that died.

Takes His Own Life
J.H. Strickhart, Railway Employee, Hangs Himself
John Henry Strickhart yesterday morning constructed a noose of a piece of sash cord and hanged himself. Although his body dangled from a projecting hinge in his room at the home of his aunt, Mrs. J.P. Smith, 312 Delaware avenue northeast, nearly all day, it was not found until after 5 o'clock in the afternoon. William Moxley, a friend of the deceased, thinks he knows the motive for the suicide, but he positively refused to tell the police what it was. In the absence of any other information the police suggested that his suicide was because of a love affair or financial matters.

Strickhart, who was twenty-eight years of age, was an inspector of air brakes for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, and he boarded at the home of his aunt, where a number of other railroad employees lived. Three of the men -- Strickhart, Moxley and one other -- roomed together, but as they worked during different hours they seldom occupied the room at the same time. Tuesday night Strickhart was at work as usual, returning home early yesterday morning. He gave no indication to any one in the house that he contemplated ending his life, it is said, although it is believed that he had previously given such an intimation to a companion.

After leaving the breakfast table yesterday morning Strickhart went upstairs to his room. It is thought that the hanging occurred shortly after he reached the room as his body was cold and rigid when examined. The discovery of the suicide was made by Miss Dora Cobley, a boarder in the house.

Fails to Respond

The young woman went to the room to call Strickhart, and when he failed to respond to her calls she pushed open the door. It was with considerable difficulty that she was able to open the door, the heavy form of the dead man resting against it at the time.

Miss Cobley hurried from the room as soon as she learned what had occurred and called loudly for assistance, but those who responded to her calls, two members of No. 3 engine company and others, found life extinct. It was evident that Strickhart had been dead several hours. The firemen cut down the body and placed it upon the bed.

Coroner Nevitt went to the house last night and made an investigation. The facts elicited made it clear that Strickhart had taken his own life and the coroner gave a certificate accordingly.

Precinct Detective Vermillion made an investigation of the affair, but was unable to ascertain what was the motive for the deed. He interviewed Moxley this morning, but the latter declared he would not tell what he knew of Strickhart's possible motive.

"We had been friends for a long while," he told the precinct detective, "and I don't want to say anything about him."
Strickhart was a native of this city and was unmarried. It is stated that he had been in the employ of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for about ten years. During the war with Spain he enlisted in the 25th Infantry and subsequently spent about two years in the Philippines. It was stated by relatives of the dead man this morning that they had noticed a change in him during recent weeks.

"At times," remarked one of the relatives, "he appeared foolish, but I never suspected anything like this."

It was suggested by some friends of the dead man that his Philippine experience had probably affected his mind and caused him to take his life. Undertaker E.M. Boteler prepared the body for burial and arrangements have been made to have the funeral take place at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The deceased was seventy-nine years of age, and was born in Albany, N.Y.  He had been a jail guard for about twenty-eight years, the only member of the force preceding him in length of service being Deputy Warden Russ.  When quite young Strong became a seafaring man and spent many years afloat, visiting about every quarter of the globe.  When he was appointed a jail guard his knowledge of ropes and knots caused him to be selected as the one to assist in the taking off of criminals sentenced to death in this District, and from the date of his appointment he officiated as hangman in every execution occurring here, about eighteen.  That is, it was Strong's duty to prepare the ropes with which the condemned men were bound, the fatal rope and the deadly noose.  With the spring of the trap he had nothing to do, that being pulled by some unknown person.  So expert was Strong in this business that during his career here as hangman not a single mishap occurred.  It is true that in 1880, when stone, a colored man, was executed for the murder of his wife, the condemned man's head was pulled from his body, but that accident was due, so the physicians stated, to the extraordinary softness of the tissues and muscles.  Strong assisted in the execution of Guitreau, and was one of those whom the assassin of President Garfield cursed.  Strong's last appearance as hangman was last April a year ago, at the execution of Crompton.  At that execution the rope nearly parted, and a sickening spectacle was only narrowly averted.  The rope used then had been used several times before, and the break in it had escaped Strong's usually keen inspection.

Strong was a jovial, good-hearted man, and it is a remarkable fact that he was always on more than good terms with the men he assisted into the next world. He was a brother of the late Samuel Strong, a well-known contractor here, and spent several years in California during the gold craze. It is said that his only surviving relatives are a married daughter and two children of his deceased brother.

An erroneous impression was created at that time by a published statement that the young man had attempted to commit suicide in consequence of some unpleasant words with his parents. This has been persistently denied by the sufferer during the time he has been lingering in his bed from sickness occasioned by his wound. He was in the act of drawing a loaded pistol from beneath his bed when the hammer caught, causing its explosion.</td>

Mr. Stewart was a native of Maine, 53 years old, and came to this city a few years before the war, where he studied gunnery in the Washington navy yard. He was appointed a gunner in the navy in May, 1859, and in the early part of '61, when on duty at the navy yard, entered the howitzer corps (Co. D, W.L.I.) He was actively engaged during the war, and had seen much service since. He resided with his wife and several children on 11th street east, and was not long since on duty at the navy yard, but some months ago was sent to Newport, and he died there on Wednesday.</td>

Relatives and friends are respectfully requested to attend the funeral from his father's residence, 728 4 1/2 street southwest, between G and H, on Sunday, 12th instant, at 3 p.m.

We watch'd his joyous life unfold
Its new-born beauties day by day
And never thought that God would take
Our bright-eyed darling boy away.

Yet he has gone to that bright land
Where tears shall never dim his eye--
Where sweeter joys await his soul
Than this brief world could e'er supply.

Then, to Thy will, oh, God, we bow,
And pray Thou wilt our hearts sustain,
And lead us by Thy loving hand
Where we may meet our boy again.

Stuart. On Monday morning, at 6:25 o'clock, September 13, 1875, of croup, Effie Mary, aged 2 years 9 months and 13 days, only daughter and child of F.M. and Bessie M Stuart. The friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral at the residence of her father, 728 4 1/2 street southwest, on tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

A peculiar sadness surrounds little Effie's death, But a few days past her parents consigned their only boy to the silent tomb, and now their home is childless, and their hearts stricken with a two-fold sorrow. In this sad hour of affliction they have the sympathy of all feeling hearts, and the priceless consolation that ere the breath of sin stained their pure souls God called them to the bosom of the Redeemer.

Thou art gone to meet thy brother
In the spirit realm above
While angels haste to greet thee
With songs of endless love.

His enraptured spirit called thee
From the dark'ning scenes of time,
To the land of light and beauty,
Where no sorrow shall be thine.

Where thy songs of joyful triumph
On Spirit-wing shall fly
With healing balm for wounded heart,
To stay the mournful sigh.

"No more pain or sorrow, mother,
Happy we shall ever be;
And your children--sister, brother--
Live in endless ecstasy."
A Friend.

Reported Murder of Fred. Stuart, Jr.

Information was received here this morning from Vandalia, Ill., that the body of a man supposed to be Fred. Stuart, formerly of the U.S. navy, was found in the suburbs of that city a few days ago, and it was supposed he had been murdered. The letter was received by an officer of the navy, and the father of the deceased, Mr. F.D. Stuart, of this city, was apprised of the fact, and has telegraphed for particulars. Mr. Stuart, Jr., was an engineer in the navy during the war, serving for a time on the dispatch steamer Ella, of the Potomac flotilla, and for several years was engineer on the steamer Arrow, plying between Washington and Mount Vernon. He left this city last week on his way to Texas to join a surveying expedition. His father and family are in great distress, and have the sympathy of a host of friends in their affliction.

The Evening Star, May 20, 1872

A Melancholy Mission

Mr. Fred. D. Stuart returned to this city from Vandalia, Ill., this morning, with the body of his son, Fred. D., and had the same conveyed to Congressional cemetery, where it will be privately buried tomorrow. The rumor that he had been murdered was without foundation, as it was established that he died of apoplexy. He was on his way to northwestern Texas, in company with a geological surveying party. He was 34 years of age, and leaves a widow to mourn his loss, but no children. His has been an eventful life for one so young. As long ago as 1853 he went to sea as a master's mate in the U.S. North Pacific exploring expedition. When the war broke out he entered the navy as an engineer, and served as such until it ended. Subsequently he was attached to the Stonewall, which was sold to the Japanese government, and in the capacity of engineer, accompanied that vessel part of the way to Japan. More recently he was employed in the line of his profession as engineer of the steamer Arrow, plying between this city and Mount Vernon. He was a man of affectionate disposition and of remarkable social qualities, and for this reason was a universal favorite with all who knew him. His father (who is well known in this community) and his family have the sympathies of a large class of our citizens.

Stuart, Frederick D. (Sr.)

Death of F.D. Stuart

Mr. Frederick D. Stuart, well and favorably known throughout the country, especially from his connection with the order of Odd Fellows, of which he was Past Grand Sire, died of pneumonia this morning at his residence, No. 802 21st street, in the 64th year of his age, after an illness of one week. Mr. Stuart’s wife died on the 11th instant of the same disease (pneumonia), and was buried on the 16th instant, and it is thought that Mr. Stuart took the cold which led to his fatal illness at her funeral. On Thursday week (the 17th instant) Mr. Stuart was at the Washington monument office for a short time, on the evening of that day was taken with a chill, and after that was unable to leave his bed.

Mr. Stuart was a native of Brooklyn, New York, but early in life came to Washington and always afterwards resided here, when not absent in the service of the government. His education was for the profession of civil engineer, but he was somewhat of an astronomer and a fair draftsman and architect, and was generally a well-informed man. Mr. Stuart was the private secretary of Admiral Wilkes when he, in the years 1839 to 1841 explored a large portion of the Antarctic continent, before unknown. After the return of the expedition to the United States, Mr. Stuart was for years secretary to Admiral Wilkes. In 1853 he went with Capt. Ringgold’s exploring expedition to Behring’s straits as hydrographer. During the late war, Mr. Stuart saw considerable service. In July 1862, as acting master, he went on duty in the West India squadron under Admiral Wilkes, and in August 1863, after having spent two months “waiting orders,” he took command of the U.S. steamer Calypso, and off the coast of North Carolina took on one of the most valuable prizes captured during the war – the blockade runner, Lady Sterling – which was converted into a U.S. war vessel and named the Hornet. In November, 1864, he was promoted acting volunteer lieutenant, and in June 1865, he was placed in command of the captured blockade runner Emma Henry, whose name was changed to the Wasp, and in July of that year he was ordered to the Washington Navy Yard, where he remained until October, and then, after a leave of absence until February 1866, he was honorably discharged from the service.

Mr. Stuart was ever a friend of popular education, and served as a trustee of public schools of this city both in the first and third districts, in each devoting a great amount of time to visiting the schools, and when he was forced by circumstances to resign that position, there was universal regret among pupils and teachers.

Mr. Stuart was initiated a member of Friendship Lodge, No. 12, Independent Order of Odd Fellows', October 24, 1844, and was elected Noble Grand of that Lodge, April 21, 1846. He was admitted to the Grand Lodge of the District of Columbia, July 13, 1846, and was elected Grand Master, November 29, 1848 and Representative to the Grand Lodge of the United States, November 11, 1850. He was initiated a member of Mount Pisgah Encampment (now defunct) August 12, 1845 and at the institution of Ridgely Encampment, No. 5, October 9, 1846, was selected as its first Chief Patriarch; was admitted to the Grand Encampment February 6, 1847 and elected Grand Patriarch, August 10, 1852, and representative to G.L.U.S., August 30, 1850. He was Deputy Grand Sire of G.L.U.S. from 1868 to 1870 and Grand Sire from 1870 to 1872. He was selected as special commissioner to British North American and Canada East in 1867.

He also belonged to Hermoine Lodge, Knights of Pythias, having been made a Knight on sight in California in 1869 by Samuel Read, the then Supreme Chancellor of the Supreme Lodge of the World, and was made a Past Grand Chancellor by the Grand Lodge of the District.

The Late F.D. Stuart

Last evening the Grand Lodge and Grand Encampment of Odd Fellows held meetings at the 7th street hall to take action in reference to the death of the late Past Grand Sire Frederick D. Stuart, and adopted resolutions in respect to his memory. At the special meeting of the Grand Lodge resolutions were adopted making arrangements for the funeral, inviting the lodge of Maryland and Virginia to attend the same, and directing the hall to be placed in mourning, and that the remains lie in state from 9 to 1½ o'clock tomorrow, in the main saloon. At the meeting of the Grand Encampment feeling remarks were made by Messrs. Joseph Burroughs, Grand Sire John W. Stokes of Philadelphia, John T. Given, Alex. Ashley, W.R. McLean, John E. Mason, Alfred H. Gawler, John F. Havenner, Samuel E. Douglass, and P.H. Reinhohl. It is expected that the officers and many members of the Grand Lodge and Grand Encampment of Maryland and many of the subordinate bodies will attend the funeral. Last evening the Uniformed Patriarchs association of Baltimore made arrangements to come over, and they expect to arrive here by the B&P R.R. at 11:25 o'clock. It is more than likely the Alexandria lodges I.O.O.F. will be present. The remains have been deposited in a walnut casket covered with black cloth, lined with white merino, and trimmed with silver. On the lid are two massive silver plates; one at the head of the casket, oval, and engraved as follows: The letters “I.O.O.F.,” Odd Fellows’ emblems and the words “Past Grand Sire.” The other plate about midway between the head and the foot, is indicated as follows: “Frederick D. Stuart, born July 12, 1814; died January 25, 1878.” The Washington National Monument Society met today at the judge advocate general’s office, and adopted resolutions of respect to their fellow member, F.D. Stuart. Kit Carson Post, G.A.R. last night adopted similar resolutions.

The Late F.D. Stuart – The following letter from the venerable and beloved James L. Ridgely, grand secretary, etc., relating to the recent loss of esteemed fellow-citizen, Fred. D. Stuart will be read with wide interest:

Officer Grand Corresponding and Recording Secretary, R.W.G.L.U.S
Baltimore, Md., January 27, 1878
My Dear Brethren:
I regret that my infirmities prevent my presence at the obsequies today of our departed friend, to mingle my sorrows and tears with my brethren at the taking off of so noble a spirit. But your ceremonial today buries only the casket: Frederick D. Stuart survives, and will survive, not only enshrined in immortality of bliss, but in the heart and memory of his brethren. Peace be to his remains. Like his worthy compeers gone to the better land, Kennedy, Ellison and Porter, worthy fruits of our noble order! By these fruits shall the tree be judged. I present my profound condolence to the brethren and family. Farewell, beloved friend.
Your sorrowing brother,
Jas. L. Ridgely, C.S.

Funeral of Frederick D. Stuart

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late F.D. Stuart, Past Grand Sire of the Order of Odd Fellows, took place from the hall on 7th street, was attended by one of the largest gatherings of people ever assembled on a similar occasion in Washington. In the morning the remains were escorted by Friendship Lodge and Ridgely
Encampment to the hall and were laid in state at the east end of the hall, in charge of a guard of honor of Uniformed Patriarchs. The casket was covered with rich floral tributes. During the morning delegations arrived from various places; the Uniformed Patriarchs of Baltimore, numbering about 60, reaching the hall about 11 o'clock. From 9 o'clock a.m. up to the hour of the funeral there was a continuous stream of the friends of the deceased to take a last look at the remains. At 2 o'clock the family and immediate friends of the deceased entered the hall, taking seats on the left, the Odd Fellows' choir taking a position on the right; near the head of the corpse, on an improvised stand, Rev. Parker H. Sweet, as grand chaplain; Rev. George Taylor, grand chaplain of Michigan; Rev. Dr. A.H. Ames of McKendree chapel, who was with deceased on the Ringgold expedition, and Rev. J.D. Elliott, who was chaplain on the Wilkes expedition, took seats, while the body of the hall was filled with Odd Fellows and members of the Monument society, and Oldest Inhabitants' association. Among the visiting distinguished Odd Fellows present were Theodore A. Ross, assistant grand secretary; Hon. Joshua Vansant, grand treasurer; John Chamberlain, grand messenger, of the Grand Lodge of the United States; Chas. H. Rawlings and Henry F. Carey, grand representatives; John A. Thompson and B.F. Zimmerman, past grand masters; Joshua Lynch, grand master; J.W. Minifie, grand warden; John M. Jones, grand secretary, and C.H. Patch, grand marshal of Maryland; Hon. J.M. Campbell, past grand master; M.R. Muckle, grand treasurer; Geo. F. Lewis, past grand, and John Nicholson, past grand master of Pennsylvania; James S. Kiger, grand master; Lewis Parker, Jr., grand secretary, and A. Frank Caril, assistant grand secretary of New Jersey; Hon. Leonidas Sexton, past grand master of Indiana; Hon. J.C. Hemingray, grand master of Utah; Mrs. James L. Ridgely, Mrs. M.J. Durham and Mrs. T.A. Ross.

The Exercises were opened by the choir singing “Hear Our Prayer,” (by Ryder), Rev. Mr. Sweet read 1 Corinthians, xv., and Rev. George Taylor offered a prayer,. Short addresses by Rev. Messrs. Sweet, Ames and Elliot followed. Dr. Ames offered a prayer, and the choir sang “Only Waiting,” (by Ginniss), and the services concluded with a benediction by Mr. Sweet. The casket was removed to the hearse by body bearers – Thos. Greer, Wm. Davis, T. Anderson, of Ridgely Encampment, T. Oliver, C. Thomas, A. Grimm, of Friendship Lodge – preceded by the following bearers: Past Grand Sire William W. Moore of the District; Grand Sire John W. Stokes, Grand Lodge U.S.; Past Grand Sire James B. Nicholson of Pennsylvania; Past Grand Sire M.J. Durham of Kentucky; Past Grand Sire Thomas Sherlock of Ohio; P. Grand Representative Hugh Latham of Virginia; and Dr. John B. Blake of the Washington Monument Society and Oldest Inhabitants Association.

Honors to the Memory of the Late F.D. Stuart
A meeting was held in the room of Friendship Lodge, No. 12, I.O.O.F., (Pa. ave. and 19th street,) last evening, to commemorate the life and services of the late F.D. Stuart—a member of the lodge and a Past Grand Sire of member of the lodge and a Past Grand Sire of the order. There was a large attendance of the membership, with many ladies. In front of the N.G.'s chair there were arranged, on a stand a floral pillow, from the President, who is a member of Lodge No. 99, Columbus, Ohio. This was composed of japonicas, coronation pinks, violets, azaleas, primroses and lilies of the valley, and with the violets the letters, F.D.S., the three links, and P.G.S. were formed. Above this was an anchor, in the die, presented by some of the members, the framed resolutions of the lodge adopted in respect to his memory, a fine oil painting of the deceased, and the motto, "Sweet Rest in Heaven." Past Grand A.H. Gawler called the meeting to order, and Grand Secretary P.H. Sweet offered prayer. Past Grand Gawler made a feeling address. Under the lead of Mr. John B. Hines "Friend after Friend Departs," was sung by a select choir. Rev. Mr. Sweet offered a resolution, which was adopted, referring to "the high character of the late Past Grand Sire, F.D. Stuart, the unselfish and untiring supporter of works for others good; the generous benefactor of his race; the disinterested friend; the true man, whose work can be found on every page of our ritual; whose mature judgment and forethought have helped to place Odd Fellowship where it is today," etc. Past Grand D.C. Reinohl followed with an address on the services of the deceased to the lodge and to the order, and his visitations to the sick and afflicted. Incidentally he referred to his services to his country, (as an officer of the navy), and to his habit when at sea of assembling the Odd Fellows on his vessel in his cabin on Thursday evenings to keep up the remembrances of the past. Grand Representative John F. Havenner followed in a sketch of the services of Mr. Stuart in the Grand Lodge of the District, paying a graceful tribute to his memory. Hon. M.J. Durham (Past Grand Sire) made some feeling remarks, as also did Past Grand Master Samuel E. Douglas, who spoke of Mr. Stuart as a neighbor and citizen, referring particularly to his services as a school trustee and a member of the Washington Monument Society. The exercises were closed by singing the "Sweet By and By," the audience joining in the chorus.

The Proposed Monument to F.D. Stuart
The joint committee of the various organizations of Odd Fellows on the monument to be erected to the memory of the late F.D. Stuart, who was Past Grand Sire of the order, have had three models presented to them, but they have not as yet decided which one to adopt. One of these is by Heany, who proposes a structure 18 feet high and 5 feet base. The latter of granite, and the rest of the monument of Italian marble. On the die is a representation of Rebekah at the well, above which are the "clasped hands" and three links" and other front of the shaft crossed crooks and an urn with flame, surmounts the whole. Mr Jouvenal furnished two models, and proposes to erect each 17 feet in height, with granite base of 4 1/2 feet. On the die of each is a profile of the deceased. In one three columns support the shaft. In the other the shaft is a bundle of rods, and on the top is a tent, with crossed crooks protruding.

The Evening Star, March 29, 1881
It is proposed by the Odd Fellows to dedicate the monument to the late Frederick P. Stuart in the Congressional Cemetery during the anniversary celebration of the order on the 26th of April.

The Evening Star, May 14, 1881
The Monument to Fred D. Stuart
It was intended to have the monument to the memory of the late Frederick D. Stuart ready for dedication on Decoration Day (May 30th), but the work on it cannot be finished by that date. It is being cut in the marble yard of Mr. William Rutherford, who contracted for it, and will be erected over Mr. Stuart's grave in the Congressional Cemetery. On the die will be sculptured representations of "Jonathan and David," and "Rebekah at the Well," the scales of justice, the bundle of rods, signifying union, the three links, the All Seeing Eye, the tent and shepherd's crooks, and suitable inscriptions will also appear on it. The work on it thus far gives evidence that it will be equal, when finished to any monument now in our cemeteries. The Grand Encampment of Patriarchs held a meeting last night to make arrangements for its dedication, but receiving a letter from Mr. Rutherford stating, that to do full justice to the work it would probably not be ready by the 30th inst., no action was taken.

The Evening Star, June 19, 1872
The Portrait of Most Worthy Grand Sire, Fred. D. Stuart, I.O.O.F., was presented to the order by Mr. James L. Ridgely, grand corresponding and recording secretary of the Grand Lodge of the United States, at Odd Fellows' hall, 7th street, last evening, in the presence of a large number of members and their families and friends. The portrait was accepted on behalf of the order, in an appropriate address, by W.W. Moore, Past Grand Sire. Mr. Theodore Kauffmann, the artist, was introduced, and was greeted with prolonged applause. Grand Sire F.D. Stuart was next introduced, and in a few fitting words thanked his brethren for the honor they had conferred upon him. During the evening several odes were sung by the audience. The Odd Fellows' choir sang a chorus entitled, "Awake Aeolian Lyre," which was loudly applauded."

The United States Exploring Expedition of 1838-42 is a milestone in American science. Often referred to as the Wilkes Expedition, this expedition brought back to the United States a wealth of geological, botanical, zoological, anthropological and other materials which created a foundation upon which much of American science was formed. At least three of the scientists involved with the expedition gained international acclaim from their efforts.

The expedition was authorized by Congress in response to popular demand. Investigations were carried on in widely separated areas of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans including Brazil, Tierra del Fuego, Antarctica, Chile, Australia, New Zealand, the west coast of North America, the Philippines and the East Indies. The two penetrations into Antarctic waters were in February and March 1839, and January and February of 1840. Even though the Antarctic portion of the expedition was part of a larger plan in the Pacific, major accomplishments were gained. Wilkes sighted land on several occasions as he sailed along the edge of the ice pack south of Australia for some 1500 miles. Thus, Wilkes was the first to provide proof of the existence of an Antarctic continent.

The National Intelligencer, August 16, 1830
We have the painful duty to perform of announcing the decease of our venerable fellow citizen, General Philip Stuart, a distinguished officer of the Revolutionary Army. General S. was a native of the State of Maryland, in whose gallant line it was that his bravery was signalized during the whole of its severe service in the South, particularly in the battle of Eutaw. During the late war he again served his country in the field, and also for several years represented his native State in Congress. During the last twelve years of his life, he resided in this city, where he expired on Saturday evening, the 14th inst. after a short illness. He was, we believe, almost the last relick of the Revolutionary worthies in our immediate community, and we should think it a proper tribute of respect to his memory, for our military companies to unite in paying the honors of war to his remains, at their interment today.

Deaths:
On Saturday evening, the 14th instant, a little before 8 o'clock, at his late residence in this city, Gen. Philip Stuart, in the 71st year of his age. This truly worthy and excellent citizen and soldier filled too large and bright a space in the public affairs of his country to need any verbal eulogium. His fame for valor and patriotism belongs to the history of the country; and his worth is imperishably recorded in the hearts of a widely extended circle of friends and acquaintances. Yet we cannot forbear invoking the kind sympathies of a generous and grateful people to the grave of a venerable and distinguished Patriot; whose youthful blood was shed in copious libations for their ransom in the time of the Revolution, and whose heart retained sufficient fire in his old age to call him to the tented field in another war, ready to lay down his life in defense of that freedom which in young blood had contributed to purchase.

All the friends and acquaintances of the deceased, and all others disposed to honor the memory of the departed Patriot, are frankly invited to attend his funeral, which will proceed from the late family residence at Greenleaf's Point, at 3 o'clock tomorrow, 17th inst., p.m.

All real and personal property to five youngest children; sons Richard Henry Stuart, Joseph Noble Stuart, John Philip Stuart, George Washington Stuart (under age), and Edward Eutaw Stuart (under age), to each 1/5.
Three eldest children Charles Baynes Stuart, William Gibbons Stuart, and daughter Mary Frances Adeline Stuart, now Mary Frances Adeline Thornton, wife of Steuart Gibbons Thornton, Esq., of Va.; to Charles Baynes Stuart my large china punch bowl once the property of Gen. George Washington of "Mount Vernon;" to grandson Philip Stuart Thornton, my gold watch; to son Richard Henry [Stuart] the pistols and sword with their necessary apparatus which I used during the Revolutionary War and which were especially my companions at the Battle of Eutaw, being confident as he is an officer in the army of the U.S.

William M. Stuart, 81, Washington Post Stamp Editor
William M. Stuart, former Massachusetts newspaperman and politician and for nearly 20 years stamp editor of the Washington Post, died yesterday at George Washington University Hospital after a brief illness. He was 81.

A native of Lawrence, Mass., he served as chairman and secretary of the Republican City Committee there more than 50 years ago. He also served a three-year term as associate commissioner of Essex County, Mass.

He was editor at various times of three newspapers in his native city and had been associated with the Boston Record and Advertiser.
Come Here in 1905
Mr. Stuart left the latter paper in 1905 to come to Washington and was first appointed to a position in the office of the secretary of the Senate.

He was assistant journal clerk of the Senate during the administrations of President Taft and President Wilson.

He had always been interested in stamp collecting and while here began a collection of autographs of famous men and women. He once ran a clipping serve and for many years collected clippings for the Folger Library. He joined the Post as Stamp editor in 1933.

Wife Killed in Crash
Mr. Stuart's wife, Mrs. Sarah K. Stuart, was killed last May in a traffic accident here. For years the couple attended the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church.

He was a member of the American Philatelic Society, the Society of Philatelic Americans, the American Air Mail Society and several other philatelic groups.

A Fatal Fall

Daniel Sullivan's Skull Fractured From Falling Down Stairs

Mr. Daniel Sullivan, fifty-one years old, who had lived in Southeast Washington for many years, met with a fatal accident at his home, No. 611 G street, about 1 o'clock this morning. He fell down stairs and received a fracture of the skull. Death occurred at 4:15 o'clock at Providence Hospital. Mr. Sullivan was rendered unconscious by the fall, and he did not regain consciousness before he died. The deceased was a stonemason, and was secretary of the Stonemasons' Union. Last night he attended a meeting of the union, and it was late when he reached home. His wife ran to his assistance when she heard the noise made by his falling, and, finding he was unable to speak, sent for a doctor. The police were also notified, and the injured man was taken to the hospital in the patrol wagon. Coroner Nevitt was notified of the sad affair, and he gave a certificate of accidental death. The body was removed to his late residence from the hospital. Mr. Sullivan was a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and members of this organization will probably have charge of the funeral arrangements. He leaves a widow and three children.

Dr. Richard T. Sullivan
Dr. Richard Thornburgh Sullivan, 73, who practiced internal medicine in the District for the last 44 years, died yesterday in Washington Hospital Center of complications following surgery. He lived on Davis Street N.W.

Dr. Sullivan, a District native, grew up in Georgetown and received his M.D. from George Washington University. He was a member of the American Society of Internal Medicine, the American Medical Association and the D.C. Medical Society and was the first chairman of the Doctors Political Action Committee.

A sports enthusiast, Dr. Sullivan helped coordinate the medical aspects of the professional golf tournaments held at Congressional Country Club. He recently was named an honorary member of Congressional because of his long service to the club's sports program.

He leaves his wife, Virginia; a son, Richard T., of Vienna; two daughters, Barbara S. Cavataio of Rockford, Ill., and Virginia S. Hannah of Bethesda; and eight grandchildren.
Services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday in Annunciation Catholic Church, 39th Street and Massachusetts Avenue NW.

The family suggests that expressions of sympathy be in the form of contributions to the Intensive Care Unit, Washington Hospital Center.

Summers. On Tuesday, April 20, 1909, at 8:45 a.m., Emma L., beloved wife of Charles E. Summers and youngest daughter of Mary E. and the late William H. Mead.

Tis hard to break the tender cord
When love has bound the heart;
Tis hard, so hard to speak the words,
We must forever part.
Dearest loved one, we must lay thee
In the peaceful grave's embrace
But thy memory will be cherished
Till we see thy heavenly face.

By Her Husband and Children

Dearest Emma, you have left us,
And your loss we deeply feel
But 'tis God that hast bereft us;
He can all our sorrows heal.
Yet again we hope to meet you
When the day of life is fled;
And in heaven with joy to greet you,
Where no farewell tears are shed.

By Her Mother and Sister

Funeral from her late residence, 320 2d street southeast, on Thursday, April 22, at 3 p.m. Friends and relatives invited to attend.

Funeral of J.A. Sutherland
Services to Be Held Tomorrow Afternoon at 2 o'clock
Funeral services over the remains of Mr. John A. Sutherland, chief of the inspecting division in the supervising architect's office of the Treasury Department, who died yesterday, will be held in the family apartment at the Portner, 15th and U streets, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Weidley, pastor of the Church of the Reformation, of which the deceased was a member, will officiate. The pallbearers will be Dr. L.Y. Baker, P.V. DeGraw, C.E. Kemper, W.M. Wagner, George Parson and H.C. Sherwood.

The interment will be private and in Congressional cemetery. Mr. Sutherland was sixty-four years of age. He had been ill for about four weeks and his death was due to heart trouble. He was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, and came to this country when twenty-two years of age. He had lived in Washington since that time, with the exception of two years spent in Pittsburg.

Thirty-seven years ago he was appointed to a position in the office of the supervising architect of the Treasury, and in 1897 was made chief of the inspecting division. Today, had he lived, he would have seen the thirty-seventh anniversary of the date when he entered the Treasury Department. His wife, Mrs. Margaret Sutherland; one daughter, Mrs. Georgiana Sutherland of Chicago, and two sons -- Heath and Arthur Sutherland, both of this city -- survive him.

Killed in An Accident in Philadelphia

Mrs. Rebecca P. Sutton, of No. 603 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, whose death was announced in last evening's Star, died in Philadelphia Tuesday from the effects of a singular accident. On Monday she was riding in a street car on Market street when a panic was caused at a railroad crossing by a signal that a train was approaching. The driver dashed his horses across the track, and the conductor and passengers rushed from the car. Mrs. Sutton, being frightened, jumped from the platform and fell, breaking her ankle, and receiving internal injuries. She was taken to the University hospital where she died Tuesday morning. The funeral will take place this afternoon from the home of her brother-in-law, Caleb Pennington, 611 Pennsylvania avenue southeast.

The Evening Star, July 15, 1878
Death of Mr. Sutton

Mr. Richard Sutton, for many years the official reporter of the U.S. Senate, died yesterday afternoon at his residence on I street near North Capitol street. Mr. Sutton was a native of England, and in early life was employed in the House of Commons of Great Britain as a reporter, but came to this city over a third of a century ago and up to a few years past was an official reporter of the debates of Congress, for a long time having charge of the business. He was as may be supposed, one of the best shorthand writers of the day, and in the art was the tutor of the Murphys and others who stand high in the profession. Mr. Sutton amassed quite a competency and retired a few years ago, but he had too active a life to leave off work at once, and at his house he fitted up a sort of workshop in his back building where he spent much of his time. He was a gentleman of a very kindly disposition, but somewhat peculiar in his manners. He gave much of his time and means to the alleviation of the wants of his fellowmen. He conceived the idea several months since of conducting a free lyceum or institute for young men, but it had poor success.

Sutton, Willie T.
d. 10 Mar 1865 1 yr. 14 days
Sutton. On the 10th inst., Willie T., son of Thomas and Rebecca P. Sutton, aged one year and fourteen days.

He was too pure for this dark world,
None knew him but to love,
His radiant eyes are closed in death,
He dwells with Christ above.

Parents mourn not for your darling,

He has left this world of woe;
We loved him, yes, we dearly loved him,
But the angels loved him too.
The friends and acquaintances are respectfully invited to attend the funeral from the residence of Caleb Pennington, No. 430 G street east, on Sunday, March 12th, at 2 o'clock.

Oh, Maggie has gone with the angels,
They came at the dawn of the day,
And whispered their beautiful stories
To lure her from earthland away.
Oh, Maggie has gone with the angels
And never again shall we hear
The voice that awakened sweet music
Float over the solitude drear.

Oh, tearful and said was our parting,
When shadows crept over the way,
And closed her blue eyes to our pleading
And darkened our desolate way.
But there was rejoicing in heaven,
And beautiful sounds in the air,
When Maggie went home with the angels,
Away from our sorrow and care.
By Her Mother and Sisters

Angels called thee, little Percy,
Called thee in thy early doom;
Now thy little form is lying
In the cold and silent tomb.

Small white hands are gently folded;
Quiet now thy dainty feet;
Brightest eyes are closed forever;
Gone the smiles that were so sweet.

Gone from earth, yes, gone forever,
Tear dimmed eyes shall gaze in vain.
We shall hear hs voice, no, never,
Never more on earth again.

Home is sad, oh, God, how dreary,
Lonesome, lonesome, every spot;
Listening for his voice till weary,
Weary, for we hear him not.

Singular Fatality

About a year ago, Mr. Moses Sweetzer, of this city, was thrown from a carriage, and his leg and ankle were so injured as to make him a cripple for life. Just previous to that, his son Frank was struck by a wagon and had his jaw broken, from the effects of which he died. A short time since another son, 14 years of age, was thrown from an omnibus and severely injured; and now again Mr. S. is called to mourn the death of another child, from injuries received by being run over by a horse a few months ago. This is certainly a strange run of fatality in one family; and all too, resulting from the same cause.
Swem, Rev. E. Hez. d. 14 May 1936  R50/5

Swem, Rev. E. Hez. On Thursday, May 14, 1936 at his residence, 905 Mass. Ave. n.e. Funeral service Friday, May 15, 1936 at 8 p.m. at Centennial Baptist Church, 7th and Eye sts. N.e. Interment private. Please omit flowers.

The Evening Star, May 14, 1936
Dr. E. Hez Swem Succumbs at 79
Note Baptist Evangelist Served Here About Half Century
Rev. Dr. E. Hez Swem, widely known retired Baptist pastor and evangelist, who served as pastor of Washington churches for approximately half a century, died early today after a long illness at his home, 905 Massachusetts avenue northeast. He was 79 years old.

Dr. Swem retired as pastor of the Centennial Baptist Church, Seventh and I streets northeast, July 15, 1934, because of ill health. He had been pastor of that church for more than 22 years.

Original in Preaching Methods
During his long career as clergyman, he had become nationally known for his devotion to the ministry and his originality in methods of preaching and choosing of texts.

Some 20 years ago he went on a tour and conducted evangelistic services over a large part of the country. At one time was known as the Capital lecturer.

He long had been a strong advocate of making the church an attractive place to attend and was one of the first to advocate comfortable seats in churches.

Installed Electric Fans
Carrying out this thought, he had installed in the Centennial Baptist Church chairs with arm rests. In hot weather he invited the men to take off their coats and had electric fans installed to further insure the comfort of his congregation.

During his ministry he consolidated the Capital and Centennial Baptist Churches retaining the name of the latter church. He was a leader in the drive for the new church building which was completed in 1915.

While serving here, he was five times moderator of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches.

A native of Greensburg, Ind., Dr. Swem was the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Bowers Swem.

Dr. Swem, an only son, had three sisters, all deceased. He was educated at De Pauw University and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

First Pastorate in Indiana
His first pastorate was in Lawrenceburg, Ind., where he was ordained in March 1881. He came here about 1884 to become pastor of the Second Baptist Church, a post he held for over 25 years.

Dr. Swem had written many Gospel songs and tunes and 39 of his productions were published recently in a special edition by well known publishers.

He was a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity, was a thirty-second degree Mason and belonged to the Knights Templar. Recently, the B.B. French Lodge, F.A.A.M., to which he belonged, presented him with a gold button, emblematic of his 50 years of membership.

He is survived by his widow, the former Miss Minnie L. Johnson, two sons, John B. Swem of this city and Lee Allan Swem, New York, and a daughter, Mrs. Thomas E. Griffith, The Dalles, Oreg. He also leaves five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 8 p.m.

Dr. Swem's Rites Will Be Tonight
Services for Former Pastor to be Held at Centennial Baptist
Funeral services for Rev. Dr. E. Hez Sem, 79, retired Baptist pastor, who died yesterday at his home, 905 Massachusetts avenue northeast will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in Centennial Baptist Church, Seventh and I streets northeast, where he was pastor for more than 22 years.
Rev. Dr. Wilson Holder, present pastor of the church, will officiate, assisted by Rev. Dr. John C. Ball, pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist Church and Rev. Dr. F.W. Johnson, pastor of Grace Baptist Church. Burial will be private tomorrow morning.

The time for the services was chosen in accordance with Dr. Swem's wishes not to cause any inconvenience. He always advocated making churches as comfortable as possible.

Dr. Swem, widely known as an evangelist, retired as pastor of Centennial Church July 15, 1934. He came here in 1884 as pastor of Second Baptist Church, a post he held for over 25 years. Subsequently he was pastor of First Baptist Church, Dothan, Ala. but left there after serving only six months because he and his family wanted to return to Washington. Here he organized Capital Baptist Church and later brought about its consolidation with Centennial Church.

On his birthday, last March 29, the Baptist Ministers' Conference voted him the insignia of Veterans of the Cross in token of his many years service as pastor.

The religious press has praised Dr. Swem for his originality, power and interesting manner in preaching.

Called To Another Field
Rev. E. Hez Swem Accepts Charge in Dothan, Ala.
Has Served Second Baptist Church in Washington More Than Twenty-Five Years
Rev. Edmund Hez Swem, pastor of the Second Baptist Church and moderator of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches, which includes all the white Baptist churches of the District of Columbia, is to leave Washington Washington. He has accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of Dothan, one of the most progressive and prosperous of the smaller cities in southeastern Alabama, and which has a population of 10,000.

The determination of the pastor to leave Washington was not known to many of even his intimate friends when he made known his resignation at the close of the morning service in the Second Baptist Church yesterday, and the announcement came as a great surprise to the Easter worshipers. For over a quarter of a century Mr. Swem has been identified with the Baptist denomination in the National Capital. He has always been foremost in the work, and has led the effort which has caused the Second church to grow from a very small beginning to one of the influential congregations of the denomination here. He is a native of Indiana and a graduate of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, at Louisville.

His Work in Washington
After a pastorate of a few years in his native state he came to Washington and began his work in this section. Since he took charge of the Second church it has grown in membership, and is today the second largest church of that faith in Washington. When he was seen this morning he said that, while the breaking of so many strong ties here in Washington was hard for him, he felt that the opportunity for service in Alabama is a great one and could not be ignored. He said it has been a pleasure to serve the Baptists of Washington as the moderator of their churches in the Columbia association, and he regrets as well the severance of his relations with the people of the Second church, but he feels the call to the south is an imperative one.

Membership of Six Hundred
There are two Baptist churches in Dothan, the first, of which Mr. Swem is to be pastor, having a large, commodious edifice and a membership of 600. It also has a parsonage, and the pastor said today that he believes the health of Mrs. Swem, who has been somewhat indisposed for some time, will be greatly improved in the warmer climate of the sunny south.

Five times during his pastorate in this city the Rev. Mr. Swem has been chosen to the moderatorship of Columbia Association of Baptist Churches, which is the highest office which Baptists of the District of Columbia can bestow. He has also been appointed to represent his denomination in this section at the great Southern Baptist convention to be held in Baltimore in May.
